Question: Remember the past two years when Bridge Street was all torn up for the fall season?

Answer: Yes, but not fondly. Why do you bring it up?

Downtown business people are much happier this fall and are hoping the weather cooperates to keep sales active at least through October.

Hey, it's fall.
How come the street's not torn up?
You mean it's not a local tradition?

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION PROGRAM

The schedule below lists the classes which are being offered each night beginning the week of Sept. 16-19 and continuing for 17 weeks. These classes are FREE to those 18 or older who do not have their high school diploma or those under 20 who have their diploma. Any others are welcome in these classes for a fee of $35. Upon successful completion of each class you will be given 1/2 credit toward the credits needed for your diploma. If you have already completed a number of credits, call us so we can find out how many classes you should have to take to complete your work. Age does not matter; an older person may be given credits for life experiences, military service, or G.E.D. tests that have been taken. You may be surprised at how close you are to that diploma... so call and find out. The phone number to call to enroll or inquire about your situation is 547-3222.

1991 Crop Walk shoots for record

The challenge: to meet or better the 1990 record.

The goal: $3,000 or more.

Last year 67 Charlevoix CROP Walkers raised $3,000 for world and local hunger relief. This amount, when added to the $3,045 raised by CROP Walkers from Boyne City and East Jordan, was a substantial addition to funds used by Church World Service/CROP to combat hunger around the world. Locally, food pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan each received $480 from the one-fourth share returned to participating communities.

Charlevoix CROP Walkers will gather at the high school Saturday in preparation for the 9 a.m. start. The route will be May Street to Stover Road to M-66 to the Ironton Congregational Church, approximately six miles.

At Ironton, Charlevoix walkers will meet CROP Walkers from the other communities for hot dogs and soft drinks before being transported back to town.

People wishing to walk or sponsor walkers may contact Mary Helen Riggie, co chairperson at 547-9515 or any of the local ministers for additional information.

Voices from the Past

June 4, 1870: We learn that Lawrence Swannick, Esq., late of Elk Rapids, has rented the ground floor of Alden Chamberlain's building, in which he intends starting a refreshment saloon some time this month.

Scenic Reserve at square one

City legal position remains tenuous

By L. Scott Swanson

Sure, going round and round for several months and then ending up back at square one is frustrating. But at least you're on familiar ground.

After several months of debate both in planning commission and in city council meetings the issue of what to do with areas of the city zoned scenic reserve is back to square one.

Following a two-hour public hearing Monday night, the city council failed to muster the four votes necessary to change the city's scenic reserve requirements. Council members Bill Haggard, Cheri Hoffman and Ted Feller voted in favor of adding a special use permit to the scenic reserve zone. Council member Butch Russell voted against the motion while Pat Gaskin abstained and Jackie Cross was absent.

Gaskin and Russell each said they favored a 100-foot setback from the high water mark, rather than a 50-foot set back which was proposed. Areas of the city which are zoned scenic reserve are all near the lake shore.

The primary area in question is located off of Mercer Boulevard. Stuart Kaufman and Tom Erber wish to develop the property with single-family homes.

City planning commission and council members have been working on revising the city's scenic reserve zoning for several months. The reason for the revision is that the city suspects that Charlevoix's scenic reserve zoning, as written, would not hold up in court.

Monday evening, city attorney Jim Young repeated legal advice which the city has received in the past. He told the council that both United States and Michigan Supreme Court decisions say that when a property owner is not allowed to make reasonable use of his property, that constitutes the unconstitutional taking of that property. In such a case, a court will then determine what can be done with the property and also may award monetary damages.

"I'm telling you right now, point blank without any hesitation at all that our scenic reserve zone, as it stands right now, is extremely susceptible to attack," Young told the council.

Approximately 20 people spoke during the public comment section of the hearing. Many of the people live near the property in question or were environmentalists concerned with Lake Charlevoix water quality. Others were real estate people or were associated with the proposed development or other developments.

Jerry Puhl, president of Water Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) said the organization would like to see the scenic reserve zone left as it is. Later, WATCH attorney Cynthia Anderson said that if there is to be development on the property it should be very restricted. Anderson said she was concerned about ambiguous wording in the proposal and that WATCH doesn't want someone to be able to purchase five or six lots and put five or six housing units on only one of the lots. She said WATCH also would like to see a 100-foot setback and a greenbelt area of at least 50 feet.

Scott Beatty, an attorney representing Erber and Kaufman said the developers are only interested in putting single family dwellings on the property. He said that what Puhl wants can't be done because the current scenic reserve zoning is confiscatory. Beatty said that the proposed changes would still leave the area with the most restrictive zoning within the city and would accomplish two things: it would assure the city of what would be allowed on the site, and it would put the city in a position of allowing reasonable use.

Gaskin referred to input from environmental organizations and stip-

Youth center clears hurdle

Council grants special use permit

By L. Scott Swanson

Plans to establish a youth center on Lincoln Street passed a major hurdle Monday evening when the city council voted to allow a special use permit for a building zoned for industrial use.

Efforts to establish a center are being spearheaded by a subcommittee of the local ministerial association although the center will be open to all area young people whether they attend church or not.

Although council members received a few letters of opposition from some people owning property near the proposed center, they also heard comments favoring the use of the old Maxbauer's Dairy building as a youth center.

Swansee Alden, a resident of the Lincoln Street neighborhood, said she not only would welcome the center, but looks forward to volunteering to help. She said parking shouldn't be a big problem as many of the young people will probably walk to the center.

Alden said that through the years young people have been chased out of the downtown area when they gathered there and chased away from the beach when they gathered there.

"They've gotten chased from one end of town to the other," she said. She added that young people need a place where they can go to be with their friends.

Joe Johnston, a youth minister with the Assembly of God Church, said he feels the city can eliminate a lot of problems by having the center.

Perry Fowler, minister of the Safe Harbor Southern Baptist Church, said he feels the building is in an appropriate place, being located between the middle and high school.

The proposal to grant a special use and therefore allow the center plans to go forward passed by a 4-1 vote. Council member Butch Russell said several people living in the area had voiced concerns about parking for the center.

Council member Bill Haggard was one of the four voting in favor of the center. In regard to the center being in a residential area, Haggard said, "I have no problem with it. We have our schools in residential areas."

ulations in the Lake Charlevoix Management plan in favor of a 100-foot setback.

Mayor Dave Novotny asked Young if by adopting a 100-foot setback the city would still be in a position of having a legally tenuous position due to depriving property owners of reasonable use.

Young said that if the city adopted a 100-foot setback and a developer challenged the provision in court as unreasonable and therefore unconstitutional, then the city would have to find witnesses with expertise to come in and testify that a 100-foot setback is necessary.

According to Young, it wouldn't be enough for the city's position to simply be that they preferred 100 feet rather than 50 feet.

"I have to have scientific data," he said. "I'm not saying there isn't any out there. I'm simply saying I haven't heard of any."

In abstaining from voting, Gaskin said she had insufficient information at this time.

County 911 plan faces complications

By Laurie Lounsbury

The wheels that are turning towards a 911 system in Charlevoix County are getting caught in the ruts of multi-county bureaucracy.

Ken Nichols of Bay City addressed the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at their meeting last Wednesday, September 11, in an effort to clarify some of the issues surrounding the implementation of a 911 system. Nichols served as the Chairman of the Emergency Telephone Service Committee in Bay City, and is familiar with some of the finer points of emergency phone system implementation.

The main stumbling block facing the county seems to be Antrim County's tentative 911 Plan, which would include the 582, 536, and 549 telephone exchanges. Antrim County needs these exchanges in their plan because they lost some of their own exchanges to the Grand Traverse County plan. Any county or counties submitting a tentative plan for 911 service needs to have a certain number of exchanges included in their plan in order to keep the cost of the plan to less than a four percent increase on each individual's phone bill. This forces counties looking for a 911 plan to gobble up exchanges in neighboring counties. Commissioners passed a resolution to exclude the three aforementioned exchanges from the Antrim County Plan.

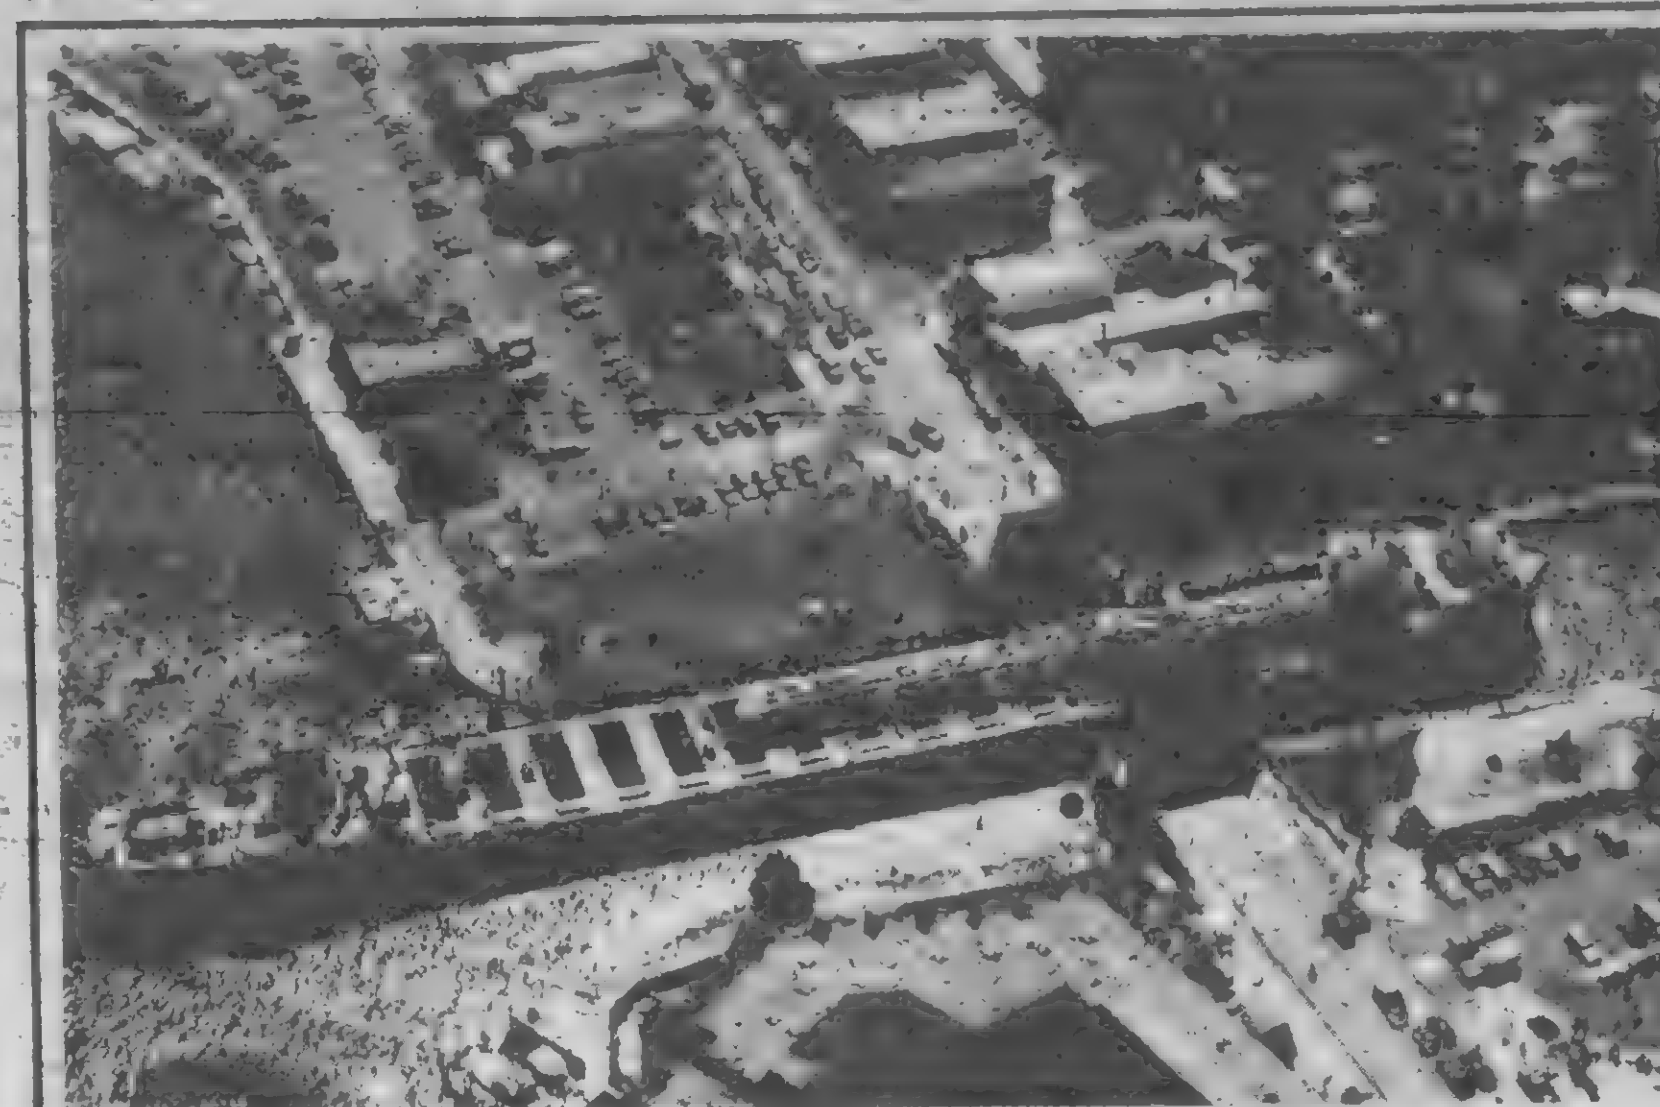

Nichols referred to Public Service Commission Public Act 32, section 601, which states that any dispute between one or more counties shall be heard as a contested case before the Public Service Commission. He predicted that if this case has to come before the Public Service Commission, the decision would most likely go to Charlevoix County, since at least half to five-eighths of the exchanges in question are in Charlevoix County. Nichols also said that the salvation for the 911 plan would be to consider a combined county plan which would include Antrim County. There was some concern expressed over the fact that Antrim already had a plan, and may not be amenable to the idea of starting all over with a combined county plan.

All of the phone companies in Michigan are members of TAM, the Telephone Association of Michigan, which has an outlined policy for helping all counties with the implementation of 911 systems.

Nichols suggested that Commissioners resolve the 911 tentative plan before addressing the question of purchasing and implementing a central dispatching system. He reminded them that these are two separate and distinct issues, and should be treated as such. The pros and cons of a central dispatching system would depend on how many counties go in on the 911 plan.

A tight squeeze

County considers administrator

A fact-finding committee will be appointed at the Charlevoix County Commissioner's regular meeting Sept. 25. The committee will be responsible for acquiring information regarding the pros and cons of having a county administrator.

County commissioners decided at their Sept. 11 meeting that the key criteria for the committee to investigate will be the cost of an administrator as compared to savings from having an administrator. Other considerations will be the services which will be provided, such as personnel management, central purchasing, budgeting, and reviewing the functions of the board of commissioners.

The committee's purpose is strictly to gather this information and present it to the board of commissioners. They may, of their own accord, make a recommendation to the board, but the board will have the final vote on this matter. There are already conflicting sentiments among commissioners. Some commissioners clearly feel it would be expeditious to the County to have one person acting as a general overseer of all county business, while others feel the system has worked well for years as it is and question the need for another employee on the county payroll.

Karl Waldner, a citizen and frequent critic of the county board, spoke out against having an administrator. He pointed out that an administrator would dilute the responsibilities of commissioners and would therefore dilute the praise or blame which should fall to the commissioners for their actions.

EDITH GILBERT

What we need in our area is some "gladness" between the telephone company and the post office.

Anyone who is in business, or who volunteers their time to a club, church or civic group, or who mails a wedding gift will undoubtedly have run into this iron curtain — will have experienced a range of minor irritation to major inconveniences.

In case you are not aware how discouraging the situation is, here are some examples of what I'm talking about.

Want to mail a bill/invoice or check to the Richard Josephs? (They live just across the the Ironton Ferry.) Look in either the ATT telephone book or the Phone Guide and address listed. But they won't get their mail if you address it to 10022 Ferry Rd., Charlevoix, because the Post Office has them listed in East Jordan! Nevertheless, they always receive their telephone bills because the telephone company correctly addresses all their bills to 10022 Ferry Rd., East Jordan. Since they have a Charlevoix telephone number, the telephone company insists on listing them as Charlevoix residents in the phone book. To top off the scrambled geographical partitionings, the Josephs are part of the Boyne City school district!

You think this is unusual? Not on your life.

Want to mail a greeting card to the Robert Bogarts? They, too, have a Charlevoix telephone number and their address is listed in Norwood. Check the zip code guide in either phone book and there is no Norwood listing, but I notice that in one phone book Charlevoix's zip code is incorrectly listed as 49711 instead of 49720. Checked with the Post Office, and am told that Norwood also has a Charlevoix zip.

You'll find the same difficulties in neighboring areas. If you have friends, clients or customers around Walloon Lake, some will be designated as Petoskey residents, some Walloon residents and some will be listed as Boyne City residents. L'Arbre-Croche people have a Harbor Springs Post Office listing and a Petoskey telephone number.

People in Harbor Springs, who have Post Office Box numbers, either won't receive their mail if you look up their street address as it's listed in the telephone book, or they receive their mail weeks after a meeting, birthday, wedding or funeral.

Things get even worse if you try to send a package. United Parcel won't accept gift packages or orders addressed to Post Office Box numbers. For this you must give the street address.

Now what we have two telephone books, you'd think things would get better but they don't. Neither telephone book lists fax numbers for their customers' convenience. Nor do they include Post Office Box Numbers in addition to the street address.

And as for the Post Office, there was a time, before zip codes, that letters were delivered to a person when addressed simply Ironton, Michigan, because somebody cared. As helpful as today's computers are in speeding up the billion-pieces of mail, it still takes a bit of caring on the local postmasters' part to give the kind of service we have a right to expect.

I wish I knew who could possibly bring some order out of this chaos, to dovetail the confusing telephone and post-office information in a helpful way. But I don't even know where to start. Do you?

Editorial

Out of one pocket and into the other

There's a $200,000 proposal drifting around city hall that needs to be shot down before it ever gets off the ground. It involves a financial dodge that taxpayers should simply not tolerate, not even for an instant.

When the city adopted a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and a Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) in the early 1980s, it was with the premise that tax dollars collected through these programs would only be spent within the DDA and TIFA districts. Now, city officials are trying to use a financial dodge to get around that premise so they can spend the money where ever and however they please.

Without getting too complicated, here's a brief explanation of how tax increment financing works. Property tax revenues are directly related to property values. As property values increase so do taxes. DDA and TIFA projects are funded by tax revenues derived from increased property values. What happens is that when a DDA or TIFA district is established, tax money derived from increased property values in the DDA and TIFA districts (money which would normally go into the general pot to be distributed among the school, county, intermediate school district and city) is set aside in a fund for improvements in the DDA and TIFA districts. Money in that fund is controlled by a city council appointed DDA-TIFA board.

In Charlevoix, the DDA district encompasses the downtown business district while the TIFA district is the area near Ferry Beach.

TIFA funds paid for recent improvements to the Ferry Beach park. Now, after most of the improvements have been completed, the city finds itself with about $200,000 left over. Rather than either putting that money back into the general pot where the school and county etc. would get a portion of it, or spending it on another project in the TIFA district, city officials want to spend it on other things.

In order to do this, the proposal being put forward is to use the $200,000 in TIFA funds to buy some city-owned property within the TIFA district. In effect, the city would be buying land from itself. Why? Because that would transfer the money out of TIFA and allow the city to use the money somewhere else.

This financial ploy has been approved by the DDA-TIFA board. The city council was to consider setting a public hearing on the proposal this past Monday night, but postponed the matter until their next meeting.

When the city council does consider this matter, taxpayers from the city, school district and county should all stand ready to inform council members that they do not appreciate these games being played with tax dollars.

The proposed TIFA financial dodge is an outrage and an insult to local taxpayers. It carries that same stench as the games the state has played with lottery funds.

If this proposal passes, the city council's credibility as a taxing entity will be greatly damaged.

Exception taken to article

Editor,

I'd like to correct a number of errors in the article entitled, "Bonies discovered near landfill raise questions" that appeared Sept. 11 in the Charlevoix Courier. There are several instances of misinformation.

not Mason. Secondly, my father's mother, Jessie Railway Mitchell died Dec. 30, 1880 when twins were born and they too died. All were buried in the neighborhood cemetery. It was not a "one family" burial plot. Others in that vicinity were buried there, too. Some were the William and Kemp families and others.

The article said there is no record of the township owning it but that is false. Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering provided a document recording the sale of the cemetery plot, almost an acre, to the Eveline Township Board which was the "Eveline Township Health Department" on May 17, 1879. The cemetery was designated as such on the 1901 plan, not 1903 as reported in the article.

Mr. Wm. Margie owned the acreage which included the cemetery and he told us and also said on Channel 7 & 4 TV Aug. 29 that he knew about the cemetery and respected it and he expected that any subsequent owners would do the same. He remembered that there were markers, flowers, including violets, rose bushes and myrtle.

Clara Nasson

some of which had been removed by someone for landscaping purposes.

Another error, the article said I asked the township to make an appeal to Waste Management to deed the acre of land to the township so that it could remain a historical township grave yard. I did not make any such request. The board wrote the letter to Waste Management Sept. 8, 1990 and received a reply written Nov. 21, 1990 saying they, Waste Management, thought the better solution would be to reinter the grave, only one?

Henry Hammond bought the NE 1/4 of NW 1/4 and the NW 1/4 of the NE 1/4 section 19 from the State of Michigan Nov. 10, 1875.

Many of us concerned citizens don't understand how, when and why the township relinquished its ownership. The sale of the property was always subject to any and all easements etc. to the "exception" which is the cemetery allowing for rights for ingress and egress; page 18 of the survey.

Thank you for permitting me to express the truth to clear up any misconceptions.

Parents invited to high school open house

Attention Parents: Monday, September 23, the staff of Charlevoix High School will host an "Open House" for parents from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The purpose of this program is to introduce parents to their student's teachers at the High School and for individual interaction between teacher and parent.

The format has been changed from past years. Parents will be able to arrive at any time and leave whenever they wish.

EXAMPLE: A parent may want to come at 7 or 7:30, visit with two or three teachers and leave at 8 or 8:30 p.m. Another example, a parent may want to see all of his student's teachers, arrive at 6:30 and leave at 8 p.m.

Parents are invited to come and spend as little time or as much time as they desire to interact with the High School staff.

Correction

The woman referred to in last week's Courier as Clara Mason is correctly named Clara Nasson. Nasson also clarified that she did not make a request to Eveline Township to have the property in question deeded over to this township by Waste Management.

Seminar scheduled on executive etiquette

Vital skills necessary for business executives and any volunteers actively meeting people for their non-profit organizations will be the subject of a seminar Sept. 21 in Petoskey sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

The four hour program in executive etiquette and social entertaining will be presented by Margi Erickson, Certified Etiquette Consultant of Northville, Michigan, a specialist in employee executive training for major corporations.

When and how to shake hands, how to conclude a conversation, where to wear a name tag label at a conference or social meeting and the art of introductions are a few of a myriad of topics covered.

Limited to 15 people, the seminar will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Stafford's Bay View Inn and will include the luncheon which will be a hands-on part of the workshop. Reservations must be made with the Arts Council at McCane Arts Center or by calling 346-4337. Cost of the seminar is $140 per person.

The program is part of a national trend on the part of business organizations to help improve competitive position by making certain executives representing the company have social skills which can make a difference in the market place.

School group travels to Beaver Island

The Charlevoix Chapter of Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel went to Beaver Island Thursday, Sept. 5 for an enjoyable day.

Fifty nine passengers met at the dock in Charlevoix at 8:30 in the morning. After lunch at the "Stony Acres Grill" the group took a two hour bus tour with tour guide Jim Willis, a retired school employee who lives on the island. He made the island come alive with past history and present conditions.

sailor and Martha Strawbridge of Charlevoix visited the Beaver Island School which had three teachers and 82 students.

The peace and tranquility of the island as well as the pristine and archaic beauty were overpowering. It was a memorable day. Plans are being made for an Agawa Canyon train trip next fall. Any school personnel interested in joining MARSP may contact Eleanor Sadowski 547-4995 or 582-9053.

Gilbert receives arts council award

The Crooked Tree Arts Council (CTAC) member annual meeting reviewed an active year, installed new officers and honored outstanding volunteers at the Country Club of Boyne Thursday night.

Retiring President Ima Williams, recently appointed to Governor John Engler's new Michigan Council for the Arts, gave special recognition to Ann Ford of Harbor Springs for outstanding volunteer efforts in the past year. Jack Perry of Petoskey and Edith Gilbert of Charlevoix received special recognition for over 20 years of key activity in development of the CTAC program.

The annual report of activity was impressive. Included were enrollment of over 500 students and adults in the CTAC Community School for the Arts; expansion of the dozent program to guide and explain gallery shows to over 1,000 students from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. Three CTAC Concert Series programs offered distinguished artists to local audiences. CTAC sponsored the Michigan Opera Theatre for a one week residency program for 2,000 students in the schools and a complete production of the opera "La Traviata". The Arts Council owns, maintains and operates the

Virgil A. McClure

Virgil A. McClure, 91, of Boyne City, died Sept. 12, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Memorial service will be 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The service will be under the auspices of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F.&A.M., and the Rev. Milton Walls of the First Presbyterian Church, Boyne City.

Mr. McClure was born Aug. 4, 1900, in Berrien Springs, Mich., the son of Thomas and Cora (Quackenbush) McClure.

On Oct. 26, 1922, he married the former Dorothy Doty in Benton Harbor.

Mr. McClure worked for the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co.

for 43 years, retiring as a superintendent in 1965. He and his wife also owned and operated McClure's Lakeview Terrace in Horton Bay for 35 years. They moved to Boyne City permanently in 1965.

Mr. McClure was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Boyne City. He was a 33rd Degree Mason, a former member of South Bend Lodge 294, F.&A.M., past master of Lake Shore Lodge No. 298 in Benton Harbor. He had received the Meritorious Service Award and was a member and past master of the Boyne City Lodge No. 391, F. & A.M., and also a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F.&A.M.

He was preceded in death by four sisters.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

James W. Gallagher

James W. Gallagher, 81, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 12, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Funeral mass was held Saturday, Sept. 14, at St. Mary's Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James Gardiner will officiate and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Gallagher was born Nov. 12, 1908, on Beaver Island, the son of James H. and Katherine (Allers) Gallagher.

He graduated from McKinley School on Beaver Island in 1926 and then married the former Teresa Boyle on Oct. 25, 1933, in Chicago, Ill. They had made their home in Charlevoix since 1959.

Mr. Gallagher was a member of St. Mary's Church on a member of the Third Order of St. Francis.

Survivors include his wife, Teresa Boyle Gallagher; two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Teresa Janet) O'Donnell and Mrs. Glen (Eleanor Mary) McDonough, both of Wyoming; Mike, one son, Brian F. Gallagher and his wife DeLores of Wyoming; Mich., nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; three brother, Earl and Leo of Chicago, Ill. and Norbert of Rochester, Ind.; three sisters, Mrs. Giles (Dorothy) McCann of Jackson, Mrs. Bob (Edith) Buhans of Lawton and Mrs. Jack (Mae) Coppens of Charlevoix.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Margaret McCann and two brothers, Billy and Monsignor Victor P. Gallagher.

The family suggests memorials to St. Mary's Catholic School. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. A rosary was held Friday, Sept. 13, at the funeral home.

where a central dispatch could be located, and the needs of the different counties in relationship to their populations. Smaller areas might find the central dispatching system more costly than their current system, and other areas, such as Charlevoix County, would find it to be more cost effective.

These questions led to a discussion of the need for a consultant on the 911 plan. Commissioner Don Smith asked Nichols if he would be interested in acting as consultant, and if he could give the commissioners a ballpark estimate of what he would charge to act as consultant. Nichols seemed ambivalent, saying that his interest in consulting would depend largely on the level of cooperation demonstrated among the counties. Gordon Nichari of Traverse City is also being considered for the consultancy position.

Charlevoix Area Hospital - funding drive moves into home stretch

Staff looks forward to improvements as drive moves toward its goal

By L. Scott Swanson

Last week the Charlevoix Area Hospital fundraising drive surpassed the $850,000 mark on the way to its $1.4 million goal. As the drive draws nearer to its conclusion, staff members are looking forward to the improvements funded by the campaign.

The building program primarily concerns three areas of the hospital: the operating rooms; obstetrics (i.e. the baby department); and the admissions area.

Dr. Marc Lame is one of two general surgeons operating at Charlevoix Area Hospital. (The other is Dr. Merle Plagge.) When asked what changes the building program will bring to the operating rooms, Lame hesitated as if wondering where to begin, then smiled and said, "It's kind of all completely new."

Currently the hospital has two small operating rooms near the center of the hospital. When the building program is completed there will be three operating rooms, near the front of the building with provisions which would allow for the future construction of a fourth operating room.

The two operating rooms now in place are used for in-patient surgery, out-patient surgery and endoscopies. (Endoscopies are various procedures which don't require a major incision, but are done with scope type apparatuses which are inserted into the body.) Lame said that in most hospitals endoscopies are done in rooms other than the normal operating rooms.

When the new construction is completed there will be two operating rooms and a separate room for endoscopies. One of the operating rooms will be fully equipped for surgery with a general anesthetic. The second room will be more limited in terms of routine anesthetics and will be used primarily for out-patient surgery.

Lame said that the number of surgical procedures done at Charlevoix Area Hospital has approximately doubled in recent years. Surgery which people used to have to travel elsewhere to have done can now be done in Charlevoix.

While having the new surgical capabilities at the hospital is vastly more convenient for area residents, it does have some drawbacks. For one thing all of the new equipment allowing the hospital to do the surgery takes up a lot of operating room space. Lame cited orthopedic equipment used in knee and hip replacements as one example of useful, but bulky surgical equipment.

"Where we are now, it's difficult to maneuver. Lame said of the present operating rooms.

In addition to adding space, the new operating rooms will also be better ventilated and small operating equipment will be much more readily available.

Currently the preparation rooms for out-patient surgery are down the hall from the operating rooms. When building is completed, the preparation rooms will be in the same area as the operating rooms.

"Essentially, we're redoing everything. It'll all be completely different," Lame said of the proposed surgical unit changes at the hospital.

Mary Terryberry is the obstetrics supervisor at the hospital. If you want to know who's had a baby in town lately, she's the one to ask. Approximately 200 babies a year are born at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Terryberry would like to see that number increase to between 250 and 300 a year.

The major thing the new building program will do is to construct four new rooms called LDRP rooms. LDRP stands for Labor-Delivery-Recovery-Post Partum.

Currently a mother can end up being moved to as many as four rooms: laboring in one room, delivering the baby in a second room, recovering from delivery in a third room, and spending her postpartum days prior to going home from the hospital in a fourth room. The LDRP rooms allow all of that to take place in the same room. It's the childbirth version of one-stop shopping. The LDRP rooms are larger and offer more privacy and comfort, both for the baby and mother as well as visitors. The LDRP rooms are popular in many other hospitals around the country.

Terryberry says the hospital is hoping the LDRP rooms will encourage more people to have their babies at Charlevoix Area Hospital and also might attract an additional obstetrician/gynecologist to the area.

In addition to the LDRP rooms, remodeling will also change the department from two nurses stations to one, nurses station which will be centrally located next to the nursery. Although the nursery will be closer to the nursing station, experience at other hospitals has shown that with the LDRP rooms the new babies spend less time in the nursery and more time in the rooms with their mothers.

The last time the obstetrics department was remodelled was approximately 18 years ago.

The hospital admitting area suffered from a similar problem to the surgical area - too little space.

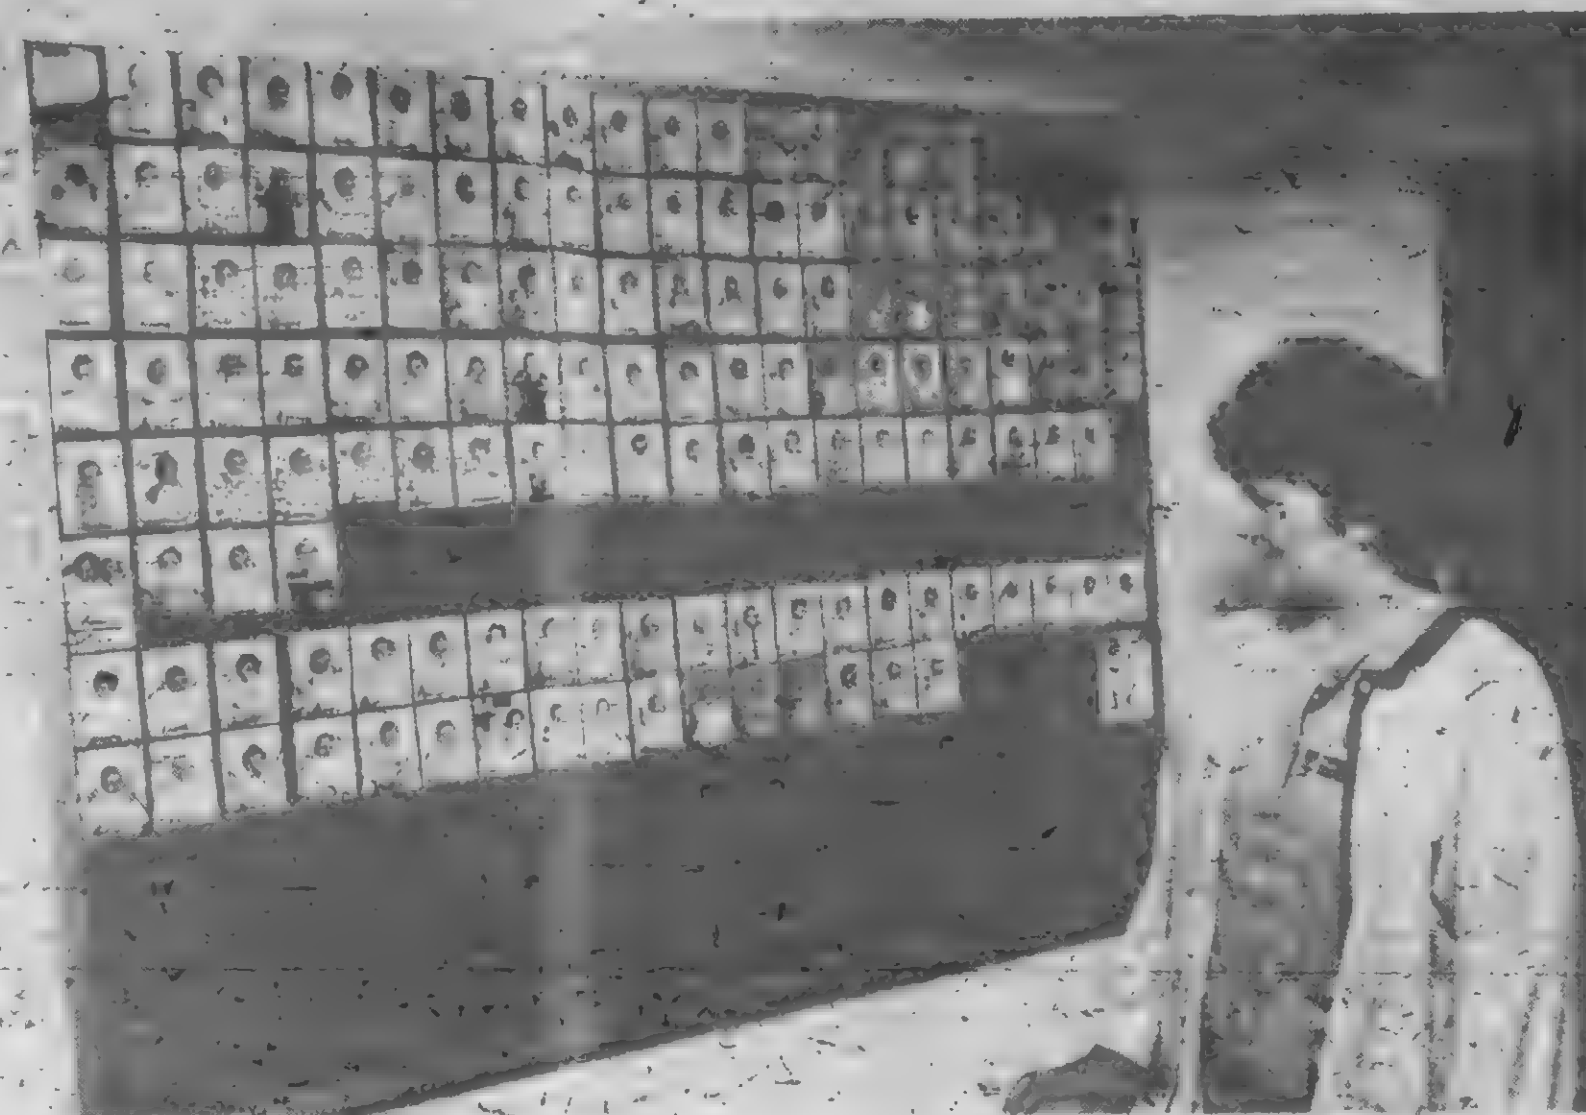

"It was too cluttered. There really wasn't any room for patients who were being registered or for family members to wait," explained Bill Jackson, hospital financial services manager. Often there were situations where one person was being registered with two other people seated directly behind him who could hear the entire conversation.

The hospital has already taken one step to correct the space problem. The billing department was recently moved into the annex building behind the hospital. That has freed up some space.

The building program will create additional space. Along with a more spacious admitting area, there will be a lobby next to the admitting area where family members and friends can be close enough to be supportive, but not bright in the midst of things. The gift shop which is in the lobby will also be moved into a larger area.

Jackson said that although there has been a trend in recent years for more admissions to be done on an out-patient rather than an in-patient basis, all of the people involved still have to be registered at the hospital's front desk.

"Generally the layout of that area is not going to change dramatically," Jackson said. "It's just going to create a little extra space for everybody."

Mary Terryberry of the Charlevoix Area Hospital obstetrics department stands in front of a board which has pictures of babies born at the hospital in recent months. About 200 babies are born at the hospital each year.

Rebecca Haney models at a hospital fundraising fashion show.

General Gift campaign co-chairs Linda Balch (seated) and Joan Balch smile as they discuss campaign plans. The campaign began last week.

Dr. Marc Lame scrubs in the hospital's current surgical unit. The surgical unit will be completely redone in the proposed building program. As hospital capabilities have expanded, the number of surgical procedures done in Charlevoix has approximately doubled in recent years.

Cathy Johnson and Bill Jackson take care of some paper work in the admissions area. The hospital building campaign will give the admissions area more space.

General Gifts campaign begins

The General Gifts portion of the Charlevoix Area Hospital fundraising drive began with a Sept. 12 kickoff meeting. In coming weeks, approximately 100 volunteers will be soliciting pledges from the general populace for the drive.

Joan and Linda Balch, co-chairs of the General Gifts campaign have expressed confidence that the goal of $100,000 from area residents can be reached. Group leaders for the General Gifts campaign are: Joe Trojanek, Nancy Allison, Patty Sitzema, Barbara Plagge, Tansley Stewart, Marilyn Joy, Janet Potter and Pam Smith.

At the kickoff meeting, Linda Balch commented, "We need to not only keep Charlevoix Beautiful, but we need to be able to provide up-to-date medical care to all residents in the area plus be able to attend to the thousands of people who visit our beautiful city each year."

Charlevoix runs wild against East Jordan

Charlevoix failed to convert three extra point attempts, but it was no big deal as there were plenty of other opportunities for extra points in a 54-0 romp over East Jordan Friday night.

Offensively, the Rayders ran at will, amassing 535 rushing yards. Defensively, well, put it this way, about the only ground East Jordan covered during the evening was when they ran from the locker room onto the field. East Jordan gained a total of only 15 yards in the first half and finished the game without a first down.

Senior running back Brian Coolman finished the game with 256 yards and three touchdowns, one of them on a 96-yard run. B.J. Van Loo picked up 63 yards on nine carries. Jody McGlinch 61 yards on nine carries and Lance Emig 49 yards on five carries.

Scoring was consistent throughout the game. Charlevoix scored two touchdowns in each quarter. East Jordan scored no touchdowns in each quarter.

Emig opened the scoring with a six-yard touchdown run. The extra point attempt failed and Charlevoix led 6-0. Coolman scored the second touchdown on an 11-yard run. Vince Voinin kicked the extra point and Charlevoix led 13-0.

Coolman scored again early in the second quarter on a 28-yard screen pass. Ken Olinger ran in the two-point conversion and Charlevoix led 21-0. VanLoo scored on a three-yard run. The extra point attempt failed and Charlevoix led 27-0 at the half.

McGlinch opened the second half scoring on a six-yard run. Voinin kicked the extra point and Charlevoix led 34-0. Coolman scored on a 96-yard run. Voinin kicked the extra point and the Rayders led 41-0 entering the final quarter.

Dan Avery scored on a seven-yard run. The extra point failed and Charlevoix led 47-0. A short time later Avery scored again on a 15-yard run. Voinin kicked the extra point and the game ended with Charlevoix a 54-0 winner.

With the running game working so well, the Rayders didn't have to pass often. Quarterback Keith Carey completed three of seven passes for 38 yards.

Leading the Rayders in tackles and assists were Ben Whitley, Ryan Eveleigh, Todd Prevo, Chris Pease, Avery, Justin Pshopaidas and Brad DeGrow. Pshopaidas, Emig, Bill Dreyer and Josh Martin recovered fumbles while Avery had an interception.

Following the win at East Jordan, Charlevoix is now 2-0 on the season and 1-0 in league play. This Friday evening Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs in another league game.

Dan Boss tees off on the first tee of the Belvedere Golf Course last week. Boss was comedian with a 43, but Charlevoix lost to Inland Lakes by a stroke.

Basketball team beats Boyne City Fourth quarter rally saves game

It was slow-going in the early going, but in the fourth quarter Charlevoix finally got going and beat Boyne City 38-28 in girls basketball last Thursday night.

The odd quarters were not kind to the Rayders. Charlevoix scored just five points in the first and third quarters. But the second and fourth quarters were a different story. Boyne City scored just six points in the second quarter and only three points in the final quarter.

Entering the final quarter, the visiting Rayders trailed 24-21, but a three-point basket by Mary Jane Grunch proved to be the key to discovering Charlevoix's missing offense. In the fourth quarter Charlevoix scored 17 points, just four points less than their entire production for the previous three quarters. None of the Rayder players scored in double figures. Gina Webster led the Rayders in scoring with 9 points while Cari Fershee added 8 and Tammy Holm 7. The win raised the Rayders season record to 3-1. Charlevoix's junior varsity team remained undefeated with a 54-25 win.

This Thursday evening the Rayders will host Harbor Springs.

Golf team is off to a slow start

The Rayder golf team finished second by a stroke in a three-team match Wednesday, Sept. 11 and finished second by several strokes in a two-team match Thursday, Sept. 12.

In the Sept. 11 match at the Belvedere Golf Course the Rayders played against Inland Lakes and Maclacoma. Inland Lakes shot a 184 while Charlevoix shot 185 and Maclacoma 229. Charlevoix's Dan Boss and Inland Lakes Todd Woods were comedians, each shooting at 43.

Other Rayder varsity scores in the three-way match were: Wayne Joy, 46; Robert Simewdy, 46; Jeremy Doan, 50; Travis Blissett, 50; and Corey Crain, 51.

Thursday, Charlevoix lost by 14 strokes to Cheboygan 163-187. Boss led the Rayders with a round of 40. Other Rayder scores were: Crain, 45; Wayne Joy and Jeremy Doan at 51; and Travis Blissett at 53.

This Friday Charlevoix will compete in the Alpena Invitational.

Soccer team wins season opener

Rayders shut out Roscommon 3-0

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's soccer team opened its season on the right foot beating Roscommon 3-0 Sept. 11.

Senior striker Sam Bingham led Charlevoix with two goals and one assist.

Charlevoix opened the scoring just five minutes into the game as Seth Arnold and Scott Boyer worked a give and go play.

"They worked that real well," coach Tom Sikavitsa said. He noted that Boyer got the kick off before the Roscommon fullbacks and goalie had time to adjust.

Charlevoix's second goal came late in the first half when midfielder Mike Dobutis stole the ball and chipped it over the Roscommon defenders to Bingham who scored on a break-away.

Early in the second half Bingham struck again, this time from near the top of the penalty area off a nice crossing pass from Jake Porath.

Sikavitsa said he was pleased with his team's first outing of the season. He said the team got excellent play from Dobutis who controlled the midfield area. Sikavitsa also said Paul Cunningham and L.H. Heck had a solid defensive game. Jason Rajtas played goalie for Charlevoix and came up with two or three big saves to preserve the shutout.

Sam Bingham

Charlevoix's home opener will be at 5 p.m. Thursday at Shaanahan Field with Buckley as the opponent. Saturday the team will travel to Sauli St. Marie.

Jeremy Doan tees off on the first tee of the Belvedere Golf Course last week. Doan was comedian with a 43, but Charlevoix lost to Inland Lakes by a stroke.

Cross Country team opens season

Charlevoix's boys' and girls' cross-country teams both finished third overall with the boys finishing as the top Class C team in the Ludington Cross Country Invitational Saturday.

Of the 26 boys' teams in the race only Class B teams Big Rapids and Fremont finished ahead of the Rayders.

Junior Matt Smith was Charlevoix's top finisher, placing third with a time of 16:43. Other Charlevoix runners and their times and places were: Mike Sevanski, 17:17, 49th; Zach Pajtas, 17:46, 32nd; Josh Scheels, 18:18, 50th; Mike Bush, 18:28, 64; Eric Hess, 18:40, 74; Paul Henne, 19:42, 110.

Times were not available for the Rayder girls, but their finishes were: Elsa Centin-5th; Erin Wright 14th; Trina Holm - 15th; Melissa Cox - 18th; and Anne Scharbaum - 20th. Melissa Eaton also ran, but her placing was unavailable.

Northern Michigan has plenty to eat

By Laurie Lounsbury

When Justin Rashid was a boy, his dad would pack up the family and drive from the inner city of Detroit to a sixty-acre farm in Wildwood, between Petoskey and Indian River. Rashid would then spend his summer picking wild berries and mushrooms, peaches and apples, and foraging through the countryside for an assortment of Michigan's natural delights. These summer forays were very influential in Rashid's decision to live up north and start his business, American Spoon Foods.

Rashid had been living in New York City and working as a professional actor, but found that urban life didn't agree with him, so in 1978 he decided to pursue his dream of living in Northern Michigan and make a living with the natural foods available here. Rashid's first business endeavor in Northern Michigan was a little store in Indian River, where he sold wild berries, mushrooms, and locally grown produce. He was introduced to Larry Forgiione, a renowned chef in New York City, who had an aspiration to make the finest preserve in the world from Michigan fruit. Rashid and Forgiione teamed up to start American Spoon Foods.

Forgiione did succeed in creating the finest preserve in the nation, an award winning strawberry preserve, made from strawberries of a farmer near Sutton's Bay. American Spoon Foods represents the blending of Rashid's and Forgiione's talents. Rashid brings his marketing talent and love of America's natural bounty to the business, while Forgiione, a pioneer chef in the trend towards palate pleasing natural focus, brings his abilities to develop recipes and product lines for the company. A third partner, William Kast, joined American Spoon Foods in 1985 as an investor and business counselor.

American Spoon Foods opened their Petoskey store in 1983, a Grand Traverse store in 1987, and their newest store in downtown Charlevoix this past July. Rashid had been concerned initially about the proximity of the Charlevoix location and the Petoskey location, believing they were too close to draw their own separate customers. But he was pleasantly surprised with the whole new consumer market in Charlevoix.

"You've got a great bunch of foodies here in Charlevoix," Rashid said, referring to the customers who are devotees of natural, locally grown food products. Rashid admits that his products are more expensive than those found in the grocery store, but feels that the expense is justified by the extra value of quality found in the preserves, sauces, and salad dressings he creates.

"We're celebrating uncommonly good foods grown here in Michigan," Rashid explained. "These special fruits should not end up as canned pie-filling or in baby food jars. We prepare our products with a reverence to the food."

Rashid feels that American Spoon Foods is more than just a wholesale and retail business. He believes that he and his associates provide a link between consumers and their food source, unlike large supermarkets. When a customer enters his store, they will learn about the preparation of the food, the local area from which it came, and in some cases, the farmer who grew it.

Rashid feels that in today's market, people's awareness has risen to a level that they want to know how and where the food products they're eating were grown and prepared. "Knowing where your food was grown and how it was produced contributes to the pleasure of

Antique appraisal scheduled

Residents of Northwest Michigan will have a chance to obtain a professional appraisal of any art object or antique by the noted expert Ernest DuMouchelle in Petoskey at fall appraisal days Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

The program is offered by the Crooked Tree Arts Council with the public invited to bring items of the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 25; DuMouchelle, of the DuMouchelle Galleries in Detroit will provide a verbal appraisal for $5 and a written appraisal for $8. People are taken on a first come, first served basis.

Private and individualized visits to homes in the area will be available on Sept. 26 - 27 at a $50 minimum charge for up to 10 items for verbal appraisal of $80 for written appraisals. Home visits must be scheduled and fees paid to the Arts Center by Friday, Sept. 20, according to Valaura Nibbelink of Harbor Springs, Appraisal Chairperson.

All proceeds go to the Crooked Tree Arts Council to support its broad program of enjoyment of the arts by local residents and the development of local artists.

Questions or appointment requests for home visits should be directed to CTAC at the McCune Arts Center 347-4337.

New pre-school to open soon in Charlevoix

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Growing Tree, Rene Golovich-Keie's new pre-school, is a place to nurture the growth of people's budding offspring.

Golovich-Keie's pre-school, which is scheduled to open at the end of September, promises to be a warm, creative environment for children three to five years old. Golovich-Keie has a degree in Early Childhood Education from Motu Community College, and a Fine Arts degree from Northern Michigan University. She plans to apply both her art and childhood education background to The Growing Tree. "I like to give kids a chance to experiment on their own, to try things, create. I prefer to be a guide to them rather than a teacher," says Golovich-Keie.

Golovich-Keie had her first teaching experience in a Christian pre-school in Flint. Since then she has taught in a Montessori School, in a Headstart School, and most recently she was teaching pre-school in Boyne City. She implemented pre-school art programs that are still in use in Boyne City.

Golovich-Keie has always wanted to have her own pre-school, and says that she started getting serious about the idea two years ago. She found that renting space and making the necessary modifications for a pre-school were cost prohibitive, so she and her husband Jim Keie decided to build a school next to their home on Old U.S. 31. Golovich-Keie plans to have a maximum of twelve children in each session. She will offer morning and afternoon sessions, morning sessions running from 8:45-11:30, and afternoon sessions running from 11:45-2:30. The three-year-old sessions will take place Tuesday and Thursday mornings, and the four and five-year-old sessions will take place Monday and Wednesday mornings, with the option of a Friday morning session for those who would prefer three days a week. Afternoon sessions will be filled according to demand.

Golovich-Keie is excited about getting started with The Growing Tree. "I'm doing this because I love working with young children. Hopefully I can make a living at it too," she remarked. Some of her planned units of study include an invention project, where students can dream up an invention and build it on their own, and an artist of the week unit, when the children will learn about an artist and have a chance to imitate the artist's paintings. Golovich-Keie is exploring the possibility of hiring senior citizens as teacher's aides. She feels that "grand-parental" loving input for young children would be an asset to the school.

Golovich-Keie was surprised and pleased with the response she has gotten to The Growing Tree so far. She still has openings available, and invites anyone to come and visit the school during an openhouse she will be hosting later in the fall. For more information about The Growing Tree, call Rene Golovich-Keie at 547-4835.

Rene Golovich-Keie and her daughter Brecklin stand in the tractor tires behind the new pre-school Golovich-Keie is opening.

Obituaries

Barbara A. Patrie, 51

Barbara A. Patrie, 51, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 11, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital, Petoskey.

A memorial service was held Monday, Sept. 16, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schirbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated.

She was born May 28, 1940, in Meadville, Pa. She attended UCLA.

The former Barbara Ann Urey married David H. Patrie on Feb. 12, 1974, in Petoskey.

She was a member of the Fibers Kart Preserve of the Michigan Kart Conservancy where she served on the board of directors and also as secretary and trip coordinator. She was a life member of the National Speleological Society and served as archivist for the organization.

Survivors include her husband David H. of Charlevoix; seven sons, Phillip Hoffman and Eric Hoffman, both of Charlevoix; Wayne A. Hoffman of New York, N.Y.; Heath D. Patrie of Grand Rapids; Clay Patrie of East Lansing; Mark Patrie of Boyne Falls; Brian Patrie of Grand Rapids; her mother and step-father, June and Bud Ballew of Huntington Beach, Calif.; one brother, John Urey of Beaver, Calif.; and four grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Michigan Kart Conservancy, Barbara Patrie Memorial Fund. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Gladys B. Miller, 74

Gladys B. Miller, 74, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 2, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Graveside service was held Sept. 5, at Fairview Cemetery, Mancelona. The Rev. Benton Heister of the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix officiated.

Mrs. Miller was born Nov. 27, 1916, in Shreveport, La., the daughter of Dorr R. and Gladys B. (Russell) Simmons. She graduated from Shelby High School in Shelby, Mich. and attended Davenport College in Grand Rapids.

On July 2, 1945, she married

Harold W. (Bud) Miller in Grand Rapids. He preceded her in death on April 18, 1968.

Mrs. Miller had been associated with funeral service since 1946 and had worked with her husband at the Miller Funeral Home in Mancelona until his death. She has resided in Charlevoix since 1968.

Mrs. Miller was a member of the First Congregational Church of Shelby, Mich. and was a life member of the Elona-Columbia Chapter No. 99, Order of Eastern Star in Mancelona.

She is survived by a half sister, Mrs. Allen J. (Janis) Clark of Metairie, La.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where arrangements were handled.

REQUEST FOR AUDIT PROPOSAL

The Board of Commissioners, Charlevoix County, is soliciting proposals for an audit of its financial statements for the year ending December 31, 1991.

The audit is to be completed by April 15, 1992 and is to include all funds.

This audit is to be performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and must include tests of the accounting records of the County of Charlevoix and other procedures that are considered necessary to express an unqualified opinion that the financial statements are fairly presented. Procedures must include tests of documentary evidence supporting transactions recorded in the accounts and may include tests of the physical existence of inventories, direct confirmation of receivables and certain other assets and liabilities by correspondence with selected individuals, creditors and financial institutions.

Bridge repair begins in January

By L. Scott Swanson

After 43 years, it's time for Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge to receive a major overhaul. The first phase of a three-phase renovation project will begin in January and end in April.

Phase one won't affect automobile traffic. Phases two and three, scheduled for the winter months of 1993 and 1994, will affect automobile traffic in that drivers will only be able to drive on half of the bridge while the other half is being worked on.

The bridge which crosses the Pine River Channel and links Charlevoix's north and south sides was built in 1948. The first bridge spanning the Pine River was nothing more than some planks which formed a makeshift foot bridge.

The present bridge is one of a series of bridges which followed in the footsteps of that first bridge. Tom Coleman, an engineer out of the Cadillac office of the Michigan

Cars submerged for research

By Laurie Lounsbury

Curious little boys will often play a game of driving their Hot Wheels cars off the edge of the bathtub and into the water just to see what will happen. It will be no game this week, however, as the Michigan State Police drive at least twenty-two vehicles and two school buses into the channel waters and watch them sink by the Coast Guard Station in Charlevoix.

The Underwater Recovery Unit, a department of the Michigan State Police, aided by the Michigan National Guard and the U.S. Coast Guard, will be conducting studies on submerged and pre-submerged vehicles all week. They started September 20 and concluding September 27. The purpose of this project, christened STAR, (Submerged Transportation Accident Research) is to learn how to more efficiently locate and rescue passengers of vehicles that enter the water.

Project STAR, developed and headed by Sgt. Jim Ewers, has struck a responsive chord in many of the people involved with it. All of the services and products needed for this project have been donated. General Motors donated the vehicles, and a number of interested groups and individuals have donated their time to help document and photograph the study.

"The help we've received locally has been terrific," Ewers remarked. "The Charlevoix Fire Department has offered to fill our compressed air tanks, the Charlevoix Police have provided escorts for the Michigan National Guard Convoy, and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will be providing a marine patrol during the launchings."

The Michigan National Guard has constructed a 200-foot-long, 30-foot-wide floating ribbon bridge which will be used as a ramp for Sinking slowly into Lake Charlevoix, this van is one of several vehicles which will be put in the lake this week as state police do research on how best to handle situations where vehicles crash into the water. The research is expected to be reviewed by police and rescue departments from throughout the world. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury. Additional photos on page 10.)

Department of Transportation (MDOT) said renovation has been scheduled for this coming winter because a consultant who recently analyzed the bridge recommended bridge cables running beneath the water be replaced as soon as possible.

"We knew we'd have to do it, but we didn't know we'd have to do it that fast," Coleman said of the cable replacement.

The cables are buried beneath the channel. They coordinate control of each side of the bridge. Replacing them will involve digging a trench across the channel, burying new cables and having divers inspect the work.

While work is being done, the bridge will have to remain closed. MDOT officials have contacted officials from the Beaver Island boat company and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Agacia to make arrangements. The Beaver Islander won't really be affected as it normally doesn't run between January and April.

Automobile traffic will be affected in 1993 and 1994, when work is done on the grating, sidewalk, rails and support beams beneath the bridge. Coleman said that although half of the bridge will be closed, there should be room for two lanes of traffic on the other half. He said he anticipates each of those lanes being just a touch less than 11 feet wide.

In addition to the structural work, MDOT will also be doing some electrical and mechanical work on the bridge. Coleman described the project as a "complete refurbishment" and said the total price tag will exceed half a million dollars.

MDOT will be prefabricating as much of the work as possible to minimize the amount of time spent on the bridge.

...what would local drivers do if they couldn't cross the bridge

Faithful Courier readers (also widely known as the salt of the earth) may recall a photo on page three of last week's Courier. The photo was an aerial shot of a huge freighter passing through the channel. If you looked closely, you probably noticed that there wasn't much margin for error. The Pine River Channel is no place for a freighter captain to sneeze.

What if one of those big freighters hit the bridge and took the thing out? Fortunately that's not likely, but we're just surmising here. Or what if one of those freighters grounded and it just so happened to run aground right beneath the bridge? Some of the freighters passing through the channel can't pass through fully loaded because of the depth of the channel.

And one freighter recently was temporarily hung up out by the lighthouse.

Or forgetting about the freighters, what if the bridge became impassable for some other reason? What if unseen erosion from the ever-changing channel currents caused one side of the bridge to fall in? What if that happened? Well, for starters, you wouldn't want it to happen some night when you were late for a volleyball game and weren't paying attention to your driving as you rushed up to the K-5 school. That'd wreck your whole evening.

What would happen if for some reason we couldn't drive across the bridge? What would happen if you picked up the paper one day and read, "Charlevoix bridge damaged. Expected to be impassable for at least three months?"

It's hard to even think about what you'd do. If you're a southside person, the first thing you'd have to do is close all of your doors and windows to block out the noise generated by hundreds of elementary school children dancing in the streets and whooping and hollering about this being even better than a blizzard.

Say what you will about Lake Charlevoix, but the bottom line is that without the bridge, there's just no easy way around it. And each and every day that bridge was out, a lot of people would be trying to find a way around it. A lot of people use that bridge. According to Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) traffic counts, 16,000 cars (Yeah, a lot of them if not most of them are the same cars crossing more than once.) cross the bridge on an average day. That's an average day. Continued on page 5

Building problems prompt new pool survey

Editor,

Our previous letter to the editor describes the Inn Garage as "an ideal site" for a community indoor pool. There is no question that the site is ideal but the building might be a problem. So at the suggestion of one of our major donors, Comstock Construction Co. was requested to look at the Inn Garage. Holes were dug to check the footings and a detailed computer analysis was made by Bob Jess, Comstock's estimator. All expenses were donated.

In a nutshell, Comstock Construction concluded that it would be cheaper to build a new building than to try to house a pool in the Inn Garage. (Cost for a six-lane pool in a new building, not including site acquisition or demolition, is estimated at $953,636 for 9,500 hundred square feet.)

The Inn Garage is sound and might make a terrific recreation center or teen center for ice skating, roller blading, etc.

However, when one adds the land costs and the demolition costs, logic dictates that we should consider other sites. Hence, a pool survey.

The Friends of the Pool decided to ask the community where they think the pool should go, is a $1 million range for construction acceptable compared to the previous estimate of 2.29 million; how should it be financed; etc. The new survey would update a survey conducted by the Charlevoix School District in 1989 which included some pool-related questions.

North Central Michigan College students will conduct the survey Thursday evening, Sept. 26 between 7 and 9 p.m. It will take about three minutes to ask eight questions.

Senior citizens center needs funds

Editor,

Tuesday (Sept. 17) I visited and participated at the Senior Center in Charlevoix. What a busy place it was with many optimistic faces. Some were making paper beads, a craft often used by the pioneers to brighten their otherwise drab homes. They told me that was a rest from the exercise class they had earlier attended.

Our music class introduced us to songs from Oklahoma, some familiar and some not. The piano is so out of tune. It should be placed on the disaster list, but we did get acquainted with the new songs we shall learn. Some then left for lunch while others prepared to attend the adult education class scheduled for the afternoon. I left to prepare food for the potluck dinner in the evening.

Back at 5:30 we entered a room tastefully prepared with long tables covered with white plastic and vases of pretty flowers. The food table was filling up with the Senior's culinary arts. But wait, more tables had to be set up and several returned to their homes for folding chairs. There was a big crowd of hungry people! After praying the Lord's Prayer, the food table was attacked with vigor. I was at the end of the line but found much to my liking. The place quieted down while we were eating.

After dinner, an attentive audience listened to Linda Behringer who spoke about R.S.V.P. Senior Citizens Volunteer Organization. She made us all aware of how much the Senior group does to help others.

An interruption: The Beginning Art Teacher asked that the class meet with him briefly to organize and be advised about the class to be taught. Several left for the other room.

Then the music started. Loretta Swanson brought her key board. She wasn't taking any chances on that piano which so badly needs tuning (but no money allocated for that purpose.) A great sax and clarinet player Bob Nowakowski, drummer Maurice Seaman, guitar player Lew Caliss, violinist Joe Stutzman, and tub player Rouhi Metzger gave us music that brought back memories of our own romantic days. The food tables were taken down and some brave souls danced on the not-yet-tiled floors, while the rest were happily tapping their toes.

The Senior Citizen Building is progressing slowly but, hopefully, surely. The walls of the hall are painted; the lights are in, and the kitchen — well, when is the sink going to be hooked up? The bathrooms usable? The floor tiled? The outside finished? Before snow flies, I hope.

Charlevoix does much to please our seasonal visitors and we all enjoy the bandstand and beautiful potlucks. But please don't forget the senior citizens. They may have fixed incomes but they do spend locally — their Medicare and supplemental insurances do help the hospital. When we can have an adequate and attractive Senior Center, just maybe, some of us will stick around instead of seeking warmer climates where we are treated well because they want our dollars!

Please don't give up helping the seniors; if you're lucky, you may become one.

Zoning proposal opposed

Editor,

Like most people in our community, I support reasonable and responsible development. However, I do not consider the narrow strip of land north of the old depot and lakeward of the railroad right-of-way reasonable space for a large housing development.

The Charlevoix City Council seems bent on creating a zone to accommodate developers who are unable or unwilling to acquire adequate land for a reasonable development in this area. I urge the citizens of Charlevoix to contact your representative soon to express your views.

Thanks for tournament help

Editor,

A short note of appreciation to the many participants and generous donors who helped make the 1st Annual Vacation Properties Network golf benefit, held Sept. 5, an overwhelming success. Thanks to the efforts of everyone at Antrim Dells, the host course for the event, playing conditions were superb and all 80 golfers had a great time while generating more than $1,000 for this year's non-profit beneficiary, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. This type of success is not possible without many donations; of both time and prizes, by many individuals and businesses. Our sincere gratitude to all as we look forward to next year's benefit. Thank you!

...how would Charlevoix drivers fare without the bridge

That figure is higher in the summer and lower in the winter.

The bridge opens approximately 4,000 times each year, but never permanently. What would those 16,000 cars do if they couldn't cross the bridge?

Detouring around the bridge through East Jordan or Boyne City adds approximately 38 miles to your trip. Oh sure you can cut that distance some in the summer if the Ironston Ferry is running, but you may grow old in the process. Picture 16,000 cars lined up waiting to cross the Ironston Ferry. Now don't get too discouraged. It's not like you'd be the 16,000th car in line.

All things being equal, only half of the cars would be on one side. That being the case, you couldn't be any farther back in line than 8,000th. And as previously mentioned, many of those 16,000 cars are the same cars crossing more than once. With this factor also in your favor you could easily get into the top 100 or 200 cars waiting for the Ironston Ferry.

And against that backdrop, consider this: one local Ironston Ferry regular said she once timed the Ferry and did some calculating and concluded that if you're any more than five cars back in line, you save time by driving around.

In 1948, when the present bridge was built, a temporary bridge was put in beside the current bridge allowing traffic to continue to cross. That probably couldn't be done today because there are buildings next to each end of the bridge.

The most likely scenario would be for some type of temporary bridge to be constructed by the U.S. Coast Guard station, where the old railroad trestle bridge used to be. Currently, there is a portable ramp extending out into Lake Charlevoix for some car submersion testing being done by the State Police. (See story elsewhere in the paper.)

Surmising all by yourself is no fun. What do some other people think would be done if for some reason the bridge became impassable?

City police chief Dennis Halverson was asked that question and replied, "I don't know what the heck they would do." He suggested the possibility of a portable bridge by the Coast Guard station.

Halverson did recall the bridge getting stuck one time in the upposition. He said there were some construction workers working on a building nearby and they were re-crutted to help handcrank the bridge closed.

Although he didn't have any definite solutions to the theoretical problem, Halverson hoped, "You'd like to think in today's world they'd have some kind of equipment you could bring in."

Bridge tender Carl Soblaskey has been working on the Charlevoix bridge for the past 20 years. Prior to that he worked on bridges in other parts of the state. He said he was working on the old Milwaukee Bridge one time when a boat got stuck under it.

Soblaskey said he can't envision a freighter ever hitting the bridge, but he noted that once the bridge opens and a freighter begins its approach, there's no reconsidering and stopping the process. Freighters don't stop on a dime.

If for some reason, there was major damage to the bridge, repair work could take a while. "They're not going to fix it in six months. That's for sure," Soblaskey said.

As far as the bridge getting stuck in an up position and having to be handcranked down, Soblaskey said that's happened several times during his tenure on the bridge.

Tom Coleman, an engineer from the Cadillac office of MDOT, was asked what would happen if there was some kind of major damage to the bridge.

"If it took out the entire span, we're in big trouble," he replied.

Coleman said that if there ever was major damage to the bridge MDOT would be working with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and anybody else who could help.

"We can do a lot in an emergency. You look at all the possibilities," he explained. Coleman said the most likely solution would be some type of portable bridge near the Coast Guard station.

Coleman said MDOT would just love to have a second permanent bridge as an alternative, but the big question is where? He noted that in 1986 a flood took out a bridge near White Cloud. He said the MDOT office gets real busy in a big hurry when something like that happens.

In the end, maybe there is no definite solution as to what would be the best course of action if the bridge became impassable.

As Soblaskey said after toying with the idea for a few minutes, "What's the use of worrying about something like that? It might not ever happen."

Local senior citizens have been enjoying a Thursday morning bowling league at Paul Bunyan Lanes. Last week Paul Bunyan Lanes donated $200 to the Senior Citizens Center building fund. The money was raised at a bowlers' charity tournament last winter. The charity tournament is coordinated with bowling alleys throughout the state with funds returned to participating communities.

Medical Care Auxiliary plans annual fall party

Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary will host its annual fall games party beginning at 1 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10 at the facility.

Auxiliary members are asked to furnish items for the bake sale as well as cookies for refreshments and small door prizes.

Members are also urged to fill a table for cards and to invite friends to come visit Grandvue for the afternoon.

Registration for the games party is $1 per person.

The auxiliary is also beginning its annual membership renewal program. Renewal dues may be mailed to Mary M. Geiken, Treasurer, 510 Meadow Lane, Charlevoix MI 49720.

Plan today for financial security tomorrow.

No matter how much you own, you owe it to yourself and your heirs to plan ahead now to build financial independence and security in your retirement years. A living trust can give you the flexibility and benefits you need to provide that security.

You're invited to join the trust and investment management professionals from Empire National Bank as we discuss the living trust and how it can reduce estate taxes and other costs. Speakers include James M. Meranda, Trust Division Vice President and Tax Attorney, and Charles S. McDowell, Trust Officer.

Garden Club suggests autumn composting

It's the thing to do when fall leaves your lawn a mess

Fall is here and it looks like we can expect another bumper crop of leaves. In these days of growing awareness of pollution problems, burning them is frowned upon, if not prohibited.

A solution for those who don't know what to do with all those leaves is a compost pile. There is no need to burn, pack them in bags, rake them to the roadside to blow ground, and best of all, the environment is helped by recycling part of the waste material.

A compost pile need not be a complicated affair, nor is it, when properly handled, in any way, obnoxious. A remote part of the yard, preferably in the shade, away from buildings will do very well. All you really need is some sort of enclosure, a snow-fence, boards, anything that will keep the leaves together, about 4 feet high. An area, about 4 by 6 feet will usually be sufficient for the average yard. This is all there is to it. Leaves can be piled up there and forgotten. To speed things up, a layer of soil now and then will not hurt, in four or five years the bottom layer will have turned into fertile garden soil, ready to enrich a vegetable plot, flower border, lawn, houseplants, etc.

Some gardeners feel that chemical additions are necessary. Generally they recommend fertilizers or lime. A good general fertilizer can do no harm, but adding lime could be dangerous if it is not the gardeners' lime or ground lime-stone, but the so-called builders' lime. This might set off a chemical reaction which could cause a fire.

Even though the first year's crop seems mountainous, the rain and frost will reduce it to a thin layer by next spring. Then other garden wastes can be added, such as grass clippings, weeds, any waste from the garden will be well taken care of in the compost pile and will enrich the mixture very nicely. But never add any branches thicker than your thumb; they take too long to decompose.

A vine, some shrubs or perennials in the right place will hide the compost pile and as long as compost is strictly confined to garden wastes, there will be no smell to speak of and no mice, rats, dogs, skunks, etc. will be attracted nor will irate neighbors come complaining.

Northern Michigan Hospital lays off 31 employees

Northern Michigan Hospital implemented a layoff Thursday which affected approximately 31 employees. In addition, another approximately 22 staff members were impacted through changes in scheduling, employment classification, or job responsibilities. The reductions were based on seniority in a job classification.

Due to changes such as reductions in contingency staff, the hospital's goal of reducing paid hours by 10 percent was achieved with fewer layoffs than originally anticipated.

The staff reduction was necessitated by shorter hospital stays, reductions in payments for services, the recession and the continued need to cut costs. Hospitals around the state and country are experiencing similar reductions.

"We naturally regret having to lay off any of our valued employees," NMH President Jeffrey Wendling stated Thursday. "Our goal was to reduce our overall paid hours by about 10 percent. Through the applied efforts of our managers we achieved that objective without having to lay off as many people as originally anticipated," Wendling said.

Obituaries Ilah L. Stevens

Ilah L. Stevens, 74, former Charlevoix resident, died Sept. 16, 1991, in Dansville, Mich.

Her funeral took place Thursday, Sept. 19, at the Oerline Runciman Williamston Chapel, Williamston. The Rev. Jeffrey Wright officiated with burial in East Lawn Memory Gardens, Lansing.

The former Ilah L. Whitney was born June 9, 1917, in Bath, Mich., the daughter of Louie and Irene Whitney.

She had been a resident of Charlevoix for 25 years and her husband, Lewis Stevens, preceded her in death. She was also preceded in death by an infant son, Lewis R. Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Zeke (Barbara) Eberly of Bois Blanc Island, Mrs. Burl (Beatrice) Eberly of Sunfield and Mrs. Larry (Karen) Bell of Dansville; 15 grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren; one sister, Christine Bowen of Williamston.

many nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to Hospice of Lansing or the American Cancer Society.

Delbert R. Terrill

Delbert R. Terrill Sr., 74, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 21, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be noon on Thursday, Sept. 26, at the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate and interment will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Terrill was born March 30, 1917, in Linesville, Pa., the son of Bradford A. and Jennie (Bullis) Terrill. He graduated from Linesville High School in 1936.

During World War II, he served in the U.S. Army as a staff sergeant from 1941-45. He was awarded the Purple Heart with cluster and the Bronze Star during his army service.

On Dec. 28, 1946, he married the former Eleanor Purola in Conneaut, Ohio.

Mr. Terrill received a bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University in 1948 and his master's degree in education from Wayne State in 1960.

He began his teaching profession at Traverse City schools in 1948. In 1950 he came to Charlevoix where he also coached football and basketball, remaining there until 1955 when he joined the Wilson Sporting Goods firm as a salesman. In 1958 he returned to teaching at Muskegon Reeths Puffer High School where he also coached basketball and baseball until 1962. At that time he returned to Charlevoix schools where he was a teacher, track coach and administrative assistant.

He was superintendent at Alanson public schools from 1970-77.

Mr. Terrill served on the Charlevoix City Council for three years and for 20 years he owned and operated Terrill's Charlevoix Play Camp, a day camp for children.

He was a high school sports official for 20 years and was a member of the Northern Michigan High School Referee's Association.

Of the 31 people impacted by the layoff, 21 are full-time and 10 are part-time.

During the first seven months of 1991, admissions at NMH dropped 2.1 percent compared to 1990. Patient days declined more than 4 percent and the average length of stay dropped to 6.7 days. These declines are in line with other health care institutions across the nation. According to the American Hospital Association's National Hospital Panel Survey, the average length of stay hit its lowest point for a first quarter in 17 years - 6.6 days. Admissions dropped sharply, down 3.1 percent from last year.

Lake levels stay below average

Precipitation over the Great Lakes Basin was below average in August. The 30-day outlook published by the National Weather Service projects moderate precipitation for the month of September.

The Great Lakes forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron, and Ontario are expected to remain below their long-term average levels during the next six months. St. Clair and Erie are projected to continue above their long-term average levels throughout the forecast period.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of August were at elevation 578.53 feet (176.34 meters) above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec, of 21 inches (53 cm.) above Chart Datum. This was about 3 inches (8 cm.) above what it was a year ago, and about 4 inches (10 cm.) below one month ago. The August monthly mean level of 578.68 feet (176.38 meters) was about 1 inch (3 cm.) below the long-term average for August. The lakes, however, remained about 33 inches (84 cm.) above their all-time low August monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1964.

The forecast shows that at the end of September, the level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 3 inches (8 cm.) below what it was at the end of August. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into February. The water level in February 1992 is expected to be about 5 inches (13 cm.) below the long-term average for that month, and about 3 inches (8 cm.) below what it was in 1991.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Have you ever noticed the difference your point of view can make on a subject? Listen to this modern day parable and think about where you might fit in.

One upon a time, a man fell into a pit and could not get himself out. A SUBJECTIVE person came along and said: "I feel for you, down there."

An OBJECTIVE person came along and said: "It's logical that someone would fall down there."

A PHARISEE said: "Only bad people fall into a pit."

A MATHEMATICIAN calculated how he fell into the pit.

A NEWS REPORTER wanted the exclusive story on his pit.

A FUNDAMENTALIST said: "You deserve your pit."

An I.R.S. man asked if he was paying taxes on his pit.

A SELF-PITYING person said: "you haven't seen anything until you have seen MY PIT!"

An OPTIMIST said: "Things could be worse."

A PESSIMIST said: "Things will get worse!"

JESUS, seeing the man, took him by the hand and LIFTED HIM OUT of the pit.

I wish I could take credit for that as being original. It came from a book called "Stick a Geranium in Your Hat and Be Happy" by Barbara Johnson.

Your point of view does make a difference in how you view life. It also helps in knowing how to respond to the circumstances that face you each day. It is easy to talk. The challenge and the joy comes from acting upon those moments that try our souls.

God is looking for more than a few folks who are willing to take people by the hand and lift them out of the pits they face. It doesn't always take a great or dramatic effort to help. Sometimes, it's the little acts of caring that make the difference. God is looking for more than a few folks who believe that there is always reason to have faith in His love and care.

The kind of day or week you have can be directly traced to the way you face it. Whether it is your own situation or something that does your love are contending with, don't sit back and bemoan your fate. Put your faith into action and believe that God will guide your each and every step.

If you want someone to be there for you when you are in a pit, be there for them. It's amazing how contagious the blessing of living out our faith can be.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is written for the Courier by members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

SEPTEMBER 1991

This is only a research experiment and nobody is in the van, but just think what would be going through your mind if you were the driver and going in for real.

...cars launched

launching the vehicles. The bridge, which looks more like a floating runway, will run parallel to the Coast Guard Dock, with cars being launched in the direction of Lake Charlevoix.

There will be three different types of launchings. One will be done by a 20-ton crane, which will pick up and drop the vehicles into the water with the vehicles both right-side up and upside down; a second launch will roll the vehicles off the ramp, and the third will have the vehicles run off the ramp under power at varying speeds of up to 40 miles per hour.

Vehicles making the plunge have had all engine blocks sealed and drained so that pollutants cannot enter the water. "Any vehicles that will be launched under their own power will have only the necessary, minimal amount of fluids in them, and these will be in sealed containers," stated Ewers. "We've worked together with the D.N.R., the Army Corps of Engineers, the Department of Fisheries, and the E.P.A. in an effort to make sure this will be environmentally safe. Our divers will comb the bottom of the lake to recover any car parts that may fall off during the testing," continued Ewers. "Believe me, we'll leave the bottom of this lake even cleaner than how we found it. Anything we find down there, we'll recover and remove it."

It is the intention of the Michigan State Police to man some of the vehicles that will be entering the water. However, unmanned cars will be launched first in order to determine the risk factor involved. "This is a progressive process," explained Sgt. Kurt Chubner, who is in charge of the self rescue and escape aspects of the study. "We absolutely will not take any unnecessary risks. The safety of our team is paramount."

If manned vehicles are launched, Chubner would probably be one of the first to man a vehicle. He would be equipped with compressed air, and a full mask with a built-in, two-way communications system. He would be able to communicate at all times with the other members of the team. "These men know me well enough to be able to detect any panic or changes in my voice," Chubner explained. "Jim (Sgt. Ewers) would know the correct procedures to calm me down through communication." Chubner went on to say:

"This may look like a scary, dangerous project, but actually the opposite is true. We've worked for months to minimize the risk."

While Ewers acknowledged that disorientation and subsequent panic would always play a part in any water-related accident, the State Police have no intentions of actually experiencing the real life aspects of panic. "That's just what we're trying to avoid," Ewers explained. "We don't want any of our divers in a panic situation." Chubner added, "We want to learn as much as we can about escaping and surviving submerged accidents, while stressing the importance of maintaining a healthy presence of mind."

The Michigan Police Department deemed this study of worldwide interest, and of significant importance in the state of Michigan when you take into consideration the fact that there are 8,746 bridges of at least 20 feet in length, spanning water, in the state. Between the years 1986 and 1990, there were 31 water-related traffic accidents resulting in fatalities in Michigan. Several of those accidents resulted in multiple fatalities.

The American Red Cross and the National Safety Council are very interested in the results of this study. The real value of this study will come when the findings can be disseminated to the general public. Just as fire safety and methods of escape for a home fire are repeatedly pressed into the public's mind, Ewers hopes that submerged vehicle safety will be presented to the public in a similar fashion.

A large crane was only one of many pieces of heavy equipment which rolled into town to assist with the car submersion research.

This school bus will go into the water later in the week. Several people were killed in Texas when a bus went into a river.

Crooked Tree schedules season's first concert

Franz Liszt was one of the most startling, brilliant, and spectacular personalities of the Romantic Era. In an age of geniuses, he stood out as a musical force.

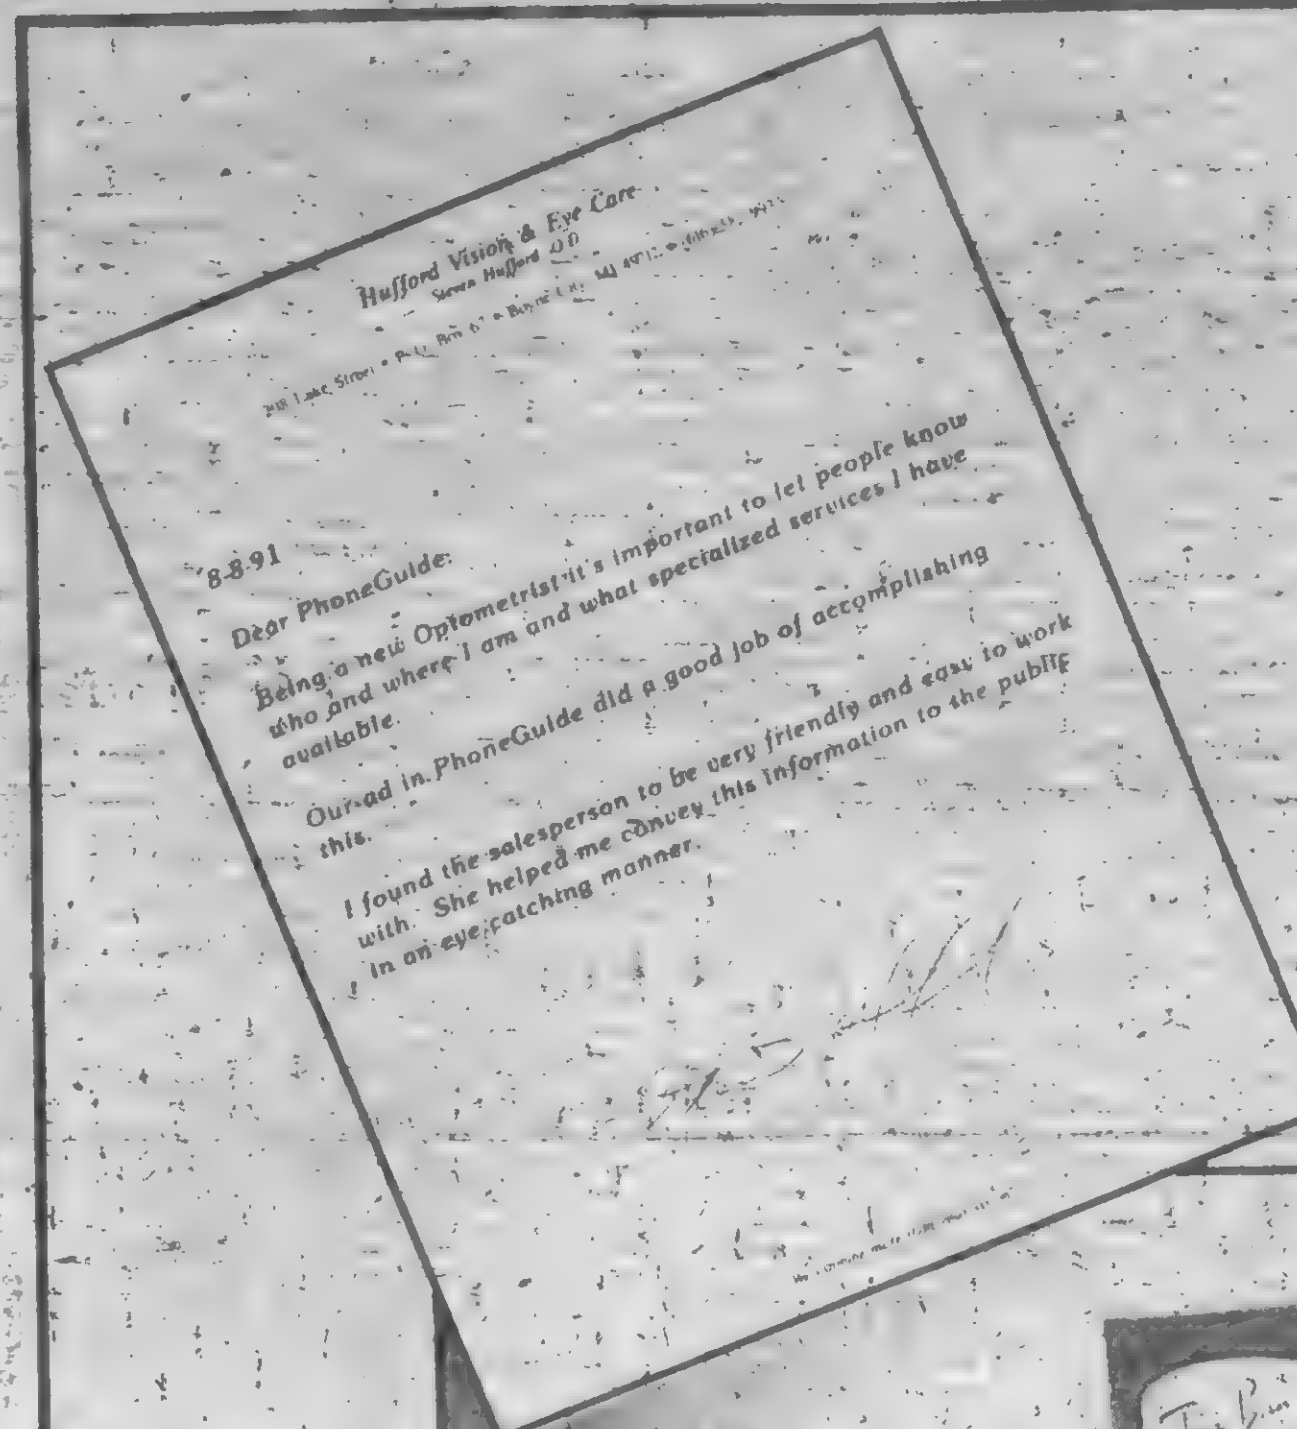

Robert Guralnik, pianist, who blazed new paths with his one-man Music-Drama, "Chopin Lives!" now brings Liszt to life with his new show, "Tonight: Franz Liszt," as the first program on the Crooked Tree Arts Council's 1991-1992 Concert Series to be performed at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey, Sunday, Sept. 29, at 4 p.m. in the afternoon. In this theatrical program, fully costumed and staged, and written by Guralnik, the many sides of this giant personality are explored - Gypsy with his many love affairs, his need to be a serious composer and prophet of the musical future, his desire to be a monk and lead a monastic life, and his support for young artists like Wagner. "Tonight: Franz Liszt" allows today's audiences to experience the man with all his nobility, pain, and humor through the virtuoso playing of Robert Guralnik.

General admission tickets for the Robert Guralnik concert are $10 and may be reserved by calling the CTCAC office. Upcoming programs will feature the Ann Arbor Dance Works on Sunday Nov. 10 at 4 p.m. in the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium. The dance company's repertoire bridges the styles in the tradition of Martha Graham, Jose Limon and other innovative dance stylists. The third concert of the season brings the Singing Boys of Pennsylvania to McCune Arts Center on Saturday evening, March 14, at 8 p.m. The Singing Boys are a group of 25 young artists, ages 10-14 performing selections sacred and secular, opera and musical theater and a rich assortment of American folk music. The Basic Series at $25 includes the three concerts and unreserved seating. Patron Series includes seats in reserved section, admittance to Afterglows with the concert artists for $40. The Family Series admits parents and all children with unreserved seating at $60.

Rayders defeat Harbor Springs

Fourth win matches last season's total

By L. Scott Swanson

Two minutes and 42 seconds into the game Charlevoix trailed Harbor Springs 9-2. But as things turned out, the Rayder varsity girls' basketball team had the Rams' right where they wanted them. Following a time out, the Rayders got their act together and ended up winning.

Coming out of the time out, the Rayders began passing the ball well. Gina Webster and Marianne Pfister beat the Rams upcourt and converted crisp passes into baskets. Webster had 10 of her game-high 25 points in the first quarter. Pfister got Charlevoix's other four points in the quarter.

At the end of the first quarter Charlevoix trailed 15-14, but they didn't stay on the short end of the score for long. Early in the second quarter the Rayders took the lead. Despite a scoring drought near the end of the quarter, Charlevoix led 25-22 at halftime. Pfister picked up another five points in the second quarter while Webster, Tammy Holm and Sheila Siegwart each scored a basket.

Although Charlevoix lacks a dominant center, the 1991 Rayders have a lot of different players who can give the team different things. That allows coach Toni Felter to juggle line ups to come up with whatever line up works best on a given night.

Against Harbor Springs Felter had the most success with a line up of Webster, Pfister, Holm, Siegwart and Liz Grunch. That line up fit the Rayders' needs against a Harbor Springs team which wasn't especially strong on the boards, but in the early going shot well from the perimeter. Webster and Pfister scored in the paint and held their own in rebounding. Holm and Siegwart provided aggressive perimeter defense and picked up any loose rebounds which got past the taller people. The Rams and other teams are finding the freshman Grunch to be a young headache who promised, to grow, worse with time. She has the size to contribute underneath the basket and the skills to handle the ball as a guard.

Those five players turned the tide for the Rayders in the first and second and early in the third quarter. At other times Josh Allison, Julie Gengle, Mary Jane Grunch, Mika Wilson, Cari Fershee and Kim Keller contributed. With the exception of Wilson who transferred from Central Lake, all of those players were on Charlevoix's varsity team last year as sophomores and went through a rough season winning only four games, but got floor time. This season, regardless of who happens to be on the floor on a given night, the Rayders are in the peculiar, but enviable, position of having a deep bench with veteran juniors.

Even when Felter cleared the bench at the end of the game, the Rams weren't able to do much to erode the Rayder lead.

The win left the Rayders with a season record of 4-2 and a conference record of 2-1.

The junior varsity team also beat Harbor Springs. Following a Tuesday night game against Elk Rapids, Charlevoix will travel to Manistota Thursday, Sept. 26.

Julie Gengle, (44) protects the ball with her right arm while gaining control with her left hand. Charlevoix overcame a 9-2 first quarter deficit to beat Harbor Springs last Thursday.

Charlevoix's varsity football team beat Harbor Springs by a score of 0-0 Friday night. The game was cancelled Thursday at Harbor Springs' request.

During Thursday's practice, Harbor Springs lost their last quarterback when he broke his leg. Earlier in the week, the backup quarterback had left the team for personal reasons. The loss of the starting quarterback left the Harbor Springs varsity team with only 13 players.

Harbor Springs quarterback was injured at about 4 p.m. and Harbor Springs school officials contacted Charlevoix about half an hour later. Charlevoix athletic director Dick Swenor contacted the Michigan High School Athletic Association in hopes of finding a team to fill in at the last minute, but nothing could be arranged.

The cancellation will not count as a forfeit and could hurt the Rayders' playoff chances later in the season. Three weeks into the season Charlevoix is undefeated having beaten Lake City and East Jordan prior to the Harbor Springs cancellation. In Monday's Detroit Free Press, the Rayders were ranked ninth in Class CG and their record was listed as 3-0.

This week Charlevoix begins the tougher portion of its schedule at Elk Rapids.

Cross Country team wins Petoskey Invitational

Charlevoix's boys' cross-country team won both the freshman-sophomore and the junior-senior Class C & D races at the Petoskey Invitational meet Saturday.

The girls' team placed fourth in the junior-senior race. Due to lacking enough runners to compete in both races some of the Rayder girls competing in the junior-senior race were underclassmen.

In the boys junior-senior race, Charlevoix took first with 56 points followed by Suttons Bay with 69 points and Fairview with 78. Mike Sevinski was the top Rayder finisher, placing third overall with a time of 17:09. Matt Smith finished fourth with a time of 17:23.

The girls' team finished behind Kingsley, Benzie Central and Elk Rapids. Charlevoix totalled 97 points. Kingsley won the race with 62. Elsa Conlan was the top Rayder finisher, placing sixth with a time of 22:35. Sophomore Trina Holm was the second Rayder across the line, placing 14th with a time of 23:36.

Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times in the girls junior-senior race were: 24-Melissa Cox, 24:53; 25-Melissa Eaton, 24:59; 28-Erin Wright, 25:28; 30-Anne Scharbaum, 26:20.

This Thursday Charlevoix will compete in the East Jordan Invitational.

Golfers fare well

Charlevoix's golf team had the best showing of any area team as they placed second in the Class C-D division at the Alpena Invitational Saturday. Fairview took first place with a score of 359 four strokes ahead of the Rayders.

Dan Boss of Charlevoix not only led his team, but led all of the Class C-D players with an 18-hole score of 82. Rounding out the Rayder scores were Jeff Joy 88, Wayne Joy 91 and Travis Blissett with a 102.

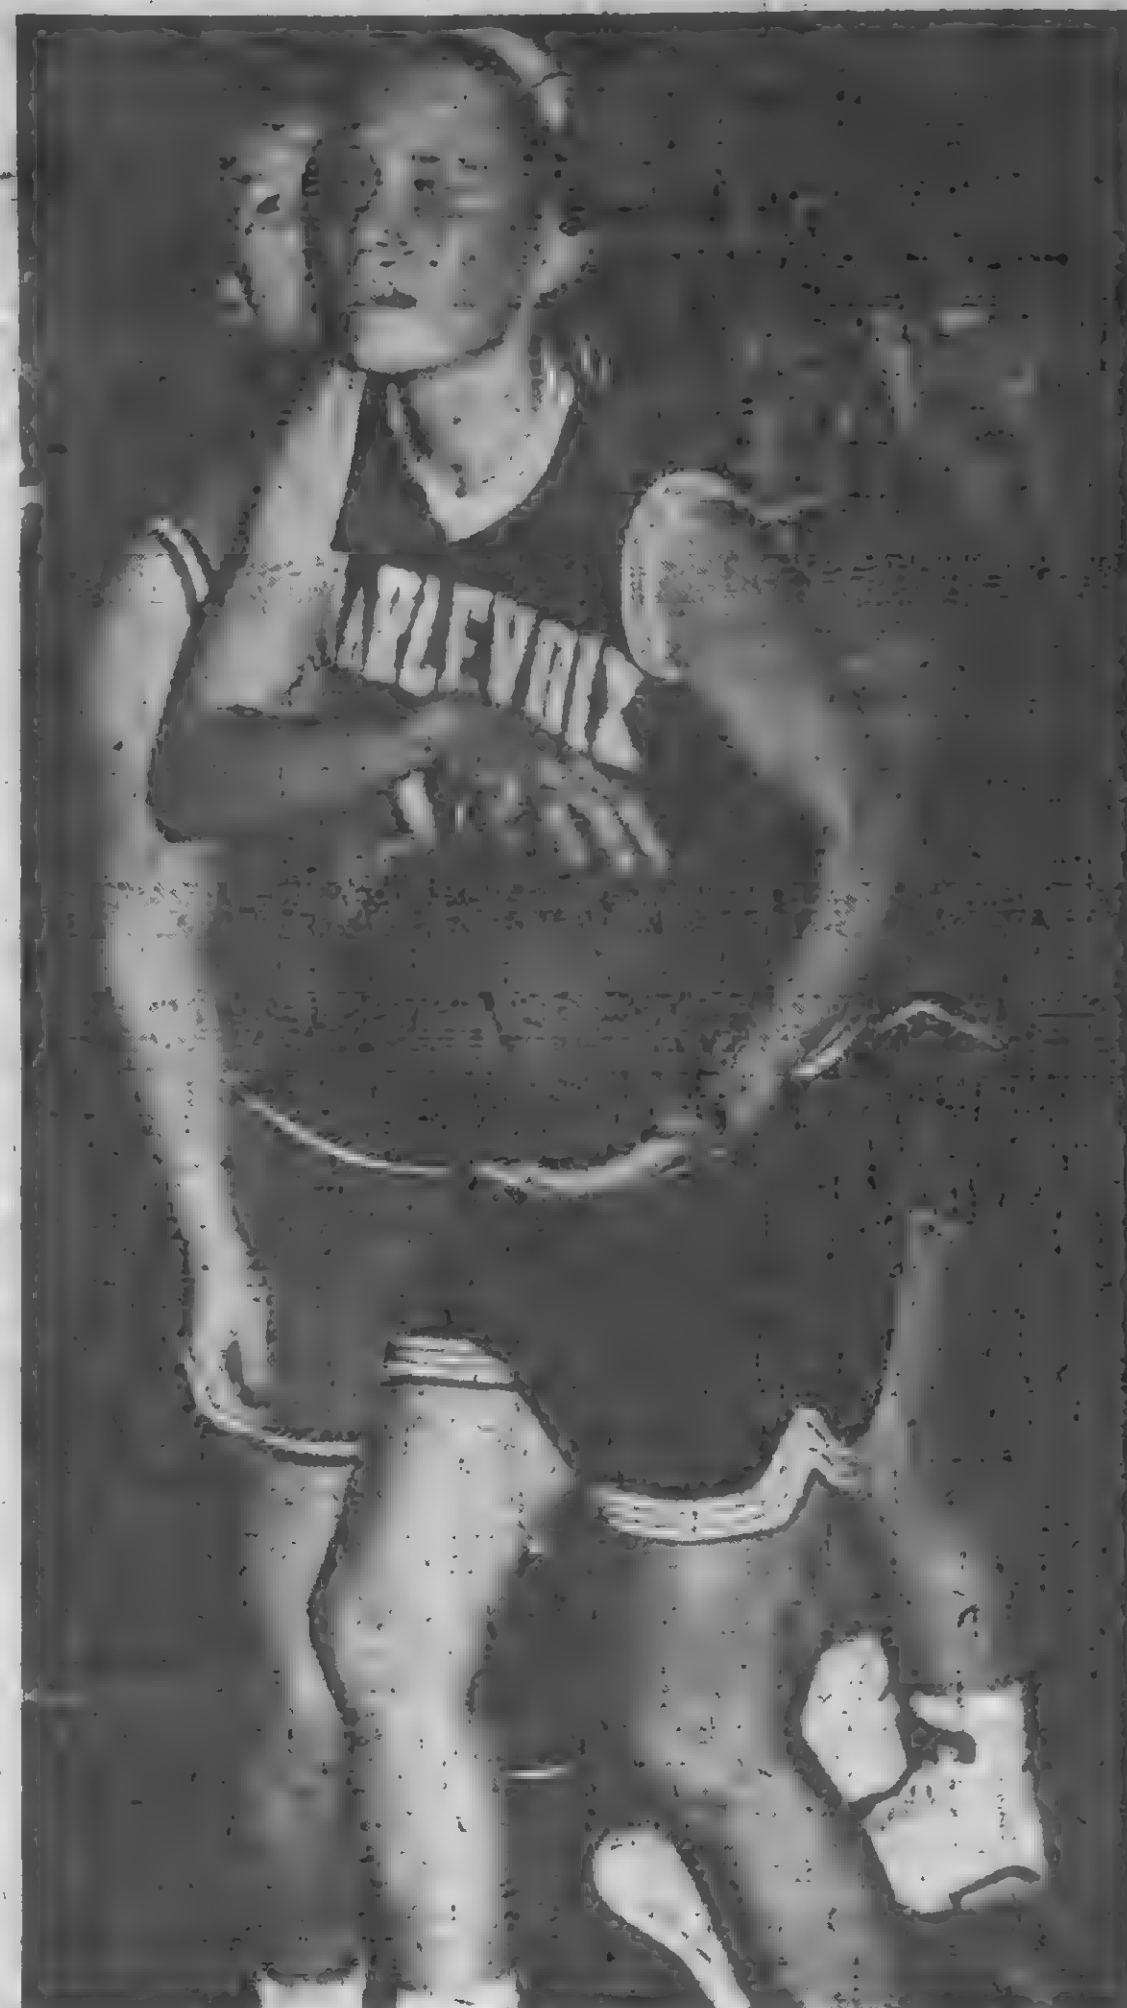

Soccer team loses 5-4

After trailing 2-0 and later leading 4-3, Charlevoix ended up losing 5-4 at Sault Ste. Marie Saturday. The Rayders lost despite three goals by senior forward Sam Bingham.

Seth Arnold had Charlevoix's other goal. Midfielder Mike Dobulis had two assists for Charlevoix while Scott Boyer had one assist.

Jodi Allison (52) attempts to gather in a rebound which was right on the end of her fingertips.

Gina Webster looks to the referee to find out what the call is late in the game Thursday. Webster scored 25 points, 10 of them in the first quarter.

Speaker will tell how to save energy

On Oct. 9 and 10, 1991, Wes Birdsall, General Manager of Osage Municipal Utilities will present simple and successful ways of reducing energy usage.

Since 1974 Birdsall and his staff have reduced Osage, Iowa utility bills by nearly 40 percent. They have also reduced the annual growth in electricity demand from 7.5 to 3 percent. Birdsall is saving $1.2 million a year that's three hundred dollars a year for each of Osage's four thousand inhabitants.

The Osage energy plan has been studied worldwide. Birdsall has appeared on the NBC news and ABC "Good Morning America." Articles have been in "Time" magazine and "The Wall Street Journal."

Two presentations are scheduled for the Charlevoix area: Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, 1991 at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School study hall and Thursday morning at 7:30 a.m. at the Charlevoix Congregational Church (located on the corner of State and Park). Coffee and rolls will be served at the morning meeting. Please R.S.V.P. for the morning meeting at 547-2677. This will ensure enough food for those attending.

Birdsall is being sponsored by the Zonta Club of Charlevoix, WATCH and other concerned citizens of Charlevoix and Petoskey.

Scenes like this on Lake Michigan remove any doubts that summer is gone and fall has arrived. Although the weather has generally been brisk in recent weeks, with any luck Charlevoix should get at least a few more days of warm weather prior to the onset of winter. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury.)

Steelers and Packers win

The Steelers and Packers picked up wins in Flag Football games Monday evening.

The Steelers beat the Bills 36-19.

For the Steelers Marke Boss threw five touchdown passes, three to Jason Smith of 14, 30 and 25 yards, one to Ryan Thompson of five yards and one to Jason Firman of 18 yards. Boss also scored on a one-yard run. For the Bills, Ryan Pittman threw touchdown passes of 17 and 11 yards to Todd Carpenters. Mark Jacobs had a 26-yard scoring run and Pittman added a conversion.

The Packers beat the Raiders 27-9.

For the Packers, Casey Crain threw touchdown passes to Josh Miller of seven and 26 yards. Rory McKown threw scoring passes to Crain for 14 yards and to Josh Wilcenski for 22 yards. Crain also ran in three conversions. For the Raiders, Gary Leitner had a 12-yard scoring run. Jason Terberry scored a point-after-touchdown and Zach Kehrler scored on a safety.

City considers DDA purchase of Kusina property

By L. Scott Swanson

At the direction of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) board, the city is considering purchasing the former Kusina Motors property.

City manager Mike Wiesner said that he along with mayor Dave Novotny and DDA board president Hugh Mason have had some discussions with the property owner. For approximately the past three months the property has been listed with Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors with an asking price of $450,000. According to County Equalization figures, the property is being taxed on a market value of $408,200.

The property which formerly was the site of a car dealership consists of three contiguous lots between Antrim and Mason Streets. Wiesner said the city would probably use at least a portion of the property as the site of a new parking lot. He added that as of this time it hasn't been determined just exactly how much of the area would be used for parking.

Money for purchasing the property and developing a parking lot would come from DDA funds. The DDA was formed in 1982 and derives its money from city property taxes via tax increment financing. Tax increment financing is a means of earmarking certain funds which otherwise would go into the general tax revenue pool for DDA projects. (For an additional explanation of tax increment financing, see the accompanying story on page 17.)

DDA money funded construction of a parking lot off of Clinton Street and has also funded replacement of Bridge Street sidewalks and various other projects. A DDA project plan list from 1989 includes a proposal to acquire the Kusina Motors building and construct a parking lot for an estimated total cost of $600,000.

The city's DDA board is considering purchasing the Kusina Motors property to create additional downtown parking.

Yes, you too can understand DDA financing

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) derives its funds through local property tax revenue set aside for DDA projects through tax increment financing.

Although the term "tax increment financing" might sound a bit complicated to the average taxpayer, it's really not all that difficult to get a handle on. To understand tax increment financing, a taxpayer needs to understand a few basic principals of property taxes and some simple property tax terms. The following explanation highlights those principals and terms.

Property taxes are based on property value, i.e. what a piece of property and the building sitting on it are worth.

Market value is the price a property owner could expect to receive if he sold the property. Assessed value or State Equalized Value (SEV) is the value used for calculating taxes on a piece of property.

In Michigan SEV is one-half of market value.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's SEV. To calculate what each additional mill adds to a person's tax bill you can multiply a property's SEV by .001.

As property values increase so do taxes. A property's market value and SEV will normally increase due to inflation. Even if millage levies remain the same, taxes will normally increase due to an increase in SEV.

In 1982, the Charlevoix City Council established a Downtown Development Authority (DDA). The DDA area encompasses the downtown business district from Dixon Avenue to Huribut Street. DDA projects are funded by tax increment financing.

Tax increment financing as it relates to Charlevoix's DDA dictates that property tax revenue derived due to increased SEV in the DDA area since 1982 is not put into the general tax revenue pot, but is set aside for DDA projects.

Just as an example, and using small hypothetical numbers to make the concept easier to understand, say a taxpayer in the DDA district paid $100 in property taxes in 1983. That $100 would be divided among the city, school district, county and intermediate school district. Due to an increase in SEV, that same taxpayer might pay $105 in 1984. As in 1983, $100 would be divided among the city, school district, county and intermediate school district. The other $5 would go to the DDA. In subsequent years, as increased SEV led to taxes of $107, $110 and $120 the same $100 would be disbursed among the taxing bodies while $7, $10 and $20 would go to the DDA.

There are some wrinkles in Charlevoix's version of tax increment financing which modify the above scenario to some degree.

Since tax revenues diverted to the DDA are going to be of the most direct benefit to property owners within the DDA district, property owners within that district pay an additional millage to the DDA. In 1990, that millage figure was 1.4822 mills.

Over the years since the DDA was initiated school officials have repeatedly complained that the DDA diverts tax revenue away from the school system. About 53 percent of property taxes paid by most taxpayers in the city of Charlevoix goes to the local school system. (For Charlevoix Township taxpayers, that percentage figure is higher. It's about 72 percent.) Go back to the example of the $100 property tax bill increasing to $105. Were it not for the DDA and tax increment financing, the school system would receive about $2.75 of that $5. Prior to a 1989 agreement between the city, the school system and the county, the school system didn't receive any of that $5.

In the 1989 agreement, the city agreed to refund 25 percent of the captured tax revenue to the school system. That refund began in 1990 when the school received a refund of approximately $81,000. The county received a refund of about $6,300. Prior to the agreement, the DDA was receiving additional money due to a 1988 county millage proposal which was passed to benefit the Grandview Medical Care Facility.

The DDA and the tax increment financing plan which funds it are scheduled to end in 1998. Between now and then DDA revenue is likely to exceed $2.3 million.

LEGAL NOTICE

EVELINE TOWNSHIP
Synopsis of Regular Meeting
Eveline Township 9/10/91
Meeting was held at the twp. hall at 7:00 p.m. All board members were present.
August minutes were approved.
Issues from the audience were heard.
A decision to name Sweetbriar Lane and to eliminate First, Third and Pine Streets was made.
The board wished to be excluded from Antrim County's 9-1-1 System and will send notice of that to Antrim and Charlevoix Counties.
East Jordan Fire and Ambulance
Contracts were renewed and payment of $21,069.97 was approved.

Total bills (including the above) were approved for payment $35,887.75.
Treasurer's and Zoning
Administrator's reports were given.
A special use permit was granted

Obituaries

After retirement, Mr. and Mrs. Terrill spent their summers in Charlevoix and winters in Nokomis, Fla. Mr. Terrill had worked for the past seven years as Charlevoix dock master.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix; a member of the Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F.&A.M.; Retired Teachers Association and the American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226.

Mr. Terrill is survived by his wife Eleanor P.; one daughter, Cathie E. Terrill of Traverse City; one son, Delbert R. (Chip) Terrill Jr. and his wife Cathy of Vienna, Va.; three grandchildren, Dax, Ashley and Lauren; a sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Elma and Robert Jess of Cleveland, Ohio and an uncle, Paul Sihto.

He was preceded in death by a son, Charlie in 1988.

The family suggests memorials to the Del Terrill Scholarship Fund or to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for those purposes are available to the Winchester Funeral Home where friends may call 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

James W. Gallagher

James W. Gallagher, 82, of Charlevoix died Sept. 12, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Funeral mass was held Saturday, Sept. 14, at St. Mary's Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James Gardiner officiated and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Gallagher was born Nov. 12, 1908, on Beaver Island, the son of James H. and Katherine (Allers) Gallagher.

He graduated from McKinley School on Beaver Island in 1926 and then married the former Teresa Boyle on Oct. 25, 1933, in Chicago, Ill. They had made their home in Charlevoix since 1959.

Mr. Gallagher was a member of St. Mary's Church and a member of the Third Order of St. Francis.

Survivors include his wife, Teresa Boyle Gallagher; two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Teresa Janet) O'Donnell and Mrs. Glen (Eleanor Mary) McDough, both of Wyoming, MI; one son Brian J. Gallagher and his wife Delores of Wyoming, MI; nine grandchildren; three brothers, Earl and Leo of Chicago, IL and Norbert of Rochester, Ind.; three sisters, Mrs. Giles (Dorothy) McCann of Jackson, Mrs. Bob (Edith) Burhans of Lawton and Mrs. Jack (Mae) Coppens of Charlevoix.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Margaret McCann and two brothers, Billy and Monsignor Victor P. Gallagher.

The family suggests memorials to St. Mary's Catholic School. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home. A rosary was held Friday, Sept. 13 at the funeral home.

The secret to dealing with leaves is to not let them get ahead of you

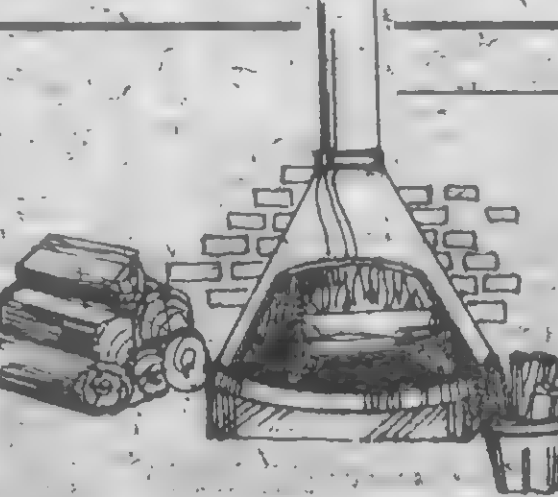

Emily Heck got an early start on raking leaves this past week. Although the majority of leaves remain on the trees, some have already fallen. Heck is apparently using the early fallers to set an example and to let the leaves still on the trees know what is in store for them.

Band members selling cheese

The Charlevoix Middle School band members have launched their annual "cheese and sausage sale" this week through Monday, Sept. 30.

If you've not been contacted by a band member and are interested in purchasing some "goodies" contact any band-booster or band director, Terry Isenbarger, at the Charlevoix High School.

VFW makes early Christmas contribution

It's only 91 days until Christmas. And the Charlevoix VFW Post 1153 Bingo Committee is really thinking ahead. On Sept. 13 they presented the Community Christmas Project with a check for $1,500 to be used toward Christmas dinners, staples, mittens, toys and gifts for people who need to be remembered.

"Last year the Christmas Project furnished dinners for 150 households, which covered over 400 people. We feel fortunate to live in a community which gives this project such fine support," said Mary Helen Riggie, a coordinator of the local program.

City Planning Commission may through negotiations with the owner of such property, vary the location of such required off-street parking spaces or agree to the owner's participation in other authorized off-street parking facilities which will furnish the same number of spaces as required for his floor area, by deleting the following from the third paragraph, to-wit: "including uses of residential units unsuited for occupancy and vacant at the date of this amendment," by deleting parking requirements shall be in addition to parking required for the principal commercial use on said property," and by adding the wording which is underlined below such that Section 5.21(8) shall read as follows:

- (8) Whenever a use or an activity requiring off-street parking is created or increased in floor area, intensity of activity or number of boat berthing slips by structural alteration, or new construction, the number of off-street parking spaces shall be provided and maintained as required in this chapter for such new construction or change.
- Changes in use or new uses of existing buildings or floor area shall require parking in accord with this chapter; provided however, in the Central Business District the requirement for additional parking due to a legal commercial use change shall be waived.

The new creation of commercial or accessory residential floor space or uses in the Central Business District shall require the provision for parking in accord with this chapter; provided that the Planning Commission and City Council may approve a development plan as required by Section 5.188, as amended, if the property owner pays on a one-time basis to the City of Charlevoix Central Business District Parking Improvement Fund, the sum of $3,000.00 adjusted on an annual basis in accord with the Consumer Price Index, based on the base year 1991 for each parking place which can not be provided on site. Such funds shall be used to benefit the provision of public parking in the Central Business District. Parking spaces thus provided for shall be unreserved and as generally available to the public.

Existing parking spaces provided on site shall be assigned to existing uses and may not be assigned to newly created floor space or uses, unless sufficient parking spaces are provided on site to meet requirements of existing floor space and/or uses. Nothing herein shall preclude a property owner within that area mapped in Section 5.212(12) from building to the limits of their property as allowed by this chapter provided they contribute to the parking fund to replace existing parking spaces lost as well as meet the required number of parking spaces required for new construction in accord with Section 5.214(7).

State plan to cost school thousands

Plan will divert local property taxes to other school districts

By L. Scott Swanson

Some property taxes from the Charlevoix school district will be distributed to other school districts if Governor John Engler signs a bill which recently passed the state house and senate.

State senator George McManus, R-Traverse City, whose district encompasses Charlevoix, has deemed the legislation "an act of piracy" and questions whether it is constitutional. State representative Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon, also opposed and voted against the legislation.

The legislation, which legislators have titled the Michigan Tax Base Sharing Bill (TBS), would take up to half of the revenue a school district such as Charlevoix derives from an increase in the value of commercial and industrial property and give that revenue to other school systems.

"I just can't believe it's constitutional," McManus said. He explained that he doesn't believe it's legal for the state to take tax dollars, which local voters voted to have spent on their local system, away from that district's voters so they can be spent somewhere else.

McManus said proponents of the bill are "hanging their hat on" a Michigan Supreme Court decision which allowed a tax increment financing authority to benefit from millage voted for another purpose. McManus said he believes the TBS proposal is a different issue and he wouldn't be surprised to see it challenged in court.

(In regard to the court case McManus referred to, Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which is based on tax increment financing, faced a similar challenge, although not in court. After the DDA was in place, county voters passed an additional millage to operate the Grandvue Medical Care Facility. Due to the additional millage for Grandvue, the DDA also initially received more money. Following negotiations between the city and county, the additional money from the Grandvue millage is now being refunded from the DDA to the county for Grandvue.)

School business manager Rich Kelly explained that one aspect of the TBS bill which particularly bothers him is that it effectively changes the rules in the middle of the game in regard to prior agreements on industrial tax rebates and tax increment financing authorities.

As an example of Kelly's point, in the past the Charlevoix school system agreed to an industrial tax abatement with the Medusa Cement plant. In other words, in order to encourage the industry (in this case Medusa) to add to their facility (thereby creating jobs and adding to the tax base) the school system agreed to forego a portion of taxes on the facility improvements for a certain number of years.

When the agreement was made it was with the understanding between the school system and the industry that when the tax abatement ended, the school district would begin receiving tax revenues derived from the higher property value brought about by plant improvements. The understanding between the school system and the industry hasn't changed, but if the TBS is signed into law by Engler the school will not receive all of the revenue brought about by the plant improvements.

An aide to McManus said that as he understands the proposal up to 25 percent of the revenue from the abated property value could be taken.

Runners train individually as a group

By L. Scott Swanson

Don't let the "Team Charlevoix" shirts fool you, the Charlevoix runner's group is not a well-organized group. And they're proud of it.

The runners group is composed of several local runners who get together once or twice a week to train together. The group began running together approximately a year ago.

Vickie Vosin explains how the group was formed. "Two or three of us were running together anyway and we decided to call everybody (in town) who ran."

As a result of those phone calls a ...state to take school tax funds

by the state. That also applies to revenue the school would receive when the city's DDA and Tax Incremental Financing Authority (TIFA) come to an end.

The Medusa abatement ends with the 1993-94 school year. The TIFA ends this year and the DDA is scheduled in 1998. Given present property values and without factoring in inflation, the TBS could mean a loss in excess of $200,000 per year to the Charlevoix school system just for those three areas. (Although the TBS bill only covers industrial and commercial property, the majority of property in the TIFA (near Ferry Beach) and DDA (downtown business district) areas is either commercial or industrial.)

School districts which will lose money through the TBS bill are school districts which are "out of formula" and have more than 500 students. The state education formula is a formula used by the state legislature to determine a tax base per pupil figure. If a school system has a tax base per pupil above that figure, then the district is "out of formula." If the school district has a tax base per pupil below the formula figure, the district is "in formula" and the state will give the school district enough money to bring it up to the formula figure.

The formula is based on property value and the number of students in a school district. It does not consider tax payer income levels or economies of scale in providing education.

McManus said that in his senate district the school systems which will lose from the TBS plan include Charlevoix, Traverse City, Boyne City, Elk Rapids, Harbor Springs and Gaylord. Those school districts have a total of more than 21,000.

McManus said that approximately 18,000 students in other school districts within his senate district will benefit from the TBS plan.

Another 2,000 students in the senate district attend schools with fewer than 500 students. The effect on those students remains to be seen.

Part of the loss to out of formula districts will be offset by a provision in the plan which will eliminate the recapture of state aid. In recapture the state takes back a portion of the money it gives to a local school system.

For the Charlevoix school system, recapture (a program which began in the early 1980s) has never meant too much because the state hasn't given the school much money in the first place. For the 1991-92 school year, the school was to receive state aid of $101,800 and have $103,700 recaptured. (In other words Charlevoix would receive no state aid money.)

However the state traditionally has paid the school's employee match for social security. In recent years the state changed that program so that rather than the state paying for school employee social security, the school system paid the bill and then was reimbursed by the state. Last year the state again changed the program so that social security payments were also subject to recapture. With that provision, last year the state did not reimburse the school for $45,982 of social security costs. The total social security bill for the school system exceeds $300,000.

The provision in the TBS bill will phase out recapture, however it also stipulates that the state will not pay social security costs for school employees earning more than $50,000 annually.

Kelly said that as he understands the TBS proposal, TBS funds will be collected and distributed by two intermediate school districts, one based in Oakland County and the other based in Wayne County. The Charlevoix school district will collect funds based on all of the school district property value and then will receive a bill in mid-December for the TBS plan.

McManus said he understands the need to help underfunded school districts.

"We do need to work on the problem and I do think there are inequities. But I don't think this is the way to do it," he said.

"Even though it's a good cause just can't see doing it this way," he said, adding that for northern Michigan, TBS is basically taking $50 away from one kid to give another one $20. He said he could not support the TBS plan because he feels it is inequitable and raises constitutional questions.

group of runners began meeting on Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings at the high school. Following the Saturday morning runs the runners usually have breakfast together at Julliet's Restaurant.

Distance running is by nature an individual race. For many runners, running is a means of getting away from people and the pressures of daily life.

So why run together as a group?

"You do it (running) because you like to be by yourself," says Carol Paxon. "But sometimes you like to have someone else to push you along."

Helén Donahue says she enjoys the camaraderie and adds, "It's nice to support each other when you do go to the races."

The group has a solid core of seven or eight people and several other people who run with them off and on. Six members of the group are training for a Nov. 11 marathon in Columbus, Ohio. They are Paul Gelderblom, Voisin, Donahue, Chris Vogelheim, Tom Harbaugh, Ed Rafacz and Gary Shaefer. Another runner from the group, Mark Muniak, will be running in the Chicago marathon. Several of the runners have participated in the Boston Marathon and at least five - Shaefer, Gelderblom, Voisin, Donahue and Paxon - are considering running in the next Boston Marathon.

Although several of the members are marathon veterans who put in many miles each week, they welcome beginning runners who have more miles ahead of them than behind them.

"It would be nice to have a regular group with all ages," Donahue said. Most of the runners currently running with the group are in their 30s and 40s.

"We really have all different speeds and goals," Voisin noted.

Even on days when the group runs together, many of the runners end up running different distances at different paces. It's not uncommon for some of the runners to run a few miles alone before or after running with the group. It's also not uncommon for the runners to start a run together and then branch off onto different routes and then meet later to go to breakfast.

In addition to running a marathon or two, most of the runners also run in some shorter races during the year. Charlevoix's Drenth Memorial race during Venetian Weekend is one of the many races in northern Michigan.

After experiencing a decline in popularity for a few years, running may now be back on the upswing.

"I don't see any drop in numbers," Voisin said of recent races she's completed in. "I think it's increasing." She noted that she has run in some races where she was one runner among thousands of runners.

Although running takes time, both Donahue and Voisin maintain that the time can be found if you look for it. Both have jobs and from years of practice turn their heads when somebody hollers "Mom." Yet they find time to run.

Donahue said she's fortunate to have an employer who allows her the flexibility in hours to come into work early and leave early to run.

"You pretty much run whenever you can," Voisin said. She said that last year she used to get in her miles by running to her son's basketball game, and then running home after the game was finished.

Despite the dedication required to train for marathons, Voisin said to her running is basically all in good fun.

"We're really playing," she said.

But on a serious note, she said she is proud of something the running group represents.

"One thing we're interested in is setting a lifestyle example. You can be physically fit all your life."

The running group meets at 6 p.m. Wednesdays and at 9:30 a.m. Saturdays at the back of the high school. New runners are welcome to join them. There's plenty of good clean northern Michigan air available for all who care to huff and puff.

There's something lovely in store for Flint.

I know this because Ruth Mott gave me a personally conducted tour of her twenty-five acre estate called "Applewood." This is located in the heart of Flint, adjacent to the Cultural Center and Mott Community College, which were formerly a part of sixty-five acres of "Applewood."

The three hour tour by a woman who is celebrating her 90th birthday in October was enlightening for several reasons.

First, her plans are to have this private home become a public museum in time, and the exquisite gardens will be the setting for special events, such as guided tours, weddings and parties. She's also seen to it that the project will be fully endowed to cover upkeep and maintenance.

This goal has been the motivation for her enthusiastic desire to put the house and gardens in mint condition now.

Too often, when people approach four score years and ten, they tend to let things get run down. Not Ruth Mott.

We toured the park-like estate in a golf cart, cruising along winding paths, through trolleys, past a rose garden and giant sugar maples. We sat on teak benches admiring the long vistas, past a running fountain and ending at a brick tea house.

Mrs. Mott pointed to numerous crab apple trees that had been planted in remembrance of the late C.S. Mott's 100th birthday. Each tree was appropriately marked with the grandchild's name and the date the tree was planted, a custom that is being continued.

We stopped to admire the latest asset on the grounds, a "demonstration" garden. The purpose here is to demonstrate the use of plant materials and the many ways one may edge a flower or vegetable bed, either with wood trim, stones, or brick and also to show a variety of surfaces used on paths between the beds, such as cement, slate, rocks and brick etc.

A thought of my own "demonstration" garden in Charlevoix, which demonstrates what a garden looks like when it suffers from benign neglect.

As we toured two large greenhouses filled with plants, Ruth Mott called out every flowering specimen's name. She pointed to the cutting garden stocked with zinnias, delphinium, and phlox etc. all used in dramatic flower arrangements throughout the house.

We strolled through the barns where cows (each named after the girls in the family) used to be milked and where horses were stabled. Mrs. Mott pointed to the pigeon roost under the eaves.

"What did you used to do with the pigeons," I asked. "Laughingly Ruth Mott replied 'We didn't eat them and we didn't send any messages either!'"

What a lady! She is on top of everything pertaining to her pet project and there's a lot to be on top of here. In the summer, for example, there are fourteen college students, alone, caring for the pristine lawns and gardens.

The story-telling tour was enlightening, but more impressive as Ruth Mott's joy in tackling this enormous give-away project.

Perhaps she derives her inspiration and positive attitude from a small sign noticed hanging on the wall in one of her private rooms.

It's a quote from Martin Luther that says, "If I knew the world would end tomorrow, I would plant an apple tree today."

Most of us may not have the opportunity to undertake a venture the size of Ruth Mott's but each of us has the freedom to choose an individual project, no matter how tiny, that will add joy to our lives, that will leave our mark where it counts.

Charlevoix taxpayers should be incensed by a state proposal to take local property tax dollars away from local students. (See story page 1.)

The proposal, known as the Senate Tax Base Sharing plan or the Robin Hood bill, is expected to be signed soon by Governor John Engler.

For Charlevoix taxpayers, the bill isn't Robin Hood, it's Robbin' Us. Recent history indicates that Charlevoix taxpayers shouldn't expect any favors from Lansing. Even before the Robbin' Us bill Charlevoix school district taxpayers were paying property taxes to educate their own children and sales taxes which the state uses to educate students elsewhere in the state.

Now, state legislators and Governor Engler don't appear to be happy just taking our sales tax dollars out of the area. They want our property tax dollars to boot.

Former governor James Blanchard supported a proposal that would have raised the state sales tax from four to six cents. Given that Charlevoix taxpayers can't get even a penny back from four cents shipped to Lansing, why would we want to up the sales tax to six cents? Fortunately voters got a chance to vote on the sales tax proposal and it was turned down.

Enter the new governor, John Engler. He ran on a platform of property tax relief and less government intrusion. He sat in the Courier office one morning and talked about his sensitivity to taxpayers from non urban areas. He got elected. And what's he doing? Instead of raising the sales tax, he supports a proposal which is just as bad if not worse. It's a proposal which will allow the state to intrude upon, and usurp, local property tax revenues for the first time and take property tax dollars away from local students. If that's Mr. Engler's version of sensitivity to local taxpayers, it certainly leaves something to be desired.

To their credit, state representative Ralph Ostling and state senator George McManus opposed the Robbin' Us bill. McManus said he feels the bill may be unconstitutional in that it allows the state to take tax dollars which local voters approved having spent on the local school system away from the local school system.

If, as expected, Mr. Engler signs the Robin Hood bill, he shouldn't be surprised on his next campaign trip to Charlevoix to encounter taxpayers who don't exactly fit the description of merry men.

Former mayor supports DDA

Editor,

Congratulations on your effort to help others to understand DDA financing. Tax Increment Financing was an important step in Council's vision of planning our City's future. What change would have taken place in TIF areas without funding for the public works which is now taking place? "Would the valuation increases have occurred anyway?" This is like the old question which came first - the chicken or the egg?

In 1982 a new charter had just been implemented directing a strong council-manager government, and making mandatory a Planning Commission. Instead of just taking care of the here and now, City government got some encouragement in visionary strategy. Council concurred they wanted to plan to guide the future city growth. As one Councilperson put it "seems like we are going in different directions."

They were concerned with the future of the downtown. While some moved out for more room, others just closed out their businesses in the downtown area. What should be done? What could be done? How? People were available to shed much light on this situation - after all this had happened to the downtown of many cities. Many were stagnant or dead.

2. Council considered a vibrant central business district essential to the well-being of the community.

3. They also needed to make significant progress on sewer separation, streets, water clean-up, and many other problems in the City as a whole. Many found they desired more professionalism and skills in City's staff than they possessed themselves. There was a change in attitude and the "teamwork" was expanded to DDA, EPA, Infrastructure Committee and many others. It was Council's City, and they did something about it.

To encourage development along sound planning guidelines, both in the Central Business District and the rest of the City many community things would need to be done. Hence the infrastructure program was initiated. Work on utilities, streets, sidewalks, lighting, parking, etc. would have to be coordinated, encouraging not only new but improved development throughout the City.

With the appointment of a DDA, and the establishment of the area to be included in the district, the subsequent confidence reflected in the downtown area's future caused a growth beyond many people's expectations. The effect this has had on the taxes generated as a result of the downtown growth that has enabled the City to share part of the revenue with the School District, County and Grandview Medical Care Facility, while proceeding with a downtown development project in that its completion at a date in the foreseeable future.

The ripple effect which occurred in the community is equally important. Building in townships surrounding the City has exceeded any other similar area in the County. This is reflected in increased school and county revenues. Not the least indication of the change in community attitude was the joint effort of K.C.B. and the City joining together under the leadership of Dale and Marilyn Ross, Bruce MacArthur, and with hundreds of helpers age 8 through 80 planting 5 miles of flowers - 10 successive years.

And don't forget the participating $4.1 million EPA helped with our new water plant. Cruises were made available; additional lodging became available; the "season" was extended with October "Apple Fests" and the Spring Trout Tournaments.

What part did DDA play in all of this? Which came first - the chicken or the egg?

A collection of praises, awards and honors received by Charlevoix people.

F.L. Dammann, son of Sara Gay and Thomas Dammann, of Charlevoix, is attending The British American Drama Academy in London, England, this fall. BADA is a program offered through Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, New York. BADA's faculty include some of Britain's most distinguished actors and directors. The program exposes undergraduates to the rigors and excitement of professional British training in acting.

Dammann graduated from Charlevoix High School. He is a junior, concentrating in theater, at Sarah Lawrence College.

Thanks from fashion show organizers

Editor,

I would like to publicly thank all the people who made our Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild Luncheon and Fashion Show on September 12 such a success. Our profit was $1199.00, and this will be applied to the Guild's pledge of $25,000 to the Hospital's Building Fund.

We couldn't have done it without you.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Izor,

Seniors deserve support

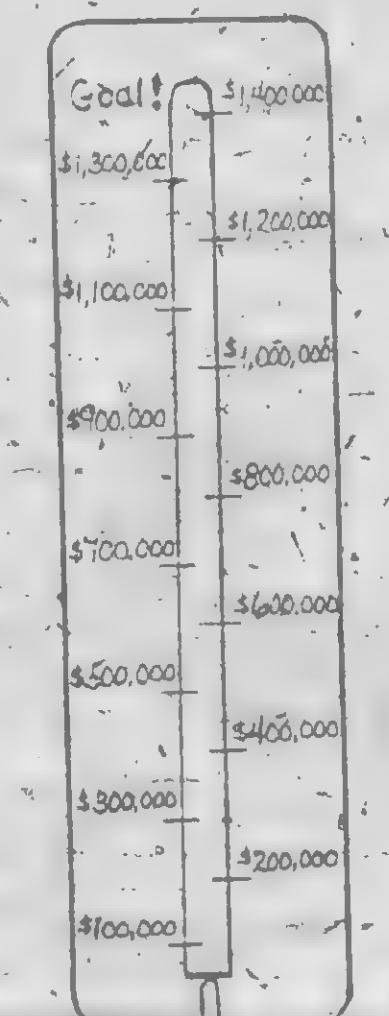

Editor,

Cheers for Anna Warner's informative letter in the Charlevoix Courier - 9/25/91 issue! Too bad the city of Charlevoix's budget couldn't be shifted a bit toward helping the "3rd Agers" (senior citizens) complete their community project on Old Norwood Road. It is a well-deserved project.

Sincerely,
Mary M. Geiken

Chance to sing draws crowds

Karaoke puts microphones in the hands of amateurs

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Flight Deck Bar introduced Karaoke, a high tech version of the Ted Mack Amateur Hour, to Charlevoix this past weekend.

Karaoke is an audio visual system that provides the original sound track, minus the vocals, for more than 700 songs. So who provides the crooning? Anybody with the guts and desire to pick up the mike and sing along.

Even if you're one of those people who remembers the tune but is a little foggy on the words, don't worry. The karaoke system has a computerized screen that flashes the lyrics at you, and even high lights in yellow the exact words you should be singing. It's the nineties version of the bouncing white ball.

The entertainment of Karaoke doesn't stop there. For the singers who prefer the candlelight to the limelight, you can sit at your table and watch the television monitors as they project the images of the singers and print out the words. Instead of ringside seating you have tableside singing. If you choose to brave the Karaoke stage and belt out a song, your moment of glory doesn't have to end as the last chorus fades out. You're immortalized forever on a videotape that you can buy for $5. The kids will love watching daddy do his impression of M.C. Hammer in the comfort of their own living room.

"The real appeal of having Karaoke instead of having a band is that you get a new entertainer with every song," said John Fiedorck, owner of the Flight Deck. Hisawile Sheri did a fine job on Loretta Lynn's "Coal Miner's Daughter."

Another advantage to Karaoke is that you get to listen to all of the old standard favorites, such as "Stand By Me," or "You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling." You don't have to put up with a live band testing out their new material on you.

So you go to the Flight Deck, and flip through the book of songs available to sing along with, pick out your favorites, and if you don't hear them well, just pick up the mike and sing it yourself. "Everybody is a star," Sly and the Family Stone was sung. Sly must have known that Karaoke was coming to town.

Committee appointed to study county administrator

When you consider the size of Charlevoix County in comparison to other counties that either do, or do not, have a county administrator, Charlevoix falls right on the borderline of being big enough to justify the expense of a county administrator.

For this reason, Don Smith, chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, has appointed six people to an ad-hoc county administrator fact-finding committee. Smith explained that he took into consideration business backgrounds, geographic location, and job functions when he selected the six candidates. Smith chose county clerk Jane Brannon and county treasurer Joan Balch, because they are the two county officials most likely to be affected by the addition of a county administrator. He selected Lee Moreland, a Belvedere Club member, as being geographically representative of Charlevoix. Bill Grimm, a former employee of the Soil and Water Conservation, would represent the Boyne City area. Harold Pletz, a South Arm Township supervisor, would represent that area. Smith chose Carla Spencer, who works in the equalization department, as a representative of the county employees.

After proposing these six individuals, Smith asked if there were any other nominations from the commissioners. When no new names were suggested, a vote was taken to appoint Smith's proposed committee members. They were unanimously appointed.

It was suggested from the audience that Smith serve as ex-officio on the committee, but Smith declined, saying that he had already made his feelings known about a county administrator, and felt that the committee could do their job more objectively without his input. The committee is expected to have their report ready by Feb. 1.

Activists march at Big Rock

A group of local anti nuclear activists were joined by members of the international environmental group Greenpeace in a March at the Consumers' Power Big Rock Point nuclear plant Saturday.

The demonstration was peaceful with activists saying they would like to see the plant shut down. They added that they prefer energy conservation rather than nuclear power. As an example of energy conservation measures which can be taken, the activists referred to energy saving light bulbs.

Obituaries

Eva V. King, 92

Eva V. King, 92, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 29, 1991, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey. Funeral will be 11 a.m., Oct. 4, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. Arlene Staley, VFW Auxiliary, and Clement Olach of the Charlevoix VFW Post 1153, will officiate. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Eva V. Davy was born Aug. 11, 1899, in Grand Rapids, the daughter of Edward and Myrtle (Bogart) Davy.

On Aug. 3, 1920, she married Sam E. King in Chicago, Ill. He preceded her in death in September, 1984.

Mrs. King had resided in Charlevoix since 1926. She was a charter member and served as first president of VFW Post 1153 Auxiliary in Charlevoix. She was also a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion Auxiliary in Charlevoix.

She worked as a telephone operator for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. for 20 years. Survivors include two sons, Robert E. King of Mayer, Ariz., and Lyle S. King of Charlevoix; two daughters, Sally Bennett of Charlevoix and Janet Hardy of Colorado Springs, Colo.; 12 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren.

Clara P. Thomson, 71

Clara P. Thomson, 71, former Charlevoix resident, died Sept. 27, 1991.

Funeral was held Tuesday, Oct. 1, at the Estes-Leadley Holt Dohi Chapel, Holt, Mich. Graveside service was held at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Thomson was born July 18, 1920, in Hayes Township, Charlevoix County and had been resident of Holt since 1952. She attended Burgess School and Charlevoix High School and married Leonard (Link) Thomson in November of 1950.

Mrs. Thomson owned and operated the Corley Corner Beauty Shop from 1960-82 in Holt. She was a member and past grand-matron of Holt Chapter No. 510, Order of Eastern Star; a Grand Representative of Nebraska; a member of the Holt United Methodist Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband in February 1987.

Mrs. Thomson is survived by one son, many cousins, special friends, Larry and Arnie Woodard, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daggett and family and Jean Daggett.

Visitation was held at the funeral home. An Order of Eastern Star service was held Monday at the funeral home. The family suggests memorials to the Holt United Methodist Church or to the Cancer, Heart or Diabetes Research in care of Holt Chapter No. 510, Order of Eastern Star.

KCB to receive three state awards

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) will receive three awards from Keep Michigan Beautiful Thursday evening. The awards will be presented by Michelle Engle, wife of Governor John Engler, at a banquet which is part of Keep Michigan Beautiful's conference at Shanty Creek Resort near Bellaire.

Dale Boss will accept a distinguished service award for work with the Charlevoix peninsula water-wire truck.

Jinx and Robert Pancoast will accept a Keep Michigan Beautiful plaque for their work in beautifying the Rose Cottage next to the Post Office on Mason Street.

Former mayor Ralph McRae will accept the President's Plaque Award for his work on the Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

The awards banquet will begin at 6 p.m. Harold Krusch of Charlevoix is chairman of the banquet.

In the past Charlevoix has received beautification awards for the community peninsula planting project and Hoffmann Park.

Submerged vehicle research completed

By Laurie Lounsbury

It sometimes had the ambience of a movie set for a car chase cop film. Videographers perched on specially constructed platforms and railroad trestles. Photographers scrambled everywhere from docks to boats, looking for the right camera angle. Driverless cars idled at the foot of a 200-foot-long floating runway. Then suddenly, mysteriously, the unmanned vehicles would rev their engines and take off down the runway at speeds up to forty miles per hour, catapulting themselves into the choppy water.

The difference between a movie set and the Michigan State Police test site for submerged vehicles was that no one yelled "Cut!" when the vehicles impacted with the water. For the state police and the national guardsmen involved with Project S.T.A.R., (Submerged Transportation Accident Recovery), the action began when the vehicles became waterborne. Stopwatches clicked on, timing the length of flotation for each vehicle, and divers plunged in after the cars, testing the doors and windows as the vehicles slowly sank.

The wipers and still working, and the interior lights are still on," reported diver Kurt Ziemer, as he accompanied an Oldsmobile van to the bottom of the lake. "Chubner was able to keep in a running dialogue with his co-workers on the surface with a two-way communications mask. "I'm inside the van now, I'm going to try to break out a window. One, two, three, four, it's no good, it won't break." A good piece of information for the state. It's impossible to kick out or break a window on a submerged vehicle. The submerged vehicle study continued throughout all of last week, in spite of inclement weather which brought high winds, waves, and sleeting rain. Car after car went into the drink, either by driving themselves off the runway or by being lowered in by a crane. Video observers became inured to the sight of a van bobbing around in the water like a mallard duck in search of food, nose down and tail up.

Then the school bus went in. Unlike the cars and vans, which floated for two to five minutes, the bus was out of sight sixteen seconds after it hit the water. Everyone watched in stunned silence as it plummeted straight to the bottom of Lake Charlevoix, coming to rest on its roof in nearly forty-eight feet of water.

summed up the emotional response of everyone watching the sinking bus: "When a car goes into the water, the most important thing is to save the occupant." When a school bus goes into the water, the most important thing is to save "a mother's child." It was sickeningly obvious to anyone watching that no child could survive an accident like that. "If buses were made with front windows that didn't implode, and with service doors that didn't pop open, then the kids might stand a chance of surviving," Ewers remarked.

Just as in an emergency where perfect strangers are thrown together in a crisis and find themselves quickly forming a bond, the participants of Project S.T.A.R. also came together with a kidgedness of spirit, and achieved an incredible level of cooperation for the cause. State police sergeants grinned with the national guardsmen as they worked to pull vehicles out of the water with the twenty-ton cranes. The guardsmen, in turn, fought the high winds and driving rain with their army boats in order to successfully launch the school bus into the lake. Members of the Coast Guard and the D.N.R. directed boat traffic and transported divers.

Ewers speculated on the unique comradeship of the team members on Project S.T.A.R. "The real story behind this project probably lies in each person's personal experiences. That could be what really motivates them."

So what might that real story be? A national guard reservist lost his 23-year-old brother when he died unexpectedly. A state police sergeant served in Vietnam and saw enough senseless deaths to last him a lifetime. A 25-year veteran diver from Grand Haven has pulled more bodies from the water than he can count. Another diver's father used to fish WW II pilots out of the ocean when their planes crashed into the carrier. Each person had seen enough of tragic deaths. Each person wanted to be involved with a study that might someday spare yet a life.

The final results of Project S.T.A.R. will not be available for some time. But one fact has already been established: Accident victims in a submerged vehicle do not have to lose their lives by drowning. There is a two-minute window of opportunity there. For example, diver Chubner, who rode down inside a sinking car with driver Connie Tedde. "If you stay calm and maintain your presence of mind, you can get out, you can survive."

Up from the chilly depths

Divers from the State Police and National Guard spent a chilly week researching rescue possibilities for submerged vehicles. Dry suits helped the process immeasurably.

It went down like a brick

School buses sink like bricks. That was easily the most frightening piece of information revealed by the submerged vehicle tests. The question which now will have to be addressed is how can school buses be made safer.

The technical end of car dunking

Was it a high tech gizmo that sicced the driverless cars down the bridge runway? A remote control dripping device that revved the engines up and dropped them into gear, leaving behind a trail of burned rubber and smoke? No, just a few feet of clothesline and some good old yankee ingenuity. And how do you recover a several-ton, thirty-eight foot school bus from the bottom of the lake? Air bags were inflated under water and attached to the submerged vehicles, giving them enough buoyancy for the divers to maneuver them to the coast guard dock, where the cranes hoisted them out.

Rayder team remains unbeaten

Record now 4-0 after 36-6 win over Elk Rapids

So far so good, but the going gets tougher, this Friday night, Charlevoix's football team will travel to Elk Rapids for a homecoming showdown with Traverse City St. Francis.

Halfway through the season, the team has risen to the top in the Lake Michigan division with Charlevoix and St. Francis both carrying 4-0 season records. When the clock winds down at Kipke Field Friday evening, one of those two teams will no longer have a perfect record.

As occurred in previous games against Lake City and East Jordan, Charlevoix's running game proved to have too many horses for Elk Rapids.

Brian Coolman led the Rayders' running backs with 104 yards on 11 carries. Jody McQuinn had 65 yards on nine carries, Lance Emig 47 yards on four carries and B.J. VanLoe 21 yards on five carries.

Quarterback Keith Carey threw only three passes, completing two of them for a total of 66 yards.

Charlevoix opened the scoring midway through the first quarter on a 3-yard run by Coolman. Vince Voisin kicked the extra point.

The Rayders scored twice in the second quarter, first on an 8-yard run by Coolman and later on a 49-yard pass from Carey to Emig.

Voisin kicked both extra points. Charlevoix resumed scoring in the third quarter on an 8-yard run by VanLoe. Voisin added the extra point. The Rayders scoring concluded with a 31-yard run by Emig and another extra point by Voisin.

Defensively for the Rayders, Ben Whitley had 12 tackles, Chris Pease and Jason Psihopaidas 8 apiece and Dan Avery 7.

Basketball team wins 54-31

Charlevoix's varsity girls basketball team improved their record to 5-3 on the season and 3-2 in league play with a 54-31 win at Manclona Thursday night.

The game was a free-throw fest with a total of 47 fouls called. The Rayders made 10 of 14 free throw attempts and were whistled for 26 fouls. Manclona made 11 of 23 free throw attempts and accumulated 21 fouls.

Liz Grunch led a balanced Rayder offense with 13 points. Gina Webster scored 8 points while Sheila Siegwant, Julie Gengle and Jodi Allison each had seven.

Charlevoix and Manclona played close to even in the second and fourth quarters, but the Rayders outscored the Ironwomen 12-4 in the first quarter and 20-5 in the third.

Charlevoix's next game will be Tuesday, Oct. 8 when they host Traverse City St. Francis. The Rayders lost to St. Francis in Traverse City earlier in the season.

Rayder midfielder Mike Dobulis rises above the crowd to get the ball headed back in the right direction during the first half of a 2-1 Charlevoix soccer win over Harbor Springs. Dobulis scored an unassisted goal in the second half of the game.

Soccer team beats Harbor

Two goals scored into the teeth of a nasty wind

After failing to score with gale force winds at their back in the first half, Charlevoix came back to score twice in the second half to beat Harbor Springs 2-1 last Thursday at Shanahan Field.

The game was played in weather which wasn't fit for man nor beast, nor even soccer players. The temperature was cold. The wind was brutal and the intermittent rain and hail added insult to injury.

After stripping down to shorts and t-shirts, the two teams squared off in a well-played game.

Charlevoix had several rushes in the offensive end during the first half, but despite applying pressure the Rayders were unable to score. However, good defensive play by the Rayders, particularly at the midfield position, also kept the Rams off the board.

The 0-0 draw at the end of the first half should have left Harbor Springs feeling confident. They could have felt they'd weathered the storm.

But in the second half the Rayders scored two early goals. Inside forward Sam Bingham got the first goal and midfielder Mike Dobulis got the second. Both were unassisted goals.

As things turned out, two goals were enough to win, but there was some question about that on many occasions as Harbor Springs applied offensive pressure.

But Charlevoix goalie Jason Pajtas stood firm behind solid defensive play from Paul Cunningham, J.H. Heck and Chris McCallum.

Harbor Springs scored its only goal on a penalty kick. Charlevoix coach Tom Sikavitsas also credited Jake Porath and Seth Arnold with strong midfield play. Scott Boyer also contributed at the offensive end of the field.

The win raised Charlevoix's season record to 5-3. This Friday afternoon at 5:00 Charlevoix will host Roscommon in the Rayders' homecoming game.

Organizational basketball and volleyball meetings scheduled

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will host organizational meetings for volleyball and basketball at 8 p.m. The basketball session is for Charlevoix teams only. Interested people are invited to attend either or both meetings.

Cross country team places third Charlevoix's boys cross country team placed third in the Class C division at the Carson City Invitational Saturday.

Grant won the Class C division with 42 points while host Carson City-Crystal placed second with 50 points. Charlevoix finished third with 60 points.

Maui Smith was Charlevoix's top finisher, placing second with a time of 16:21. Grant's Mike Moore won the race with a time of 16:47.

Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times were: 8-Mike Severson, 16:52; 12-Luke LaBlanc, 17:08; 16-Zach Pajtas, 17:17; 25-Mike Bush, 17:31; 28-Josh Schoels, 18:03; 44-Erik Hess, 18:41.

The Charlevoix girls' team placed eighth among 12 teams. Elsa Conlan led the Rayder runners finishing fifth overall with a time of 21:04.

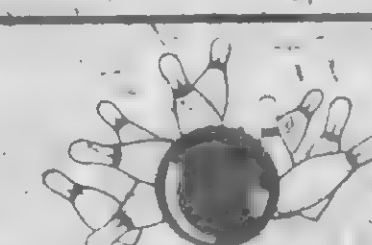

Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: 22-Melissa Cox, 22:10; 36-Trina Holm, 22:59; 44-Melissa Eaton, 23:30; 47-Erin Wright, 23:14; 48-Anne Schatzbaum, 23:36.

This coming Saturday morning the Rayders will host the annual Charlevoix Invitational at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Charlevoix forward Sam Bingham works to get past a Harbor Springs player. The Rayders scored two goals in the second half to beat Harbor Springs and even their season record at 3-3.

New downtown coordinator formulating an agenda

Which comes first, the chicken or the egg? And in Charlevoix, which will come first, the solid, quality retailers or the customers? This is just one of the questions that the new Charlevoix Downtown Coordinator, Rod Benson, will be addressing.

Benson, who recently moved to northern Michigan with his wife Carol and operates a Bed and Breakfast in Petoskey, brings 25 years of experience in Chamber of Commerce management to this new position. Benson most recently served as the head of the Chamber of Commerce in Ann Arbor for eight years.

The position of Downtown Coordinator was created last spring by the city and Chamber of Commerce. Benson will be working two days a week in this capacity, and is looking forward to the ongoing challenge.

"Downtown areas that seem to make the most progress have someone on board overseeing their operations," said Benson of the position. "I like to get things organized, or reorganized, and defined," he added. Benson likes to think of his job as being a facilitator-mixed with leadership, and not so much a director.

Benson is sending out a survey to all of the downtown merchants in order to get a feeling for their needs and a perspective on their view of the town's future needs. The survey will ask questions regarding: traffic flow and circulation; number of quality, customer-oriented shops; the variety and mix of retail outlets; the parking situation; and suggestions for developing a captive market.

"I'm a big believer in the concept of a captive market," Benson explained. "By a captive market, he is referring to generating activities or services in the downtown area, such as the post office, the banks, living space, walking paths, and anything else which brings people to the downtown area. Once there, people will be apt to do some shopping, although that may not have been their intention when heading for the downtown area.

Benson plans to compile an agenda from the findings of his survey and have it ready by Dec. 1.

"The goal is to build a stronger downtown Charlevoix, but I want the agenda to be specific, to encompass exactly what steps we need to take in order to achieve the goal."

Benson hopes that his agenda will become a community plan, stressing the importance of having merchants as well as elected public officials supporting the plan.

...downtown coordinator

"There's no way you can do a job downtown without the people behind you," stated Benson. "It is imperative that the elected officials in this town support the long-term programs that will improve the downtown area," he added.

Benson explained that only the municipality can make provisions for things like new downtown lights, park benches, or flower boxes, which would enhance the downtown area.

Topping Benson's list of priorities are: parking and whether the need for additional parking is a real or perceived need; the balance of high quality, solid retail shops in the downtown area; and whether or not the customer base can support these shops year-round; and the constant attention required to maintain the attractiveness of the downtown area. He has many other thoughts about what could be done to improve downtown Charlevoix, and what issues should be looked into in the near future, such as landlord-tenant relationships, and a landlord's willingness to modify a building for a business, but as he says, "You can't boil the whole ocean; you have to do it one gallon at a time."

Benson will be working out of the Pine River Channel Building on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and can be reached at 547-2273.

Garden club to hear about conservancy

Tom Bailey will give the Charlevoix Area Garden Club an update on Little Traverse Conservancy activities during the club's Oct. 8 meeting. The meeting will begin at 1 p.m. at Peg Johnson's home. Lois Lewis and Joyce Totton will cohort.

Bailey will explain conservation easements and also discuss water quality.

Ron Chapman puts the keys in the door of the new car he won at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce raffle last week. The 1991 Dodge Stealth has a list price of more than $20,000. Standing with Chapman are chamber director Jacqueline Merta and chamber president Robert Kern.

Now's the time to look ahead to spring

(Submitted by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.)

A short reminder that fall is a good time to get a head start on next spring.

A number of garden chores, taken care of now, will make the gardener's work easier next spring.

First, this is a perfect time to seed a new lawn. The heat of summer is over, the moist cool days of autumn are just right for grass seeds to get a good start toward the future. The same is true for some biennials, like pansies and foxgloves.

A number of trees and shrubs do very well when planted in the fall. Nurserymen will have advice as to which types can be planted now.

Since most summer flowering perennials are through for the season, this is a good time to move them or thin them if growth has become too thick. For the sake of neatness the topgrowth can be cut off. In the case of peonies and delphiniums this is a must - they come through the winter much better without their tops.

Lastly, don't overlook the spring flowering bulbs: crocus, hyacinths, scilla, daffodils, tulips, etc. While most of these can be planted throughout the fall season, daffodils like to be in the ground early, so that they can establish a good root system before winter sets in. These bulbs will give years of enjoyment with little care. They will probably spread over the years and if they begin to get crowded and stop blooming they can be dug up and spaced out.

Alternative sentencing: a money saver or a way to beat jail time?

By Laurie Lounsbury

If you read the District Court news in the paper each week, you will notice that many of the sentences handed down by Judge Var-num under the offender to serve time in the county work program in lieu of jail time. This new form of sentencing is a result of Public Act 511, the Community Corrections Act which was recently adopted in the State of Michigan.

Public Act 511 was adopted in an effort to free up prison cell space in downstate prisons. The theory is that non-violent offenders, such as drunk drivers or substance abusers, will be put into community work programs instead of jail, freeing up county jail space for violent criminals. Violent offenders might normally be sent to the downstate prisons if county jails were filled with non-violent offenders.

Assistant prosecuting attorney for Emmet County, Bob Engel, presented an overview of Public Act

511 at last week's Charlevoix County Board of Commissioner's meeting. Charlevoix and Emmet

Counties received $67,000 in the fiscal year 1991 for this program. Engel said: "It is our intention to hire a manager for the community corrections program with the funds we receive, and look into the purchasing of electronic monitoring equipment for the jail programs." he added.

Counties received $67,000 in the fiscal year 1991 for this program. Engel said: "It is our intention to hire a manager for the community corrections program with the funds we receive, and look into the purchasing of electronic monitoring equipment for the jail programs." he added.

According to Engel, in the past year county work programs offset 2,231 days of jail time. At $35 a day, which is the county's cost of housing offenders, that would mean the county work program offset a cost of $78,085. Engel viewed the program as being successful so far, citing statistics to date. Of the 136 offenders who have been referred to the program, 63 have now completed their terms. Of those 63, there have been 53 who have had a positive completion, meaning that so far they have not been repeat offenders. Engel felt that the community corrections program was preferable to having non-violent offenders just sit in jail doing time. "It's a way for them to make a pay back to the community for the offense they have committed," Engel stated. "When someone commits a crime, it hurts the whole community, not just the person they committed the crime against, and this is a way for them to pay it back." Engel added that these non-violent offenders will be receiving treatment through substance abuse programs, so that they will hopefully be rehabilitated when they complete their term.

When the Courier contacted Mothers Against Drunk Driving Chairman Carol Havens, she expressed a different view of Public Act 511. "I guess I have to question their definition of a non-violent offender," Havens said. "I think that someone trying to take my life with a 3,000 pound vehicle is more threatening to me than a person trying to take my money," continued Havens. "Robbers are getting much stiffer penalties than drunk drivers. I think the priorities are screwed up."

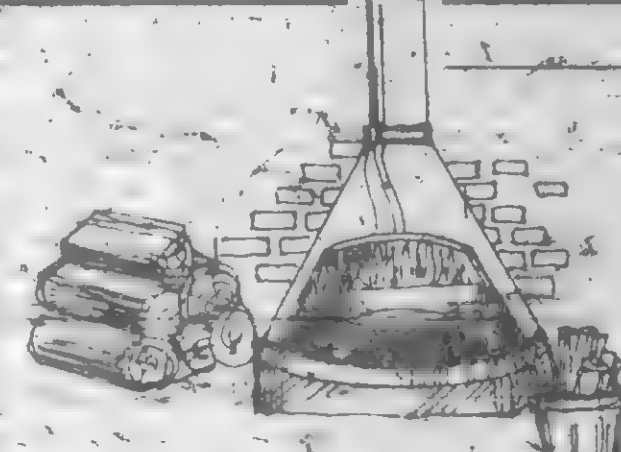

Havens did add, "I don't want to sound totally negative about the Public Act 511. I mean, something is better than nothing. Before, if the jails were overcrowded, a drunk driver might get a sentence of ten days in jail and they would serve one, and have the rest suspended. Now, at least they would be sentenced to nine days of community service work."

Is community service work an effective deterrent for non-violent offenders? One offender, an avid fly fisherman, was ordered to teach fly-tying at a local camp. Havens feels that if you're told to go out and teach something you love doing anyway, it's probably not very punishing. Does Havens think that Public Act 511 is effective? "Not in its present form," Havens responded. "It's a combination of things. There are so many people going through the system, and there just isn't enough staff to keep tabs on what's happening, so the effectiveness of it is questionable." Havens is firm on M.A.D.D.'s stance. "Drunk drivers are violent offenders, and they should go to jail, sentenced to the full extent of the law," she stated. "Ideally, they would receive substance abuse counseling and treatment while they are in jail," she added.

Recyclers experiencing problems

By Laurie Lounsbury

Skip Canfield, of Three R's Recycling, addressed the County Commissioners at their Sept. 25 meeting, to paint a grim picture for the short term future of private recycling industries.

Canfield asked the board to work with recyclers so that the recycling businesses can stay afloat until the industry stabilizes. He explained that the success of recycling is dependent on a continuous circular chain. Individuals take their recyclable items, such as paper, glass, tin, and cardboard to a recycler. The recycler takes the products to a mill that buys the products and processes them into reusable materials. The mill must then find a manufacturer to buy the recycled materials and use them in manufacturing products. From there, it is up to the consumer to buy products made from recycled materials. If one link in the chain of recycling is weak, the whole recycling effort falls apart.

Because of the flood of awareness and interest in recycling on the part of the individuals, there is a glut of recyclables going to the recycler. When the recycler takes all of these products to the mills in such high volume, the mills can lower the price they're willing to pay for the products, leaving the recycler in a break-even or, worse yet, a deficit situation. Mills could make a tidy profit at this juncture, but they're finding that manufacturer demand for recycled material is not as high as the amount of processed material available. Manufacturers continue to use new materials for certain products, believing it makes their product more desirable, and therefore more marketable to the consumer.

Some private recyclers are apparently getting so discouraged with low prices at the mill and their inability to make money by handling recycled products, that they are dumping recyclables into landfills. If the consumer finds out that the products they look so much trouble

City will accept property if the price is right - $0

By E. Scott Swanson

If some people who want to buy a piece of railroad right of way between Lake Charlevoix and Mercer Boulevard can come up with $270,000, the city is willing to take the property and work with the Little Traverse Conservancy to place the property under a conservation easement.

The property in question has been talked about several times at city council meetings during the past several months. Monday evening, it was discussed yet again.

The property reverted to the state when the railroad right of way was abandoned. The state intends to sell the property. Earlier, the city council voted not to pursue the purchase of the property.

A group of people from the northside approached the Little Traverse Conservancy and asked if the organization would help the city set up a conservation easement on the property if the land could be purchased. Tom Bickersteth has been a spokesman for that group of people.

At an earlier meeting the council placed some stipulations on accepting the property. City council members said they only will take the property if the purchase is 100 percent privately funded, if easements are acquired from adjacent property owners so that the property won't be landlocked, and if the property can be put into a conservation easement through the Conservancy.

Although people who have talked to the state have expressed differing messages during council meetings, the reason for city involvement is that the city may be given an opportunity to purchase the property prior to simply putting the property up for sale to the highest bidder.

Were the property to be sold through competitive bidding, it wouldn't be surprising to see the price exceed $270,000 as there appears to be more than one interested bidder. The railroad right of way is between the Wayside Motel property, owned by Oscar Stroud, and a small piece of lakeshore property owned by a group called CharCo. The railroad property could be a key ingredient in future development in that area.

Tom Bailey, the executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, said the conservancy isn't making any recommendation as to whether or not the city should acquire the property. He said that's the council's decision. The conservancy's position is that if the city decides to acquire the property with the intention of setting the land aside under a conservation easement, then the conservancy is willing to assist the city in doing that.

Kristen Ranville was elected homecoming queen Friday night. She is a Seventh Day Adventist and missed the crowning ceremony, but shortly after some friends came to her house and told her she had won.

You don't have to be present to win

Charlevoix's 1991 homecoming queen missed her crowning Friday night. But given the cold weather and driving rain, it wasn't a fit night out for a queen anyhow.

Kristen Ranville, Charlevoix's 1991 homecoming queen missed Friday evening's ceremony because she is a Seventh Day Adventist. As a Seventh Day Adventist she does not participate in ceremonies from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

Ranville said she was happy, excited and honored to be chosen queen. She said she couldn't attend the ceremony because according to her faith the time from Friday evening to Saturday evening is a sabbath day. It is God's day - a time to spend with one's family and a time to do things conducive to your religious beliefs.

The students who elected Ranville queen and the high school faculty knew about her religious beliefs prior to homecoming. Provisions were made to have one of the girls on the court handle the traditional dubbing of the football captains.

Ranville said she found out that she had been elected homecoming

...property to be accepted

Council member Ted Felter from the second ward said the council's position is that they don't want the city to get stuck if pledges to purchase the property fall through.

First ward council member Cheri Hoffman said she had taken an informal poll of several people in the city and that 75 percent of the people she talked to about the property said "don't spend my tax dollars to acquire it, develop it or maintain it."

Bailey said that it is the conservancy's understanding that if the property is acquired, it may eventually become part of a nonmotorized recreational trail between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

The council vote to accept the property should the conditions be met passed by a 4-3 margin with mayor Dave Novotny casting the tie-breaking vote. Council members Pat Gaskin, Butch Russell and Hoffman joined Novotny in voting to accept the property. Council members Jackie Cross, Bill Haggard and Felter opposed accepting the property.

Board discusses third grade trip

by Wendy Wright

Should the school board fund the third grade's annual overnight trip to Beaver Island? That's the $3,500 question the board grappled with Monday evening.

Larry Levensgood, board member, brought the matter before the board, stating that it was the recommendation of the Curriculum Council that the board begin funding the Beaver Island trip. Levensgood said third grade teachers feel that the trip is an important part of the third grade curriculum, and as such, should be funded as any other program in the curriculum. In years past, the approximately $3,500 required to pay for the trip has been raised by third grade students, parents and teachers.

Levensgood added that the third grade teachers were expending a large amount of energy on fundraising activities every year and that the added responsibility was wearing on them. He said he was concerned that the extra effort required might be detracting from the teachers' other educational responsibilities. He said that the Curriculum Council had discussed the possibility that the trip might be more appropriate at another grade level, but had decided instead to recommend that the board fund the trip.

Several teachers were in the audience, and added their comments to the discussion. Pat Carland, a third grade teacher, said it was the feeling of the teachers involved that they had committed nine years to the program, and now that it was such an integral part of the third grade curriculum, it was time for the board to take over that commitment in the form of funding.

According to Levensgood, the largest share of the money required for the trip goes toward boat tickets for the third grade students, teachers, and chaperones. Doris Pearl, board member, suggested that a deal could be worked out between the Beaver Island Boat Company and the school, since the BIBC rents the high school parking lot every summer. Van Smith, elementary school principal, said he thought if something could be worked out to pay for the tickets, the rest of the money could be found somewhere, possibly in the elementary school budget.

No action was taken on the matter Monday night.

Hospital to host Country Hoedown

Time to put on those boots that were made for walking and get ready to do a little Texas two-stepping at the Country Hoedown this Sunday. The Charlevoix Area Hospital will host the Hoedown as part of their funding drive, which is nearing completion. The Hoedown will take place from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

The cost of admission, which is tax deductible, is $10 a couple, or $5.50 a person. "We've tried to keep the price down so that it will be affordable for everybody," said Sandy Fowler, the hospital's surgical technician who has organized the Hoedown. There will also be a bar with all proceeds going to the hospital.

"Loose Change" will be the headlining band at the Hoedown, followed by the group "Montana", which features Toni and Tim Wilson. "Toni Wilson is a real Reba McEntire sound-alike," said Fowler. "We might also have the group 'Rawhide' coming in from Boyne Falls, and a dance group from Country Kickers will be there, doing line dances and two-stepping," Fowler added.

The bands will be rotating all day, building up to a grand finale around eight. "Then I'd like to see all the bands play together and kick the sides right out of the building," Fowler said.

Fowler is hoping that the Country Hoedown will bring the hospital fundraising drive to its goal. "The hospital employees have raised $125,000 for the hospital on their own so far," Fowler stated. "I'm hoping this Hoedown will be a way for everyone to have a good time and contribute to the hospital as well. We'd like to see the people from the outlying areas, like Bellairs, East Jordan, and Ellsworth coming to this."

Principles and understanding

A word of praise is in order for the Charlevoix High School student body, faculty and 1991 Homecoming Queen Kristen Ranville.

Ranville, a Seventh Day Adventist, was absent from the crowning ceremony Friday evening due to her religious beliefs. Seventh Day Adventists observe the time from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday as their sabbath day. During the sabbath they spend time with their families and do things conducive to their religious beliefs.

For Ranville, a pleasant, outgoing and athletic young lady, her faith meant forgoing the homecoming ceremony. It has also meant forgoing running in Saturday track meets and cross country races.

Whether or not you're a Seventh Day Adventist or practicing member of any other religious faith, it's nice to see someone believe in something strongly and to see them set and stick to their own set of principles and standards.

Setting principles and standards for one's self isn't a difficult thing to do. Sticking to those principles and standards even when they get in the way of something one might otherwise like to do - well that's not always so easy.

When asked how her fellow students and athletic coaches deal with her absence from Friday evening events and Saturday sports competitions, Ranville was quick to praise them as "very understanding." As an example, she cited relay teams she is a part of in track. She said that even though relay teams are something where every member has to contribute to the group's success, her teammates are understanding when she can't make a Saturday meet.

Friday evening, when Ranville was announced as the 1991 Homecoming Queen, another member of the court stepped in, took the scepter and gracefully dubbed the football team cocaptains. Provisions had been made. This spring when a runner on a relay team takes the baton from a different hand than usual, she will still run the race to the best of her own individual ability.

In a society where pressure to conform and go with the flow is often prevalent, Ranville's following of her own personal principles and the willingness of Charlevoix's high school students and faculty to understand and make small provisions is refreshing. It says something very nice about our little community.

Ordinance enforcement questioned

Editor,

One would expect locally elected officials to be especially careful to abide by local ordinances. However, in my opinion this is not the case with Mr. Fred Siegwart, Supervisor for Norwood Township.

Mr. Siegwart has been operating the Siegwart Building Company at 04980 Lakeshore Drive and has this business listed in the telephone directory at this address. The Siegwart Building Company is thus operating in an R2 zone and doing so without a special use permit. An R2 lot is to be used only for (1) one single family dwelling or (2) one two family dwelling. The R2 zoning regulation also allows for special use such as home occupations including (1) only family members who reside at the premises may work, (2) the occupation may not be held in a garage or accessory building, (3) the occupation shall not increase traffic flow, and (4) there may not be any offensive noises or create a nuisance. This under the zoning regulations a special use permit for his company would be inappropriate since the type and level of activity of the company far exceeds the regulations (it is estimated he has five houses under construction in the Clipper View area).

Approximately 30 property owners in the area have signed petitions and submitted them to the Township Board requesting the discontinuance of 04980 Lakeshore Drive as the offices of the Siegwart Building Company. These petitions were initiated because the business involves a commercial woodworking shop in a garage, a business office, materials storage area, and work crew assigning area. These activities have a major impact on road traffic on Lakeshore Drive and noise.

I understand that it has been suggested that the Siegwart Building Company be granted a variance based on the Grandfather concept. While it is true the zoning ordinances have been updated rather recently and Mr. Siegwart has been in business longer than the last update, the suggestion is invalid, since the substantive provisions and intent of the zoning ordinance related to R2 zones has not changed.

At meetings and from conversations I have had about this issue I sense an undercurrent of home town residents versus resorters. In some ways I understand the feeling, since I was born and grew up in Charlevoix. I am now on phased retirement from the University of Michigan and expect to spend 6-9 months a year at our home at 04835 Lakeshore Drive and thus consider myself a resident.

However, regardless of personal feelings, the important thing is to have the zoning ordinance impartially enforced. After all, the basis for the ordinances is to assure residents of limitations for use of property and to provide for the maintenance of the quality of the area.

On this basis, I would expect local boards, including zoning boards to make decisions based on the law and the intent of the law. Similarly, I believe the Township Board should make its decision on the use of 04980 Lakeshore Drive as the offices of the Siegwart Building company, based on the current R2 zoning ordinance and its intent.

THE SOUNDS OF THE SEASON ARE CHANGING. THE HAUNTING CALL OF THE LOON IS OFTEN ASSOCIATED WITH THE NORTH WOODS. NOW THE LOONS ARE LEAVING AND THE HAUNTING SOUNDS COME FROM THE WIND BEEPING THROUGH THE DRYING LEAVES. MANY BIRDS ARE LEAVING IN HUGE FLOCKS. THE NEIGHBORHOOD STARLINGS AND GRACKLES MADE A VERY NOISY EXIT A COUPLE WEEKS AGO. THEY FILLED THE TREES BY THE HUNDREDS, ALL CHATTERING LOUDLY (POSSIBLY CHECKING WITH EACH OTHER ON DIRECTIONS). ONE STARLING, HAVING ALREADY CHANGED INTO ITS WINTER PLUMAGE, OF ELABORATELY SPECKLED BROWN AND WHITE BREAST FEATHERS FOUND ITS SELF IN A VERY PRECARIOUS POSITION IN OUR LAWN. SKUNKS HAVE BEEN PERFORATING THE LAWN WITH HOLES, LOOKING FOR GRUBS. THIS PARTICULAR STARLING GOT STUCK IN ONE OF THE HOLES, APPARENTLY LURED BY THE POSSIBILITY OF A HEARTY MEAL. BEFORE THE TRIP SOUTH, ITS HEAD & SHOULDERS BECAME WEDGED IN THE HOLE AND IT WAS UNABLE TO GET LOOSE. IT HAD TO BE PULLED OUT. ONCE FREE, IT TOOK OFF IN A BIG HURRY - WITHOUT EVEN A THANK YOU.

FAMILY

Erber - Hahn

Jacqueline & Raymond Hahn Jr.

Jacqueline Erber and Raymond Hahn, Jr. exchanged marriage vows August 31st at 2:00 in St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix. The bride is the daughter of Tom and Sue Erber of Charlevoix, and the bride groom is the son of Raymond and Dorothy Hahn of Parma, Ohio. One hundred and eighty guests looked on as Father James Gardner performed the double ring ceremony, in which the father gave the bride away. The bride wore a lace bodice gown with sheer lace sleeves off the shoulders and a satin skirt with a train. The waist length veil was trimmed with a satin bow. Jeannie Olach, the organist, provided the accompaniment for the wedding guests who joined in the singing of a hymn of the bride and groom's choice.

The bridesmaids were Laura Mankus, Mary Beth Kasprowiec, Tressa Salazar. They wore black linen dresses with pilgrim white collars, and they carried white baskets filled with arrangements of garden cut flowers.

The groomsmen were Joe Hahn and Tim Hahn, brothers of the groom, and Bob Hahn. The ushers were John Paul Erber, Karl Erber, and Sam Cimino.

The reception was given by the bride's parents at the Grey Gables Inn, with assistance from friends and relatives. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Hahn at the Erber residence. The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Lake Tahoe, Nevada, and afterwards they will make their home at 799 Green Meadows Drive, Perrysburg, Ohio.

Jacque Hahn works as a retirement administrator, and attended college at Hillsdale. Ray Hahn is a graduate of Ohio State University and works as an environmental engineer.

Legion Auxiliary to host casserole dinner

Members of the American Legion, Leslie T. Shapton Post #226, and the members of the Auxiliary, have scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 23 as the date for their annual fall salad and casserole dinner.

The dinner will be open to the public and will be served from 4:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. Cost is $4.50 for adults and $3 for children ten years and under for the all-you-can-eat dinner.

The dinner will feature chicken, ham, meat and vegetable casseroles, Polish Sausage and sauerkraut, varieties of potatoes, gelatins, all types of vegetables, salads of all types, relishes and deserts.

All Auxiliary and Post members will be contacted for donations of food for the dinner. Auxiliary President Katie Curtis and Vice-President Rosalyn Goldsuck are in charge of the dinner.

Holzwarth-Wellman

Julie Holzwarth and Jeffery Wellman were married Sept. 14 in a double ring ceremony at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey. The Rev. Andre Schildecker performed the ceremony before 180 wedding guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holzwarth of Naples, Fla. and the groom is the son of Helen Wellman and the late Gordon R. Wellman of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory lace with a beaded bodice and tiered chiffon train. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a beaded headband of pearls and sequins.

Offering wedding music was Lola Stratton, organist, and a brass quartet. A trumpet solo by Evelyn Wujcik was played during the lighting of the unity candle.

Robin Lee attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Laurie Cummings, Susan Lasley, Helen Holzwarth, Sally Roselli and Valerie Wellman. They wore tea length hunter green velvet dresses. Each attendant carried a bouquet of glazer lilies.

Jessie King, in a handmade, Victorian style dress with a cotton lace collar, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Frankie Roselli, nephew of the bride. Junior groomsmen Jimmy Lasley, nephew of the bride, carried the decorated unity candle down the aisle.

Best man was Steven Hufford and groomsmen and ushers were Greg Krueger, John Holzwarth, David Taylor, Ken Robinson and Jack Rorik.

Following the nuptials, the bride and groom traveled in a 1951 British Roadster to the Petoskey waterfront where they met the wedding party and boarded a 50 foot yacht for a cruise around Little Traverse Bay before the reception.

The reception, given by the parents of the bride, was held at the Terrace Inn in Bay View. The four layer wedding cake was decorated with fresh flowers, lace and cherubs.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the mother of the groom, was held Sept. 13 at Stafford's Bay View Inn.

Edjoining a honeymoon to Copper Harbor and the Keweenaw Mountain Lodge, the newlyweds are residing in Boyne City.

The bride works for PhoneGuide as a yellow pages representative.

The groom is a real estate broker for Vacation Properties Network in Boyne City.

Marching band featured twice this month

The Charlevoix Rayder Marching Band will cap its season with a community concert Monday, Oct. 21. The 85-member band under the direction of Terry Isenbarger will perform a variety of their favorite material. Selections will include classics such as "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" and a montage from the television series "The Civil War." The concert will also include contemporary music such as "The Shoop Shoop Song" and Disney's "The Little Mermaid."

The Flag Corps, under the direction of Becky Resch, will accompany the flag corps.

The cost of the concert is $2 per person or $5 for a family pass.

This past Monday evening the Charlevoix marching band joined 14 other Northern Michigan high school marching bands in Traverse City for the District Two Marching Band Exposition. The event was not a competition, but was designed to give the band an opportunity to showcase their own talents and also to see and hear what other bands are doing.

CHURCH

Bethany installs new pastor

Rev. Merlin R. Wellhousen joins church

A service of installation took place at Bethany Lutheran Church of Charlevoix Sept. 29 for its new pastor, Merlin R. Wellhousen. Six pastors from the area participated in the "laying on of the hands."

Rev. Kenneth Bernthal of Christ, Boyne City was the installer, and Rev. Daniel McVey of St. Matthew, Manistota and interim pastor at Bethany gave the sermon. Liturgist was Rev. Walter Kreger, Hope Lutheran of Bellaire, and the Lectors were Rev. Walter Teske, Zion Petoskey and Rev. Ted Turanski, St. Paul, Kalkaska. Lori Henderson served as pianist.

Pastor Wellhousen served two parishes in southern Arkansas and Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Oxford, Michigan.

Wellhousen graduated from Monroe High School, attended Concordia College in Ann Arbor and graduated with a B.A. degree. He also attended Concordia College in St. Paul, Minnesota and graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri with a Master of Divinity degree. His vicarage year was spent at Grace Lutheran Church in Destin, Florida.

He is married to Laura (Ness) Wellhousen and they have three children, Joshua age five and twins Jacob and Hanna, who are three. A dinner was served by the Ladies of the congregation in Fellowship Hall at the church following the installation service.

Rev. Merlin R. Wellhousen

Sunday morning worship unite is 9:30 a.m., and Sunday School is at 10:45 a.m. Holy Communion is celebrated on the first and third Sundays each month.

Congregational Church hosts German guests

During the week of October 11-17, eight Germans from Greifswald (in former East Germany) will be visiting Charlevoix as guests of members of the Ironton and Charlevoix Congregational Churches. These special visitors live in an area near the Baltic Sea that has been paired with northern Michigan churches of the United Church of Christ.

In June 1990, these same people hosted 17 visitors from churches in northern Michigan, and so it is a special honor to reciprocate by having them visit our homes, schools, and churches.

People in the Charlevoix community are invited to a potluck supper to welcome our Greifswald visitors. The dinner will be held at the church, 101 State St. on Monday, October 14 at 6 p.m. Please bring a dish to pass and table service. If possible, call the Charlevoix Congregational Church at 547-9122.

Nazarene Church has Sunday School program

The Charlevoix County Church of the Nazarene is presenting a Special Sunday School Program Sunday, Oct. 13, with the theme "Because I Care." For this Sunday's program, the highlight will be "Because I Care, I Give - Giving of Ourselves to Others and God." All are invited, at 10 a.m. for Sunday School, and 11 a.m. for worship services.

Obituaries

Mark Hamlin

Mark Hamlin, 23, of Oscoda died Aug. 2 at Blytheville, Ark. in a swimming accident.

Born Sept. 14, 1968, the son of Sue Hamlin of Oscoda and Larry Hamlin of St. Ignace, he was a lifelong resident of Oscoda.

After graduating from Oscoda Area High School in 1986, Hamlin joined the U.S. Air Force. At the time of his death he was a staff sergeant at Eaker Air Force Base.

In 1991 Hamlin married the former Sharon Johnson.

Hamlin is survived by his wife and parents. He has several relatives in the Charlevoix area. His grandparents are Vernard Hamlin and Adeline (Olszewski) Hamlin-Reese.

The funeral service took place at the Oscoda United Methodist Church. Arrangements were handled by the W.S. Bennett Funeral Home.

April Lynn Meadows

April Lynn Meadows, 28, of Rockford and formerly of Charlevoix, died Sept. 30, 1991.

Funeral was Oct. 4 at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Robert Bellairs of the Norwood United Methodist Church officiated and burial was in Norwood Cemetery.

Miss Meadows was born April 2, 1963, in Charlevoix; the daughter of Donald R. and Elizabeth (Richardson) Meadows. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1981 and worked in food service at the Charlevoix Area Hospital for one year. She moved to Rockford from Charlevoix one year ago where she worked in food service for the Rockford public schools.

She was a member of the Barnard Grange and attended the Norwood United Methodist.

Church:

She is survived by her father, Donald (Red) Meadows of Victor, W. Va., and her mother, Elizabeth Meadows of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Jon (Kathy) Harris of Belton, Texas and Mrs. Andrew (Barbara) Woolery of Killeen, Texas; two brothers, Rich Meadows and his wife Robyn of Harrisburg, Pa. and Scott Meadows of Dover, Del.; three nieces, Tami, Jennifer and Katy and two nephews, Steven and Nick; her maternal grandmother, Vida Richardson of Charlevoix; aunts, uncles and cousins.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Building Fund. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home where visitation was held last Thursday.

Florence Reiter

Florence Reiter, 84, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 4, 1991, at Borz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral mass was 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 7 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. James Gardiner officiated and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

A rosary was recited 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6 at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. Visitation was held 2-4 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

Mrs. Reiter was born Dec. 21, 1906, on Beaver Island, the daughter of William and Belle (O'Brien) Gibson. She grew up on Beaver Island and graduated from Beaver Island School in 1923. She moved with her family to Charlevoix in 1925 and worked for the Charlevoix Coal and Ice Co. and then moved to Detroit and worked at Commonwealth Brass Corp. for 21 years returning to Charlevoix in 1963.

She married Elmer Reiter of Detroit and Reading, Pa. on Aug. 23, 1956. He preceded her in death in 1963.

She was also preceded in death by a sister, Gladys Hayes.

Council votes to abandon alley

By L. Scott Swanson

The city council has decided to abandon a section of one alley, but wants more information before deciding what to do about a second alley. The section of alley to be abandoned is just to the east of the middle school, off of Mason Street. The other alley runs east and west on the block bounded by Huribut, Alice, Upright and May Streets.

The school system requested that the north-south section of the alley between the middle school and 209 Mason Street be abandoned. The alley continues on to run east and west between the middle school and State Street.

At the council meeting about half a dozen people offered comments prior to the council decision.

JoAnn Beemon of 204 Clinton Street said she didn't want the alley closed because her children use the alley to get to their bus stop on Mason Street. She also said she and her husband plan to build a garage behind their home and they will need access from the east-west portion of the alley.

Middle school teacher Norm Probert said quite a few kids use the alley. He encouraged the city to at least maintain a pedestrian easement.

Joan Carlson, speaking on behalf of the school, said that she formerly lived at 209 Mason. She noted that on one occasion when she contacted city hall, the official she spoke to didn't even realize that piece of property in question was an alley. Carlson said that part of the alley hadn't been used by cars for many years and that if it was, kids walking in the alley wouldn't be safe because there is a blind corner.

Councilman Ted Fetter moved that the city abandon the north-south section of the alley, provided the school installs a gate in the fence at the west end of the alley to allow pedestrians to get through. The city will also retain utility easements. The motion was seconded by Haggard and passed unanimously.

The second alley issue was not so easily resolved. Several people commented on the proposal, speaking both for and against it.

Myrna Boes of 208 Alice Street said that in the 28 years that she has lived at the east end of the alley, it has never been regularly used. She said that some of the occasions when it has been used have been when people drove through at a high rate of speed late at night. She favored closing the alley.

Larry Lenhart of 202 Huribut, near the other end of the alley, said he uses the alley to access his garage and wants to see the alley left open. Bob Kleiber said he is a friend of Lenhart's and has used the garage.

Carlson, at the west end of the alley since August of last year favored abandonment of the alley. She said the alley hasn't been maintained by the city and she paid for snowplowing the end of it next to her driveway.

Bruce Livingston of 210 Huribut asked what the city would do with the alley if it is kept. He said that right now the alley is just a grassy knoll. Livingston said that everyone living on the block has access to their lots from the street. Mary Livingston said that anyone needing access to work on electric lines has been able to gain access through the parking lot of the church located on Upright Street.

Councilman Bruce Russell said he has a problem closing the alley if it is going to eliminate someone's access to a garage.

The council decided to defer making a decision on abandonment to allow the city staff time to review the area to determine if indeed abandonment will eliminate access for Lenhart and others.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

I went to the drug store Saturday and asked the pharmacist about old-fashioned pain relievers. To my delight, she took me back into the store's archives and loaned me some samples of how people used to spell relief long before r-o-l-l-i-d-s-ever came along.

I first uncovered DeWitt's Little Early Risers, described as a most "pleasant" cathartic pill. Prompt in action, easy to take, and my favorite word for a medicine, elegant.

Then Bing Crosby endorsed a little thing called a Breath-o-lator. "A new scientific method of correcting unpleasant breath at its source."

Garfield's Seidlitz Powders, a sparkling antacid. Add the blue paper, to water and then the white paper and all will soon be well.

I found some stuff my mother used to use on me called Asthmador. In its powder form, you would set it in a saucer and it would burn like a small volcano and you were supposed to inhale the smoke to make you breath better.

There were lots of other things there but the most potent of all was this stuff called Loxol Pain Expeller. Good for muscles, strains, sprains, bruises, neuralgia, lumbago and wet feet. You'd have to feel something after using this stuff because it was 49 percent alcohol. Oh, there was one caution with it. Don't get it up your nose.

People have always looked for relief from pain over the years. The extremes they will go to are pretty well symbolized by those old time medicines. But not every pain can be touched by a medicine. Some pains are in the heart and in the spirit.

How do you spell relief? Instead of r-o-l-l-i-d-s, I spell it p-e-l-a-t-a. Praise the Lord all the time anyway. There is a hunger in every person's heart for something that is beyond themselves. If you have not discovered it already, you should know the difference that looking to the Lord for relief can make. He has the compassion heeded in times of grief. He has the strength in times of trial. He has the hope in times of doubt or fear.

The essential thing most folks look for when they seek relief is stopping the pain. God doesn't just want to relieve the pain. He wants to help you deal with its root cause. If you can learn how to praise the Lord all the time anyway, you will discover that there really is a "peace that passes all understanding" when you keep every moment of your life before Him.

Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Helen Deming is retiring after 23 years at Grandvue. During her tenure she has eased the transition to the facility for countless patients and their families.

Deming retires after 23 years at Grandvue

By Laurie Lounsbury

An elderly gentleman sits in the lobby of Grandvue Medical Center, his hat on his lap, gently squeezing the hand of his wife who is confined to a wheelchair. She returns his squeeze and smiles reassuringly at him.

When this loving man starts to feel badly because he had to place his wife in the Grandvue facility since he was no longer able to take care of her, he calls Helen Deming. Deming, a cheerful, smiling social worker, will listen to him, console him, and reassure him. She is his friend. After 23 years of service at Grandvue, Helen Deming has many friends like this man. "It's what I'll miss the most. My friends, the families of people here at Grandvue," says Deming, who will be retiring this Friday.

Deming has spent the last 23 years acting as a liaison for the patients at Grandvue and their families. She has helped them with their personal needs, made dental appointments, and eased their transition from home life to life in a nursing facility. "I also fix glasses and teeth," Deming says with a grin, as she sits behind her desk, which is covered with eye glasses in need of repair.

There are 72 patients at the Grandvue Medical Facility, and Deming has been an integral part of the nursing team that tends to those patients. She has seen a lot of changes at Grandvue over the years.

One of the biggest changes has been the amount of paperwork the government now requires for processing medicare and medicaid forms. "It ties me down in the office rather than letting me be out on the floor with the people, where I'd like to be," Deming said.

She has also seen nursing home care become much more refined. "People used to come here to die, now they come here to get better," Deming said of the improved care. "If people come here with a broken hip, or after they've had a stroke, we can treat them, and sometimes they can go home." And in the event they cannot go home, "At least the quality of their life is better."

Deming also explained how the prevailing attitudes for treatment and care of senile or confused people have changed. She said that 20 years ago, people were kept in restraints at all times, but now they've found that these people do better without the restraints, and their mental well being is definitely better.

Deming is retiring so that she can do some traveling with her husband, who has been retired for three years. She also looks forward to spending more time with her nine grandchildren, all of whom live within a ten mile radius of Boyne City.

She will be replaced by Linda Mansfield, who has a grandparent in Grandvue. Deming is thrilled with the choice of her replacement, saying, "I couldn't leave without knowing my replacement will do a good job. I have to know that Linda's such a warm person. I think the transition will go very well. I can slip out. She can slip in."

Deming seems surprised to find herself in the position of being old enough to retire. At 62, she doesn't think of herself as being old, nor does she seem old. "It's all in your head, anyway," she says of old age. "Like I tell my group of friends that I play cards with. They're all older than I am. And I told them, if you start acting old, I'm not gonna play with you anymore."

United Way begins 1991 campaign

The United Way of Charlevoix and East Jordan, launched its 1991 campaign Tuesday, Oct. 1, by distributing information packets to local volunteers.

"With the economic downturn this year, it is even more important for the United Way to reach its goal of $45,000 to aid those in need in our communities," said campaign chair Mike Paliwoda.

Volunteers from each agency which receives United Way funding will attempt to contact all local businesses and industries to encourage their participation as well as that of their employees. Summer residents were also contacted since many want to contribute toward making Charlevoix a better place to live.

Contributions will go to many area agencies. Among them are the Bergmann Center, Volunteers in Probation, Chip Counseling Center, Alano Club, Boy and Girl Scouts and the Senior Citizens Center.

Since state funding is being reduced to many agencies this year the United Way contributions will make up a larger share of their operating budgets. "This is a lofty goal, but one that I believe we can reach," said Bob Rajewski, United Way president.

By Laurie Lounsbury

The apple. It's not just another mundane piece of fruit. We know that as a food item it's nutritious, good for our teeth, and comes conveniently packaged in its own attractive, edible red wrapper.

But there's more to the apple than meets the taste buds. That rosy red orb, in its stunning simplicity, has become a mainstay of our vocabulary as well as our diets. Would you, for instance, eat an ugly fruit a day to keep the doctor away? Only if the doctor had an aversion to unsightly things.

Nobody refers to the town twelfth by saying, "He's a real bad avocado," nor do they explain his wretched behavior with, "Well, it figures. The chokecherry doesn't fall far from the tree."

Could a song become popular with a lyric about meeting your lover again during "Bosc pear blossom time?"

Would the Beatles have been such a big success if they had recorded their music on "Prune Records?"

And could a computer company sell as many computers if they were called Rutebega Computers?

Yes, the apple is definitely one of the staples in our lives, both literally and figuratively. You can wax poetic about an apple, or you can wax an apple and toss it in a bowl for decoration.

Children can become apple-cheeked from playing in the cold weather, or from stuffing their faces, hamster-like, with apples. Your loved one may be the apple of your eye one minute, and then the next, you may want to choke him in the Adam's apple.

One bad apple might not spoil the whole barrel, but who wants to go bobbing for apples in a barrel that's harboring a rotten one?

With such a plethora of apple references in our daily lives, it's no wonder that we dedicate a whole weekend of activities to the apple, and call it Applefest. The Applefest, which will take place this Saturday and Sunday, will feature crafts, food booths, and a bounty of locally grown fresh fruits and vegetables, along with the wide assortment of apples and apple products. It's a fine opportunity to load up on food for the fridge and food for thought, as you pay homage to the Apple.

Michigan has apples by the millions

Apple picking and cider sipping have been traditionally associated with the autumn season in Michigan.

And now that autumn is preparing to take center stage, the spotlight will shine on cider mills as cider, caramel apples, jams and jellies and many other apple goodies beckon travelers, reports AAA Michigan.

Michigan has produced more than 750 million pounds of apples every year for the past five years, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The varieties are mostly Empire, Red or Golden Delicious. An estimated one-third of the crop is sold as fresh fruit, with the remainder processed into apple juice and cider, frozen apples and other apple products.

At Michigan cider mills this fall, visitors will pay an average $2.92 for a gallon of cider, 16 cents more than 1990. Prices range from $2 to $4.25. And don't forget to pick up some doughnuts, just the right complement when sipping cider. A dozen averages $2.80, with prices varying from $1 to $4.

Rayders suffer first defeat

A few inches here and a few inches there result in 19-12
loss

Charlevoix fell just a few small chain lengths short in losing 19-12 to Traverse City St. Francis Friday evening.

Two crucial fourth down measurements came up just shy for the Rayders in their homecoming showdown with the Gladiators. The game was played in terrible weather with cold temperatures and blowing rain making life miserable.

Charlevoix opened the scoring in the first half on a 57-yard touchdown pass from Keith Carey to Vince Voisin. Carey hit Voisin on a short pass over the middle and Voisin parted the St. Francis defense like the Red Sea on his way to the end zone. The point after attempt failed and Charlevoix led 6-0.

St. Francis immediately responded with a long touchdown drive which concluded with an eight-yard scoring run early in the second quarter. The extra point gave St. Francis a 7-6 lead.

Charlevoix responded with a long drive that fizzled on the St. Francis 19. Charlevoix came up just short, just short on a fourth down play. When the referees brought out the chains and measured, the ball was so close that it someone had stepped on it and elongated it, maybe it would have reached the stick.

In the second half, Traverse City took advantage of the elements. Following a short punt into a driving wind in the third-quarter St. Francis scored on a 33 yard drive. A dropped snap on a punt in the fourth quarter allowed St. Francis to take over at the 12 yard line and they subsequently scored the game-winning touchdown.

Despite trailing 19-6 in the fourth quarter, a Rayder rally gave them an opportunity to win. Following St. Francis' third touchdown, the Rayders scored in four plays. Key plays in the drive were a long kick-off return by Brian Coolman and a long run up the middle by fullback Jody McGlinch. McGlinch covered significant real estate up the middle several times during the evening and totalled 157 yards on 13 carries.

Trailing 19-12, the Charlevoix defense stopped St. Francis on four plays. By scoring quickly and promptly stopping the St. Francis offense Charlevoix had removed the clock from its list of enemies.

Charlevoix began a 10-play drive to St. Francis territory. But on a fourth down play, the second quarter was revisited as Charlevoix was stopped just short of the first down marker and had to relinquish the ball.

Charlevoix outgained St. Francis in total yardage 345 to 242. In addition to McGlinch's 157 yards, Coolman carried 15 times for 86 yards. Leading tacklers for the Rayder defense were Jasper Sweeney, Ken Oliniger, Coolman, Lance Emig, Chris Pease, Ben Whitley and Todd Prevot.

Ryan Eveleigh, one of the captains who plays in the offensive and defensive line, was crowned homecoming king during halftime ceremonies.

Recreation league meetings

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will host organizational meetings for volleyball and basketball Wednesday, Oct. 9 in the council chambers at City Hall.

The volleyball meeting is at 7 p.m. followed by the basketball meeting at 8 p.m. The basketball session is for Charlevoix school district teams only.

Sorting out the guy with the ball

Lance Emig (#10 at the left) wraps up the St. Francis running back as Ben Whitley (68) and other teammates move in to assist on the tackle. Friday's homecoming game was played in terrible weather with cold winds and blowing rain. The Rayders played well defensively, holding the league leading Gladiators to just 212 total yards.

Weaving through tacklers

Rayder running back Lance Emig (#10) looks for some open space between Traverse City St. Francis defenders. Rayder running backs ran for more than 200 yards Friday night.

Cross country team wins at home

Boys' team takes Martin Invitational

Charlevoix's boys' cross country team defended its home turf Saturday with a win in the 10th Annual Claire Martin Cross Country Invitational. Charlevoix won the Class A-B and large C race with 152 points. Traverse City finished second with 187 points.

Traverse City's Andy Hayes easily took the individual title in the race. Hayes covered the five kilometer course on the front nine of the Belvedere Golf Course in a time of 16:06. That was 38 seconds better than the next finisher.

Mike Stevenski was Charlevoix's top individual finisher. He placed fifth overall with a time of 16:56.

In the Claire Martin Invitational, the team score is calculated by adding the places of the top eight runners. In most races only the top five runners are counted. The race rewards teams with depth.

Charlevoix placed all eight runners in the top 36 among the 82 runners in the race.

In addition to Stevenski, other Charlevoix runners and their places and times were:
5-Luke LaBlanc, 17:10; 9-Zach Pajtas, 17:19; 18-Matt Smith, 17:43; 21-Mike Bush, 17:43; 26-Erik Hess, 18:05; 31-Josh Scheels, 18:13; 36-Eric Dickinson, 18:36.

Charlevoix's girls' team finished second to Elk Rapids in the Class C-D race. Elk Rapids totaled 52 points while Charlevoix totaled 64.

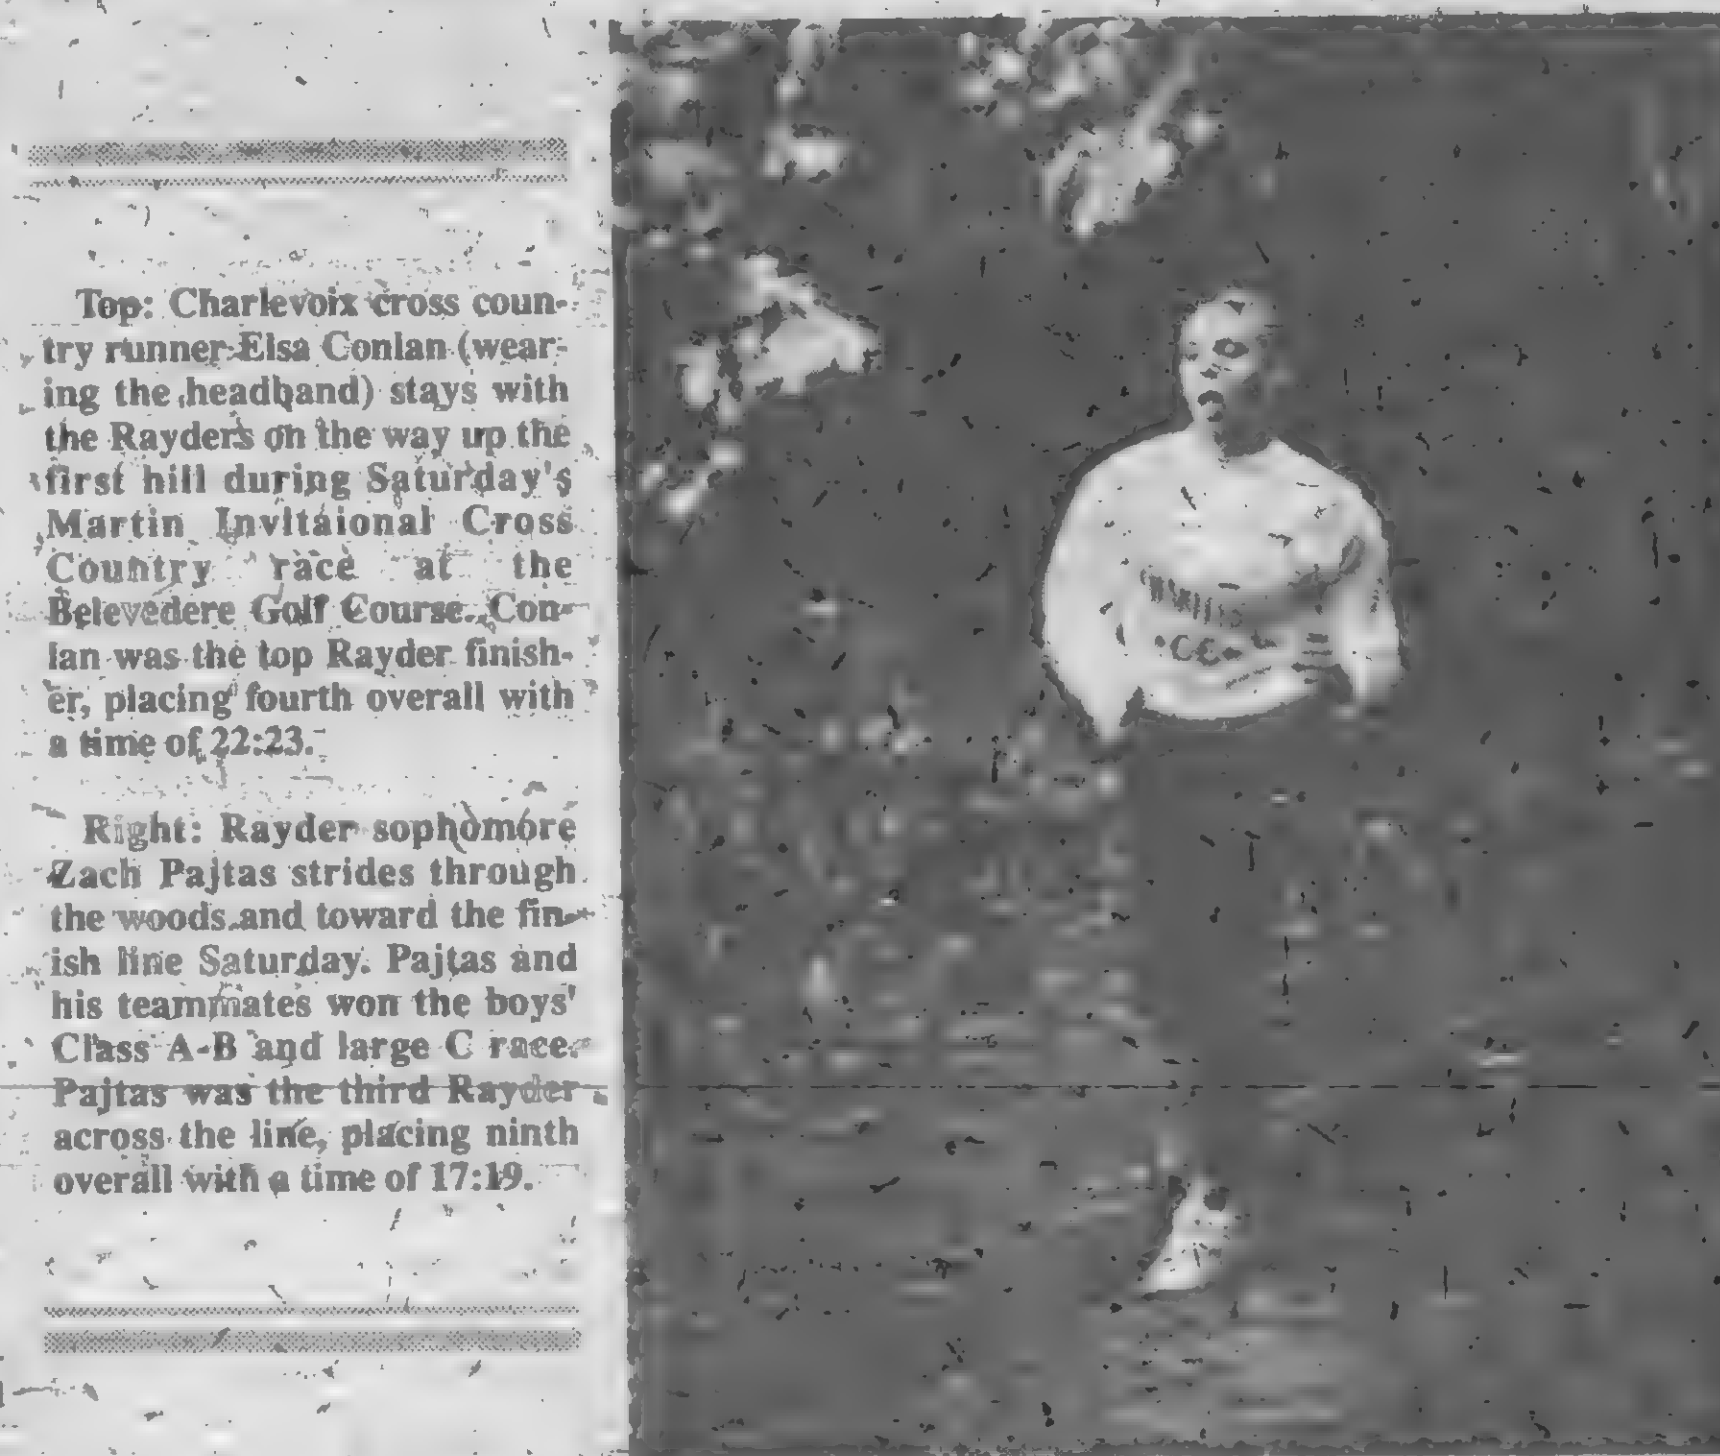

Charlevoix was running well, but three Elk Rapids runners passed Charlevoix runners near the end of the race.

As she has all season, Elsa Conlan led the Rayders. She finished fourth overall with a time of 22:28. Anne Schairbaum ran perhaps her best race so far this season, finishing thirteenth in a time of 23:27. Trina Holm finished right behind Schairbaum with a time of 23:33.

Other Rayder runners and their places and times were:

Twenty-six runners completed the girls' race.

This Saturday Charlevoix will compete in the Reese Invitational.

Top: Charlevoix cross country runner Elsa Conlan (wearing the headband) stays with the Rayders on the way up the first hill during Saturday's Martin Invitational Cross Country race at the Belvedere Golf Course. Conlan was the top Rayder finisher, placing fourth overall with a time of 22:23.

Right: Rayder sophomore Zach Pajtas strides through the woods and toward the finish line Saturday. Pajtas and his teammates won the boys' Class A-B and large C race. Pajtas was the third Rayder across the line, placing ninth overall with a time of 17:19.

Soccer team takes 4-1 homecoming win

Charlevoix's soccer team raised its season record to 4-3-1 with a 4-1 homecoming win over Roscommon Friday.

Sam Bingham scored three goals for the Rayders. Seth Arnold had Charlevoix's other goal.

As with several of Charlevoix's other games this season, the game was played in a winter moonson.

Jake Porath, Mike Rostar and Mike Dobulis picked up assists on Bingham's goals. Arnold's goal was unassisted.

Charlevoix's first goal came less than two minutes into the game. The second and third goals came at the 15 and 21 minute marks of the first half. Roscommon scored its only goal early in the second half.

Paul Cunningham, Chris McCullum and J.H. Heck anchored Charlevoix's defense in the game.

BUSINESS

For Friskes, orchards are a growing business

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories regarding Charlevoix area businesses being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former city councilman and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Autumn is cider making time! And Friske Orchards makes and sells a lot of the stuff - about 50,000 gallons each year.

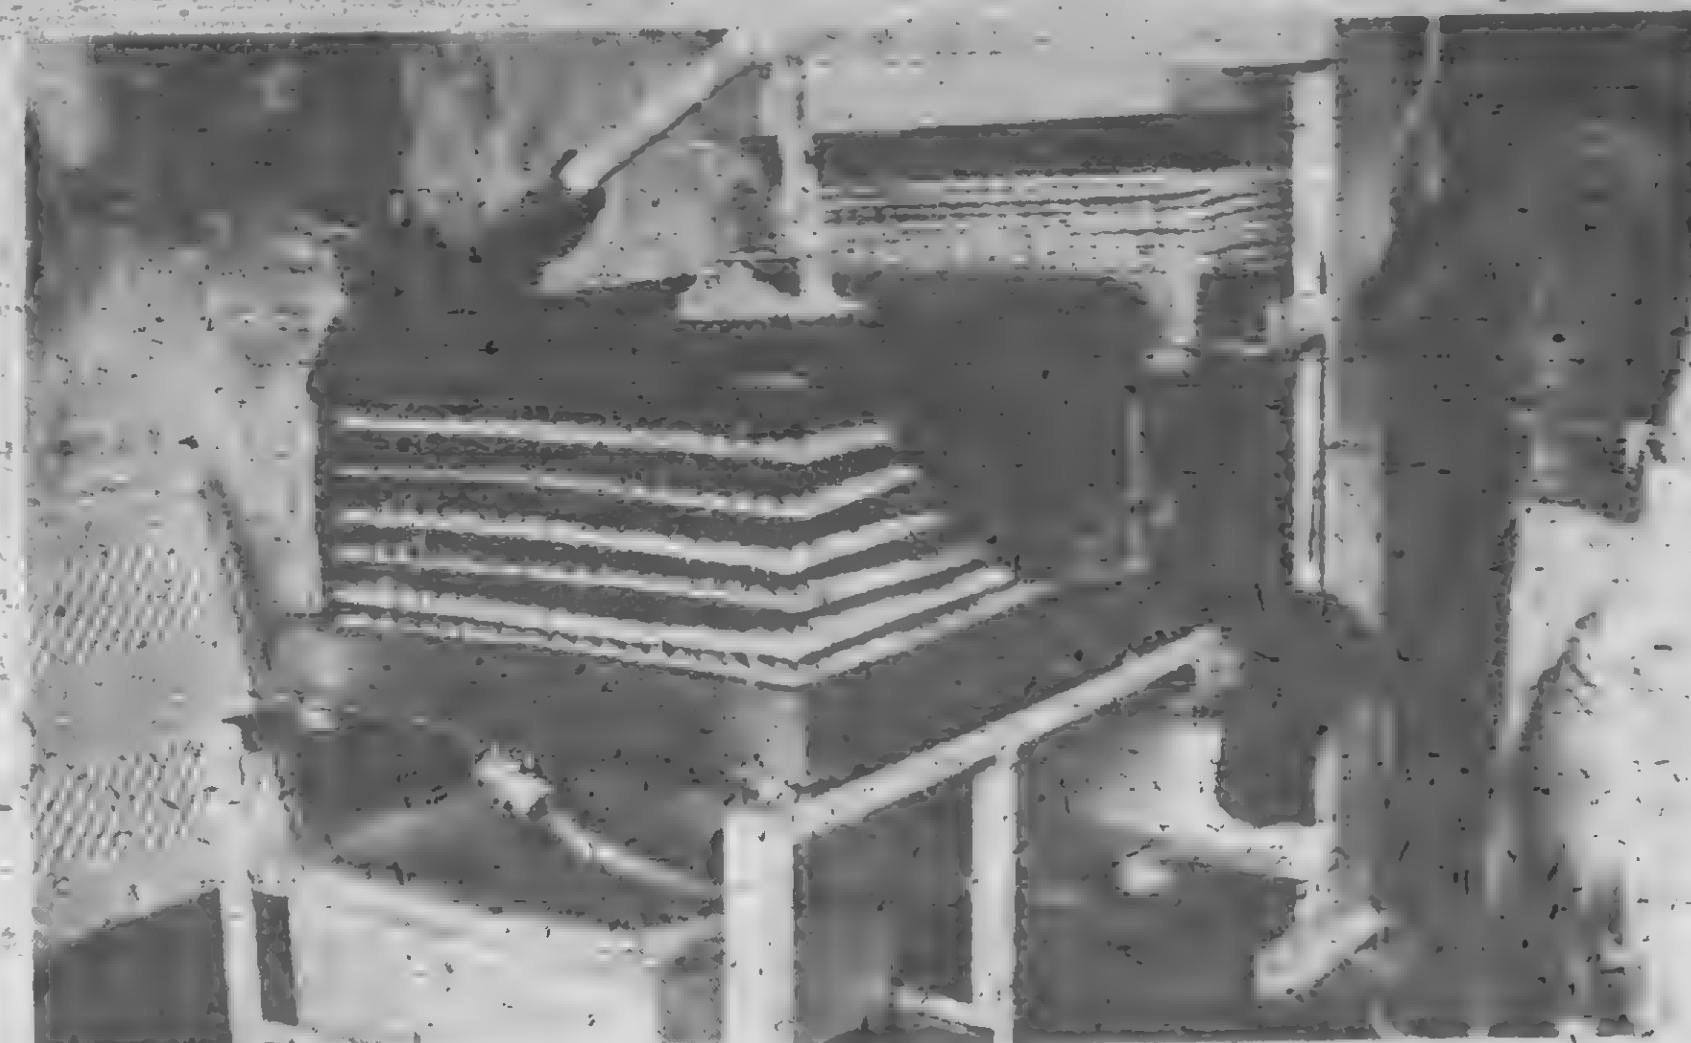

Friske Orchards is located just off County Road 48, two and a half miles east of Alwood and U.S. 31. For years the business has marketed apples, cherries, pears, peaches and plums. Founded in 1961 by Richard Friske, who was elected state representative in 1969, the business is now run by his Friske's sons, Richard and Cornelius (Neil). About ten thousand bushels of apples go to the cider mill. During apple harvesting season, cider is made every Friday. Neil directs the operation.

On one side of the cider building, thousands of one gallon jugs are piled high to the ceiling. On the opposite side is the production line. Fork lift trucks dump crates of apples onto conveyors that take them through a water scrubbing apparatus then into a machine that turns them into pulp.

The pulp is pumped through three-inch hoses into cloth-lined frames three inches deep and three feet by four feet wide. Plastic dividers separate frames which are stacked until they get to be about three feet high.

Once stacked, the frames are placed in the pressing chamber. Three thousand pounds of pressure squeeze the stack down to one-third of its original height, forcing out Cider presses at Friske Orchards turn out about 50,000 gallons of cider each year.

...apples, apples, thousands of apples

the cider which is captured in a reservoir below.

From there the cider is pumped into one of two 600-gallon stainless steel tanks. From the tanks, the cider runs into an apparatus which automatically fills the jugs as they revolve around it. The jugs are capped and packed four to a crate for delivery to stores. Various varieties of apples are used to give the cider more flavor. In addition to gallon jugs, cider is also available in pints and quarts.

Approximately 25 percent of the cider is sold over the counter at Friske's well-stocked store. One of the little known byproducts of cider making is the dry pulp remaining. The pulp is edible for humans, but is normally sold in 700-pound lots for $20 to deer hunters.

The cider mill is located in one of four large buildings on the farm which has many acres of various orchards. It is immediately apparent that neatness and orderliness are a high priority for the Friskes. The buildings and grounds are immaculate.

Friske's main business is raising apples of many varieties, but mostly Macintosh, golden delicious and northern spires. The orchards are in both Charlevoix and Antrim Counties. A hundred acres of trees produce 50,000 bushels of apples, 50 acres of cherry trees produce 60 tons of tart cherries and 1,000 lugs of sweet cherries. Fifteen acres of peach trees produce 3,000 bushels of peaches. Friskes also harvest 200 bushels of plums and 100 bushels of pears.

Friskes have approximately 15,000 trees. Every one of them is pruned once a year. In recent years, Friske's have been upgrading their trees, replacing old trees with new trees of a more productive species. About 2,000 new trees are planted each year. When planted, the trees are no less than half an inch thick at the base and are from four to five feet high. They are later pruned back to about 30 inches high. After about five years, the trees begin to bear fruit. Ultimately the new trees will approximately double the fruit production of the present trees.

This season apples were ready for picking two weeks earlier than usual. Ordinarily, seven people are able to handle maintenance and other daily requirements of the business. But in September and October help is needed. During the busy season migrant workers come to live and work in the orchards. The migrant families are housed in mobile homes. The 15 pickers work from eight to 10 hours a day and up to six days a week depending on weather conditions. For every crate of 18 bushels picked, they are paid $10, plus $2 more per crate if they stay the full season. Some of the workers make as much as $500 per week. Currently nine children of migrant workers attend the Ellsworth school.

Twenty-five percent of the fruit is sold over the counter in Friske's retail store. The balance is delivered in trucks to grocery stores throughout northern Michigan. Apples are graded. The larger, uniformly-shaped apples are sold in grocery stores and end up in pies or as apple sauce.

Friskes have ample storage facilities. They can store apples in a special cold storage building until April or until prices are higher.

Most of the apple growers in this area do not have cold storage buildings. Each year Friskes buy several thousand bushels of apples from other growers, mostly for cider.

If all of the bushels of fruit from Friske Orchards were stacked on top of each other, they would form a column 28 miles high. Or if they were all placed in a single row alongside U.S. 31 south of Charlevoix, that row would extend all the way to Elk Rapids.

Child care group forms

Child care providers from Charlevoix County met for the first time on Sept. 26. The eight providers present set the groundwork for a new support group for local child care professionals. Linda Adams, Extension Home Economist with the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service was on hand to guide the formation of the group.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, Oct. 23 at 7 p.m. in Boyne City. All licensed providers are welcome to attend. Call 582-6232 for more information.

Crooked Tree exhibits Nishnawbe art

An extraordinary mural depicting "The Last Supper," made of 2 million seed beads, will be the centerpiece of the 10th anniversary of the Crooked Tree Arts Councils annual Nishnawbe Festival during October.

The festival explores and shares in Native American culture and artistic expression recognizing the contribution of Native American art to the nation's cultural heritage, according to Peggy Midener, of East Jordan the festival chair.

An exhibition which includes "The Last Supper" entitled "The Legacy of Beadwork - A Native American Artist and Her Family Tradition" will also include smaller bead works and other media created by three generations of the Otto family who are Odawa-Ojibwas.

"The Last Supper" is 11 1/2 by 5 1/2 feet in size and is a unique visual testimony to the faith and skill demonstrated by the late Mary Qub DeGuvara in her rendition of the famous subject," says Midener, who is a noted artist in her own right.

The simple loom and other tools made for her by her husband are also exhibited to illustrate that some artists can create great work from humble equipment. Mary's years of tedious preparation and work under adverse conditions led to this memorable beaded treasure.

Four paintings by Josephine Otto Adams, done more than 50 years ago as a student, will be on loan by the Petoskey Public Schools for the show. They depict scenes scenes from the Hiawatha Legend, and are part of a series of eight paintings on permanent display in the Middle School Library. Recent water colors, done in her later years will be included.

Veronica Otto High, to whom the beaded mural was bequeathed, will display her own beadwork done from patterns left by her sister, Mary. Veronica's son, Dan Ching-

K-5 conferences scheduled

Charlevoix Elementary School will host fall parent-teacher conferences Oct. 29, Nov. 5 and 6. Parents received the first information on Monday Oct. 7, in a letter which is to be returned to the school no later than Oct. 15. Teachers will then schedule conferences and send home the scheduled dates for the individual parent conferences.

Evening conferences will take place Oct. 29 and Nov. 5 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Afternoon conferences will take place Nov. 6 from 1 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.

The elementary school will be dismissing all students from school Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 11:30 a.m. for the remainder of the day. There will be no afternoon kindergarten classes or hot lunch served on that date.

If you have any questions regarding fall conferences, please feel free to contact the elementary office at 547-3215.

Wynkoop bound over on McCleese charges

Deputy testifies that the defendant drew a map to the grave

By L. Scott Swanson

Andrew Wynkoop drew a map to the grave of Katherine McCleese, and told police he remembered talking to McCleese at a party, but blacked out prior to waking up later in a car with McCleese's naked corpse. After waking up, Wynkoop became ill and thought about killing himself before putting McCleese's body in the trunk of the car and taking it to Bells Bay and

"It was evident to me (that) he wanted to talk about it, but couldn't or had a hard time talking about it."

Deputy Mike Wheat, testifying at preliminary examination, burying it. Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department Deputy Mike Wheat testified that Wynkoop drew the map and told Wheat and Sheriff George Lasater about the murder during an April 4 interview in the sheriff's department squad room. Wheat testified last Thursday in Charlevoix District Court during a preliminary examination for Wynkoop, Wynkoop faces charges of kidnapping, criminal sexual conduct and first degree murder in the disappearance and death of McCleese. Wheat was one of six people to testify. After hearing testimony, Judge Harvey Varnum bound Wynkoop over to Circuit Court for arraignment Oct. 28. The purpose of a preliminary examination is to determine if evidence indicates a crime has been committed and if the defendant had an opportunity to commit the crime. McCleese disappeared from a party near Bay Shore March 23. Her body was unearthed near the entrance to Fisherman's Island State Park at Bells Bay April 5. Wheat testified as to how Wynkoop became a suspect and was subsequently taken into custody and charged.

Wheat said two things initially led police to suspect Wynkoop. First, he was a suspect in the disappearance of 13-year-old Heather Kleiber. Kleiber disappeared in August of 1989. Her body was discovered May 4 in a wooded area near Medusa Creek. Wynkoop faces separate charges in that case. In addition to being a suspect in the Kleiber case, Wynkoop also had been seen at the Bay Shore party near where McCleese was last seen.

Wheat testified that as police investigated the McCleese case additional evidence pointed to Wynkoop. That evidence included the following:

Wynkoop drove to the party in his car with three other people. He left without those people.

Wynkoop parked his car quite a distance to the north of the building where the party took place. When police began looking for McCleese, they found her shoes and jacket in an area between where her truck was parked and where Wynkoop's car had been parked.

Another woman at the party had been in a car near McCleese's truck shortly before McCleese disappeared. That woman reported that a man approached her car and tried to get into it. The woman locked the door. During the investigation the woman picked Wynkoop out of a photo line-up and identified him as the man who tried to get into her car.

Police obtained a search warrant for Wynkoop's car and jacket. The car contained a blanket and a shovel. The blanket had blood, saliva and semen stains as well as hair fibers matching blood, saliva and hair fibers belonging to McCleese. The shovel had dirt on the blade and the handle appeared to have been recently broken. The jacket had a spot of blood on it and pink lipstick on the right sleeve. McCleese's purse also contained pink lipstick.

Based on evidence from the car, police obtained a search warrant to take blood and hair samples from Wynkoop. Wheat testified that he and Lasater picked up Wynkoop at his home near Norwood April 4 with the intention of taking him to the hospital where samples would be collected.

As the three rode into town, Wheat and Wynkoop began talking. Wheat testified that Wynkoop said he would like to talk about the matter at the sheriff's department prior to having blood and hair samples taken.

Wynkoop was advised of his Miranda rights and signed a waiver

Summaries of each witnesses' testimony

(Following are brief summaries of what each witness testified to in the preliminary examination of Andrew Wynkoop Thursday, Oct. 10. Wynkoop is charged with kidnapping, criminal sexual conduct and murder in the March 23 death of 28-year-old Katherine McCleese.)

1. Pauline Risteanu. Risteanu was a friend of McCleese. They got together between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. March 22. They drove to the Bay Shore party in McCleese's truck, arriving between 11 and 11:30 p.m. The two became separated at the party and when Risteanu looked for McCleese, she could not find her.

"She just kind of disappeared. I didn't know where she went," Risteanu testified.

Risteanu left word with people at the party to tell McCleese she had gotten a ride home with someone else.

2. Robin Hudson. Hudson arrived at the party between 10:30 and 11

Local people adopt wild horses

A wild-eyed mustang stared warily into the camera lens, unsure of whether he wanted to bolt or hang around and see what effect a clicking camera would have on him. Grant puts hospital near goal

The Frey Foundation has approved a grant of $150,000 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital building campaign.

"We are so pleased at this generous grant," said Dr. Jeffrey Porter, D.D.S., general campaign chairman. "With this wonderful support, all of our volunteers will certainly be motivated to raise the remaining dollars to meet our $1.4 million goal."

The first $75,000 payment on the Foundation's grant will be made in December, 1991. The second $75,000 payment, scheduled for December, 1992, is structured as a "challenge," contingent upon Charlevoix Area Hospital completing a successful campaign.

"The Frey Foundation realized that Charlevoix Area Hospital is a vital provider of health services for the Charlevoix/Antrim areas. We are pleased to be of help to both ensure continuation of the hospital's services, and its future," stated John Frey, a Charlevoix resident and Trustee of the Frey Foundation.

The hospital campaign, which began in June, has raised $1,348,000 as of Oct. 11. Another week of soliciting in the Charlevoix area and outlying communities remains in the planned campaign period.

The campaign is to raise approximately one-half of the dollars necessary to build a new surgical facility, remodel the obstetrical unit, and provide larger waiting areas for the emergency and admitting departments. Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, says, "We want to bring our hospital in line with the kind of services it will be most appropriate for us to provide into the next century."

Both Porter and Krueger expressed their appreciation for the demonstration of support for the project shown by the Frey grant.

The Frey Foundation was established in 1974 by Ed and Frances Frey. It is a private foundation with assets of approximately $60,000,000. The Foundation makes grants for projects focused on critical and emerging needs in education, human services, health care, the arts and the environment in greater Grand Rapids and selected areas of Northern Michigan.

...wild horses find home in northern Michigan

plained Beishlag, who adopted a two-year-old mare. "The Air Force base in Nevada was putting out a thousand gallons of water a day to help these wild horses, and the horses got so they were following the water trucks around the base."

Beishlag has known about the wild horse adoption program for quite some time, and decided to adopt a horse of her own this summer when her son, Garrett, headed for college. "I told him I wasn't going to sit around and do nothing after he left," Beishlag said.

Beishlag is doing anything but sitting around with the horse she acquired. Her horse is proving to be quite a challenge. According to the information provided to her by the Bureau of Land Management, the two-year-old horse had just been captured in June, and Beishlag received it in July, which means it only spent one month in captivity. It will not let anyone touch it, or even get near it. Beishlag believes the horse is in foal, and will be giving birth sometime this coming spring. If the horse has trouble foaling, a veterinarian would need a lot of armor to get close enough to help.

Because horses can live to be as old as twenty or twenty-five, Beishlag is hopeful that with time, the horse will be manageable. "I think it'll come around, but I don't know if it'll come around by spring," Beishlag said, referring to the horse's foaling time and the possible problems facing them. Beishlag seems to be faring better with her two horses, a one-year-old male that was captured last February, and a three-year-old mare that was in extremely poor health than Beishlag. The two women went to Manchester, Michigan last July to pick up their horses, after making an application to the Nevada Bureau of Land Management. In Manchester, the women drew numbers, along with sixty-six other people, to determine the order of selection. Nachazel drew number 45, and Beishlag drew number 54, putting her near the end of the selection process. "I'd pick out a horse I wanted, then someone else ahead of me would get it, so I'd pick out another, and the same thing would happen. There were very few desirable horses left when my turn came," Beishlag said.

While Beishlag doesn't regret her decision to adopt a horse, she admits that it has been more of a challenge than she originally anticipated. She's not sure if she would do it again. Adopting a wild horse is obviously a gamble. You never know if the horse will be trainable or manageable. Beishlag's two-year-old mare and Nachazel's one-year-old mustang bear that out. One can't be approached, and the other has already accepted a saddle on his back. It looks like Nachazel's gamble might pay off a little earlier than Beishlag's. Nachazel's horse is named, appropriately enough, Vegas.

What Our Building Project Is All About...

Our current surgical facilities were built in 1954 and do not accommodate today's technology and staff to properly deliver modern health care. The major portion of the building project is to build a new surgical and ambulatory care facility which will allow Charlevoix Area Hospital to serve its growing outpatient population in a quality manner.

Also included is a remodeling of the obstetrical unit which is also four decades old and requires major repair. As we remodel this unit, we want to bring it into the next century by offering single-room maternity care.

In addition, cramped waiting areas for the Emergency Department and Admitting areas will be enlarged to provide improved patient convenience and privacy.

These improvements will bring Charlevoix Area Hospital into the next century and provide the services it is most feasible for our hospital to provide area residents close to home.

You Can Still Help...

The $1.4 million Capital Campaign for Charlevoix Area Hospital has been very successful. We have seen outstanding support from the communities we serve.

For that reason, we are providing here a tear-off form for your convenience in making your contribution or pledge. Your gift will be greatly appreciated by all the members of the area who have worked so diligently throughout the summer on behalf of the hospital.

Because of the time factor for the campaign, it was impossible to reach everyone in the community. We know there are still many

Courier wins two state awards

The Charlevoix Courier received two awards in this year's Michigan Press Association competition.

Courier editor L. Scott Swanson received a second place in the Weekly Class C division for local columns.

Judges comments were: "Swanson's best effort - 'Who's Game?' was a great piece. Readers share his worry in the 'Produce' column that if he holds still, his wife will call him along with the veggies. Good stuff."

The Courier also received a third place award for use of color. A record number (125) of articles were submitted to the competition by newspaper editors and state members of the Michigan Press Association served as judges for the competition.

OPINIONS

EDITH

There are not many of us left who can remember taking a slow boat to China, but I can! I was about six years of age when it took twenty-eight days to go from San Francisco to Shanghai on the Japanese liner, the Siberia Maru.

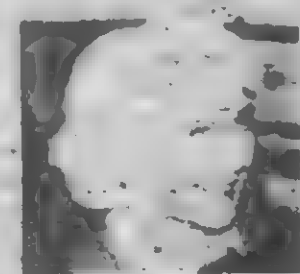

That's why my recent trip to Guatemala was so mind-boggling!

We checked out of our five star luxury hotel, The Camino Real Tikal, located in the middle of the Central American jungle, at 10:30 in the morning and I walked through my front door in Charlevoix at 10:30 that night. Deducting the 2 hour time change, that's a ten hour trip. This includes clearing customs and enjoying a pleasant dinner stop-over in New Orleans. That's pretty impressive.

Flying in a private Lear jet beats Midwest Airlines any day. No getting to the airport an hour ahead of time. No waiting in line.

It's taken me all week to tow my thoughts back from the rain forests of Peten. One day I see black monkeys swinging from the trees, and the next day there are black squirrels scampering across my freshly mowed lawn. One day I see delicate orchids growing in the chicle trees, and the next day I marvel at the glory of our red and yellow maples turning color. One day I see women and children standing in the water by the shore of a lake washing their clothes on flat slab of rocks, and the next day I push the flat buttons on my washer and dryer.

Tikal is only minutes away from the National Park where many Mayan temples have been hidden by jungle for centuries. Known today as the most important first-class archaeological site of Mayan culture, we were told that only 20 percent of the temples and palaces have been uncovered to date. No one knows what treasures are yet to be found here. Still, 100,000 visitors a year from all over the world climb the steep, difficult trail to the top of the temples — so high they are often obscured by mist.

Animal road hazards

Good grief, as if it's not enough that we have to be constantly on the alert for a herd of deer running out to play chicken with us on the highway! Now, reliable sources reveal that other species in the animal kingdom have jumped on the bandwagon, or in front of the station wagon, so to speak, and are wandering from far afield to near a highway. One alert driver reported sighting a flock of wild turkeys crossing a county road, Mom, Tom, and the little gobbler just sauntered along at a leisurely pace, blithely unconcerned about becoming an early Thanksgiving dinner.

A night-time highway driver was forced to a screaming halt when he spotted what he believed to be a herd of deer in the middle of the road. Closer inspection revealed that it wasn't a herd of deer, but a herd of Guineas that were making their way to greener pastures on the other side of the road. Cows do not get frightened and bolt for safety the way deer do. They saunter slowly to safety, or wherever it is they're going. These cows apparently weren't too sure about that. The driver reports sitting there in the road for at least ten minutes while the cows lowed and mooed, bumper to bumper with each other while they tried to decide if the cross-concrete trip was really worth it. They must have decided it wasn't, because they finally turned around and headed back for the home field advantage.

A hiker spotted a silver fox while walking down the middle of a track road. The fox was in no imminent danger of being hit by a vehicle, as it was on an infrequently used road, but the hiker who spotted it had immediate thoughts of a nice pair of silver fox earmuffs for the winter. It was the fox's good fortune that the hiker couldn't hit the broad side of a barn with a two by four, so hitting the fox would have been inconceivable, except maybe with an M-79 grenade launcher, which she didn't happen to have on her at the time.

Add to this the black squirrel brigade, making daily crossings across the channel. The squirrels somehow got wind of the idea that the food supply was better on the other side of the channel, so they began making the short swim to The Promised Land. The only problem was that once there, they couldn't scale the concrete retaining wall and get out. Swirling squirrels in the channel could become a boating hazard if this keeps up.

These unusual sightings are in addition to the dozens of highway crossings attempted by lesser animals.

Those aren't even newsworthy, since, by the next day there is nothing left of them, but a shadowy blot in the road, unless the shadowy blot was a skunk before it got flattened. If that's the case, the shadowy blot will still be emitting vapors that will eat the chrome off your car.

What is causing this preponderance of peculiar animal crossings? At a time of year when most human beings are answering the call of their nesting instincts, curling up on the sofa with a cold beer, a bag of chips and a good football game on T.V., these animals are out doing a moon dance on the only smooth flat, dancing surface they can find—the highways. Maybe they would discontinue this hazardous behavior if we, as responsible, caring, human beings extended a little common courtesy to the wayfaring fauna. With that in mind, do your part to save an animal's life. Invite a fox or a turkey over to watch the next Lion's game with you. The fox will probably turn you down, having better things to do, but a turkey's not bad company. Just have plenty of beer on hand. They like long necks.

Conservancy receives donation and grant

The Little Traverse Conservancy announced the acceptance of a donation of three lots in the Port St. James Subdivision on Beaver Island in St. James Township.

The gift was donated by Walker and Grace Hill of East Lansing. Walker Hill, a former Michigan State professor of education, has been coming to Beaver Island for 30 years.

The Conservancy will evaluate the property and determine whether it merits preservation as a nature preserve or whether it should be sold and the proceeds used to purchase significant natural lands on Beaver Island. The evaluation will include a careful survey of the property's natural features and discussions with the Association and surrounding property owners to determine the feasibility of creating a nature preserve.

Conservancy Land Protection Specialist Pam Hogoboom, in announcing the donation, said, "The Trustees and members of the Little Traverse Conservancy and all who are concerned with the preservation of Beaver Island's natural beauty are grateful to Mr. & Mrs. Hill for their generosity and foresight."

Grant expands office

The Frey Foundation of Grand Rapids recently announced that it is providing a grant of $25,000 to the Little Traverse Conservancy to help the conservation group expand its office building, located on Powell Road near Harbor Springs.

Jim Richmond, President of the foundation, indicated that the Foundation is very interested in the work the Conservancy is doing in northern Michigan. "The environment is a priority for the Frey Foundation," Richmond said, "and we're very impressed with the work the Conservancy is doing." Richmond indicated that the Foundation sees its grant as a way to help the Conservancy accomplish more in the future.

The Foundation's enthusiasm was shared by Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey, who accepted the grant on the Conservancy's behalf. "We're delighted to receive this assistance from the Frey Foundation," Bailey said, adding that the Conservancy's office building is being funded entirely by special gifts. "Thanks to the generosity of the Frey Foundation and others," he noted, "we are not spending one penny from our operating fund on conservation programs to expand the building — it is all coming from special gifts and grants."

Sheriff's department offers house watch program

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is once again reminding residents of Charlevoix County that if they are to be absent from their homes for any period of time, the department has a program to check on these homes.

In order to participate in this program, the homeowner must contact the sheriff's office in person and request the security check form, or call the Sheriff's office at 547-4461 and request a form be sent to them. If a resident has applied for this program in the past the request must be re-submitted each year. It should be noted, this program does not take the place of private security programs, but adds to the coverage and works along with these private organizations.

Retirement home under construction

By Laurie Lounsbury

"Older people deserve something like this, something really nice," said Fred Savage, foreman of Boulder Park Terrace. "It's going to be a great facility."

Most people would agree with Savage that Boulder Park Terrace will be something really nice. It definitely won't bear any resemblance to the nursing homes of the past, which is exactly what the new facility is trying to avoid. "This is Twenty-First Century Health Care," said Deb Saurer, Administrator of Boulder Park Terrace. "This will not be institutional looking. It will be more hotel and restaurant style."

Boulder Park Terrace will be a combination of a complete health care facility and a tasteful retirement home. Many of the planned design features will be similar to that of the Weatherlane or the Perry Hotel; Stone fireplaces, brick green carpeting, and decorator fabrics. Meal service will be restaurant style, served by waitresses instead of being served on a plastic tray.

While Boulder Park Terrace will offer complete skilled health care, one need not be sick or disabled to take up residency. One side of Boulder Park Terrace will be designed for people that need skilled health care, and the other side will be for senior citizens in good health who simply prefer the security of living where help is always close by.

Construction on Boulder Park Terrace is expected to be completed by the second week of February, with applications being accepted sometime in April. The facility stretches between Garfield Avenue and the new section of Upright Street, behind the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

CPR course scheduled

A four-hour course in Basic Cardiac Life Support (BCLS) will be taught at the Charlevoix Area Hospital Wednesday, Oct. 23 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the hospital classroom. CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) to save victims of heart attack, drowning, and other similar incidents, will be included along with life-saving techniques to help someone who is choking. The evening will include intensive hands-on experience using manikins, and also a written examination.

The class is open to anyone, however, registration is limited to 25. Cost for the class is $20 and includes a manual which should be picked up at the hospital switchboard at the time of registration and studied prior to the class.

Nurses on the Charlevoix Area Hospital staff will conduct the class in cooperation with the American Heart Association. Following successful completion of the course, participants will be certified in BCLS by the American Heart Association.

Those interested may call 547-4024 for further details. Deadline for registration is Monday, Oct. 21.

Marching band plans season finale

The Charlevoix Rayder Marching Band will cap its season with a community concert Monday, Oct. 21. The 85-member band under the direction of Terry Isenbarger will perform a variety of their favorite material. Selections will include classics such as "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" and a montage from the television series "The Civil War." The concert will also include contemporary music such as "The Shoop Shoop Song" and Disney's "The Little Mermaid."

The Flag Corps, under the direction of Becky Resch, will accompany the flag corps.

The cost of the concert is $2 per person or $5 for a family pass.

Obituaries

Margaret A. Juilleret

Margaret A. Juilleret, 52, of Charlevoix died Oct. 14, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix with the Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton officiating. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Juilleret was born Dec. 17, 1938, in Potosky, the daughter of Laurence and Lora A. (Cole) Foley. She was raised in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1957.

On June 5, 1957, she married David F. Juilleret in Charlevoix.

She was a member and very active in the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. She was a member of the Women of the Church of God (WCO), was a Sunday school teacher, sang in the choir, and was youth director for many years.

Survivors include her husband, David F. Juilleret of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Jeffery (Rebecca) Resch of Charlevoix and Jennifer Juilleret of Sacramento, Calif.; one son, Daniel F. and his wife Carol of Sonoma, Calif.; one granddaughter, Heather Resch; her mother, Lora A. Foley of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Herbert (Mary) Hilliker of Burton and Lora J. Foley of Charlevoix; and eight nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to AirLife-Line or to the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home where friends may call from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

AirLife-Line is a non-profit organization of private pilots which transports ambulatory patients and/or time critical cargo within a 500 mile distance of the patient's location.

Hugh Scott

Former Charlevoix resident, Hugh Scott, 99, died Oct. 10, 1991, at Michigan Veterans Facility in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Scott was born Aug. 26, 1892, in Drayton Plains, the son of Stephen and Rose (Kuykendall) Scott. He was a World War I veteran who served in France with the Rainbow Division in 1917-18.

He married Helen Lamphson in 1922 and after her death in 1957 he married Mildred Eckinger MacArthur of Charlevoix and Flint. She died in 1989.

A construction superintendent for Darren and Armstrong of Detroit prior to retirement, Mr. Scott was a descendant of signers to the Magna Carta and the Crusaders.

He was a member of the Hogeoot Society of Michigan and Florida Sons of the American Revolution. He was a member of the Charlevoix Lions Club, Royal Oak

Mark Hamlin

Mark Hamlin, 23, of Oscoda died Aug. 2 at Blytheville, Ark. in a swimming accident.

Born Sept. 14, 1968, the son of Sue Hamlin of Oscoda and Larry Hamlin of St. Ignace, he was a lifelong resident of Oscoda.

After graduating from Oscoda Area High School in 1986, Hamlin joined the U.S. Air Force. At the time of his death he was a staff sergeant at Bunker Air Force Base.

In 1991 Hamlin married the former Sharon Johnson.

Hamlin is survived by his wife and parents. He has several relatives in the Charlevoix area. His grandparents are Vernard Hamlin and Adeline (Olszewski) Hamlin-Reese.

The funeral service took place at the Oscoda United Methodist Church. Arrangements were handled by the W.S. Bennett Funeral Home.

Golfers place second in league

Wayne Joy qualifies for state finals

Charlevoix's high school golf team placed second in the league meet and fourth in the regional meet this past week. Senior Wayne Joy shot an 85 at the regional to qualify for the state finals this Friday.

The Rayders missed the league title by five strokes, Inland Lakes took the title with a score of 359 while Charlevoix placed second with a 364. Dan Boss and Robert Sineway each shot an 89 for the meet and were named All-League.

Other Charlevoix golfers and their league scores were: Wayne Joy 93; Corey Crain 99; Travis Blissett 101; and Jeremy Doan 106. The league match took place Oct. 9 at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Charlevoix placed fourth in the regional match Oct. 12 at Harbor Springs. Clare won the match, followed by Elk Rapids and Harbor Springs.

The Rayders' score of 375 left them 27 points out of first and 17 strokes away from third.

Joy shot an 85 to qualify for state finals.

Other Rayder scores were: Boss 95; Crain 95; Blissett 100; and Sineway 103.

Rayders beat Mancelona 42-0

Charlevoix's football team was gracious enough not to throw any wrenches into Mancelona's halftime ceremonies, but aside from that the Rayders made the Ironmen's evening long and miserable.

Charlevoix scored early, late and even in the middle of the game in taking a 42-0 win. The win brought the Rayders record to 5-1 overall and 4-1 in league play. Mancelona fell to 2-4 overall and 1-3 in league play.

Senior running back Brian Coolman scored on a 16-yard run with 7:37 left in the first quarter. Vance Voisin kicked the extra point.

Ken Olinger then intercepted a pass and a few plays later scored on a 33-yard pass from Don Jess. Jess, a sophomore, made his first start at quarterback after being called up to replace Keith Carey who was injured earlier in the week.

In the second quarter, Coolman scored on a 3-yard run and Jody McGlinch on a 6-yard run. Figuring in extra points, the halftime score totaled 27-0.

Charlevoix scored two more touchdowns in the second half. Voisin took a pass from Jess and went 60 yards while Dan Avery scored on a 14-yard run. Olinger ran in a 2-point conversion.

For the night, Jess was 4 of 4 for 156 yards in passing. Olinger caught three for 96 yards. In rushing, Coolman, McGlinch, B.J. Van-Leo, Lance Emig and Jess ran a total of 28 times for 305 yards. That's an average of more than 10 yards per carry. Coolman totalled 85 yards.

Defensively, Todd Prevo led the team with nine solo tackles and six assists. Benn Whitley was party to 14 tackles. Jasper Sweeney was in

Cross Country team beginning to peak

Charlevoix's boys cross country team got a chance to compete against some of the other top Class C teams in the state this past weekend. And the Rayders served notice that they won't be giving up their state Class C crown without a fight.

Charlevoix placed second at the Reese Invitational Saturday, just three points behind Carson City-Crystal.

Charlevoix, Carson City-Crystal and Grant are expected to be three of the teams fighting for the Class C title at the state finals race Nov. 2.

Although they have lacked consistency, in general the Rayders have been improving throughout the season. Mike Sevinski and Matt Smith finished third and fifth Saturday. They have been among the leaders in most races this season.

Luke LaBlanc and Zach Pajias finished 11 and 14 Saturday. Their times have continued to improve. After the top four runners, there has been a gap. Since the scores from the top five runners count toward the team score at state, it's obvious that gap has to close.

Josh Scheels and Mike Bush finished 29 and 30 Saturday. Scheels ran a 17:45 and Bush ran a 17:47. Pajias ran a 17:14. But Scheels and Bush have been improving particularly in recent weeks.

Come Nov. 2, the defending state champions could make things very interesting.

...Rayders win big

on 11 tackles and Chris Pease was involved in nine tackles from his comeback position.

This Friday Charlevoix will travel to Petoskey. The following week they will travel to Boyne City and they will close the season at home against Rogers City.

With three weeks left in the season, Charlevoix is still in the hunt for a post-season playoff spot.

..Wynkoop bound over to Circuit Court

p.m. with her husband. Later, around 1 a.m., she went to her car. While she was in her car, a man approached it and grabbed the door handle, trying to get in. All of the doors were locked except the one Hudson entered and she quickly locked that.

"I heard mumbling and something about a ride," Hudson testified. She refused to let the man enter the car and screamed at him to get away from the car which he did. Hudson had seen the man at the party prior to the incident at the car.

As she returned to the party, Hudson saw McCleese walking toward the area where the car and McCleese's truck were parked.

A short time later Hudson joined Risteau in looking for McCleese. Hudson found a full drink on the seat of McCleese's truck, next to her purse.

Hudson later identified Wynkoop, as the man who had approached her car, from a police photo line-up.

3. Jim Pettis, sheriff's deputy. Pettis drew a diagram on a chalk board showing where McCleese's shoes and jacket were recovered. He also drew a diagram of a wooded area near the west end of Gaffield Street where additional clothing was recovered. Pettis, who has received specialized training in evidence gathering, also assisted in recovering McCleese's body and transporting it to Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids, where an autopsy was performed.

4. Mike Wheat, sheriff's deputy. Wheat explained how Wynkoop became a suspect in the case. He also told how evidence was gathered and said that Wynkoop drew a map to McCleese's grave site and told Wheat and Sheriff George Lasser that he recalled talking to McCleese at the party, but then blacked out and later woke up on a back road near Bay Shore. Wheat said that according to Wynkoop's statement when he woke up, he and McCleese were both naked and she was dead. (See accompanying story for details of Wheat's testimony.)

5. Connie Swander, evidence technician with the Michigan State Police crime lab in Grayling. Swander analyzed blood, saliva and semen stains as well as hair fibers taken from a blanket found in Wynkoop's car. She testified that the blood stains, saliva and hair fibers matched the types and fibers of samples taken from McCleese's body or hair brush. She also said that a smear of pink lipstick similar to lipstick found in McCleese's purse was found on the right sleeve of Wynkoop's jacket, near the cuff area. Vaginal swabs of the body found sperm which could not be typed. Swander also assisted in recovering the body. She said a foot was found approximately four to six inches below the surface of the ground while the bottom of the grave was between three and three and a half feet deep.

6. Stephen Cohl, forensic pathologist. Cohl conducted an autopsy on the body April 7. He said McCleese died as a result of asphyxia by manual strangulation. He said there were pinpoint hemorrhages around the bottom of the eyes; a number of small scrapes on the face and underside of the chin and a bruise adjacent to the victim's vagina. There were also some abrasions on the lower half of the victim's body.

prior to beginning the interview. Wheat testified. Wheat said it was apparent to him that Wynkoop wanted to tell police what had happened, but he was "sensitive about it" and "just couldn't put it into words what he had done."

After more than three hours Wynkoop was given a piece of paper and asked to draw a map. Wheat testified that after Wynkoop drew a map to the grave site, he was then able to talk about the abduction.

Under questioning by Wynkoop's attorney, Ed Gregory, Wheat testified that during the interview Wynkoop was told that he could stop the interview at any time, but that he never made any gesture that he wanted it stopped.

"It was evident to me (that) he wanted to talk about it, but couldn't or had a hard time talking about it," Wheat said.

Wheat added that in talking to Wynkoop during the interview, it was made clear that the two officers felt Wynkoop had committed the crime and would be charged.

During Thursday's preliminary examination, Wynkoop sat silently, looking down at the table in front of him. He had a pen and a yellow legal pad and occasionally either scribbled or took notes.

The other five witnesses, in addition to Wheat, called by Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney Kraag Lieberman offered testimony relating both to the night of the party and evidence from the subsequent investigation. (See accompanying story for a synopsis of each witnesses' testimony.)

Following testimony, Lieberman made a motion requesting that Varnum bind Wynkoop over to Circuit Court on charges of first degree murder, criminal sexual conduct and kidnapping. Gregory argued that the evidence presented indicated only the possibility of second degree murder and that there was only circumstantial evidence of criminal sexual conduct and that the kidnapping charge should be a separate element from the other charges.

Varnum bound Wynkoop over on the original charges. In binding the defendant over, Varnum said he felt evidence found on the blanket and in the vehicle indicated that McCleese was in the vehicle. He said evidence indicated there was sexual activity. He bound Wynkoop over on a first degree murder charge rather than a lesser charge.

BUSINESS

Garbage is corporation's bread and butter

(The following story is one in a series of stories on Charlevoix area industry being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and councilman and is currently a member of the city's Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Garbage. It is an unending flow of solid waste coming from every household, business or industry. The enormous output of throw-away items has created a huge problem. It is a problem which every one of us contributes to - even babies whose disposable diapers take up an average of two percent of landfill space.

Years ago there was a Charlevoix dump near the end of West Carpenter Street. Every family in town carted their garbage out there. On weekends some people used to go there and shoot rats for recreation. Times have changed.

Garbage from Charlevoix County, along with garbage from Antrim, Emmet and portions of three other counties, is now taken to the Cedar Ridge landfill off of Saunders Road south of Charlevoix.

Local businessman Dawson Way operated the landfill prior to selling it to Waste Management Incorporated (WMI) in 1987. WMI is the nation's largest collector and disposer of solid and hazardous wastes.

Donald Pizzuro is the general manager for the WMI operation based in Charlevoix. Pizzuro has been with the company since 1976, working in Venezuela and Saudi Arabia among other places. Prior to coming to Charlevoix, he was the assistant manager at the Columbus, Ohio waste facility.

The local WMI office is located near the intersection of U.S. 31 and Norwood Road. The attractively landscaped 3-acre site is a small complex of offices and truck maintenance buildings. Fifteen of the 24 local employees drive the large trucks. Each of these trucks (stripped) cost $130,000. Labor turnover at WMI is low due to employee benefits, stock-buying rights and wages which are above the area average. Local and state taxes are rather formidable, especially on the trucks which require payment of expensive license fees, road permit fees and fuel taxes.

The present billing system in Charlevoix of having people buy orange bags rather than paying a monthly pick-up fee is working out well. From a consumer perspective the per bag system allows people to reduce their cost by reducing the amount of garbage they have hauled away. From WMI's standpoint the per bag system decreases or eliminates costly billing and accounts receivable procedures.

Summer visitors to the Charlevoix increases garbage collection by 30 percent. Household pick-up accounts for two-thirds of WMI business. The remainder of the garbage comes from business and industry.

The state requires that all demolition wreckage be sent to landfills. The means concrete blocks, bricks, pieces of metal and wood framing pieces all go into the landfill.

WMI was founded in 1968 in Oak Brook, Illinois. It has an incredible record of growth. It has 24 facilities in Michigan and is doing business in all 50 states, serving 375 markets with a total of 9 million customers. WMI's U.S. operation has 12,000 garbage trucks, 126 landfill sites and 26,000 employees.

With ample cash reserves, the corporation is in a position to take advantage of profitable opportunities. A case in point is WMI's invasion of Kuwait following the Desert Storm war. On its own initiative, WMI moved in 400 men and 30 garbage trucks and began cleaning up the wreckage of battle.

The Kuwait government was impressed by WMI efforts and reimbursed the company for its $12 million costs and gave the company contracts to continue work.

WMI has two divisions, its North American division and its International division. While the International division is growing, the North American division still accounts for 85 percent of the corporation's sales and income. In recent years several acquisitions have not only increased WMI's assets, but have also broadened its scope of operations.

With the purchase of Chemical Waste Management, WMI is now a leader in destroying hazardous waste, treating waste water, cleaning contaminated soils, asbestos abatement and low-level radioactive waste disposal.

Services also include collection and disposal of hospital and medical wastes. WMI's 11 medical waste centers serve every region of the country. It also has 117 sewage treatment plants.

...waste business

WMI also is a major corporate factor in environmental matters. The company is a major supplier of advance air pollution control equipment for many industries. The president of the World Wildlife Fund and the Conservation Foundation is a member of WMI's executive board.

The company is also active in recycling. In 1990 the company recovered one million tons of aluminum, glass, paper and plastics. Its plant near St. Petersburg, Florida automatically sorts out huge volumes of recyclable items.

In most places the recycling business is a losing game. Low market prices make it unprofitable. WMI believes that only by recycling can the country stem the avalanche flow of garbage. The United States is not alone in having a garbage problem. The problem is common to all affluent nations.

In WMI's 20 landfills decomposing waste produces methane gas.

Methane gas collected for fuel has had the energy equivalent of 1.6 million barrels of oil. Another growing sideline for WMI is its 15 tire shredding plants. Last year 10 million tires were shredded. The shredded tires are used for road construction and fueling industrial boilers.

WMI is expanding so rapidly it is almost impossible to keep abreast of its on-going and proposed projects. Even so, it is far from a monopoly. In this country, WMI has less than six percent of the population as its customers.

WMI has a multi-million-dollar public relations fund. Last year it provided more than $7.5 million in corporate, local and matching gifts to various programs.

(Next week's story will discuss the Cedar Ridge Landfill near Iron-ton.)

The Charlevoix waste hauling operation is only a small part of Waste Management Incorporated, an international corporation.

K-5 parent-teacher conferences scheduled

Charlevoix Elementary School will host fall parent-teacher conferences
Oct. 29, Nov. 5 and 6. Parents received the first information on Monday
Oct. 7, in a letter which is to be returned to the school no later than Oct. 15.
Teachers will then schedule conferences and send home the scheduled dates for the individual parent conferences.

Evening conferences will take place Oct. 29 and Nov. 5 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Afternoon conferences will take place Nov. 6 from 1 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.

The elementary school will be dismissing all students from school Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 11:30 a.m. for the remainder of the day. There will be no afternoon kindergarten classes or hot lunch served on that date.

If you have any questions regarding fall conferences, please feel free to contact the elementary office at 547-3213.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Charlevoix City Council
November 4, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street, 7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Chapter 99, Signs of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding to CHAPTER 99, SIGNS, as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

THAT SECTION 8.57, SPECIFICATIONS AND REGULATIONS OF SIGN TYPES (1) ACCESSORY SIGNS (1) BE AMENDED TO READ:

(1) Location of Signs - No sign, except public signs erected by local, state or federal governments shall be located within the public right-of-way or dedicated easement. Except, in those instances, where a wall sign is affixed to the wall of the structure, which lies on a right-of-way line, the wall sign may project a distance of ten (10) inches into the right-of-way, provided such sign is no closer than nine (9) feet from the ground. Also in those cases where hanging signs are affixed to a wall or a structure, they may project a maximum distance of eight (8) feet from such building wall, whether over private property or public right-of-way.

THAT SECTION 8.57, SPECIFICATIONS AND REGULATIONS OF SIGN TYPES (1) ACCESSORY SIGNS (a) BE AMENDED TO READ:

(a) Awning or Marquee Signs must be a minimum of nine (9) feet off the ground.

Motion 8.58 amended, Ord. No. 399, 5/24/1982

Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Monday, November 11, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street, 7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendment is as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix, Chapter 51, Title V, zoning and Planning, Section 5.242, Zoning Permits by adding the following:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 5.242, Zoning Permits

Add the following sentence to the beginning of this section:

No building or structure shall be erected or installed on any lot, unless or until a zoning permit has been issued by the City for such building or structure.

The Section shall read as follows:

Section 5.242, Zoning Permits

No building or structure shall be erected or installed on any lot, unless or until a zoning permit has been issued by the City for such building or structure. No permit shall be issued by the City of Charlevoix or any official thereof for the construction, erection, alteration, placing or moving of any building or structure on any parcel of land unless such structure or building is designed and the proposed location on its lot, is arranged to conform with the provisions of this chapter, except that no permit shall be required for alterations which do not result in change in height, floor area, lot coverage, location of walls or other structural alterations.

All applicants for zoning permits shall pay the city clerk a fee according to the schedule as shall be prescribed by the city council. Such fee will be refunded if permit is denied.

GARY HARSCH, CITY PLANNER

Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Monday, November 11, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street, 7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendment is as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by deleting a part of Section 5.246, amendment of Section 5.247 and addition of Section 5.248 of TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

(1) THAT SECTION 5.246 BE AMENDED TO READ AS FOLLOWS:

5.246. PLANNING COMMISSION

The city Planning Commission is hereby designated as the commission specified in Section 12, Act 285 of Public Acts of 1931 and shall be granted all the powers to perform all the duties and otherwise perform as provided in the statute.

The City Planning Commission shall consist of nine (9) members, appointed by the Mayor and subject to Council approval, who represent different professions or occupations within the city. The terms of each member shall be three (3) years, except that two (2) members of the first commission shall be appointed for one (1) year, two (2) for a term of two (2) years; and three (3) for a term of three (3) years. All members shall hold office until their successors are appointed.

(underlined sections indicate changed text)

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Section 5.247 shall be amended to read as follows:

The Planning Commission shall prepare a generalized master plan for the City as well as the service area of the City's various municipal utility services, including areas within surrounding municipal jurisdictions which have an impact on the development and character of the City and use of City facilities.

The process of master plan preparation shall include consultation with various City and County Boards and departments, the Planning Commissions of other municipal jurisdictions, the Charlevoix School District, Fire Departments, as well as appropriate public input through one (1) or more public hearings. The master plan shall be comprehensive in its content addressing all relevant issues impacting community development and public expenditures. Upon completion of the preparation of said master plan, the Planning Commission shall forward the plan to the City Council for its adoption.

Following adoption of the generalized master plan by the City Council, the Planning Commission shall from time to time review and prepare updates to the plan in the same manner as followed in the preparation of the original plan and shall forward such amendments to the City Council for its consideration and adoption.

Following this procedure the Planning Commission and the City Council shall establish a planning process which is responsive to the changing conditions and needs of the community and is able to accommodate in a flexible format new and differing ideas from those which may be specifically expressed in the plan at the time of its initial adoption.

Section 5.248 shall read as follows:

Section 5.248. Amendments

(1) When a proposed amendment, supplement, modification, or change is initiated by a petition of any party with a legal interest in the property to be affected, it must be accompanied by a fee. The amount of the fee shall be established by resolution of the City Council, and it is to be used to defray the expense of publishing the required notices and other related expenditures.

(2) All amendments, supplements, modifications and changes not arising in the Planning Commission must be referred thereto for a written report and recommendation prior to any action thereon by the City Council.

(3) The Planning Commission shall at one or more of its meetings, study and evaluate the proposed amendments, supplement, modification or change and shall conduct a public hearing in accord with Section 4 (1) of P.A. 207 of 1921, as amended. The Planning Commission shall then submit its written report to the City Council of its recommendations and findings, either for or against the proposed change.

(4) Once the City Council has received and accepted the Planning Commission's report on the proposed amendment, supplement, modification or change, it shall hold a hearing and give proper notice thereof as prescribed by Section 125.584 of Compiled Laws of 1970, as amended. This shall include notification of all property owners of property located within three hundred (300) feet of the premises in question.

(5) Whenever the City Council shall receive a protest against a proposed amendment, signed by the requisite number of land owners as set forth in Section 125.584 of the Compiled Laws of 1970, as amended, then such amendment, supplement, modification or change shall not be passed except by three-quarters (3/4) vote of the City Council.

City voters face several proposals

Candidates and six proposals on Nov. 5 ballot

By L. Scott Swanson

Choosing council members won't be too tricky for Charlevoix city voters Nov. 5, but sorting out ballot proposals could offer a challenge.

Only one incumbent council member faces a challenge. In the second ward incumbent Alvin D. (Butch) Russell is being challenged by Janice L. McKay. Patricia Gaskin and Cheryl B. Hoffman are unopposed in the third and first wards.

Jo Anne Patrick is the only candidate for clerk. Incumbent clerk Arlene Staley is not seeking reelection.

There are six proposals on the ballot. They are:

1. A proposal to give the city council authority to regulate by ordinance the use of inland lakes, streams and waters within the city boundaries.

2. A proposal to take the Planning Commission out of the zoning variance process and have zoning variance requests go straight to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

3 & 4. Proposals to change the city charter's timetable for nominating councilmembers, the mayor and clerk so that it is in harmony with the state law.

5 & 6. Proposals which would have the mayor and council members take office at the first meeting following the November election rather than waiting until the first meeting of the new year.

as is presently done.

PROPOSAL ONE is likely to be the most controversial of the group. The proposal would allow the city to draft and adopt ordinances to regulate the use of lakes and bottom lands within the city limits. The primary body of water the ordinances would be involved with is Round Lake.

Legally, there would be questions as to how far the city could go in regulating Round Lake. The lake is also regulated by state and federal authorities and those laws would supercede anything the city might pass. Court rulings would also affect just how far the city can go in regulating the lake.

Carol Sullivan, a former member of the city planning commission, said she is glad to see the proposal on the ballot and hopes it passes. Sullivan who also is a planning professional says the city currently lacks the authority to regulate building and other activities over the water.

Sullivan explained that although the state enabling act gives cities the power to pass zoning ordinances, it doesn't give city authority to regulate things over the water.

She said the charter ordinance will give the city that authority. She noted that she doesn't believe the state enabling act neglects to give cities power over water because the state doesn't want cities to have that power, but leaving that power out of the act is an oversight because not many cities have a waterway such as Round Lake right in their midst.

"I think it's pretty critical," Sullivan said of the proposed charter amendment. "I'm a little frustrated that it's taken two years to get to this point."

Mel Renaud, a current planning commission member, opposes the charter amendment. Renaud, who owns and operates Dry Harbour Marina, has studied maritime law and attended seminars dealing with maritime law.

...city voters face several ballot proposals

Round Lake is already governed by federal, state and maritime regulations Renaud says. Adding another governing body is unnecessary. "How many times do you want to see someone enforce the same law?" he asks. "I think there are enough laws in force right now," he said.

PROPOSAL TWO would take the Planning Commission out of the zoning variance process. As things presently stand, requests for variances are submitted to the city manager who reviews them and forwards them to the Planning Commission. The Planning Commission reviews them again and makes a recommendation to the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). The ZBA then reviews them again and makes a decision.

PROPOSALS THREE AND FOUR are really just paperwork matters. Currently the city charter and state law aren't in harmony on when nominating petitions for councilmembers, the mayor and the clerk are to be filed. State law says the petitions are to be filed "no later than 4:00 p.m. on the twelfth Tuesday prior to the primary election."

Regardless of what the city charter reads, the city is obligated to conduct elections in accordance with state law. These two proposals simply allow the city charter to be changed so that it reads the same as the state law and therefore avoids creating confusion.

PROPOSALS FIVE AND SIX

would amend the city charter so that the newly elected mayor and council members would take office in November, at the next meeting after the election, rather than at the first meeting of the new year.

The two month gap between the election and the new year has caused problems on at least two occasions in recent years.

On one occasion commission appointments which are normally made after the new year were moved forward and made in December. That allowed council members who had been defeated in the election rather than new council members to vote on the confirmation of the appointments.

In another instance, council members leaving office in January voted to purchase a piece of property, but when new council members took office they voted against allocating the funds to go through with the purchase.

Voting will take place at city hall. Polls will open at 7 a.m.

TIFA proposal called a "boondoggle"

By L. Scott Swanson

Councilmember Ted Felter and former councilmember Bob Timms called the proposal a "boondoggle." City manager Mike Wiesner said the proposal is a way of completing Ferry Beach Park by expediting construction of another park where the city electric and street department buildings are presently located.

The proposal, which has received the blessing of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) board, which was discussed at Monday evening's council meeting, is to take $200,000 of Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) money which was left over after the Ferry Beach park project was completed and have the DDA (which manages the TIFA money) buy the two buildings from the city. The money would then be put into a sinking fund to build a new public works complex on U.S. 31 south of town. The city purchased the U.S. 31 property earlier this year.

"Why are we buying city property from ourselves?" Felter asked. The DDA is a city board appointed by the city council. "It looks to me like we're playing boondoggle."

Wiesner, who initiated the proposal, defended it by saying that he felt a park where the two public works buildings are would complement the present park and using the $200,000 to buy the buildings would expedite construction of a new park.

"It takes the credibility away from the council," Felter countered. Mayor Dave Novotny said that all the council had to decide Monday evening was if a public meeting should be scheduled.

Timms protested, saying that even though that was the only decision facing the council Monday evening, he felt the matter should be addressed and rejected even before scheduling a public hearing. "I believe this should be killed right now," he said.

Timms also took issue with a portion of the proposal which calls for the DDA to put a conservation easement on the property so that it can never be used for anything but recreational uses.

"This appointed body doesn't trust future councils to do what's appropriate for the city," Timms said.

Councilmember Butch Russell said he agreed with Felter and Timms that the issue should be discussed Monday night.

"I agree with Ted," he said. "I'm totally against buying our own property."

Councilmember Pat Gaskin suggested the possibility of putting the money into some type of escrow fund to be used to build a park at a later date. She said she didn't see anything unethical about that.

Timms said that for some reason the city seems to abhor the idea of giving the $200,000 back to the school, county and other taxing entities who had to forgo revenue due to the TIFA project.

Councilmember Bill Haggard argued that if the city did try to give the money back to the school, some of the money would go out of the community due to the state's recently passed Tax Base Sharing plan.

Bill Supemaw, a member of the audience, suggested that if the council was reluctant to give the money to another taxing entity and wasn't sure what to do with it they might consider giving it back to the taxpayers who paid it.

At the conclusion of Monday evening's discussion, Gaskin said she feels there is enough material for discussion to merit a public hearing. She moved that a public hearing be scheduled for 6 p.m. Nov. 18. The motion passed by a 4-3. Novotny broke a tie vote, siding with Gaskin. Haggard and Cheri Hoffman in voting to schedule a hearing. Felter and Russell were joined by Jackie Cross in opposing the motion.

OPINIONS

Laurie Lounsbury

Now, about this hunting stuff

Oh, that pesky, macho, mate-bonding chromosome is rearing its neanderthal head once again, now that deer hunting season is almost upon us. It's that time of year when the men we know and love, those sensitive men of the nineties, are driven by some barbaric instinct that has been imprinted in their genetic matter, causing them to revert back to their cave man behavior mode, although cave men didn't have an ample supply of beer to enhance their rudimentary behavior.

The signs of the deer hunting cro-magnum man are already in abundance. Normally clean shaven men are growing scraggly, unkempt beards. It would be considered a sacrilege to grow a neat, well-trimmed beard at this time of year. The deer would probably fall down and die from laughter at such a sight. For the menial hunters, these beards are an absolute necessity when hunting the phantom twelve-point buck. Beards are the hunters' way of recognizing one another when they get lost on the interstate highway on their way to deer camp. They would never want to embarrass themselves by having to ask a non-hunter type, like a gas station attendant, for directions. This would cause an animal tracker to lose face, and they would prefer to lose their faces to another bearded face, preferably another lost hunter. That way, when they return to their real lives and happen to run into each other at a court hearing or something, one of them won't be leaning over and whispering to the court reporter, "That's the bozo hunter that got lost on his way to Sesquach National Forest last fall. What a jerk!"

The deer hunter guys are also tanning themselves up in the bars, preparing for those long nights at deer camp, where they will sit around and consume pacific oceans full of cold geldies and swap stories about the girls they didn't date in high school, although they'll claim they did. Then, on opening day of deer season, with their brains still clouded from the gin fog that blew in the night before, more armed men will be pouring into the woods of Northern Michigan than the number of armed men we sent to the Gulf War. Now there's a thought that could prompt you to dive under the kitchen table and stay there for two weeks, all decked out in your best orange camouflage suit, just as an added precaution.

And speaking of those orange camouflage suits, isn't that a contradiction in terms? The orange is supposed to be attention-getting, so that your good buddy doesn't blow you away in a moment of excitement, thinking he spotted a two-point, beer-bellied buck. So why did the apparel designers incorporate a camouflage pattern into the day-glow orange fabric? Is it so the deer population will mistake them for a moving piece of fall foliage? I know, deer aren't exactly heavily endowed with grey matter, that's why they amuse themselves with a game they call the "Let's Run Headlong Into Those Two White Lights Moving Down The Highway At An Alarming Rate Of Speed And See What Happens" game, but just how stupid are they? Stupid enough to think to themselves, "Gee, what a nice day for a stroll through the woods. Nothing to worry about here, cause those three, bright orange men-shaped things moving towards me with both barrels pointed at me are covered with an attractive, natural looking pattern, so they must be harmless."

Deer hunting is more than just dressing up in orange garb, which, for a nice decorator touch, is complimented with hunting licenses pinned on the front and back with old-diaper pins. It's a way for men to experience an intimate level of kinship, to share their deepest thoughts with one another, and to bond with their brothers in the titillating act of stalking that elusive creature—the cocktail waitress. Yes, our brave hunters will wander into the local saloon nearest their deer camp and proceed to attempt to dazzle the cocktail waitress with their stories of courage and skill in the deep woods, emphatically punctuating their sentences with loud gaseous eruptions. It's enough to make even the most hard-hearted waitress weak in the knees with romantic wanderlust. OK, maybe it's not romantic wanderlust making her weak in the knees. Maybe it's the act of wading through the knee-deep silt that's filling up around the bar.

Not all hunters take to the woods during deer hunting season. Some prefer a sportier method of reducing the deer population. They simply climb into a large heavy vehicle, preferably one with a very sturdy grill, like a 1953 Buick Roadmaster, and cruise down the county roads until they run into a deer, literally. If you hit a deer with a Buick Roadmaster, you're assured of bagging your animal. It's not even a contest. Roadmaster wins, animal becomes flattened fauna. The advantage to this method is that no hunting permit is required, there is no need for expensive hunting equipment, and you don't have to wear orange. The only cost at all will be the deductible on your insurance when you have to get your front end realigned. After you've bagged your first animal with the plow 'em down method, you get to join an elite club. Members are issued bumper stickers that say, "I eat my road kill." It's a bumper sticker any American would be proud to display, particularly if you live in Appalachia.

Editorial

Boondoggle—A trivial, useless, or wasteful project or activity. As defined by Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary. Councilmember Ted Felier used the term boondoggle Monday evening in describing a proposal which would have the city use Tax Increment Financing Authority funds to purchase street department and electric department buildings from the city. What it boils down to is the city would be purchasing property from itself.

To their credit, Felier and councilmembers Jackie Cross and Butch Russell tried to nip this foolishness in the bud Monday evening. Unfortunately, they were outvoted by councilmembers Pat Gaskin, Bill Haggard, Chen Hoffmann and Mayor Dave Novotny. A public hearing on the proposal is scheduled for 6 p.m. Nov. 18.

Why would the city want to buy property from itself? What happened is that after the city finished the Ferry Beach park project, they found they had $200,000 of Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) money left over. City manager Mike Wiesner apparently wants to spend the money on a new public works complex on U.S. 31. The hang-up is that according to the rules under which the TIFA program was established TIFA money can only be spent in the TIFA district and U.S. 31 isn't in that district.

This property purchase, which Wiesner has proposed and the Downtown Development Authority has blessed and four council members have indicated at least a willingness to consider, is just a financial dodge.

To make it more palatable, they are claiming that it will allow the land where the two buildings are located to be turned into a park, that a conservation easement will be put on the property, that otherwise a portion of the money might be taken out of the community because of the state Tax Base Sharing bill.

That's all just smoke to cloud the issue. Even without this financial dodge, there's nothing to prevent the land from being used for recreational purposes in the future. Putting a conservation easement on the property does nothing other than needlessly handcuff future councils. The Tax Base Sharing bill wasn't even in effect when the proposal was made.

The property purchase proposal is bad policy. It is ill founded and ethically shaky. The council shouldn't be trying to find ways to rationalize it. They should just scrap it.

County 4-H program grows

By L. Scott Swanson

People with a traditional idea of what 4-H is all about might see the look at the Charlevoix County 4-H soccer program and wonder, "What in the world are those kids doing out there in that pasture? Why, they're kicking a ball around. Well, it will probably all right. As long as it doesn't annoy the cows."

The Charlevoix County 4-H program is growing by leaps and bounds. Along with traditional activities such as raising farm animals for the fair, local 4-H members now also play soccer, sail, enjoy archery and shooting B.B. guns and participate in a number of other activities.

Of approximately 6,000 young people between the ages of five and 19 in Charlevoix County, more than 1,300 are involved in some type of 4-H activity. Just one activity, soccer, takes in more than 350 youngsters.

Todd Kesner is the 4-H Youth Agent for Charlevoix County. He works with Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Agent Rod Cortright out of the Cooperative Extension office in Boyne City. Earlier this year, Kesner and Cortright, approached the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to see if 4-H could help salvage the county soccer program. In previous years, the soccer program was run by the county recreation department, but when the recreation department was cut from the county budget the soccer program was in peril.

The commissioners agreed to let 4-H take over the soccer program. Charlevoix had a strong program under the direction of Tom Sikavittas, President of the Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Council. Approximately 250 people participate in the Charlevoix program. Those people cover a wide age group from five-year-olds just learning to play to the high school soccer club which plays teams from throughout northern Michigan to parent-coaches shouting encouragement from the sidelines.

The Boyne City soccer program fell through last year, but this year has approximately 110 people participating.

Soccer is not the only county recreation department activity 4-H helped keep afloat. Charlevoix County 4-H also cooperated with the Charlevoix County Mariners to keep the summer sailing school program going. That program allowed young sailors from both Charlevoix and Boyne City to get out on the water this past summer.

Adding programs such as soccer and sailing has not detracted from the traditional 4-H programs, rather, it has served as an outreach to bring more young people into those programs.

Traditional in-house 4-H clubs in Charlevoix County have doubled in the past year. A total of 75 young people participate in the Emmet-Charlevoix Horse Council. There's a very active 4-H group raising rabbits. The 4-H summer camp drew 21 campers in 1990 and increased to 55 campers in 1991. More young people expressed interest, but space was limited. Next year the camp program will be expanded to accommodate those people.

Kesner attributes 4-H growth to increased public awareness of 4-H and to interest and willingness to participate from both adults and young people.

When Kesner took the job as 4-H director he began speaking to parent groups and area service clubs and found they were interested and willing to help.

"My job is really to find adults and to get the adults to get things going," he explained.

In the past two years Kesner also organized a couple of 4-H fundraising events such as a donkey basketball game and a fashion show which not only raised money, but put the program in the public eye.

The goal of 4-H and the other agencies affiliated with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service is to extend knowledge from the campus to all parts of the state. Given the association with the university, 4-H has access to a wealth of educational resource material for just about any program.

"Anybody interested in being a leader can have enough study guides and resource materials to get them going," Kesner explained. "There are leader and member workshops in just as many areas as you can think of."

In addition to informational material and leadership training workshops, 4-H also has liability insurance through the college. That insurance has been a critical issue in allowing many programs to get started.

Kesner said that although he feels the county 4-H program is doing a good job reaching younger children, he feels the program is still lacking when it comes to reaching young people between 14 and 19. He said he would like to get more people in that age group involved since there are some good programs for them. As an example, he cited the Capitol Experience which allows young people to go to Lansing for four days to study and work in the legislative process.

The Charlevoix County 4-H office is located in the city building in Boyne City. The phone number is 582-6232.

A moral victory

Scott Parrish works his way up the field during a soccer game last week. Although his team lost, Parrish did score a goal and that was something of a moral victory since the team hadn't scored too many goals this year.

Jacqueline and Raymond MacGillivray of Charlevoix wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorian, to Mr. Donald C. Martin, Jr. The groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Martin and the late Donald C. Martin of Mt. Vernon, Ohio. The ceremony took place at St. John's in the U.S. Virgin Islands on July 29, 1991. A pre-nuptial dinner was given for the couple at the Inn at Dunmaglas July 9, by her parents. The couple is now residing in Huntsville, Alabama.

Pool proponents announce results of latest survey

Results of the most recent phone survey concerning a proposal to build an indoor community swimming indicate that there is support for a pool, but at a cost of something less than $2.29 million. Opinions also differ as to where a pool should be located and how it should be financed.

A May 13 millage proposal asking school district voters for $2.29 million to fund construction of a swimming pool at the elementary school, failed by a vote of 1,163 to 717.

The most recent survey was conducted by students from North Central Michigan College and analyzed by Creative Marketing Concepts sampled voters who voted in the May 13 election. According to the analysis survey respondents favored a pool in their neighborhood, near a Charlevoix recreation complex, with a cost in the $1 million range.

Fifty-six percent of those surveyed indicated the millage proposal might have passed had it been in the $1 million price range.

According to a news release from Creative Marketing Concepts regarding the survey, "The question drawing the greatest positive response, 94 percent, showed that the respondents favored government cooperation to 'help Charlevoix get a pool without an increase in taxes.'

The Friends of the Pool Committee members are currently distributing survey results to school, township and city officials while working on finance possibilities which may be more favorable to residents.

Alternative sites for a pool are also being considered. The committee intends to make a decision on a recommended pool location and financing plan prior to the end of the month. According to the press release, the committee now has $410,000 in pledges for the pool.

The Charlevoix Elementary Parent-Teacher-Association (PTA) will host their second annual benefit basketball game at 7 p.m. Nov. 8 in the high school gym. Teachers and support staff from the school will square off in roundball against members of local service clubs.

Prior to the game there will be a hot dog supper at 6 p.m. Tickets to the supper will cost $2 per person. Tickets to the game are $2 per person or $5 per family.

Money raised by the event will benefit various student educational programs supported by the PTA.

Names of the players will be released at a later date. (Kind of like naming the U.S. Olympic basketball team.) Although the Olympic selection committee apparently didn't feel Isaiah Thomas was good enough to play on their team, members of the service club team have talked about it and determined that he's probably good enough to play with them. If only the Pistons weren't dragging him out of state so he can play for them in New Jersey the following night. Come to think of it, the teachers might even offer him better competition.

City continues pursuit of railroad property

Now the city would turn the property over to WATCH

By L. Scott Swanson

It ain't over 'til it's over. And even then...

Monday evening the city council voted to continue its efforts to acquire a former railroad right of way between Mercer Boulevard and Lake Charlevoix. The council took this action despite an Oct. 17 action in which developer Stuart Kaufmann and his associates put in a bid of $270,000 to buy the property from the state. Kaufmann's bid was the only one the state received.

At the behest of a group of people who Tom Bickersteth is acting as a spokesman for, the council has been pursuing the property although they want to acquire it without spending any tax dollars. If the city acquires the property it would be turned over to an environmental organization and placed in a conservation easement.

At the Oct. 7 council meeting the council voted to pursue the purchase of the property with the stipulations that no public funds be used, that an easement be retained for a sewer and that the land be given to the Little Traverse Conservancy. Bickersteth and his group were to raise the money. In the time between the council meeting and the auction the Conservancy board met and voted not to be party to proposed deal.

Against that backdrop, the auction took place and Kaufmann submitted the only bid. Three other bidders had submitted a deposit which would have allowed them to bid, but they did not bid.

In speaking to the council Monday evening, Bickersteth read a letter which he said former state Governor William Milliken has sent Governor John Engler and the other four members of the State Administrative Board urging them to reject the bid. Bickersteth argued that an auction is simply a bid, not a certified sale.

Scott Beatty, an attorney representing Kaufmann, said the outcome of the auction should be respected. In what could be construed as a threat of litigation, Beatty said that his client had been involved in the suit of the property since February and had played by the rules. "We're going to make sure that ev-anybody else plays by the rules," he said.

A member of the council asked city attorney Jim Young if the council had anything to fear in terms of a lawsuit in the matter. Young advised the council that although the city could be sued, that doesn't mean a court would find any merit in the suit. Young said that in regard to tort suits, government units have immunity. He said that constitutional liability is a different matter, but that in regard to this issue he knows of "no constitutional liability likely to be successfully asserted against the city."

Richard Joseph, an attorney representing Oscar Stroud, joined Beatty in opposing the council's continued efforts to acquire the land. Stroud's property is adjacent to the old railroad right of way. Joseph said Stroud was one of the other prospective bidders, but chose not to bid when it became apparent at the auction that the right of way was not going to fall into public hands. He said that if it had appeared at the auction that the city was going to bid, Stroud would have bid. Joseph asked the council to respect and maintain the private property rights derived from the property. WATCH officers were in the council audience Monday evening.

A motion to substitute WATCH for the Little Traverse Conservancy and continue efforts to acquire the property received council approval by a 4-3 vote. Councilmembers Pat Gaskin, Butch Russell and Cheri Hoffman voted in favor of the motion while councilmembers Bill Haggard, Jackie Cross and Ted Felter opposed it. Mayor Dave Novotny broke the tie voting in favor of the motion. The council split along the same lines in voting on the matter at the Oct. 7 meeting.

Win-Some Women plan northern Michigan retreat

The 20th Annual Win-Some Women's Retreat will take place at Boyne Mountain Lodge, Boyne Falls, Friday and Saturday, November 8 and 9. The featured guest speakers will be Luci Swindoll of Fullerton, California and Peg Rankin, Monmouth Beach, New Jersey.

Swindoll has mastered the elusive ability to celebrate life. She takes each day as a gift from God and lives it with a genuine sense of adventure. Swindoll has found numerous ways to express her zest for life. She maintains an ambitious speaking schedule, traveling across the United States to motivate and inspire her audience. The author of seven books, she has a unique ability to communicate through the written word. As a business professional, she chose early retirement from a thirty year career with Mobile Oil Corporation to become Vice President of Public Relations at Insight for Living, her brother Chuck's international radio ministry.

The other featured speaker is Peg Rankin, a former English teacher, who now invests her training in dynamic and captivating teaching of the Bible, bringing to her presentations a creative blend of drama, humor, and instruction. She is the author of "Ye! Will I Trust Him" and "Glorify God and Enjoy Him Forever." With her husband she has authored "Your Marriage, Making It Work." Because of her sensitive approach to her audiences, Rankin is in demand both nationally and internationally, delivering up to 250 messages each year.

Special music will be provided by the exciting, contemporary female foursome "Just Four." Myrna White, Cheryl Fornelli, Marcia Twadell and Joanna Hettings will entertain and encourage any audience in any setting. Myrna, Cheryl, Marion and Joanna combine versatile and eclectic talents and personalities to create the best of four worlds from the best of four friends. The title of their third album describes the relationship of these ladies well — "Singers, Sisters, Friends."

This year's theme, "Now here is what I am trying to say; all of you together are the one body of Christ and each one of you is a separate and necessary part of it." Corinthis 12:25-27, is expanded on through assemblies and seminars where other guest speakers will be sharing. Sue Davis, "The Essence of Esteem," Nancy Dornier, "An Atheist Finds God Through Prayer Experiments," Peg Bensen, "You Have To Go Home Again and Again," Maletor Cross, "Can A Dysfunctional Family Function Again?" Peg Rankin, "How to Witness Naturally," and Luci Swindoll, "What Is Success Anyway?"

Recyclers face glutted market

By Laurie Lounsbury

A recycling handler watches as stacks of newspapers go through the bailer. As he watches, he is thinking about the trip he'll be making to the mill, and he's hoping the price of paper hasn't gone down again. The last time he took a load of papers to the mill, the trip cost him money.

Out of the corner of his eye, he catches a glimpse of glossy, colored coupons going through the bailer. Woops. And there's a bunch of envelopes with plastic windows. Woops. The load is contaminated. The recycling handler no longer has to take this load to the mill for recycling. He can dump it in the landfill and call it a day.

This scenario is happening more and more, due to a number of problems within the recycling system. When an individual takes contaminated material, such as glossy, colored paper, or envelopes with plastic windows, to a recycling drop-off center, efforts toward recycling can become an exercise in futility.

"We've had to dispose of loads that are contaminated," said Bamey Way of Waste Management. "We drove a load of tin a hundred miles to the mill, and the mill rejected it because of the paper and the aluminum, so we had to haul it back home and dispose of it ourselves."

Waste Management has been forced to man their drop-off location on U.S. 31 South, in order to cut down on the amount of contaminated material being dropped off. This has resulted in Waste Management's decreasing the number of days they keep the drop-off center open.

Skip Canfield, of Three R's recycling, says that sorting out contaminated material from recyclable material is worth his time. "It costs me money to go to the landfill, so I'll sort out every possible thing that's recyclable," Canfield said.

Waste Management contends that having a M.E.R.F. (Mechanically Equipped Recycling Facility) would help to reduce some of the problems in the recycling industry. Waste Management is working on a proposal for Charlevoix County, involving their acquisition of a M.E.R.F. In exchange for acquiring a M.E.R.F. for the county's use, Waste Management wants the county to allow them an increase in their service area beyond the current five county service area, and expand their landfill to one hundred acres. They are currently utilizing forty acres for their landfill.

A M.E.R.F. is a one million dollar piece of equipment that essentially does the same thing that a private recycler does. It sorts, shreds, bails, and crushes recyclable material. It does not process recycled materials into reusable material. Recyclables still need to be sent to a mill for that.

Installing a M.E.R.F. in Charlevoix County is not going to change the fundamental problem plaguing the recycling industry, which is that the supply presently exceeds the demand. Consumers going to the trouble of recycling must carry their efforts a step further by purchasing products made with recycled material. When manufacturers use more recycled products, then the demand will increase for recycled material. Until that happens, private recycling businesses are going to be squeezed financially.

Canfield contends that the county has a responsibility to help recyclers. "I'm not asking for a million dollars for a M.E.R.F.," said Canfield. "I'm just asking for the county to work with me. Maybe the county could make a low cost loan for machinery," Canfield suggested.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will be left with the task of deciding whether or not a M.E.R.F. would be beneficial to the county, and whether or not the county should subsidize private recyclers.

Street lights return to city's plans

An issue which once sent sparks flying didn't cause the least bit of fuss Monday evening. Two years ago a council decision to remove new street lights from the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) project list drew the wrath of several people.

Monday evening the council scheduled a public hearing to discuss putting the lights back in the plan and there was no comment. At the time the lights were taken out of the plan they carried an estimated price tag of $200,000. Since then a city lighting committee has been reviewing the city's lighting needs and the lighting proposal's price tag has been pared to $150,000.

The public hearing is scheduled for 6 p.m. Nov. 18.

Rayders still in the hunt for postseason playoffs

Petoskey beaten 27-20

Charlevoix improved its season record to 6-1 while keeping postseason playoff hopes alive with a 27-20 win over Petoskey Friday night. Petoskey entered the game with a 3-5 record but proved to be anything but a pushover.

The Rayders had to have several big plays to overcome Petoskey's methodical, grind-it-out style of play.

Charlevoix's offense opened the game well, taking the opening kickoff to the 45 and swiftly covering the remaining 55 yards on a drive which concluded with Brian Coolman scoring on a three-yard run. Petoskey immediately returned the favor with a 57-yard scoring drive. The Northmen kicked the extra point and took a 7-6 lead.

Charlevoix countered by scoring in five plays. Coolman scored his second touchdown of the night on a 51-yard burst up the middle. Coolman carried the ball 15 times and totaled 143 yards for the night. He has totaled 827 yards in six games this season and if things go well could go over 1,000 yards before the season is finished.

Petoskey again answered the Rayders with a scoring drive. With less than a minute left in the half, the Northmen scored to take a 13-12 lead.

But once again the Rayders offered a response of their own. The Rayders traveled 64 yards in just more than 40 seconds. Lance Emig did the honors in scoring the touchdown on a 31-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Don Jess. Jess was filling in for the second game for Keith Carey, who has a broken thumb. Jess passed to Ken Olinger for the conversion and the Rayders led 20-13 at the half.

If you like scoring, the second half was mundane compared to the first. Nobody scored until midway through the fourth quarter when Emig picked up his second touchdown, this one on a 21-yard run. Voisin kicked the extra point.

Petoskey scored a meaningless touchdown with 22 seconds left in the game and added a two-point conversion.

Offensively Emig totaled 49 yards on five carries while Jess completed 7 of 8 passes for 89 yards. Olinger caught four passes for 23 yards while Voisin caught two passes for 25 yards.

Defensively, Coolman and Ben Whitley each had nine tackles with five assists. Chris Pease had seven tackles while Ryan Eveleigh and Jody McGlinch each had five.

This week Charlevoix travels to Boyne City. The Ramblers picked up their second win of the season this past week at East Jordan. Boyne City is 2-5 on the year. They are coached by Charlevoix High School alumni Pat Klooster. Following the Boyne City game, Charlevoix will close out its season at home against Rogers City.

All right, so not all parts of this game are pretty. Jodi Allison found herself on the floor while trying to corral a loose ball in the Rayders' win over Boyne City.

Rayders win 54-42

Charlevoix's girls' basketball team played a bit streaky, but had more highs than lows in beating Boyne City 54-42 last Thursday night.

The Rayders started like a house afire building an early 18-5 lead. But Charlevoix then faded late in the first quarter and early in the second quarter. At the end of the first quarter, Charlevoix led 20-10.

Boyne City closed to within a few points midway through the second quarter, but Mary Jane Grunch scored six straight points late in the quarter to push Charlevoix's lead back out to a more comfortable margin.

Charlevoix took a 32-23 lead into halftime and extended that lead to 44-28 at the end of the third quarter. As things turned out, the Rayders needed that cushion as they were outscored 14-10 in the final quarter.

Freshman Liz Granch led the Rayders in scoring with 16 points. She also led the team in steals and assists. Gina Webster played a strong game beneath the basket for the Rayders scoring 15 points and collecting 12 rebounds. In addition to stifling the Rambler rally in the second quarter with six points, Mary Jane Grunch added four more points to total 40 on the night. Jodi Allison, who has raised her play in recent weeks, played well early in the Boyne City game. She was active beneath the basket, interfering with the Ramblers' offense and making a general nuisance of herself defensively while also scoring and rebounding offensively.

With the win, the Rayders brought their conference record to 5-4 on the season and their overall record to 7-5. Charlevoix is currently fourth among eight teams in the Lake Michigan Division of the Great Northern Conference. Elk Rapids leads the division with a 9-0 record.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team is having an exceptional season. The team is 11-1. The one loss was to Traverse City St. Francis and was later avenged.

This Thursday Charlevoix will travel to Harbor Springs.

Cross Country team peaking

Team's depth improves

Cross country is about distance and the distance between Charlevoix's first and fifth runner is closing as the team moves into the season's prime time. The cross country regional meet is this Saturday while the state finals are the following Saturday. The Rayders had one of their final tune-ups for this past season races this past Saturday at Elk Rapids.

Charlevoix's boys' team won the Elk Rapids race. Matt Smith was the top individual finisher with a time of 15:57. Perhaps just as gratifying was the finish of freshman Mike Bush. Bush was the fifth Rayder across the line placing ninth overall. But he ran the race in 17:07 just 1:10 behind Smith. Sandwiched in between Smith and Bush were Mike Sevonski 3rd at 16:25, Luke LaBlance 6th at 16:53 and Zach Pajtas 8th at 17:00.

Cross country races are scored by adding the places of the top five runners. Charlevoix's top two runners, Smith and Sevonski, have been among the top finishers in most of this year's races. LaBlance, who is running cross country for the first time this year, has been moving up. Pajtas, a sophomore, ran with the varsity last year and has been consistently strong this year.

The question mark has been at the number five position. Saturday's race results showed three runners pushing to fill it. Bush took the position at Elk Rapids with a time of 17:07, but Josh Scheels finished just nine seconds back at 17:16. Erik Hess, who is coming off a toe injury, wasn't far behind finishing with a time of 17:23.

Last year Charlevoix won the State Class C Championship despite having one of its top runners collapse prior to the finishing line at the state meet. This year's state meet looks like it will be too close for the Rayders to make up any such problem.

Charlevoix won Saturday's race with a team score of 27. Traverse City placed second with 61, while Petoskey took third with a 99. Other schools participating were Marquette, Kalkaska and Benzie Central.

Charlevoix's girls' placed fifth Saturday behind Petoskey, Traverse City, Benzie Central and Elk Rapids. Elsa Conlay led the Rayders placing 13th with a time of 21:25. Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: 23-Anne Schaafsma, 21:52; 24-Melissa Cox, 22:10; 28-Trina Holm, 22:24; 42-Missy Wagner, 30:40.

Some parents want middle school arts program

By Laurie Lounsbury

Marina LaBlanc's Spring musical, featuring all of the elementary school students, has become a traditional event that the whole town looks forward to. Connie Ford's high school musicals, put on by the Performing Arts group, win state awards and local acclaim every year.

So what about the middle school? This is a question that a group of concerned parents is asking. Charlevoix students receive a wonderful introduction to music and drama in the elementary school. When these inspired singers and performers arrive at the middle school, they find it necessary to table their aspirations to the stage for three years, due to the lack of any performing arts program.

However the middle school is not completely ignoring music in all forms. Middle school students do have the option of taking band, which gives them the foundations of instrumental music and reading sheet music.

"It's not as if we're doing nothing, it's just that we're doing something different," said Dennis Van Guilder, middle school principal.

Van Guilder is enthusiastic about the possibility of having performing arts offered as an after school activity. He said that there are two times of the year, in the late fall and the early spring, when performing arts would fit in nicely with the current after school schedule of athletic programs.

"I know that the middle school kids are really hungry for performing arts by the time they get to high school," Van Guilder said. "I'm not sure that that's such a bad thing, though," he added. While Van Guilder is receptive to the idea of performing arts at the middle school, he doesn't want it to become an added expense to the taxpayers. He's hoping the program could be started with volunteer help from parents and teachers.

Sheila Bogart, one of several parents in favor of having performing arts in the middle school, would like to see performing arts as part of the curriculum. "The school pays for coaches and athletic programs," Bogart said, and she feels performing arts should receive the same consideration. "The whole thing boils down to a matter of priorities," Bogart said. "Performing Arts should be a chosen class, (an elective) just like shop or home economics."

Van Guilder said that high school performing arts director Connie Ford has her own concerns for a performing arts program at the middle school. She expressed the belief that if it's not done well at the middle school, the kids might come away with a negative attitude towards performing arts.

The middle school sent out a newsletter to all the middle school parents last week, asking for any suggestions or thoughts regarding a performing arts program. If you would like to express an opinion on this, or volunteer to help in some capacity, contact the middle school at 547-3206, between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The coup was too close for comfort

Martha Staley misses Soviet coup by a week

By L. Scott Swanson

Martha Staley just missed getting a first-hand look at the August coup in the Soviet Union.

Staley, formerly of Charlevoix and currently of Dallas, Texas, visited the Soviet Union for 14 days in early August. The unsuccessful Soviet coup took place a week later.

It was probably just as well that Staley missed the coup. A coup was not on her travel agenda. Staley was in the Soviet Union as a staff member with Josh McDowell Ministries which is affiliated with Campus Crusade for Christ International. She was part of a group of approximately 400 people who went to the Soviet Union to distribute copies or excerpts of McDowell's book "More Than A Carpenter." The book explains the Christian faith.

The reaction of the Soviet people to an American ministry group standing on street corners handing out books varied. "They were either really excited or just didn't know what to think of us," Staley said.

The group distributed a total of 722,000 copies of or excerpts from the book. The most difficult part of distributing the books was to get the first person to accept one. Staley said once one person accepted a book and kind of broke the ice, then others would follow. Not just a few others would follow, but crowds would gather. Staley, half-seriously and half-in-jest, attributed that to the fact that Soviet people are so used to standing in line that when they see a group forming they figure there must be something good being handed out.

Even though the people would accept the books, often times they didn't want something for nothing, but wanted to give the mission people some small thing in return. "For as little as they have, they're very generous," Staley noted.

Staley, a 27-year-old staff member, was chaperoning a group of teenagers and consequently most of the Russian people she met were also teenagers. Many of the Soviet people are cynical about things promised to them by people in the political system, but some of the young people are excited about political changes.

Staley said she saw the beginnings of a free market system and entrepreneurial spirit in small booths and farm markets. She said it's been a significant change for Soviet workers to realize they would be judged on the quality of their work rather than just having to show up. In Staley's words, it was "kind of a rude awakening about a year ago when they actually started firing people."

Despite the movement toward a modern, free market economy, there's still a world of difference between conditions in the Soviet Union and the United States. Although the mission group stayed in some of the nicer hotels, one of the hotels was still without hot water. The streets were generally dirty and transportation lousy.

"I don't recall seeing a computer," Staley remarked. She works in the computer department of the ministry.

Because of a mix-up, the mission group had to spend several hours waiting at an airplane terminal for their plane to arrive so it could take them to their next destination. There were several other planes sitting on the runway, but they were inoperable since they had been cannibalized for parts.

The mission group did see the Moscow McDonalds. Staley said there was a line which went out the front door and around the block. Moscow also has a Pizza Hut. The mission group arranged their trip to the Soviet Union through a Russian travel agent.

Freedom of speech is still a fairly new thing. Staley said that the bus she traveled on had three different guides. She said the first two were from the political system and espoused the party line. The third guide was a private citizen who just conducted tours as kind of a side job. He was more open about what he said. Lenin is not a particularly popular person with the average Soviet citizen. As the tour bus drove past the Lenin Museum in Leningrad the tour guide pointed out the museum and noted, "Of course no one goes there."

Martha Staley displays some of the things she purchased in Russia along with books she distributed as part of the Josh McDowell Ministries.

Staley, the daughter of Ken and Arlene Staley, will be showing slides of her trip at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 at the public meeting room of District Health Dept. #1 on Garfield Street. The presentation will take about 45 minutes.

The Josh McDowell Ministries group which Staley works with is part of a watchdog group which makes sure the finances of such groups are all on the up and up. In addition to distributing literature the group has also taken food and medicine to the Soviet Union. The August mission trip was sort of a test trip for the group. Staley said that given the trip's success, another mission trip will probably be scheduled for next year.

BUSINESS

A landfill is not just a hole in the ground

(The following story is one in a series of stories about area business and industry being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former city councilmember and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Americans produce 160 million tons of solid waste each year, more than three pounds per person. In 1978 there were 20,000 landfills. Since then 14,000 have either been filled or have been shut down by regulatory agencies. Of the 6,000 still operating, 2,000 will be out of business within the next few years.

Last month the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) came out with more stringent regulations. The cost of a traditional landfill in some areas has doubled or tripled.

EPA and Department of Natural Resources (DNR) regulations make it very expensive to open new landfills. According to some estimates, starting a new landfill in Charlevoix County would cost $20 million.

Garbage from Charlevoix is taken to the Cedar Ridge landfill which is operated by Waste Management Incorporated (WMI).

Cedar Ridge is a high-tech operation. A monitoring camera records all incoming traffic. A video tape records all entries and transactions. Later, an auditor reviews the tapes and compares receipts with transactions.

Open five days a week from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., Cedar Ridge landfill has an average daily intake of 700 cubic yards, or approximately 250 tons. Charges at the gate are $9.65 per cubic yard or $27 a ton. For an additional fee, Cedar Ridge landfill will dispose of contaminated soils.

Barney Way manages Cedar Ridge landfill. He is assisted by office staffers Lisa Ernst and Martha Mielke. Three heavy equipment operators move garbage and dirt.

The present 40-acre site has a life expectancy of 14 years. However if the site is allowed to expand to 40 adjoining acres, the life of the landfill will be extended to 2045.

Surrounding the landfill are 17 monitoring wells. They range in depth from 90 to 150 feet. Every three months water samples are sent to WMI's laboratory in Illinois for analysis. So far none of the samples has been found to be tainted.

Within the disposal site there are pipes extending down into the decomposing garbage. Methane gas rises through the pipes to the surface.

At least once every three months DNR inspectors visit the landfill to inspect the operation.

Incoming garbage is dumped into a prepared 4-acre segment called a cell. In each cell, the clay has been removed to a depth of 30 feet. Giant earth moving machines make this a simple task. The bottom and sides of each cell are covered with a thick plastic liner. The liner comes in 14-foot-wide strips which are cemented together at the joints. The joints are tested with air pressure to make sure they don't leak. The liner at the bottom of the cell is covered with a two-foot layer of gravel.

As rain trickles through the garbage in the cell, the water collects in the liner and drains into a 15,000 container. Thousands of gallons of the leached liquid is hauled to the Boyne City sewage treatment plant.

The garbage doesn't stop piling up once it hits ground level. It is stacked as much as 70 feet above ground level. An oversized bulldozer spreads and flattens the incoming garbage. Promotions on the bulldozer's wheels compact the garbage into a solid mass. At the end of each day six inches of soil is spread over the day's fill. The dirt diminishes rodent activity and keeps paper and other garbage fragments from blowing away.

Finally, after a cell reaches the same height as adjoining heaps the top is flattened and grass is planted. Eventually the tops of the cells are also covered with a plastic liner and dirt and grass are planted. WMI also carries a 30-year insurance policy covering clean-up costs should there be any environmental problems.

The Cedar Ridge landfill is fortunate in that it is located on a massive clay formation which naturally prevents contaminated water from reaching fresh water sources.

More and more people are becoming concerned about solid waste and diminishing landfill space. Recycling is growing in popularity. News print takes up approximately 37 percent of landfill space, but a growing amount is being returned to pulp mills.

WMI is now one of the fastest growing corporations in America. In the past five years WMI sales, income and profits have increased by an average of 30 percent. An investment of $10,000 in 1971 would be worth $1.03 million today. In 1990 WMI's financial statement read: sales $7 billion; net profits $709 million; cash reserves $1 billion plus; assets $10.5 billion; market value $18.5 billion; number of stock shares 476,380,000; number of employees worldwide 62,500.

Think safety this Halloween

Halloween "Trick or Treat" activities are happily anticipated by many young children. District Health Department No. 3 would like all parents to read the following safety suggestions.

• Warn children not to eat any of their treats before they get home. Examine all treats carefully before allowing children to eat them. Some local medical facilities will X-ray treats for foreign objects at no cost.

• Look for costumes, masks, beards, and wigs labeled "flame resistant." Although these items could still catch fire, such labeling indicates that they will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source. Flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts should be avoided to minimize the risk of contact with candles or other sources of ignition.

• Make or buy costumes light and bright enough to be clearly visible to motorists. For greater visibility in dusk or darkness, costumes can be decorated with reflective tape. Reflective tape is usually available in hardware, bicycle, and sporting goods stores. Children should also carry flashlights to see - and be seen - more easily.

Costumes should be short enough to prevent children from tripping and falling. Children should wear well fitting, sturdy shoes; mother's high heels are not a good idea for safe walking.

• Hats and scarves should be tied securely to prevent them from slipping over children's eyes.

• Apply a natural mask of cosmetics rather than have a child wear a loose fitting mask which might restrict breathing or obscure vision. If a mask is used, however, make sure it fits securely and has eyeholes large enough to allow full vision.

Swords, knives, and similar costume accessories should be of soft or flexible material.

Books look at environment

WATCH, INC. (Water and Air Team for Charlevoix), recently presented high school and local libraries in the Charlevoix County area a copy of "State of the World - 1991."

This Worldwatch Institute publication has detailed information pertaining to the world economy and its dependence on a healthy environment.

These books were purchased by WATCH, Inc. and given to the local Charlevoix County schools and libraries to encourage students and teachers to expand their understand-

on the rise

Chicken pox (varicella) has long been recognized as a mild childhood illness that usually results in few complications. However, in certain people, it may have more serious consequences. Since chicken pox is being reported throughout the area, Brian L. Youngs, M.D., Medical Director, is stressing the importance of being informed about the illness.

Chicken pox is a viral illness with sudden onset of slight fever, few, serious symptoms, and an itchy rash. The rash begins as a spot on the skin and progresses to a thickened elevated area and to a clear fluid filled blister, like area, 2-4 mm in diameter. The area around the spot reddens and fades as the fluid becomes cloudy (purulent) and the spot crusts over. The crust may remain 1 to 3 weeks. There may be several crops of lesions.

The illness is easily spread from person to person with onset 11 to 20 days following exposure. Children are contagious for 1 to 2 days before and 6 days after onset of the rash and for the duration of the blister eruption or until the lesions become dry. During this period they should not attend school or day care and should avoid individuals who never had it.

• Smaller children should always be accompanied by an older responsible child or an adult. All children should use the sidewalk rather than walk in the street, and they should walk, not run, from house to house. Children should be cautioned against running out from between parked cars, or across lawns and where ornaments, furniture, or clotheslines present dangers.

• Children should only go to homes where residents have outside lights on as a sign of welcome. Children should not enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

• Those receiving trick or treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from steps, lawns, and porches. Candlelit jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from landings and doorsteps where costumes could brush against the flame. Indoor jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from curtains, decorations, or other furnishings that could be ignited.

Any parent with questions about the safety of their child's Halloween snack, or proper times for trick or treaters, should contact their local law enforcement officers.

All the staff and Board of Health for District Health Department No. 3 hope that all children will have a happy Halloween.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendment is as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by deleting a part of Section 5.246, amendment of Section 5.247 and addition of Section 5.248 of TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

(1) THAT SECTION 5.246 BE AMENDED TO READ AS FOLLOWS:

5.246. PLANNING COMMISSION

The City Planning Commission is hereby designated as the commission specified in Section 12, Act 285 of Public Acts of 1931 and shall be granted all the powers to perform all the duties and otherwise perform as provided in the statute.

The City Planning Commission shall consist of nine (9) members, appointed by the Mayor and subject to Council approval, who represent different professions or occupations within the city. The terms of each member shall be three (3) years, except that two (2) members of the first commission shall be appointed for one (1) year, two (2) for a term of two (2) years, and three (3) for a term of three (3) years. All members shall hold office until their successors are appointed.

(underlined sections indicate changed text)

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Section 5.247 shall be amended to read as follows:

The Planning Commission shall prepare a generalized master plan for the City as well as the service area of the City's various municipal utility services, including areas within surrounding municipal jurisdictions which have an impact on the development and character of the City and use of City facilities.

The process of master plan preparation shall include consultation with various City and County Boards and departments, the Planning Commission, other municipal jurisdictions, the Charlevoix School District, Fire Departments, as well as appropriate public input through one (1) or more public hearings. The master plan shall be comprehensive in its content addressing all relevant issues impacting community development and public expenditures. Upon completion of the preparation of said master plan, the Planning Commission shall forward the plan to the City Council for its adoption.

Following adoption of the generalized master plan by the City Council, the Planning Commission shall from time to time review and prepare updates to the plan in the same manner as followed in the preparation of the original plan and shall forward such amendments to the City Council for its consideration and adoption.

Following this procedure the Planning Commission and the City Council shall establish a planning process which is responsive to the changing conditions and needs of the community and is able to accommodate in a flexible format new and differing ideas from those which may be specifically expressed in the plan at the time of its initial adoption.

Section 5.248 shall read as follows:

Section 5.248. Amendments

(1) When a proposed amendment, supplement, modification, or change is initiated by a petition of any party with a legal interest in the property to be affected; it must be accompanied by a fee. The amount of the fee shall be established from time to time by resolution of the City Council, and it is to be used to defray the expense of publishing the required notices and other related expenditures.

(2) All amendments, supplements, modifications and changes not arising in the Planning Commission must be referred thereto for a written report and recommendation prior to any action thereon by the City Council.

(3) The Planning Commission shall at one or more of its meetings, study and evaluate the proposed amendments, supplement, modification or change and shall conduct a public hearing in accord with Section 4 (1) of P.A. 207 of 1921, as amended. The Planning Commission shall then submit its written report to the City Council of its recommendations and findings, either for or against the proposed change.

(4) Once the City Council has received and accepted the Planning Commission's report on the proposed amendment, supplement, modification or change; it shall hold a hearing and give proper notice thereof as prescribed by P.A. 207 of 1921, as amended. This shall include notification of all property owners of property located within three hundred (300) feet of the premises in question.

(5) Whenever the City Council shall receive a protest against a proposed amendment, signed by the requisite number of land owners as set forth in P.A. 207 of 1921, as amended, then such amendment, supplement, modification or change shall not be passed except by three-quarters (3/4) vote of the City Council.

GARY HARSCH, CITY PLANNER

Official Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 565 AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.131 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

1) That Section 5.131 "SR - Scenic Reserve" purpose of the Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by adding the following wording after the existing wording:

The further purpose of the regulations covering this district is to provide for appropriate residential development along the lake shore which will protect both the environment as well as scenic qualities of that unique land area. Views from the lake are deemed as important as views from adjacent development to the lake. New development along the lake shore should be given appropriate consideration to adjacent established development.

Ordinance No. 566 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin
NAYS: Councilmember Russell
ABSENT: None.

ORDINANCE NO. 567

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.132 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

1) That Section 5.132 Use Regulations, of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by adding (3) as follows:

3) Special uses that may be authorized in this zone district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provision and standards of Article VIII of this Chapter; provided further that special use approval shall be the responsibility of the Charlevoix City Council, after review and recommendations by the Planning Commission, rather than the Planning Commission as authorized by Article V.

- One (1) single family dwelling on each lot.
- Accessory uses, provided that no accessory buildings shall be constructed within a regulated minimum yard.
- In addition to (b) above, private boat docks, beaches and similar lake front uses, provided all surfaces within rear yard-areas, shall be previous surfaces.
- Plots or site condominiums meeting all of the use and dimensional requirements of Section 5.133 and 5.200, provided the City Council may approve a plan differing from the requirements of Section 5.133 should it find that an alternate proposal if approved will meet or surpass the objectives set out in the statement of intent (Section 5.131) and will not allow a greater density of use than allowed under this section.

Ordinance No. 567 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin
NAYS: Councilmember Russell
ABSENT: None.

ORDINANCE NO. 568

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.134 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

1) That Section 5.134 Other regulations, of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by deleting the following wording, to-wit: "There shall be no yard, lot area or floor area regulations in this zoning district." and by adding the following wording such that this section shall read as follows:

5.134. Other Regulations.

1) Setback from the water: There shall be a minimum structure setback of fifty (50) feet from the water mark on the adjacent lake or water body. Natural trees, shrubbery, or other vegetation shall be preserved as far as practicable, and where removed shall be replaced with other vegetation that is equally effective in retarding run off, preventing erosion and preserving natural beauty. Paths - any paths, roads or passages within the strip shall be so constructed or surfaced as to be effective in controlling erosion.

No fertilizers shall be applied within this area. No sea walls, retaining walls or fill shall be allowed within this area other than shoreline and soil erosion control practices utilizing loose laid natural stones.

2) Elevation: The first floor elevation shall not be below 584 N.M.G.D.

Ordinance No. 568 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin
NAYS: Councilmember Russell
ABSENT: None.

ORDINANCE NO. 569

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.200 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

1) That Section 5.200 Building Heights, of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by deleting "16 feet" from the SR proposed height and adding the following wording such that the SR proposed height shall now read:

ZONE DISTRICT	PROPOSED HEIGHT
S-R Scenic Reserve	24.5' above elevation 586.0 N.G.V.D. in height, provided in any event the building height shall not exceed 24.5'.

Ordinance No. 569 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin
NAYS: Councilmember Russell
ABSENT: None.

ORDINANCE NO. 570

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING MAP OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX AS FOLLOWS:

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

That the Zoning District Map for the City of Charlevoix be amended to incorporate all land lying north of the Pine River Channel indicated as currently without a zoning classification, having been a railroad right-of-way or previously owned by the C&O Railroad, within the Scenic Reserve (S-R) District.

Ordinance No. 570 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote: YEAS: Councilmembers Russell, Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin.

ABSENT: None.

ORDINANCE NO. 571

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.8 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, The Charlevoix City Council hereby determines that a public emergency exists that affects property within the City by reason of the imminent sale of state-owned land which was formerly a railroad right-of-way, the imminent application for development of these lands as well as adjoining lands zoned Scenic Reserve, the importance that development, if any, or both parcels be subject to reasonable regulation and that such development, if any, not contribute to the degradation of the water quality of Lake Charlevoix, information relating to the proper setbacks from water has just recently been provided to the City and time was needed to assess this information; the legal uncertainty of the current SR zone and the fact that these events are all currently interacting such that if the City fails to take immediate action, consequences are likely which will adversely affect the property interests of significant lands and water. These consequences include: The city's inability to regulate adequate permanent access to and within certain land uses; and a detrimental effect on property values and property interests if inappropriate land uses take place on or appropriate land uses are not permitted.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

This Emergency Ordinance shall have immediate effect and further:

1) That Section 5.5 Definitions (A-C) of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by adding the following additional paragraphs:

(1a) Adequate Permanent Access: A street or place having and along with it's right-of-way, an easement or general common area which provides for the following: Residents personal vehicle movements and other non-motorized conveyance providing for safe maneuverability at an acceptable comfort level; parking; snow storage; protection of adjacent owner's property, such as adjacent residents fences, storm-water, etc.; emergency vehicles; moving vans; delivery vehicles; maintenance activities; related storm water management and public utilities.

Public adequate access must meet the requirements of Section 5.190. Private adequate permanent access may deviate from the standards of Section 5.190, provided the circumstances of the development show such deviation is justified and the uses described above can be adequately accommodated and such deviation is approved by the City Council.

Ordinance No. 571 was hereby adopted on the 14th day of October, 1991 with the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Russell, Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin.

To the Qualified Electors:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That an Election will be held in the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, STATE OF MICHIGAN, ON NOVEMBER 5, 1991.

At the place as indicated below, viz:
210 STATE ST.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

The Election is being held to vote on the following offices:
City Clerk and one Councilmember from each ward.

AND TO CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING AMENDMENTS TO THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CHARTER:

PROPOSAL I
Shall ARTICLE II, Section 2.16 COUNCIL - POWERS AND LIMITATIONS of the City Charter be amended to add Section 2.16(4) which would provide as follows:
The Council shall have the power to regulate by ordinance the use of inland lakes, streams and other waters, including the submerged bottom lands of these waters, within the City boundaries, subject to any limitation imposed by law.
YES NO

PROPOSAL II
Shall ARTICLE XIII, Section 13.3 ZONING VARIANCES of the City Charter be deleted? This section currently reads as follows:
All applications for zoning variances shall be submitted to the City Manager in writing. The City Manager shall review the applications and refer said applications to the Planning Commission. The Planning Commission shall weigh the merits of each application and make a recommendation to the Zoning Board of Appeals in writing.
YES NO

PROPOSAL III
Shall a portion of ARTICLE IV, 4.4 NOMINATION OF MAYOR AND CITY CLERK of the City Charter be amended to read as follows:
"Such petitions shall be filed with the City Clerk's office no later than 4:00 p.m. on the twelfth Tuesday prior to the primary election."

SCRAPBOOK

During the 1930's and 1940's, Bill Smith, Mayor of Smeltania, wasn't bothered with slippery issues like scenic reserve zoning or downtown streetlights. However, the citizens of Smeltania did complain about squatter's rights, "un"manned holes, and too much water in the streets. Photo courtesy of Ralph Hamilton.

Runners race to title

Rayders win Regional, seek another State title Saturday

Last year, less than three days after Charlevoix's boys' cross country team won its fourth straight Class C cross country state championship, Rayder coach Pete Spieles said, "We're going to come right back and try to win another one next year."

Well, next year is here and this Saturday the Rayders will be competing for the state title. This past weekend Charlevoix won its sixth straight regional title.

In describing the regional win it probably wouldn't be fair to say the Rayders left the competition in the dust. Charlevoix won by 38 points. With that margin of victory, it's not right to describe the other teams as competition and by the time the second place team crossed the finish line, the dust had settled and any questions about who is the best team in the region had been resolved.

In winning the race, Charlevoix runners took three of the top five positions. Senior Mike Sevinski won the race with a time of 16:08. Junior Matt Smith was second in 16:18. Luke LaBlance, another senior, placed fifth in 16:37.

To tally a team score in cross country meets, the places of a team's first five runners are totaled. The team with the lowest total score wins. In the regional race, Charlevoix totaled 34 points while Clare finished second with 70.

Rounding out Charlevoix's scoring in the regional race were sophomore Zach Pajtas, placing 14 in 16:56 and junior Josh Scheels finishing right behind Pajtas with a time of 16:57.

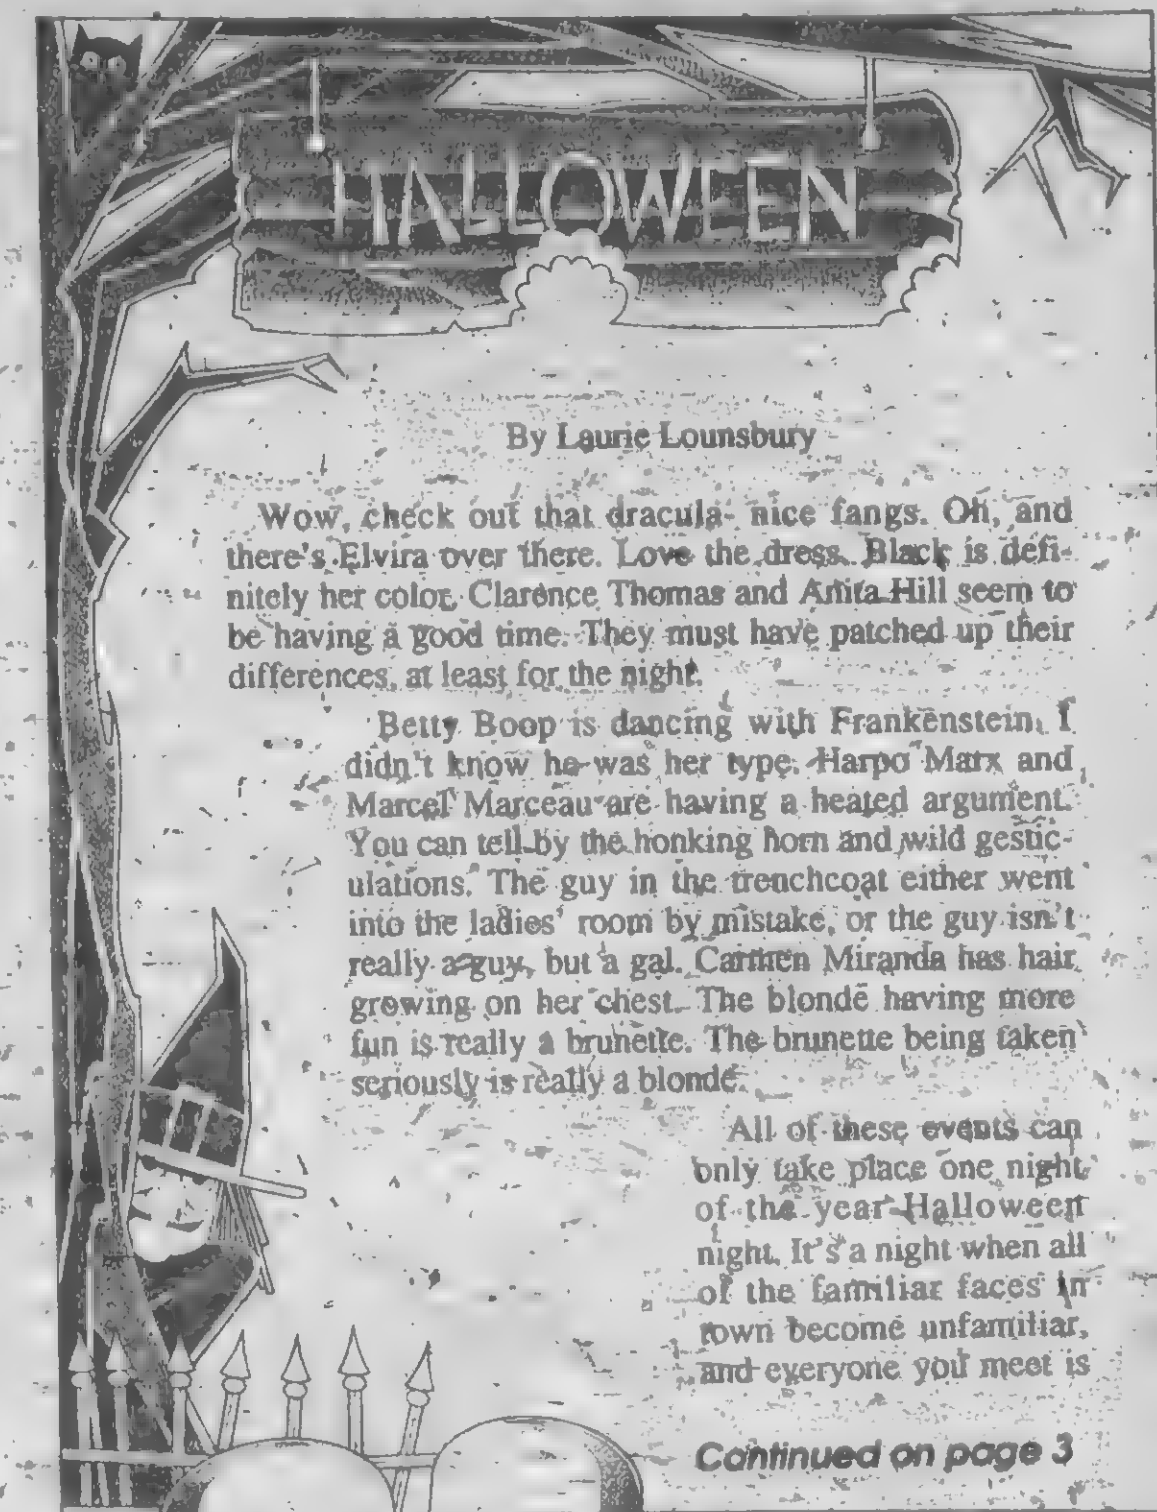

The gap of only 49 seconds between the team's first and fifth runners gives Spieles and his team cause for optimism in this year's State Championship race which will take place at Frankenmuth.

The number five position has been a question mark since the beginning of the season. Sevinski and Smith have been near the top in most races this year. LaBlance, who is running cross country for the first time this season, has been consistently improving. Pajtas has been consistent and solid.

Scheels and freshman Mike Bush have been jockeying for the fifth spot with Eric Hess rounding out the seven man varsity team. At the regional race, Scheels closed the gap between the five and four spots to a mere second.

Last year's state championship race proved the value of depth. Smith, who was running third among the Rayders, collapsed from exhaustion just before crossing the finish line. The fourth, fifth and sixth runners, Paul Wakula, Matt Stalgaard and Pajtas, picked up their pace and passed runners. Pajtas passed a Sandusky runner at the finish line and Charlevoix ended up beating Sandusky by one point.

Elsa Conlan, a junior, was the only Rayder girl to qualify for the state meet this year. Conlan placed 15th at the regional meet with a time of 21:09. The Rayder girls finished sixth among 12 teams.

Wow, check out that dracula: nice fangs. Oh, and there's Elvira over there. Love the dress. Black is definitely her color. Clarence Thomas and Anita Hill seem to be having a good time. They must have patched up their differences, at least for the night.

Betty Boop is dancing with Frankenstein. I didn't know he was her type. Harpo Marx and Marcel Marceau are having a heated argument. You can tell by the honking horn and wild gesticulations. The guy in the trenchcoat either went into the ladies' room by mistake, or the guy isn't really a guy, but a gal. Carmen Miranda has hair growing on her chest. The blonde having more fun is really a brunette. The brunette being taken seriously is really a blonde.

All of these events can only take place one night of the year: Halloween night. It's a night when all of the familiar faces in town become unfamiliar, and everyone you meet is

Charlevoix property taxes low in mills, but made up for by high property values

Analysis

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix County Equalization Director Joan Blanchard presented the county's 1991 apportionment report to the county board of commissioners last week. Although the 35-page booklet isn't something which can be described as light reading, it is interesting reading.

The report contains property tax figures for all of the 15 townships three cities and one village (Boyne Falls) in Charlevoix County. The report Property in the city of Charlevoix has a total state equalized value of $98,588,300. Which is to say the total market value of all property in Charlevoix is $197,176,600. In other words, if you had about $198 million rattling around in your pocket, you supposedly could buy this town.

breaks down the millage levies tax payers are paying to the county, school and city or township. For example, property owners in the city of

City	Mills Levied	State Equalized Value	Revenue	Tax $ Per Person
Boyne City	63.9264	$66,990,300	$4,282,449	$1338
(Industrial Facilities Tax)		($5,989,100)	($198,639)
Charlevoix	50.3264	$98,588,300	$4,890,491	$1479
(Industrial Facilities Tax)		($9,189,900)	($73,955)
East Jordan	66.0895	$26,997,119	$1,784,226	$808
(Industrial Facilities Tax)		($119,000)	($4,540)

The table above offers a comparison of property taxes for the three cities in Charlevoix County. The table shows that although Charlevoix's total millage levy is the lowest of the three communities, its tax revenue is the highest because it has the highest property values. A more detailed explanation of the table is offered in the accompanying story.

Performing Arts parents plan grand raffle

A $1,000 cash raffle has been launched by parents of Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts Students with proceeds earmarked to help underwrite expenses of the year-long competitions for these students.
Parents of Performing Arts students will sell $2 raffle tickets with a $1,000 Grand Prize and $500 and $300 second and third prizes from now until the drawing Nov. 16, at the Performing Arts Variety Show.
The Charlevoix Performing Arts Team competes in debate, speech and drama competitions. They have an outstanding record for representing Charlevoix at state championships in all three events and have brought home a number of Class C state championships.
The Performing Arts team's annual budget is $10,000, which includes travel costs, royalty fees for use of dramatic literature in competition, costs of music, costumes, and sets, as well as competition fees.
Students and parents raise the majority of this money through bake sales, bottle drives, ticket sales to their public performances, direct fund drives, and raffle ticket sales.
The $2 raffle tickets can be purchased from any parent of a Performing Arts student. Parents will be selling tickets at Olesons, Glens, Wolohan's Lumber, and K Mart during the next two weekends. Raffle tickets will also be available at the high school on Nov. 16, before the annual Fall Variety Show.

Preparing for winter

Recent contributions from the Charlevoix County State Bank and the First State Bank will allow exterior work to be completed on the Charlevoix Senior Center building prior to the onset of winter.

Banks assist senior center

Contributions help center beat cold weather

Charlevoix's senior citizens will be getting a lot of heat in the near future. The new Senior Citizen Center, on Norwood Road, will have their heating system installed, along with sewer lines and vinyl siding, before the cold weather sets in.

The Senior Citizen Center received assistance for these developments from the Charlevoix County State Bank, which donated $500, and from the First State Bank of Charlevoix, which provided them with a $15,000, no-interest loan. Charlevoix County State Bank also donated five turkeys to the center, which will be used for their fundraising dinners.

"We have to have at least one fundraiser a month to keep ahead of things," said Sherry Black, director of the Senior Center. Black has been overseeing all of the construction on the Senior Center, along with handling the fundraisers and coordinating the senior programs.

The Senior Center acts as headquarters for a number of activities and programs provided for anyone more than 50.

"Anything that's available for seniors will be available here," said Black. She runs the New Horizons Travel Club, a group that offers shopping excursions to Chicago and Traverse City, trips to the Cheboygan Opera House, and week-long travel programs to southern destinations, such as New Orleans and Florida.

The center will be offering classes in arts and crafts, a health class with guest speakers discussing relevant topics for seniors, along with a monthly potluck dinner and dance.

The center still has a way to go before it will be completed. The floors aren't in yet, and neither is the kitchen. Black continues to plan monthly fundraisers to raise the revenue for these items. In November the center will host a Christmas Bazaar, selling crafts and offering a soup and salad lunch. They also have Bingo on Thursday nights, which is open to the general public.

Ghost ship appears

Spooky music...fog...hidden rooms...monsters.
Again this year the U.S.C.G. cutter Acacia will be transformed into a Ghost Ship from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Halloween night.

Admission to the Ghost Ship is free to all who have the courage to enter.

There will be a treat at the end of the tour for all who are brave enough to tour the Ghost Ship.

...Halloween suggestions

not who you think. It's a night when alter egos come out of their hiding places and display themselves with reckless abandon. The quiet, prim and proper lady slips into a bustier and a wig and turns into Madonna. Mr. Uptight becomes Steve Martin, a wild and crazy guy. Three bashful girls head for the stage and start belting out a song by the Supremes.

If you're looking for a few good men, no problem. Dress up like a Marine recruiter. If you want to be all that you can be, go as G.I. Joe. It's only a one night hitch, so you can always go back to your day job after you've had enough of Army life.

Dressing up on Halloween night is more than just a chance to shake the dust off your alter ego and air it out. It's a chance to exercise your right to free expression and wild imagination. If your creative Halloween juices aren't flowing yet, here are a few suggestions, some new, some old, some blatantly stolen, but one might be just the thing for you.

Throw a lampshade on your head and a tabletop on your shoulders, and go as a nightstand.

Get twenty-eight of your thinnest friends together, run some string among yourselves, and go as a set of vertical blinds.

Wear all black, pull a stocking over your head and go as a cat burglar. Accessorize it with a bag full of cats thrown over your shoulder.

Remember, fashionable cat burglars do not wear pantyhose on their heads. A dangling panty leg is grounds for arrest by the Halloween fashion police.

Any type of bunny is good. There's Harvey, the imaginary bunny for the tall guy who's prone to hallucinations, or a wild hare for that party animal kinda' guy, or a humble dust bunny for anyone planning to roll around on the floor for most of the evening.

If you prefer to sit quietly and observe others, govern yourself in apples, climb into a bowl and be a sun life.

Skinny people can wear a solid color, run a row of staples down their front, stick out their tongue and be a zipper.

If your friends and family sometimes treat you like you're from another planet, then so be it. Be a Martian, a conehead, or just be another planet.

If you feel foolish dressing up, you can always dress as yourself, tell everyone you have amnesia, and that you dressed up like a person who you vaguely remember.

Dress up like just about anybody who died a hundred years ago and say that you're dressed up like Shirley Maclaine.

Or, if you're really tired, and you don't feel like doing anything at all for Halloween, at least wrap yourself up in something grayish white before you curl up and go to sleep. Then you can tell everyone that you're a worm in the bottom of a tequila bottle.

"We can show them prints until the cows come home, but until they have shared a 'hands-on' experience with a work of art, it's not the same," says Boris Lundteigen, a docent at the McCune Arts Center.

This month more than 100 fourth graders from the Charlevoix School System were bussed to the McCune Arts Center to see a mural of the Last Supper completely done in glass "seed" beads. This is part of the Native American exhibit featured during the Nishnawbe festival held here every fall.

Let me share with you some of the reactions of our fourth graders during an interview at school.

SHAWN MACMILLAN showed me his piece of graph paper on which he had drawn an eagle. He explained that this symmetrical design on paper is used as a pattern in recreating the design on the loom. "It takes planning."

AMANDA SIMPSON was amazed how you can get a product out of this little loom. She explained how you use your finger to carefully push the bead up above the warp or the beads fall on the floor.

TYLER KERNER was charmed by Veronic High's live demonstration at the Arts Center showing how she follows the graph to transfer the design to the loom.

All the youngsters were impressed by the fact that it took 1,788,761 beads to create the 11 by 5 foot mural. They were also impressed when they learned that the exhibit represented the work of three generations of one local Ojibwa family, the Quo's. Some of the other family items on display also fascinated them, such as the quill boxes.

"What is the first thing one needs to do to make a quill box?" I asked. "Catch a porcupine!" laughed LAURA SCHAIRBAUM.

KIRSTEN BRENDTRO thoughtfully explained that the quills are chewed on to soften them before they can be manipulated into a design for a box.

In addition to the demonstration and the hands-on experience in making designs on graph paper, the youngsters were shown a film on Eskimo Art. Laura explained that first a woman looked around outside and then went inside to draw what she had observed. Her husband later carved the design on a rock. Kirsten added that an artist in the village put a big piece of paper on the rock and painted on it. This turns out to be a block print.

Most of the children had visited the McCune Arts Center before, when they were in the third grade. Teacher ANNE KELLY explained that the 4th graders like to go every year because they are now studying World Geography. Teacher PAM SMITH added, "We are focusing on Egypt, China and India now."

Shawn said and all the children nodded, "I would like to see an Egyptian exhibit at the Art Center with mummies."

I told them we were very lucky to have an Egyptian exhibit a few years ago from the Detroit Institute of Art, including a mummy. (And I thought to myself with the state cuts in the arts, there's about as much chance of getting a return engagement of this exhibit as there is of getting Governor Engler recalled.)

Thus far, the McCune Arts Center has hosted more than 300 children from Charlevoix and Emmet county schools this month to experience the hands-on demonstration. Anyone interested in participating in the monthly ongoing programs may call the Arts Center for an appointment. The exhibit comes down Saturday, Nov. 2.

Editorial

Local high school sports fans are in for a big time this weekend and in upcoming weekends.

Friday evening the Charlevoix varsity football team hosts Rogers City. The Rayders can probably lock up a trip to the post-season playoffs with a win. It would be Charlevoix's first playoff appearance since the playoffs were initiated back in the 1970s. Coach Roger Gowell's team is benefitting from a new playoff format which allows more teams in, but without a glistering 6-1 record they would be in no position to take advantage of the new format.

The Charlevoix boys' cross country team will be in Frankenmuth Saturday looking for their fifth straight Class C state title. Coach Pete Spieles and his team have had so much success in the past decade and a half that it's getting tough to find words of praise to do the program justice. Perhaps one of the nicest comments was made by school-board member Larry Levengood after attending last year's state finals. As Levengood said, at the state meet it becomes obvious that Charlevoix's cross country program is the one that other schools want to emulate.

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team plays in an important league game at East Jordan Thursday evening. While the Rayders are not yet competing for the league title, they are improving from year to year. Two years ago they were winless. Last year they won four games. This year they are on a pace to finish with a winning record. The Rayder girls, led by coach Toni Felter, are wrapping up their regular season and will go into district play in mid November as one of the stronger teams in the district.

While it is true that high school sports must take a back seat to academics, there's nothing to say local students can't excel at both. And it's nice to see the local teams doing well.

City voters to cast ballots in Nov. 5 election

City voters will face a ballot containing six different ballot proposals Nov. 5. But not to fear, only one is particularly controversial. The other five proposals are relatively simple paperwork and operational matters.

Proposal one is likely to be the most controversial of the group. The proposal would allow the city to draft and adopt ordinances to regulate the use of lakes and bottom lands within the city limits. The primary body of water the ordinances would be involved with is Round Lake.

Legally, there would be questions as to how far the city could go in regulating Round Lake. The lake is also regulated by state and federal authorities and those laws would supersede anything the city might pass. Court rulings would also affect just how far the city can go in regulating the lake.

Carol Sullivan, a former member of the city planning commission, said she is glad to see the proposal on the ballot and hopes it passes. Sullivan, who also is a planning professional, says the city currently lacks the authority to regulate building and other activities over the water.

Sullivan explained that although the state enabling act gives cities the power to pass zoning ordinances, it doesn't give city's authority to regulate things over the water. She said the charter ordinance will give the city that authority. She noted that she doesn't believe the state enabling act neglects to give cities power over water because the state doesn't want cities to have that power, but leaving that power out of the act is an oversight because not many cities have a waterway such as Round Lake right in their midst.

"I think it's pretty critical," Sullivan said of the proposed charter amendment. "I'm a little frustrated that it's taken two years to get to this point."

Mel Renaud, a current planning commission member, opposes the charter amendment. Renaud, who owns and operates Dry Harbour Marina, has studied maritime law and attended seminars dealing with maritime law.

Round Lake is already governed by federal, state and maritime regulations Renaud says. Adding another governing body is unnecessary.

"How many times do you want to see someone enforce the same law?" he asks. "I think there are enough laws in force right now," he said.

Only one incumbent council member faces a challenge. In the second ward incumbent Alvin D. (Butch) Russell is being challenged by Janice L. McKay. Patricia Gaskin and Cheryl B. Hoffman are unopposed in the third and first

School to pay for Island trip

by Wendi Wright

The third grade will be going to Beaver Island in the spring, as usual, but the burden of fundraising to cover the cost of the trip has been lifted from the shoulders of the 3rd grade teachers and students.

Rich Kelly, school business manager, reported to the school board Oct. 21 that last year's trip cost $2,947.00, and that he would estimate that this year's trip will cost about $3,200 to $3,300. He also told the board that rent collected from the Beaver Island Boat Company for the high school parking lot totals $2,767.00 per year. If that money is applied toward the 3rd grade trip, only about $500 is left to be raised.

According to Kelly, the remaining $500 for next spring's trip will come out of the elementary school's general fund. Funding for trips in future years will most likely come out of the total budget.

FAMILY

Fifth grader Marcia Donaldson (left) and second grader Cody Schofield (right) were winners in the poster design contest for the Nov. 8 Family Fun Night at the high school. The evening which is sponsored by the K-5 P.T.A. will feature a hot dog dinner and a basketball game. The basketball team will pit school faculty and support staff members against members of local service clubs. The hot dog dinner will not be competitive. Donaldson and Schofield each won $50 savings bonds for their posters. A poster by Emily Godwin-Chulick was chosen for the cover of the basketball program. Shown with the students is art teacher Beth McGraw.

Baked goods and early Christmas bargains for the entire family will be featured at the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild annual pre-Christmas sale on Friday, Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the hospital lobby and Showcase Gift Shop.

Proceeds of the sale will go toward satisfying the Guild's pledge to the hospital building program and for nursing scholarships. Children's toys, baby items, jewelry, novelty items and Christmas decorative items will be featured along with the delicious baked goods and candies made by Guild volunteers.

Fall high school conferences scheduled

Parent-Teacher Conferences will take place at the Charlevoix High School on Thursday, Nov. 7 from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Any parent desiring to schedule an individual conference with their child's teachers, should phone the High School office at 547-3222 during the week of October 28 through Nov. 6 with Nov. 6 being the final day to schedule conference appointments. Each conference is 15 minutes in length. The High School office is open to accept phone calls from 7:15 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. daily. Information sheets concerning the conferences were sent home with all High School students on Friday, Oct. 5.

Obituaries Lillian B. Crump

Lillian B. Crump, 81, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 26, 1991, at Reus Residential Care Community in Petoskey.

Memorial graveside service will be 2 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30, at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. The Rev. Benton Heiser will officiate.

The former Lillian B. Pierce was born March 31, 1908, in Detroit, the daughter of Guy and Pearl (Wager) Pierce. She grew up in Detroit and married Randall C. Crump in Detroit.

In 1948 they moved from Royal Oak to Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Crump operated Crump's Candy in Harbor Springs until 1978. They retired in 1979. They had wintered in Venice, Fla., since 1956. Mr. Crump preceded her in death on Jan. 3, 1989.

Mrs. Crump was a member of the Order of Eastern Star No. 72 in Charlevoix, a member of the United Methodist Church and was active in the women's fellowship. She enjoyed crafts and hobbies.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Jack (Joane) Grubaugh of Charlevoix, Mrs. Delbert (Janet)

Sapatka of Cadillac and Mrs. Susan Barnett of Albuquerque, N.M.; nine grandchildren; five great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Hospice of Little Traverse Bay, 416 Connable Ave., Petoskey, 49770.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Take steps now to prevent influenza

Fall is the transition season between summer and winter. It is also a time to immunize against the upcoming flu season. Influenza (or flu) is a viral infection of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs that can make someone of any age ill. Usually the flu occurs from November to April with January, February, and March the worst months.

If you get the flu, you usually have an abrupt onset of fever, sore throat, chills, cough, and soreness and aching in your back, arms, and legs. Although most people recover in three to seven days, some individuals become seriously ill and require hospitalization. Thousands of people die each year in the U.S. from the flu or related complications such as pneumonia.

There is a vaccine and a medication which can prevent and control influenza. Medication is not a substitute for vaccination and is recommended for use under specific circumstances such as immunized high risk persons. The vaccine is recommended for use in the elderly and people with other health problems who may become seriously ill or die from flu or its complications. Medical staff and individuals (family) who provide care to high risk persons at home or in health care facilities should also receive the vaccine. The vaccine may be useful for any individual who doesn't want to get the flu or be off work due to illness. The elderly and persons with high risk medical conditions embarking on foreign travel should consider influenza vaccination. High risk groups include:

1. Adults and children with long term heart or lung problems which cause them to see a doctor regularly.
2. Residents of nursing homes and other institutions housing persons of any age with serious long term health problems.
3. Healthy people age 65 years or older.
4. People of any age who during the past year have regularly seen a doctor for treatment of illnesses such as kidney disease, cystic fibrosis, diabetes, anemia ("low blood"), or severe asthma.
5. People who have a type of cancer or immunological disorder (or use certain types of medicines) that lowers the body's normal resistance to infections.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Duane Nelson

BOO! Did I scare you? Probably not. You have to be in the right frame of mind to jump a little bit. However, Halloween tends to put us in the "right" frame of mind. Halloween, for some odd reason, puts the word "fear" in big, bold letters. During this time, we find members of our family, our friends, and even ourselves looking under our beds; checking those rarely opened closets, and investigating those "things" that go bump in the night.

And why? I don't know. Could it be the movies we watch around this "holiday" or the ghost stories told during slumber parties or just plain old fear of the unknown? If I were to take an educated guess, I would say that it is a combination of all three, emphasizing the fear of the unknown. I believe you understand what I mean. When someone sneaks up behind you and yells, you jump because you did not know that person was there. More specifically to this devotional, it is probably the same reason we investigate those unknown noises with some apprehension - again, fear of the unknown.

My encouragement to you on this national holiday of fear is found in 1 John 4:16-18 (NIV). "God is love. Whoever lives in love lives in God, and God in him. Love is made complete among us so that we will have confidence on the day of judgment, because in this world we are like him. There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear, because fear has to do with punishment. The man who fears is not made perfect in love." Interesting statements, huh? There is no fear in love, and perfect love drives out fear. Don't forget also that it is God who is the love.

Fear is a natural emotion, especially fear of the unknown. However, we don't have to be bound to the fear of not knowing where we are going to spend eternity. God is the love that drives out that fear, because there is no fear in God. In fact God loved us so much that he gave up His son for our sins to free us from that fear.

If you fear the unknown of your eternity, seek God right now. Don't waste anymore time. Ask Him to forgive you for any and all things done against Him believing He will forgive. I do believe God's Word is true, and I do believe that fear will be replaced with the knowledge and confidence that your eternity is with God.

Rev. Duane Nelson is pastor of the Charlevoix Nazarene Church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Gregg Holmes (64) drags a Boyne City runner to the ground during last Friday afternoon's junior varsity football game. The game was originally scheduled for Thursday evening, but had to be postponed because of lightning.

Rayders beat Boyne City 41-6

Win sets up showdown with Rogers City

Charlevoix didn't overlook, they just overmatched, Boyne City on their way to a regular season finale against Rogers City.

Charlevoix entered Friday evening's game with a season record of 5-1 while Boyne City was 2-5. The Rayders beat the Ramblers 41-6 to set up this Friday night's game against Rogers City, which also has lost just once this season.

The Rayders are in contention for a post season playoff spot. They might get in even with a loss to the Hurons, but a win over Rogers City would almost assure the Rayders of post season play.

Big plays early in the game spelled Boyne City's demise. In the first quarter, Lance Emig returned a punt 65 yards for a touchdown and Brian Coolman picked off a pass and took it 70 yards for a touchdown.

Bryan VanLoon scored the first of his two touchdowns from 17 yards out early in the second quarter. Coolman scored his second touchdown a few minutes later.

In the third quarter VanLoon scored again from 25 yards out. Emig finished the Rayders scoring from 16 yards out following a 70 yard run by Coolman.

For the night, Coolman carried 15 times for 204 yards and went over the 1,000 yard mark for the season. Emig carried eight times for 60 yards. Charlevoix tallied 366 yards rushing. Quarterback Don Jess completed two of seven passes for 22 yards.

Defensively, Ben Whitley and Ryan Eveleigh each had nine tackles. Dan Avery had seven tackles while Coolman, Chris Pease and Luke Porat each had six.

Charlevoix will be at home against Rogers City. The game should provide an interesting contrast. Offensively, Rogers City favors an aerial attack while the Rayders prefer to run around, through and over people.

Rayders win 56-41

The varsity girls' basketball team beat Harbor Springs Thursday for the second time this season and improved their record to 8-6 on the year.

Freshman Liz Grunch who has been getting better every game even though she wasn't bad to begin with, scored 19 points to lead the Rayder offense. Junior Mary Jane Grunch had 14 points, including four three-point baskets and senior Gina Webster added 10.

Charlevoix led throughout the game. The Rayders were up 12-8 24-19 and 37-27 at the quarter marks.

Harbor Springs won the junior varsity game as the Rayder J.V. team lost for just the second time this season. The game's final score was 62-51. Becky Bragg scored 19 points for the junior varsity Rayders.

This Thursday evening Charlevoix travels to East Jordan. Earlier this season the Rayders beat the Red Devils in a nail biter. The two teams are likely to be the two favorites in the district tournament.

Robert Stradtner (64) helps a Boyne City player up during the junior varsity football game. Charlevoix lost the game 36-22 after leading early in the first half.

Social Services volunteers honored

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services hosted its annual Foster Parent and 15th Annual Volunteer Recognition Dinner Oct. 9 at the Grey Gables in Charlevoix. More than 50 volunteers and foster parents attended with another 30 staff, friends, and relatives to honor them.

Foster parents and volunteers were entertained by the "S.F.B. Band," Dehny Peck, Bill Heiermann and Vasco Zucchiatti.

Services Supervisor Doug McCombs and Social Services Board Member Eliene Rouse presented certificates and recognized the contributions of the following foster parents:

-Less than one year of service: Paul and Deborah Gelderblom, William and Patricia Koehn and James and Sandra Malewitz.

-One year: Hugh and Marilyn Sweeney.

-Three years: Jake and Joan Janack and Robert and Rosaria Davis.

-Four years: Robert and Marilyn Oliver.

-Five years: Lawrence and Sandra Bergmann.

-Six years: Michelle Zimmerman.

-Nine year: John and Charlene Bush.

In honor of reaching the five years of service milestone, silver pins were presented to Michelle Zimmerman and Lawrence and Sandra Bergmann.

Volunteer secretary Cathy Tillon and Social Services Board Member Eliene Rouse gave certificates to the following volunteers:

-Less than one year of service: Phillip Decker, Edward Elliott, Jane Elliott, Gilbert Fox, Loreta Goldsmith, Jacquelyn Hull, Heather Jacobs, Les Vanderlago, and Donna Herman.

-One year: Bonnie Altman, Deborah Beaudry, Robert Black, Jeanne Genson, Chester Laginess, Danielle Meyer, John Miller, Mel Morrison, Harold Nelson, Steve Schwartzfisher, Margaret Stokes, Jim Herman, and the Full Gospel Truth Church Group.

-Two years: Linda Barnes, Lloyd Cummings, Donna Decker, Louis Hooper, Fran Hooper, Ethel Kerner, Millie LaBricque, Margaret Landman, Lucy Martin, Floyd Peck, Kay Peck, and Sheila Rake.

-Three years: Frank Birdsall, Denis Birdsall, J.O. Crawford, Sara Cummings, Oma Darragh, Raymond Giffin, John Magee, Lillian Martinek, and Care and Share Food Pantry.

-Four years: Dianne Penfold.

-Five years: Robert Thomas.

-Six years: David Ecker, Deborah Ecker, Dennis Gocha, Mildred Gocha, Ernie Walden and Janet Walden.

-Seven years: Charlevoix Community Food Pantry.

-Eight years: George Hamlin and Anna Willis.

-Ten years: Ray Ecker.

-Eleven years: Connie Fraley.

-Twelve years: Luella Barnes and John Daniels.

-Fifteen years: Virginia Daniels and Ron Putman.

-Sixteen years: Genetta Cole, Shirley Roloff, Community Service Center and Stitch and Chai.

Special Volunteer awards were presented by Vasco Zucchiatti, Volunteer Services Coordinator and Eliene Rouse. Receiving awards for more than 200 hours of service were: David Ecker, Lillian Martinek, John Miller, Steve Schwartzfisher, Les Vanderlago, Jim Herman and Bonnie Altman. More than 500 hours: Bonnie Altman and Sara Cummings. More than 9,000 hours: Raymond Ecker.

Zucchiatti said that it's a pleasure to honor volunteers who give so much of themselves. He noted that if a job needs to be done, there is usually a volunteer who can do it. With anticipated state cutbacks, volunteers will be called upon to fill in service gaps, making them an even more valuable resource.

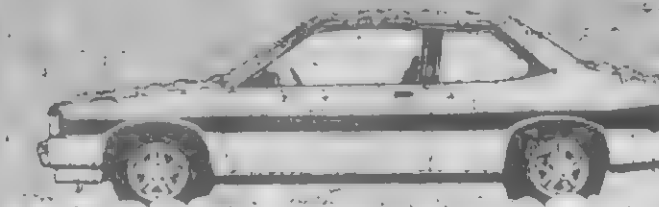

People who have offered their time to help the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services either as volunteers (top) or foster parents (below) were recently honored at an annual dinner. (Photos courtesy Department of Social Services.)

Barnard Grange wins State Grange awards

Rod and Kim Stevens win talent competition

Granges in Michigan logged more than 75,000 hours of service to their community this year. Chrystal Lindsey, Michigan State Grange Community Service Director announced the winners during the awards banquet last week in Flint.

The highest community service award went to River Side Grange for their many projects, especially for the Project D.I.C.K. ("Don't Underestimate Citizen Kindness") to save the animals in the Three Rivers Park. Other projects included keeping the city parks' lawns looking good, erection of Candy Cane Lane as part of the downtown beautification for Christmas, the Christmas Mitten Tree and other charitable projects. Their next competition will be on the national level — winners will be announced at the National Grange Convention in Burlington, Vermont in November.

Second Place went to Barnard Grange, Charlevoix for their fingerprinting of the elementary school children; Third Place to Mosherville Grange, Mosherville for their Health Fair; Fourth Place to Platte Grange for their project of identifying and documenting all burials in the local cemetery; Fifth Place to Home Grange, Ceresco for their recycling project; Sixth Place to Studley Grange, Midland for providing equipment to their fire department; Seventh Place, Kinney Grange, Grand Rapids for donating educational learning tools for trainable mentally impaired students in the Byron Center Schools; Eighth Place, Fredonia Grange, Marshall for the barrier free entrance to their Grange Hall.

Other projects include help for habitat housing, highway cleanup, bonnets and blankets for hospital newborns, re-opened public access on lakes, donated money to county fairs, donated food for the homeless, delivered meals to the elderly, sewed for the needy, and many more.

Charlevoix are paying $5,291 mills to the county, 14.23 mills to the city (or 15.5947 mills if their property is located within the Downtown Development Authority district), 26.9922 mills to the Charlevoix Public Schools, and 2.2104 mills to the Char-Bm Intermediate School District.

A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of State Equalized Value. State Equalized Value is half of a property's theoretical market value. Property in the city of Charlevoix has a total state equalized value of $98,588,300. Which is to say the total market value of all property in Charlevoix is $197,176,600. In other words, if you had about $198 million rattling around in your pocket, you supposedly could buy this town.

The tables compiled on pages 1 and 13 offer an opportunity for comparison between cities and townships and also may be seeds for thought.

One thing the tables indicate is the relationship between millage and state equalized value in determining total tax revenue. For example, even though Charlevoix has the lowest millage of the three communities, it has the highest tax revenues because it also has the highest property value.

The figure at the far right of the tables, TAX $ PER PERSON, is perhaps the most interesting and also the most debatable. It was calculated by dividing the tax revenue figure by the number of residents (1980 Census) in the township or city in question.

There are several variables which can affect the TAX $ PER PERSON figure. For example, the population has changed to some degree in the past 10 years. On a county level, the overall change probably hasn't been that great, but the changes could vary by a greater degree from township to township and from city to city.

The TAX $ PER PERSON figure is also probably going to be generally higher than what any individual resident taxpayer is paying because the number used for the dividing figure does not include nonresident taxpayers. The number of nonresident taxpayers may vary from township to township and from city to city. For example, Peaine Township on Beaver Island probably has a significant number of nonresident taxpayers.

But even with its flaws, the TAX $ PER PERSON figure is at least a figure which factors in the effects of both millage and state equalized value.

An interesting point to ponder for the future is that state legislative efforts to address property concerns are generally focusing on controlling state equalized values rather than millage levies. That is likely to have differing effects on low millage-high value communities and high millage-low value communities.

BUSINESS

Diamonds also have their practical side

(The following story is one in a series of stories about area industries being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and councilmember and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Charlevoix's newest manufacturer is a unique, one might even say a sparkling, enterprise, American Diamond Tool and Gauge, Inc. buys, sets and sells diamonds for manufacturing purposes.

Founded in Detroit more than 80 years ago, for the past 40 years the business has been owned by the Marshall family. Presently the proprietor-manager is John T. Marshall. Like many other manufacturers, Marshall was drawn to Charlevoix by the quality of life offered by the area. Marshall traded urban problems and losses to theft for fresh air and a community surrounded by water. Marshall was encouraged by a friend from Traverse City and aided by Tom Johnson, Executive Director of the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance.

American Diamond Tool and Gauge opened its Charlevoix plant Aug. 1. The plant is located at 12600 Taylor Road, just a bit east of Mercer near the city's industrial park. Marshall said he has been impressed with the city's cooperation in bringing his business to Charlevoix. Currently American Diamond Tool and Gauge employs eight people and plans to hire a few more.

The firm attaches diamonds to the ends of various shanks of metal to create tools used to grind, dress and burnish metals. These tools are used by hundreds of manufacturers. Because of their durability, they have supplanted the use of carbide tipped tools. Although they cost 15 times more than carbide tools, the diamond-tipped tools last 300 times longer. Diamond tools can remove as little as one ten thousandth of an inch from a surface or cut deep grooves into pistons.

It used to be that the company had to keep large stocks of diamonds on hand to insure prompt delivery. That is no longer the case. Fax machines and overnight deliveries allow American Diamond Tool to limit diamond inventory while still assuring prompt service. Diamonds are purchased from brokers in New York City. The diamonds come from the British owned DeBeers mines in South Africa. DeBeers controls the world diamond markets and can sell directly to customers in Canada, but not in the United States. Delivered diamonds, millions of them, come just as they were unearthed in the mines.

Now there are also artificial diamonds, called polycrystalline diamonds. They are crystal sized natural diamonds fused together by a chemical process which also uses pressure and heat. Several companies, including General Electric, make them. DeBeers also produces artificial diamonds.

American Diamond Tool and Gauge buys packets of diamonds. The packets contain diamonds weighing between .35 and 2 carats. One carat weighs 200 milligrams. If the gem cannot scratch the hardest of metals, it is not a diamond. Industrial diamonds are darker and less refractive than cosmetic diamonds.

Attached to the end of every tool leaving the Charlevoix plant is one or several diamonds. Embedding them in the tool is a very precise process. It involves a carbon mold, a silver coated diamond and a mixture containing powdered bronze, cobalt, copper and Johnson's baby oil. It also involves intense pressure and 1,800 degree heat. Once the diamond is embedded in the metal shank, a grinding apparatus which uses olive oil and diamond dust removes surrounding metal until only a point of the diamond is exposed. Scores of machines are needed to refine the tools. Employees use 50-magnification visors to check minute tolerances.

Diamond tipped tools come in a multitude of sizes, shapes and angles made for special uses. A big part of the business is retrofitting used tools. Even diamonds wear out and have to be returned to the plant, where they are popped out and repositioned so another point is exposed. Some diamonds have as many as 12 usable points.

Marshall and his wife live in Clipperview. They have a son and a daughter who both attend Western Michigan University.

which was retiring the vehicles and replacing them with larger vehicles.

Gillespie isn't stopping with Jeeps. He purchased a trolley and is going to be making runs around the length of the harbor, which is roughly the same distance as the circumference of Round Lake.

Gillespie also bought a pontoon boat that he plans to modify and make into a glass bottom boat. The inspiration for a glass bottom boat came from the Betsy Smith, and old, white oak schooner that sank off Beaver Island in 1882. The Betsy Smith, was carrying a load of iron ore when she ran aground in what is now called Iron Ore Bay, named after the sunken ship. The ship has slowly drifted over the years, and currently rests just four feet from the surface of the water. Gillespie felt that it was an ideal situation for a glass bottom boat tour.

"I don't ever want it to be like Mackinaw Island, but I do want to make it more interesting here for the tourists," Gillespie said. Gillespie is a native islander who recently returned after spending 25 years in the publishing business in New York. He and his wife, Annette, run A-Rap A Rental Service, their new business.

"The Jeeps have been a big success," said Gillespie. "They're convenient, and they're cheap." Gillespie rents his Jeeps for $29 for four hours, enough time for most people to drive around the island.

Gillespie acquired the Jeeps by making trips down to Livonia and buying them from the Post Office,

Fleet of Jeeps and a boat allow tours of Beaver Island

Postal vehicles retire to Island

By Laurie Lounsbury

"There's nothing to do on Beaver Island," is the familiar lament of visitors to the Shamrock Isle. That is all changing now, due in part to the innovative efforts of Islander Alan Gillespie. Gillespie recently started a Jeep rental business, offering visitors an inexpensive way to tour the island. These Jeeps are not your garden variety Jeeps. They are retired Post Office Jeeps, complete with right hand side drive, automatic transmission, and positraction. Gillespie started acquiring Post Office Jeeps last year, and now has a fleet of 18 Jeeps. He'd like to have twenty-three by next summer.

"The Jeeps have been a big success," said Gillespie. "They're convenient, and they're cheap." Gillespie rents his Jeeps for $29 for four hours, enough time for most people to drive around the island.

...city election Nov. 5

To Anne Patrick is the only candidate for clerk. Incumbent clerk Arlene Staley is not seeking reelection.

McKay, 45, is originally from the state of Washington. She moved to Charlevoix in 1971 and is currently employed by the Charlevoix school system. She said she is running because she feels there should always be at least two names on a ballot.

"I don't want to see anyone run unopposed," she said, "because that's not the American way."

In addition to the waterways proposal, the other proposals on the ballot are:

2. A proposal to take the Planning Commission out of the zoning variance process and have zoning variance requests go straight to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

3 & 4. Proposals to change the city charter's timetable for nominating councilmembers, the mayor and clerk so that it is in harmony with the state law.

5 & 6. Proposals which would have the mayor and council members take office at the first meeting following the November election rather than waiting until the first meeting of the new year as is presently done.

Voting will take place at city hall. Polls will open at 7 a.m.

Plan ahead for First Aid needs

Northern Michigan has some of the best emergency medical services available in the state of Michigan. Unfortunately, weather conditions or long distances may cause a delay in obtaining these services.

Brian Youngs, M.D., Medical Director/Health Officer for District Health Departments No. 2, No. 3, and No. 4, agrees with the American College of Emergency Physicians and recommends that each home and vehicle should have first aid supplies close at hand. They both suggest keeping your first aid supplies in a small tote bag instead of the medicine cabinet. The tote bag keeps everything in one place, is portable and can be stored out of reach of children. Here's what your bag should contain:

1. Aspirin, acetaminophen for children, under 12 or ibuprofen for aches, pains and fever.
2. Vomiting-inducing agent - either ipecac syrup or liquid activated charcoal. Use only as advised by a poison control center (1-800-632-2729).
3. Antibiotic ointment.
4. Bandages of assorted sizes.
5. Gauze pads, 2-inch and 4-inch sized, for dressing wounds.
6. Steri-strips, 1/4-inch and 1-inch, for taping cuts together.
7. Elastic bandages for wrapping wrist, ankle, knee and elbow injuries.
8. Triangular bandage for wrapping injuries, making a sling or holding an ice pack in place.
9. Adhesive tape.
10. Scissors.
11. First aid manual.
12. List of emergency phone numbers - local emergency number, family doctor, 24-hour hospital emergency room, poison control center and police and fire departments.

13. List of each family member's medical condition, allergies and prescription and non-prescription medications. In an emergency, the physician will need this information.

Having a first aid kit is a step in the right direction. Knowing the current American Red Cross or Heart Association cardiopulmonary resuscitation techniques for adults, children, and infants; along with updated recommendations for first aid emergencies can make the difference between life and death. Information about classes can be obtained by calling the American Red Cross chapter listed in the phone book.

...stopping the flu

6. Children and teenagers (6 months through 18 years of age) on long term treatment with aspirin who, if they catch the flu, may be at risk of getting Reye's Syndrome.

The influenza vaccine for adults is a single flu injection. Children less than 9 years of age may need two injections. The vaccine may not protect against all types of flu or other illnesses that resemble the flu and does not begin to provide protection until 1-2 weeks after the injection.

Most people have no side effects from recent influenza vaccine and the vaccine does not cause influenza. A common side effect is soreness for a day or two at the injection site. Occasionally fever or achiness for one or two days may occur. Allergic or more serious reactions could occur following the immunizations but are infrequent. Individuals with a history of allergic reactions to influenza vaccine have been paralyzed with Guillain-Barre syndrome, are pregnant, or are ill with a fever should consult a physician before requesting the vaccine.

Charlevoix elementary students recently saw a Native American art exhibit at the McCune Arts Center.

ELECTION NOTICE

To the Qualified Electors:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That an Election will be held in the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, STATE OF MICHIGAN ON NOVEMBER 5, 1991.

At the place as indicated below, viz: 210 STATE ST. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

The Election is being held to vote on the following offices: City Clerk and one Councilmember from each ward.

PROPOSAL I
Shall ARTICLE II, Section 2.16 COUNCIL - POWERS AND LIMITATIONS of the City Charter be amended to add Section 2.16(4) which would provide as follows: The Council shall have the power to regulate by ordinance the use of inland lakes, streams and other waters, including the submerged bottom lands of these waters, within the City boundaries; subject to any limitation imposed by law.

PROPOSAL II
Shall ARTICLE XIII, Section 13.3 ZONING VARIANCES of the City Charter be deleted? This section currently reads as follows:

All applications for zoning variances shall be submitted to the City Manager in writing. The City Manager shall review the applications and refer said applications to the Planning Commission. The Planning Commission shall weigh the merits of each application and make a recommendation to the Zoning Board of Appeals in writing.

PROPOSAL III
Shall a portion of ARTICLE IV, 4.4 NOMINATION OF MAYOR AND CITY CLERK of the City Charter be amended to read as follows: "Such petitions shall be filed with the City Clerk's office no later than 4:00 p.m. on the twelfth Tuesday prior to the primary election."

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
State law mandates this deadline for even-year elections. This provision will make the Charter consistent with state law for odd-year elections.

PROPOSAL IV
Shall a portion of ARTICLE IV, Section 4.5 NOMINATIONS OF COUNCIL MEMBERS of the City Charter be amended as follows: "Such petitions shall be filed with the City Clerk's office no later than 4:00 p.m. on the twelfth Tuesday prior to the primary election."

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
State law mandates this deadline for even-year elections. This provision will make the Charter consistent with state law for odd-year elections.

PROPOSAL V
Shall ARTICLE II, Section 2.4 COUNCIL - TERMS of the City Charter be amended to provide that newly elected Council members take office at the first regular City Council meeting after their election and accordingly contain a provision which reads: "The term of each Council member shall start on the first regular City Council meeting after their election?"

PROPOSAL VI
Shall ARTICLE IV, SECTION 4.7 ELECTION OF MAYOR AND CITY CLERK of the City Charter be amended to provide that a newly elected Mayor take office at the first regular City Council meeting after the Mayor's election and contain a provision which reads as follows: "The Mayor shall take office at the first regular City Council meeting after the Mayor's election and the Clerk shall take office at the first meeting of the City Council in January of the following year?"

Notice Relative to Opening and Closing of the Polls
ELECTION LAW, ACT 116, P.A. 1954
SECTION 720. On the day of any election the polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock in the forenoon, and shall be continuously open until 8 o'clock in the afternoon and no longer. Every qualified elector present and in line at the polls at the hour prescribed for the closing thereof shall be allowed to vote.

The Polls for the said Election will open from 7 o'clock A.M. and remain open until 8 o'clock P.M. of the same Election day.

Runners from the Charlevoix Rayders, 1991 Class C State Champion cross country team lifted coach Pete Spieles on their shoulders during a post race celebration in the high school parking lot. This year's team was not favored to win the state title going into the race, but at the race's conclusion the trophy was on its way back to Charlevoix, traveling the road it has traveled for each of the past five years. Charlevoix won the race with 76 points. Carson City-Crystal placed second with 90 points.

Cross Country team wins fifth consecutive state title

By L. Scott Swanson

If things keep going as they have been, the Class C State Championship Cross Country Race might as well be renamed the Pete Spieles Invitational. After all, his teams always seem to win the thing.

This past Saturday in Frankenthum, Charlevoix won their seventh state championship in the past 10 years.

Think of it this way. When Charlevoix's cross country team won its first of five straight Class C State Titles, some members of this year's team were still doing their running on the K-5 school playground.

Or, think of it this way. When Spieles took over the Charlevoix High School cross country team in 1976 and began building a program that is the envy of all others in the state, some members of this year's team hadn't even been born.

Curiously, Charlevoix entered this year's state race as something of an underdog. Teams from Grand and Leslie were rated ahead of the Rayders. But the race results made the ratings look like the end of a card game - rate 'em and weep.

Charlevoix was not influenced by the cold weather, was not unnerved by the status of the race and was not to be beaten.

Senior Mike Sevenski went out too fast in last year's race, but he wasn't about to make the same mistake twice. He went out slower this year and then just began methodically picking people off. He finished second overall in the race, just five seconds behind the race winner. After the race he said he felt he miscalculated slightly and had enough left physically where he could have won the race. Sevenski finished in a time of 16:54.

Junior Matt Smith joined Sevenski on the all-state team. Smith finished sixth in the race with a time of 17:03.

Rounding out Charlevoix's top five were senior Luke LaBlance who finished 14th in 17:21 and missed making the all-state team by two seconds; sophomore Zach Pajtas who finished 19th in 17:29; and junior Josh Scheels who finished 35th in 17:46.

Freshmen Mike Bush and Erik Hess finished 39th in 17:49 and 82nd in 18:35. In the state meet, seven team members ran and the top five finishers scores are added for the team score.

Charlevoix finished with a team score of 76. Carson City-Crystal placed second with a team score of 90.

Service club and school faculty in basketball challenge

Basketball is such a wonderful game. It blends speed, grace, power and dexterity.

At least it does when some people play it.

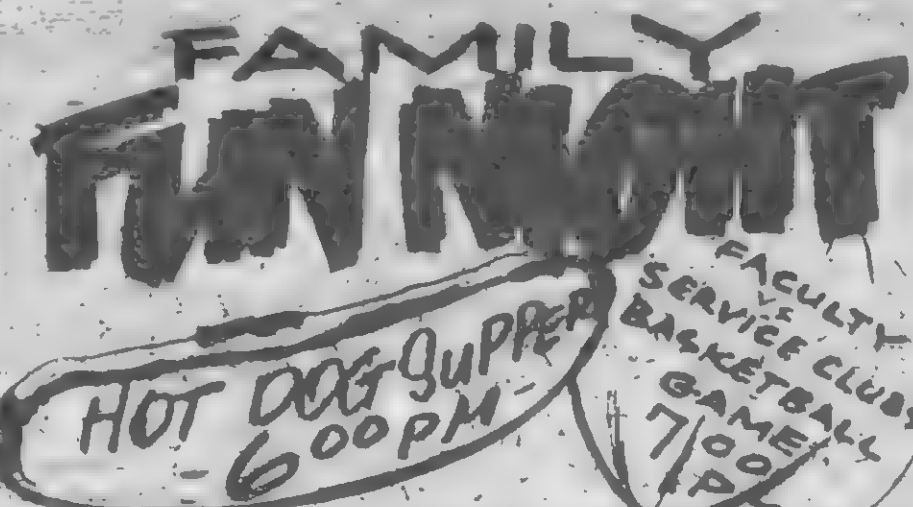

Unfortunately, not many of those people work in the local school system or are members of local service clubs. So Friday night's basketball game, which pits school faculty members against local service club members, will just have to make due with the excuses for players that are available.

The Nov. 8 game between the Service Club team and the Middle-Age Mutant Ninja Teachers is part of the second annual Family Fun Night sponsored by the Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association. The event will begin at 6 p.m. at the high school with a hot dog supper. The cost of the supper is $2 per person. The game will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school gym. Tickets to the game cost $2 per person or $5 per family. Halftime entertainment will feature the fifth grade cheerleaders and Tom E. Tropic, unicyclist and juggler extraordinaire.

As any basketball fan knows, height is important to a basketball team. And both of the teams playing Friday night have a fair amount of height. Granted, in many instances, the height pales in comparison to age and girthing, but still they have some height.

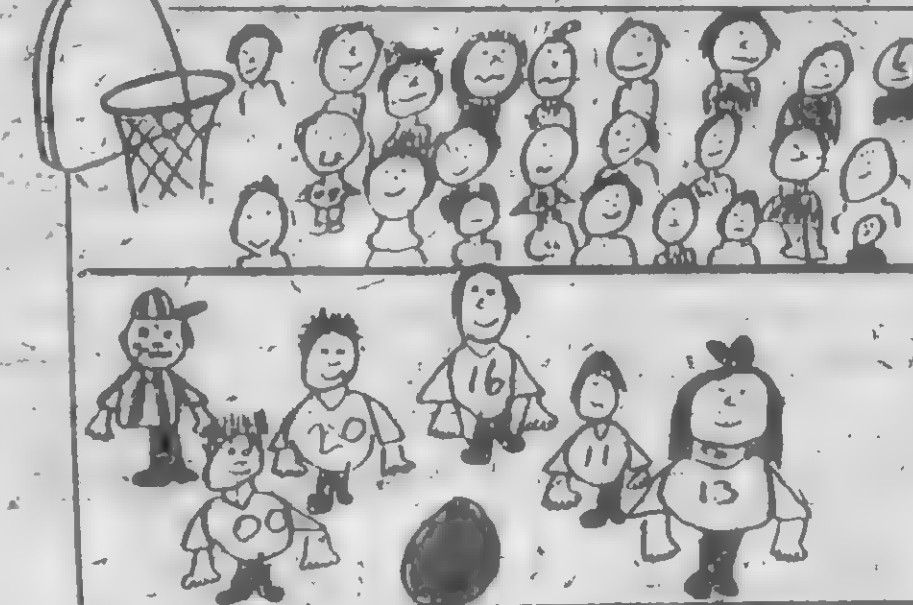

Rotary president Mike Greeley will coach the service club team while Mike Carland and Tori Fisher share coaching responsibilities for the school team. And when you look down the rosters of the two teams and consider the talent levels...well, you just can't overemphasize the importance of coaching.

The service club team has delved into military history to come up with their offensive scheme. The team will employ the legendary Bunker Hill offense. I.E. they will march up the court slowly then fire and fall back.

The school team will counter the service club offense with an explosive defense, i.e. a defense which could explode and give up a whole lot of points at any time during the game.

Rosters for the two teams are:

VanWieren, Kirby Dipert, Joe Trojanek, Dennis Halverson, Marilyn Wilmot, George Lasater, and Steve Smith.

Middle-Age Mutant Ninja Teachers: Hal Evans, Dave Moyer, Stan Martin, Gordy Russell, Vane Smith, Irene Cohen, Karen Pierce, Alison Mellon, Pat Carland, Dick Swenor, Toni Felter, Dennis VanGuilder, Anne Kelly, Rich Kelly, Mike Pearsall, Roxanne Roberts, Pauline Austin, and Kathy Schofield, Roger Gowell and Kathy Gowell.

Referees for the game are Tim Carey and Dave Novotny. Judges for the game will be Fred Muthaus and Harvey Varnum.

Murder trial may be moved

By L. Scott Swanson

A motion to move Andrew Wynkoop's murder trial out of town is still pending. The defense's motion to move the trial concerns charges in the Heather Kleiber case. Although the motion doesn't directly concern another murder charge Wynkoop faces in the Katherine McCleese case, that case is going to be a factor in Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas' decision to grant or deny the motion.

At a hearing Nov. 1, Pajtas said the fact that there are two cases pending is a complicating factor in selecting an impartial jury. He said there exists a good possibility that jurors will know about the second case due to massive pretrial publicity.

Although there has yet to be a legal ruling on what evidence will be admissible, there is a possibility that evidence from the two cases could overlap during one or both of the separate trials. At last Thursday's hearing, Pajtas said he would take the motion to change the trial location under advisement until Charlevoix County prosecutor Kraag Lieberman filed information indicating what evidence from the McCleese case he might want to use in the Kleiber trial.

Pajtas said the trial may still be moved out of town either prior to the trial or during jury selection, but first he needs to consider various motions in regard to limiting evidence.

Wynkoop's defense attorney Ed Gregory has compiled newspaper clippings from the Charlevoix Courier, News-Review and Traverse City Record Eagle and included them in the court file.

At Thursday's hearing he said it is his opinion that there has been so much pretrial publicity that it would be doubtful that a jury could be selected.

Lieberman said he opposed the motion to move the trial. He said there's no way to know whether an impartial jury could be selected locally. However, Lieberman added that if the trial is to be moved, that in order to avoid wasting time and money he would prefer that it be moved without trying to seat a jury in Charlevoix.

Although no alternative location was suggested at the hearing, it is likely the trial would have to take place in a community where there was a spare courtroom which would be available for several days. That might mean moving the trial to a more urban area more than 100 miles away.

In the motion filed for moving the trial Gregory claimed newspaper reports contain references to crucial and disputed trial issues as well as possible inadmissible evidence and further that the reports contain alleged statements made by the defendant in the form of admissions which are disputed by the defendant.

The newspaper reports and information referred to in the motion are based upon testimony at preliminary examinations and court files - all of which are open to the public.

According to the motion for change of venue, the "defendant believes (a) combination of local prejudice, based on the nature of the offense, the strong community feeling to put this matter to rest and the strong community feeling against the defendant resulting from the extensive publicity surrounding this matter and the McCleese matter will all operate to deny him his constitutional rights to a fair and impartial jury, a fair trial and due process of law."

In another matter involving the case, Lieberman has filed a motion to amend the charges from open murder to second degree murder. Lieberman described the motion as a specification of charges rather than a reduction. According to the motion the reason for a second degree rather than first degree charge is because no companion felony can be proven that would serve as a basis for a first degree charge. Kleiber disappeared in Aug. of 1990. Her body was not found until May of 1991.

Alice Muma found herself with a little black cat in her lap on Halloween morning at the elementary school. The child in the black cat costume was Muma's granddaughter, Alana Muma.

Police stop armed robbery in progress

Shot fired, but no injuries

One shot was fired, but nobody was injured as a city policeman and an auxiliary officer foiled an armed robbery at the Weathervane Terrace Hotel this weekend.

Michael B. Lemon, 42, of Charlevoix was arraigned in District Court Tuesday morning on charges of armed robbery, two counts of felonious assault, felonious use of a firearm and carrying a concealed weapon.

At approximately 1:30 a.m. Sunday morning city police officer Scott Hankins and auxiliary officer Jeff Riley received a report of a suspicious vehicle on Pine River Lane. They didn't find anything at Pine River Lane so they decided to check with the night clerk at the hotel to see if she had seen anything suspicious. They had difficulty getting up the driveway from Pine River Lane so they went around to the Dixon Street entrance. When Hankins entered the lobby, there was nobody at the reception desk. However he looked across the reception desk into the back room and saw a masked man standing over the clerk and tying her up.

The masked man was armed with a shotgun. He saw Hankins at approximately the same time Hankins saw him. The man came into the lobby with the shotgun pointed toward Hankins. Hankins drew his weapon and shot once, but missed. As Hankins took cover, Riley entered, drew his gun, pointed it at the man and ordered him to drop the shotgun. After a moment, the man turned over the shotgun.

Another officer was called to the scene and the man was taken into custody. The shotgun was found to be unloaded, but the man was also found to be carrying a large knife. He also had money from the hotel.

Police chief Dennis Halverson said of the suspicious vehicle report: "You get a thousand of those

Letters to the editor

Local library praised

Editor,

The stories recently published in the Petoskey News-Review regarding the East Jordan Public Library have prompted me to sit down and write this letter. My purpose is not to comment on the situation in East Jordan, but rather, to express how privileged I feel to have such a wonderful Public Library available in the Charlevoix community.

One of my earliest childhood memories is being taken to the library by my Mother on a hot summer day. Its cool quiet rooms impressed me greatly, as did the fact that I would be allowed to take home books simply by showing my library card. Ever since then, libraries for me have remained magical places... where I always seem to find just what I need.

"Going to the library" is a common phrase in our household, as my family and I usually visit several times each week. Yet, what if our library was someday not there? How often have we all taken for granted the treasures that our libraries contain? Mysteries, adventures, and romance can be enjoyed simply by opening the pages of a book. Daily newspapers, current magazines, reference materials, music, tapes, summer reading programs... all resources that the Charlevoix Public Library has to offer. In addition, there's the Michigan Reading Room, and a computer for the kids that is in constant use!

Then, too, there's the wonderful staff of the Charlevoix Public Library: librarian Marybeth Wallick, assisted by Shirley Kemp and Jean McGhee. These three ladies are always ready to offer assistance whose it's needed... locating reference materials, explaining the card catalogues, or even just recommending a good book to read. Our family appreciates having such a competent, friendly and helpful library staff readily available.

In closing, I'd like to once again express gratitude at having ready access to such a valuable community resource in these days of budget crunches, our libraries are truly the best bargains to be found!

Sincerely,
Kathleen Patérka

A sweet tradition

The Elementary School Halloween parade has become a nice tradition in Charlevoix. When the weather is nice, the children parade downtown in their costumes. When the weather is nasty, as it was last week, the children invite their parents and grandparents to a parade in the school gym. Marcia Donaldson dressed as a Hershey's Kiss for this year's parade.

Charlevoix leaves area Economic Alliance

By Laurie Lounsbury

The City of Charlevoix has chosen to go it alone in their efforts to expand and retain local industrial development.

Charlevoix formerly supported the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, a non-profit organization which also works to expand and retain base industry in a three county area. But last week the city council voted to withdraw its support from the Alliance. The council acted on the recommendation of the Industrial Development Committee (IDC).

The IDC recommended the withdrawal due to the Alliance's proposed partnership agreement with Michigan State University (MSU).

"We think they're going to have staggering credibility problems," said Dan Barron, an IDC member. Barron went on to say that if this partnership is formed with Michigan State University, the Economic Alliance will become more focused on educational and government promotional activities rather than on industrial development. This would threaten the Alliance's credibility in the industrial community.

When the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance was founded, it received financial support from the State Commerce Department. Receiving the state money required extensive reporting to the State. With state budget cutbacks, the Alliance lost its state money, and became an autonomous entity. The IDC felt that local autonomy was a positive development and opposed having the Alliance join forces with Michigan State University because of the forfeiture of that autonomy.

Tom Johnson, Director of the Economic Alliance, disagrees with the IDC position. Johnson referred to a section of the proposed partnership agreement. "The contract is very tightly written. It clearly states that, in regard to my duties as director, I will carry out a work plan according to the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. It doesn't say anything about my carrying out my duties according to Michigan State University."

Johnson said a partnership with MSU will increase the Alliance's access to resources and expertise that the University has to offer. Because MSU is a state university, anyone in the state already has access to MSU's resources and expertise, but Johnson maintains that being a part of MSU's network will enhance the Alliance's access.

Rod Cortright, head of the Cooperative Extension Service, expressed confidence that MSU will not impose themselves on the Economic Alliance. "I can guarantee you that the University will not step in and dictate policy or development," Cortright said.

Cortright said MSU is offering support because it's part of the University's land grant philosophy. "MSU is making a concerted effort to do more outreach activities," Cortright said.

Barron sees it a little differently. "I think it's an example of bureaucracy on the muscle," said Barron.

MSU will provide the Economic Alliance with $14,000 in financial support which will help pay for Johnson's salary, along with his health and retirement benefits.

Barron indicated that he felt the Economic Alliance was a little hasty in turning to MSU for the $14,000. "They didn't even look to the local industries for the money," he said. Barron expressed confidence that the funds could have been raised locally.

MSU formed a similar partnership with Ogemaw County, and Johnson cited the help MSU was able to give to Ogemaw.

Barron took issue with the comparison of Charlevoix and Ogemaw Counties. Ogemaw County needed help with its resort economy. "We don't need that. We have local Chambers of Commerce doing that effectively," Barron said.

The IDC's position is that it is the Alliance's duty to concentrate on base industry in Charlevoix, Emmet, and Antrim Counties. Johnson says "Base industry includes service industries."

Nov. 7 can be "pun"ishing

A loan had a woman sat down at a table for two in a very nice restaurant. The man said to the waiter, "My girlfriend and I would like to share a salad." The waiter asked, "Caesar?" and the man responded, "Not yet, but I do have my hand on her knee." Now there's a real pun lover for you.

Webster's Dictionary describes a pun as the humorous use of a word in such a way as to suggest different applications of words having nearly the same sound but different meanings. Thursday, Nov. 7 is National Pun Day. This Thursday is a day for punsters to shine, a chance to "pun" the rest of the world. Maybe you can work some of these puns into your conversations. I don't care if you steal them. Nobody will know that you stole them if you just change the delivery a little bit. After all, inflection is nine-tenths of pun law.

Midwesterners know that every cloud has a silver lining, but shoppers in busy malls know that every crowd has a Sylvia whining.

Olympic athletes never have to worry about cellulite. Their only concern is the thrill of victory, and the agony of defeat. For the average diner, on the other hand, their only concern is the will of low calorie, and the agony of de treat.

Garbage collection and recycling is a big issue for people in the '90s. That's why one man's trash is another man's treasure.

Gravediggers like to help each other out. They feel that one good turn deserves another. They also know that one good urn inters another.

Baseball players and football players don't usually have much in common, except they both know that nobody loves you when you're downed and out.

Ever been dumped by your boyfriend, only to get back together with him and get dumped again? Serves you right. After all, if at first you don't take heed, then cry, cry, again.

Nosy mothers often find their teen-aged daughters amusing, yet confusing. They would do well to remember that laugh and the girl laughs with you, but cry and you cry alone.

You'll never be able to get a house painter out of your life completely. As the painter says when he's leaving you, "I'll see you later, 2 or 'I'll catch you later."

Speaking of painters, if the auto body shop painter just painted your car's trim a horrid shade of brown, don't worry; you can fix it, because, Be it ever so unbecoming, there's no replacement like chrome.

For any heavy drinkers and naughty people who are reading this, I don't suppose you think it's very funny, but that's ok, I understand that boozers never whim, and sinners never quip.

A baker suffering with a broken heart finds it impossible to continue with his job; so saddened is he. That's why he says, "I'll never leave again."

When, I'm all punned out, I'm not usually a very punny girl, and I could use some help. Any volunteers? C'mon, guys. You know that rhymers are a girl's best friend. I've got a deadline to meet, so I could really use some help from someone of Scandinavian descent. I've heard ice guys Finnish fast.

Halverson said he was very pleased with the response of the officers. "The officers acted with a great deal of professionalism," he said. He added that one can only

Rayders lose and miss playoffs 47-30 loss to Rogers City

Things started out well, but deteriorated rapidly for Charlevoix Friday evening as the Rayders' playoff hopes were crushed by the Rogers City Chiefs.

On the second play from scrimmage Rayder linebacker Brian Coolman intercepted a Rogers City pass and carried it 35 yards for a Rayder touchdown.

But in what was to become the story of the evening, Charlevoix failed on the extra point attempt. Charlevoix scored five touchdowns on the night, but failed on every extra point attempt.

Until Rogers City scored a mop-up touchdown with just more than a minute left in the game, extra points were the name of the game. Rogers City added two-point conversions to each of their first five touchdowns while Charlevoix failed on its extra point attempts. That left the Rayders trailing 40-30.

After Coolman's interception, the game became an offensive battle. Rogers City accumulated more than 350 yards in total offense.

For Charlevoix, Coolman had 125 yards on 14 carries and finished the season with almost 1,200 yards rushing in only eight games. Dan Avery added 75 yards on just four carries.

Defensively, Jody McGlinch led the Rayders with 10 tackles and 6 assists while Coolman had 10 tackles and 7 assists.

For the evening, Coolman scored two touchdowns, Avery one. McGlinch one and quarterback Don Jess passed to Vincent Voisin for the other.

Charlevoix finished the season with a 6-2 record. The Rayders finished fifth in the regional rankings for Class CC post season play. The top four teams advance to the playoffs.

A little help with the call

Just in case the referee had any doubts in his mind, several Charlevoix Rayders helped him call a touchdown in the first half of Friday night's game against Rogers City. Although Charlevoix led 18-16 at the end of the first half, Rogers City used a powerful and balanced offense to come back in the second half and win the game 47-30. The loss prevented the Rayders from getting into the post season playoffs.

Basketball team loses to East Jordan

Charlevoix started slow and couldn't make up ground in losing to East Jordan 41-32 in girls' basketball last Thursday.

East Jordan jumped out to a 16-5 lead on their home court by the end of the first quarter and the Rayders never recovered.

East Jordan continued playing strong defense in the second quarter and Charlevoix again only mustered five points in the quarter. But East Jordan wasn't exactly lighting up the scoreboard. At halftime the Rayders trailed 23-10.

In the third quarter Charlevoix doubled its first half output, outscoring the Red Devils 10-7.

Charlevoix got to within five points midway through the fourth quarter, but could never draw even.

Mary Jane Grunch led the Rayders in scoring with 13 points. The loss dropped the Rayders' season record to 9-7.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 59-29 as Becky Bragg and Carrie Wakulat each scored a dozen points.

This Thursday evening, Charlevoix will travel to Grayling.

Charlevoix's sixth grade girls' basketball team took part in a three-team basketball training match hosted by Boyne City this past weekend. Central Lake joined the Rayders and Ramblers.

Top scorers for the Rayders were Lisa Parrish with 20 points, Amanda Eaton with 16 points, Lindsay Blechel with 14 points and Ann Terryberry with 10 points.

Other players scoring baskets for Charlevoix were: Carrie Blanchard, Mandi Barrett, Katy Conlan, Lisa Skippengosh and Rhonda Williams.

Tom Bacon of Charlevoix was bow hunting near East Jordan when he killed this nine-point buck. The deer's antlers had a 23 and a-half inch spread.

Dinner and auction to benefit ducks

The Charlevoix chapter of Ducks Unlimited will host a dinner and auction Nov. 7, at Alexanders Restaurant. Cocktails will be served beginning at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will begin at 7 p.m. and the auction will follow dinner.

The dinner will feature a choice of prime rib or shrimp. Tickets for the dinner cost $40 per person or $65 per couple.

Live auction items include things such as shotguns and wildlife art works. There will also be a silent auction and raffle with items in a wide price range. A 16-foot Sawyer canoe will be given away as a door prize.

Tickets may be purchased by phoning Dick Joseph at 547-9931 or Judy at 547-5555. People may also purchase tickets at the door.

member of the IDC, said the committee's feeling on the Alliance is "We want local people running it." When asked how the Alliance will be different if MSU is involved rather than remaining locally autonomous, Baron observed, "Look at the change in the job title. Right now Tom Johnson's job title is 'Director' of the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. If MSU forms a partnership with the Alliance, Johnson's title becomes 'Multi-County Extension Economic Resource Development Agent'. That's the government approach, a government title."

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance cannot go into partnership with MSU without the approval of Charlevoix County. The Alliance will be presenting the proposal to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at the board's next meeting.

Plans made for annual Christmas project

With snow suddenly blanketing the country-side, it's not hard to shift thoughts from beautiful falling leaves to the approach of the Christmas season; which brings with it the impulse to share what measure of good fortune we have with those who could use a little TLC. At least this is the thinking of area church members and friends who are launching the 1991 annual Community Christmas Project.

All the committees have been set up and are looking for volunteers of material items, financial contributions, time, energy, and ideas. Anyone who hasn't already signed on and wishes to "come aboard," joining in this rewarding experience may call Kay Smith, 547-2920, Mary Helen Riggle, 547-9515 or Lucy Martin, 547-8746.

Last year 398 people in this warm-hearted community served in some manner to provide 161 households with food and/or gifts. 383 people's lives were touched with the true Christmas spirit.

The nation's economy may be in trouble, but Charlevoix area people stand ready to share God's gifts in the spirit of Him whose birth we celebrate.

BUSINESS

Medusa: a business as solid as cement

(The following story is one in a series of stories about area business being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and council member and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae
More than any other manufacturer in Charlevoix, the Medusa Cement Company plant is here because of the raw materials needed for its product. To make cement, four raw materials are required: limestone, shale, sand and iron. The first two come from Medusa's quarry. Sand is brought in from Pellston and iron ore is shipped in from Bessemer, MI. In recent years, fly ash from the Advance power plant has also been used because of its calcium content.

The Medusa company was founded in Cleveland, OH in 1892. It is named after the mythological character Medusa. According to the myth, anyone looking at Medusa would turn to stone.

In addition to the Charlevoix plant, the corporation owns two other plants; one in Wampum, PA and the other in Clinchfield, GA. At one time Medusa also had a plant in Wisconsin and many of the employees from that plant now work at the Charlevoix plant. The Charlevoix plant opened in 1967, after two years of construction. Sometime next year the plant will celebrate its 25th anniversary.

John Dixon is the plant manager. He succeeded Elbert Kaister, who recently retired. Dixon, a graduate of General Motors Institute, is a mechanical engineer.

Possessing 1,200 acres of limestone and shale formations and having used only a small part of the whole, Medusa is likely to be in Charlevoix for a long time. There are now two open quarries, one a five-acre shale excavation and the other a 20-acre limestone pit.

Explaining the scale of Medusa's operation requires the use of some impressive numbers. For starters, every day 90 million gallons of water are pumped out of the quarries. In fact, that water becomes the Medusa creek where salmon are planted. The water is water which seeps into the quarry from Lake Michigan and then is pumped back into Lake Michigan.

Medusa consumes a lot of electricity from Consumers Power. Only 12 of Consumers' Michigan customers use more power. Special high voltage lines run to the plant and three substations are needed to feed all the circuits. Medusa has electric motors totaling more than 20,000 horsepower. Two of the motors are 4,000 horsepower apiece.

The cement making process begins with the mining of raw materials. Holes are drilled into the limestone layers and then packed with blasting powder. The explosion that follows shatters the rock for the power shovels to load into huge trucks. Chunks of stone and iron ore are crushed, hammered, ground, blended, heated and finally reduced to dust so fine it will pass through a sieve with 40,000 openings per square inch; a sieve that holds back water.

To produce the degree of heat needed (2,800 degrees), 155,000 tons of low sulphur content coal from Pennsylvania mines is shipped to Medusa. In Medusa's Clinchfield, GA plant, three rubber tires per minute are added to the coal fired furnaces. Rubber from tires has a much higher fuel value than coal.

Medusa is one of the top ten cement manufacturers in America. Each year the company produces 1.2 million tons of cement and 40,000 tons of mortar. Of this, 92 percent is moved out by Medusa boats to ports in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee plus three other cities. Some of these places put the cement into paper bags for building supply stores. For this part of Michigan, there is a bag filling facility in Cheboygan. Eight percent of the bulk cement leaves the Medusa plants in tank trucks for delivery to Redi-mix concrete makers. On a pound for pound basis, more concrete is used in a single year than all wood, structural steel, brick, aluminum, building glass and other materials combined. It is the basic ingredient for highways, sidewalks, buildings and basement floors.

Medusa spends large sums of money to control pollution and lessen its impact on the environment. Newly mined raw material is stored in a huge shed to confine dust. Roads at the plant are swept and washed down every day. In the 300-foot stack, an electric monitor

Hospital concludes funding campaign

More than 200 area volunteers are celebrating the achievement of the Charlevoix Area Hospital building fund campaign goal.

General Campaign Chairman Jeffrey Porter, D.D.S., says, "This achievement shows the support for Charlevoix Area Hospital throughout the entire area. Everyone was behind the building program and the hospital's commitment to service into the next century. We thank everyone who responded so willingly to the challenge very much."

The campaign raised over $1.5 million toward a $3 million building program. Hospital administrator Richard Krueger says, "The money is still coming in, and each dollar collected means fewer dollars that we have to borrow and pay interest on. The building plan includes a new surgical and ambulatory care facility to replace the present operating room suite that was built as a part of the original hospital building in 1954. A rapid growth in technology and outpatient procedures has caused these rooms to become obsolete.

The other major portion of the building program is a new four-bed obstetrical unit which will enable the hospital to provide single-room maternity care. "Our new unit will provide northern Michigan with the newest concept of childbirth," says Krueger. The patient will labor, deliver, recover, and remain her full stay on one home-like room with her baby.

The Frey Foundation awarded a grant for $150,000 for the project.

March of Dimes to auction talents of area people

The talents of local celebrities (using a very liberal definition of the word) will be auctioned off by the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation Friday evening. The auction will begin at 7 p.m. Friday at Stafford's Bay View Inn. Tickets are $10 per person.

A wide variety of area people have volunteered their talents for the auction. Among those whose talents bidders may put to good use are: Dave Barrows, Patty Clark, Bob Crumb, Bob Doctor, the Dunmaglas Lake Club, Ron Fowler, Andy Hayes, Erik Lundteigen, Jan Mancinelli, Bill Mosher, M.D., Sean Ryan, Terry Salmanson, Kirk Schaller, Randy Schnackenberg, Jim and Kate Scollin, Candy Smith, David Strawbridge, D.D.S., L. Scott Swanson, Dr. Roderic and Patricia Tinney, and Bill Vogel.

The event is being sponsored by: Stafford's Hospitality; The Clothing Company; and FM 104 WLTO.

Proceeds will benefit the local March of Dimes (West Michigan Chapter) and their continuing fight against birth defects. For additional information phone 547-4813 or 947-2488.

measures the density of fumes. If the alarms indicate a problem, steps are immediately taken to rectify it.

Many of the plant's operations naturally create dusty zones. Thousands of collector bags capture the loose material particles. These bags pull dust to the outside of the bag until the dust accumulates. Then a burst of air drops the accumulated dust into a recovery pit. The plant also uses two huge electrostatic dust collectors to keep emissions within federal standards.

(To be continued next week.)

Congressman's aid to visit

Congressman Bob Davis' district representative Bill Huber will be in Charlevoix from noon to 1:30 p.m. at the V.F.W. Hall. Anyone wishing to meet with Huber to discuss a problem they are having with state or federal government may do so. No appointment is necessary.

Companies consolidate

Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. and Corporate Title & Escrow Services, Inc. both of Charlevoix, have consolidated their title insurance and escrow services. The move, which became effective Nov. 1 permits each of the companies to become more specialized to better serve their customers.

Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. will continue to focus its efforts on providing title insurance, abstracting, escrow, surveying and engineering services, according to President Mary Feindt. Corporate Title will concentrate on specialized land research, including historical title and land use research required by current environmental laws. Together, the companies will be able to meet nearly every need for land title transactions.

Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. is located at 213 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, and can be reached at 547-9991. Corporate Title is located at the same address and can be reached at 547-4040.

Rail right of way sale finalized

State approves bid allowing developer to acquire property

By L. Scott Swanson

The city council decided good intentions just aren't the same as cash in hand. And state officials wanted an abandoned stretch of railroad right of way off of their hands and back on the tax rolls. In the end, those two factors doomed efforts of a citizens' group to raise money to acquire the property and have it turned into some type of natural

Monday, Nov. 4, the city council withdrew support for the citizens' group effort. The support was withdrawn because the group couldn't give an absolute guarantee that city taxpayers wouldn't be left with a $270,000 bill for the property.

Tuesday, Nov. 5, the State Administrative Board gave final approval for the sale of the property to a development group headed by Stuart Kaufman. At an Oct. 17 auction, the development group submitted the lone bid of $270,000.

The property in question is located between Mercer Boulevard and Lake Charlevoix, at the north end of the city limits. It is of developmental significance because it is between a thin strip of lake-front property owned by Kaufman and his associates and a 16.5 acre parcel of property owned by Oscar Stroud. The Stroud property is for sale. It overlooks the other two parcels of property and Lake Charlevoix.

For the past several months, the fate of the railroad right of way has been the city council's most frequently discussed topic.

To begin with, there have been zoning questions regarding all three parcels of property in that area. The narrow strip on the lake was zoned Scenic Reserve (SR). According to advice from the city attorney, the city's SR zoning was so restrictive that it probably wouldn't have stood up to a challenge in court.

The railroad right of way wasn't zoned at all. Council members and mayor Dave Novotny, a former planning commission chairman, found that unacceptable and pressed the planning commission to get the property zoned.

The city's eventual solution to the problem was to add a special use provision to the SR district and zone the railroad right of way SR. Even with the special use, SR will still be the most restrictive residential zoning the city has, but it will allow homes to be constructed.

The portion of the Stroud property which is in the city is zoned Motel-Hotel (MH). It is the only MH zoned property in the city. When the property is sold, it is likely the buyer will seek some type of zoning change.

Acquisition of the property drew almost as much debate as zoning for the property. When this particular strip of railroad right of way was abandoned, it became state property. The state had no use for the property and, as is their policy with unneeded property, moved to sell it.

The city became entangled in the acquisition debate because the state was willing to give the city an opportunity to purchase the property, prior to putting it up for auction. However, early on in the debate, the city council voted not to pursue purchasing the property. First ward council representative Cheri Hoffman said she informally polled several city constituents about purchasing the property and the majority felt the city had other priorities for tax dollars. The majority of the council voted in line with that sentiment.

That council vote apparently cleared the way for private developers to acquire the right of way. But in late September, the citizens' group, with Tom Bickerseth acting as a spokesman, approached the council with an alternative proposal. The citizens' group proposed to raise the $270,000 to purchase the property through private contribu-

...property sale approved

With the money raised, the city would purchase the property (thereby preventing the auction) and turn it over to the Little Traverse Conservancy which would place the land under a conservation easement to keep it from being developed.

Eventually, the council agreed to go along with that plan provided that the property purchase was 100 percent privately funded, that easements from adjoining property owners were acquired so the property wouldn't be landlocked and that the land could be put under a conservation easement through the Conservancy.

The council decision to go along with the proposal passed by a 4-3 vote. Novotny sided with Pat Gaskin, Butch Russell and Hoffman in favor of the proposal. Jackie Cross, Ted Felter and Bill Haggard opposed accepting the property.

But the council decision to pursue the property occurred only a few days prior to the scheduled auction. In addition, the Conservancy board voted against accepting the property.

Against that backdrop, the auction took place Oct. 17. Only one bid was submitted.

At that time, the acquisition question seemed to be resolved. But the citizens' group made another effort.

They sent letters and post cards to state officials asking them to reject the bid. Former state Governor William Milliken was among the people they prompted to send letters.

With the Conservancy unwilling to accept the property, the citizens' group was able to persuade a local environmental organization, WATCH (Water Air Team Charlevoix) to act as the group which would accept the property and place it under a conservation easement.

Again by a 4-3 vote, the council agreed to change the property receiving agency from the Conservancy to WATCH. But the key stipulation was that before the city would accept the property, there would be a binding contract assuring the city that the citizens' group and WATCH had the money to purchase the property.

At the Nov. 4 council meeting, the citizens' group and WATCH offered the council a bank statement indicating that a bank would loan the group $200,000 if certain conditions were met. They also had a letter for $70,000 in pledges.

City attorney Jim Young advised the council that what they had before them was not a binding contract, but a contract with conditions.

Bickersteth said the conditions of the bank's letter could be met, but not by the next day when the administrative board was scheduled to meet to finalize the sale. One of the conditions was an appraisal of another piece of property which was to serve as loan collateral.

Faced with that legal advice, the council backed away from the proposal.

Hoffman said she felt a conflict between her personal feelings about acquiring the property and her responsibility to city taxpayers.

"This is not the first time that a well-intentioned group has offered something to the city, then when it came right down to it, the city had to pick up the bill," Hoffman said.

Less than 24 hours after the council backed away from the property purchase, the State Administrative Board approved the sale of the property to Kaufman and his associates. Whether or not the city's action had any influence at all on the board's decision is debatable according to Dick Anderson, Michigan Department of Transportation Superintendent of railroad real estate.

"We wanted to sell it," Anderson said. "When we've got property we no longer need, we try to sell it and get it back on the tax rolls. That's standard procedure."

"With this particular piece things just dragged on."

Anderson said an effort by the citizens' group to send a lot of preprinted postcards to Lansing resulted in a lot of preprinted postcards being sent to Lansing, but didn't appear to affect the administrative board's decision.

Adjacent property is still for sale

With the sale of the railroad right of way finalized (see accompanying story), a key question becomes, or perhaps remains, what will become of a 16.5 acre neighboring parcel of property owned by Oscar Stroud. The Stroud property overlooks the railroad right of way and also has 330 feet of lake frontage. The lake frontage is between two strips of lake frontage owned by the developers who acquired the railroad right of way.

Although the Stroud property and the railroad right of way make a logical package, Dick Joseph, an attorney representing Stroud, said that at this time there is no deal between Stroud and the owners of the adjacent property.

According to Joseph, as the situation currently stands the piece of property is just a piece of property that is for sale. The property encompasses 16.5 acres. Three acres are in Charlevoix Township. Those three acres are zoned R-4 (multi-unit residential). The remainder of the property is in the city. The property within the city is zoned motel-hotel.

Lester Turner, a developer, had purchased an option on the property. Turner was unsuccessful in an attempt to have the city rezone the property. Eventually there were lawsuits between Turner and the City and Turner and Stroud. The suit between Turner and the City was resolved in the city's favor. Although the suit between Turner and Stroud is technically still pending, Joseph said the two parties have an agreement in principle and he expects that suit to be resolved in the near future.

As to what the future holds for the property, Joseph said it remains to be seen. Given the motel-hotel zoning the property could end up as the site of a new motel. Or perhaps it could end up being divided into approximately 30 nice lots with a private beach.

That likely depends on who buys it.

OPINIONS

EDITH

by Edith Gilbert

Dale Boss says he can haul around all the girls he wants now that he has a car.

Of course he's referring to girls, and other people, he takes to parades in the Petunia vehicle, formerly referred to as a truck — but since it's been stretched, it's now called a "limousine!" This year the float also has been lengthened from 12 feet to 37 feet, which makes the overall length of the "limousine" plus float 64 feet. It seats 10 people comfortably, plus the driver.

"I used to have a hard time carrying up enough people to be in parades, but no more," chuckles Dale. "People are begging me to ride in one of the parades throughout the State of Michigan."

He's referring to the 18 parades that Charlevoix's Petunia limousine and float enter every year. Each parade attracts a minimum of 50,000 spectators and Detroit's Thanksgiving Parade attracts one million people, not counting the estimated 4 or 5 million television viewers.

This will be the fifth appearance in the exclusive Thanksgiving Day Parade, thanks to the influence of James Wineman, a Charlevoix reporter and booster. This year's theme features Mrs. Claus (Marilyn Boss), with her elves preparing for Christmas. A huge, live Christmas tree will be placed on the front end of the float and there will be eight people unwrapping presents as of Christmas morning.

There will be a 3 foot high and 12 foot long banner on top that says, SANTA'S WORKSHOP, CHARLEVOIX THE BEAUTIFUL, FOUR SEASONS VACATIONLAND.

Music will be blaring from the special exterior sound system designed at Dale's request. It consists of four speakers with a 200 watt booster amplifier.

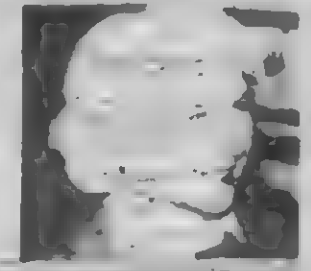

It all looks so easy as you wave at the Charlevoix float cruising by in the parade, but it takes a lot of hard work and planning to achieve this holiday display. The day before the parade, Dale and his team drive to Frankenmuth, where they spend the night at the Bavarian Inn. They leave at 4:10 a.m. for downtown Detroit. They line up in front of the Detroit Institute of Art, where they are met by Jimmy Wineman, his son John, and grandson Benjamin. It takes 2 hours to remove the tarpaulins, set up the tree, assemble the lights, and the Winemans' help is more than welcome.

By 9 a.m. the parade glides past the TV cameras stationed on Woodward Avenue and Jefferson, but for Dale and his team, the job is not over! The display needs to be taken down and there's the long ride back to Charlevoix in a "limousine" that gets four-ruled to a gallon. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce pays for the fuel for the truck and expenses. Dale and his team are reimbursed for meals. The Bosses' both volunteer their time. For them it's all a labor of love — love for their hometown.

In addition to the parades, Dale offers a ride to the highest bidder last summer at the Petunia Auction, held by "Keep Charlevoix Beautiful." The high bidder was Cissy Chamberlain of the Belvedere Club. Included in the bid were eight dinners at Nanny's Restaurant. Cissy invited so many guests, Dale had to make two trips through Charlevoix at night playing "Happy Days are Here Again" by Del Wood on the Honky Tonk piano, as loud as possible! When the group cruised through the Belvedere resort, the guard came out of the guard house, but backed off when he saw the President of the Resort among the group. One of the guests commented that there hadn't been this much noise on the resort since the days of Johnny Knight, a well-known bon vivant and former mayor of Charlevoix.

Some people have hay rides, and some people have sleigh rides, but Charlevoix people have limousine rides in a white truck that's been stretched to accommodate ten people, and that's been decorated with pink peonies, and that plays honky tonk tunes. You can't beat that!

Railroad property: so far so good

Finally, a decision has been made regarding the abandoned railroad right of way between Mercer Boulevard and Lake Charlevoix. Despite the efforts of a citizens' group to turn the property into some type of conservation area, a private developer was able to purchase the property. (See story page 1)

And that's all right. Although there are some people who will probably never accept it, there's nothing wrong with that piece of property being in private rather than public hands. Granted, there should be enough parks to assure that all people and not just a few have access to northern Michigan's waterways. But not every piece of property near a lake in northern Michigan has to be in public ownership.

City council members acted properly when they decided early on in the process not to spend city tax dollars to acquire or maintain the railroad right of way. They also acted properly Nov. 4 when they backed away from a citizens' group proposal because they were afraid city taxpayers could end up footing a $270,000 bill. Twice in between their first and final action the council gave the citizens' group an opportunity to purchase the property, but it just wasn't to be. The council went the extra mile with the citizens' group, but in the end, the group simply couldn't give the council sufficient assurance that city taxpayers wouldn't be left with the bill. When that happened, the council took the safe and appropriate action.

Perhaps even more important than action involving the sale of the property was planning commission and council action to get the city's zoning paperwork in order regarding the property. The council needed legal advice and attempted to establish zoning requirements which will prevent overblown development of the property, yet will, as state and federal law require, allow a private property owner reasonable use of his land.

Debate over the railroad right of way has been a long and winding journey with more than a little backtracking. Despite that, at this time the matter seems to be on the right path.

Of course the property acquisition doesn't end debate over the property. The next step will be debate about what type of development will take place on the property. There are many factors which will enter into that debate, but at least the city has placed itself in a strong starting position. The planning commission, the city council and the city staff deserve credit for showing the foresight to do that.

"Predicting the weather is often more accurate by watching the wildlife than by watching the TV weather channel. Prior to last week's storm, several of my furry site and cold-weather birds were seen feeding and building the trees. Within three days, once the storm hit, the birds were scarce. The next few days, still behind the clouds and snow, I saw three crows in a row. A very unhappy crow, who had made the mistake of standing in the snow, seemed to be shivering. He was looking for the sheltered crab apples. It was difficult to see him in the snow. He was nearly double in size. Trying to keep warm, a little birdie tucked its head under its wing and was quite happy with the snow-covered seeds."

FAMILY

Hoekstra - Buday

Gwen Ellen Hoekstra of Grand Rapids was married to David M. Buday of Charlevoix August 10, at the St. Francis Catholic Church in Petoskey. The ceremony was performed by Reverend James Hayden. He was assisted in the double ring ceremony by a Christian Reformed minister, Rev. Henry de Moor.

The bride is the daughter Doris and Louis Hoekstra Jr., and the groom is the son of Edward and Joan Buday Sr.

The bride wore a formal, white wedding dress with a chapel length train and veil. Both the dress and the veil were made by the bride's sister, Victoria Catlin, who also served as the maid of honor. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids with ivy. Kevin Vos provided trumpet music and Ross Evenhouse and Jeff Buday played the organ. Soloists were Burton Hoekstra and Jeff Buday.

Bridesmaids were Ann Buday, Joanne de Haan, Amy Dunlavey, Debra Geibig, and Carin Hoekstra. They wore flowered sundresses.

The best man for the groom was one of his brothers, Doug Buday. Groomsmen were Ross Carey, Mark Brouwer, Kevin Kendrick, Robert Michielutti Jr., and Greg Reinhold. Ushers were Edward Buday Jr. and Dirk Hoekstra.

The reception was hosted by the parents of the bride at Elm Pointe, on Lake Charlevoix. A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents Aug. 9 at Ferry Beach in Charlevoix. The newlyweds traveled in Maine, New Brunswick and Quebec for their wedding trip. The groom is an attorney at Miller, Johnson, Snell, and Cummings in Grand Rapids, and the bride is an attorney at Clary, Nantz, Wood, Hoffius, Rankin, and Cooper in Grand Rapids. The wedding couple are now residing in Holland.

Hospital receives grant to improve accessibility

Charlevoix Area Hospital has been notified that it has been awarded $21,800 in a third year extension of the "Small and Rural Hospital Transition Grant" from the Health Care Financing Administration.

The grant was initially awarded in September 1989 for two years, and a total of $71,600 to study and plan for ways to improve accessibility and availability of services in the area Medicare population. Charlevoix Area Hospital was one of four hospitals in northern Michigan to receive the grant in 1989.

The opportunity to apply for a third year was extended to those hospitals who did not receive a full $50,000 allowed in the second year of the grant. The hospital then requested $21,800 to fund physician recruitment bringing the grant total to $93,400.

The grant allowed the hospital to do extensive research and fact finding that resulted in the decision to build a new surgical suite and obstetrical facility. Community advisory committee input as well as surveys of over 800 area residents were part of the grant study. A long-range plan for hospital services was adopted by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors last January. The plan calls for new services with an emphasis on outpatient care over the next five years.

The hospital has received high marks for its visionary approach to the role of the small hospital in the next century from the grant administrators.

Leaking gas tanks become a nightmare

Clean up costs run into hundreds of thousands of $

By Laurie Lounsbury

Richie Gillespie of Beaver Island used to have a general store across from the boat docks. He also used to have a couple of gas pumps out in front of the store. Gillespie now has soil contamination and a lawsuit filed against him by the State of Michigan. The State can sue for $65,000 a day, the legal maximum penalty, for all of the days that Gillespie has allegedly been polluting the soil. Since Gillespie has owned the business since 1985, those days will add up to years. "What are they (the State of Michigan) gonna do, put four kids under the age of seven out onto the street?" Gillespie asked, in reference to his family and the financial devastation they're facing. Gillespie has already lost approximately $350,000 because of this problem. He no longer runs the business, because he's out of business, and has been for nearly two years.

Gillespie's troubles began when a prospective buyer for his business took soil samples on the property, and discovered contamination. The DNR was alerted to Gillespie's underground storage tanks and the site contamination. The DNR removed his underground tanks and closed down his business. Because Gillespie's tanks were unregistered, the DNR and the Fire Marshall had no prior knowledge of the underground tanks, and therefore they had not done any routine inspections of the property over the years, which might have caught the problem at a much earlier stage.

Unregistered underground storage tanks have been a source of concern for the government for many years. Legislation was passed in 1983 that mandated storage tank registration. This policy became law in 1986, yet individuals continued to fail to register their underground storage tanks, partly due to ignorance of the law, and partly due to the stringent government requirements placed on registered tanks. The financial constraints of meeting government requirements could cripple many small businesses. Because Gillespie's property was owned by three partners in a corporation, Gillespie was unaware of any registration information that may have been sent to a different member of the corporation. "I did not intentionally fail to register the tanks," Gillespie said.

The State of Michigan recognized the problem of motivating small businesses to register their tanks, so the Department of Management and Budget adopted MUSTFA (Michigan Underground Storage Tank Financial Assurance Act) which will assist owners and operators in meeting their financial responsibility to pay for a clean-up. If an owner of a UST, (underground storage tank) registers the tank, and can submit proof of financial ability to pay for the first $10,000 of clean-up costs in the event of contamination, MUSTFA will pay for the balance of the cost, up to one million dollars. Ken Swisher, of the Department of Management and Budget, says that tank registration is increasing now that UST owners are learning about MUSTFA. The MUSTFA fund began in February of 1990, and since then has had 1,800 claims and paid out $40 million for clean-ups. "The fund has really met the purpose for which it was created," Swisher said. The money for MUSTFA comes from an assessment of seven-eighths of a cent per dollar placed on petroleum products levied at the refinery level.

While MUSTFA may help registered UST owners with their cost of clean-up, they don't seem to be helping Richie Gillespie. Chris DeWitt, who works in the Attorney General's Office, said that the State is "looking to collect as much as possible from the Gillespies," to pay for the cost of the clean-up. $350,000 has been spent to date on the clean-up operation. A cleaning purification system is now in place, which costs $200,000 a year to operate. DeWitt didn't know how long the system would need to be in operation. DeWitt said that the State will look into the Gillespie's personal resources and insurance coverage to help cover the cost of the clean-up. In the event that Gillespie's resources are inadequate to cover the costs, the burden will then fall to the taxpayers. "You have to understand the concern of the taxpayers who will have to bail him out," DeWitt said. He felt that while everyone might sympathize with a small business owner faced with contamination and the cost of a clean-up, those same people don't want to be forced to help pay for the clean-up with their tax dollars. "The Attorney General Frank Kelley's position is that those who have benefited from owning the property and are responsible for the contamination should be held responsible to pay," DeWitt said. DeWitt did not say how far the State would go in order to collect money from Gillespie and another former business owner, Michael Gallagher. Gillespie's attorney, John

Rev. D. Michael Peterson

Evangelist to visit Assembly

Healing Evangelist Reverend D. Michael Peterson of Walpole, Massachusetts, will be guest speaker at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church Sunday through Wednesday, Nov. 17-20. Services on Sunday will begin at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday at 7 p.m.

In his travels throughout the United States Rev. Peterson has witnessed many physical healings that have been documented and confirmed giving evidence that God is still healing people today. The public is invited to come and experience the power of the Lord Jesus Christ through the Holy Spirit as He reveals Himself as the God that heals.

Reformed Church to host community Thanksgiving dinner

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix is planning a community Thanksgiving dinner to take place Thanksgiving Day at the church. All are invited to attend this free dinner, which will be prepared by members of the church. Those who would be home alone on the holiday are welcome, as well as those who have financial needs that would make planning for the holiday difficult.

The church's annual Thanksgiving-Day service will begin at 10 a.m., and the dinner will be served at noon. Guests are asked to call the church office (547-9482) for reservations. The church is located on US 31, just west of the municipal golf course in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Assembly of God

Every summer I attend two weeks of camp; not as a camper but as a counselor. I receive so much joy in helping to mold the lives of young people in Northern Michigan. Campers come from miles around to be challenged, fed, disciplined and to have a good time. Last summer during one of the activity sessions, we pulled out the infamous tug-o-war rope. Tug-o-war has probably been played at every camp since the dawn of time.

Each team lines up at opposite ends of the rope. They grasp the rope with their hands and begin to pull against the other team. The stronger of the two teams will pull the weaker to his persuasion or his side of the line. The crowd will cheer and congratulate the winners of the game.

Even though tug-o-war is a game, it is much like the reality of life. In chapter 4 of the book of Genesis in the Bible, there is a story of two sons, Cain and Abel. They were two of the sons of Adam. As the story goes, both sons brought a sacrifice to God. God was pleased with Abel's offering but with Cain's offering He was not overly enthused. God told Cain he could do better.

Instead of going back to do better, Cain just decided he was not going to do it God's way at all. The Bible says he then became angry and killed his brother Abel. You see, Cain figured if God was not going to accept him the way he was then he was not going to accept God. This set the pattern of rejecting God that rests with us to this day. Man will not allow the Holy Spirit to raise him up to the level of God's acceptance. Instead, he insists on pulling God down to his level in some other form which he can understand. This is ultimately idolatry at its highest level.

The tug-o-war continues. Men are trying to pull God down to their level and He won't budge. So what do they do? They change their concept of God. They want Him to fit into their world because they want to be in control. This pastor believes there is only one true God; the God of the Bible. Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." This same God is the same God that gave the 10 commandments (not suggestions) to Moses on Mount Sinai in Exodus chapter 20; the first of which is "You shall have no other gods before me." God's law is established and it is firm. We must stop trying to fit God into our mold of morality.

It broke my heart to hear "Magic" Johnson, after being diagnosed with the H.I.V. positive disease, stand up and say that he was going to be a spokesman for the disease and safe sex. Once again God's law has been changed to accommodate the morality of someone else. The only safe sex outside of marriage is NO sex. That's God's provision for safe sex.

Let's put down the rope and quit pulling on God. Let's surrender to Him. After all He created us for His purpose anyway.

Local martial arts club wins awards in tournaments

Several members of a local martial arts club brought home awards from recent tournaments in Sault Ste. Marie and Traverse City.

The Charlevoix club practices Kuk Sool Won, a martial arts form developed by the Korean Royal Guard. In Charlevoix the group is instructed by Kevin Janisse and is affiliated with the adult education program.

A dozen Charlevoix people competed in the Sault Ste. Marie tournament and five brought home awards. Janisse placed first in black belt self defense, third in black belt weapons forms and third in black belt sparring. Ryan Borths placed third in white belt sparring. Debbie Garten placed third in novice self defense and third in white belt sparring. Melissa Rash placed first in white belt sparring. Jamie Whitley placed third in white belt sparring.

Five members of the Charlevoix club competed in the Traverse City tournament and nobody came home empty-handed. Janisse placed third in black belt sparring and fourth in black belt weapons forms. Borths placed fourth in white belt sparring. Josh Holecheck placed third in white belt sparring. Garten placed second in white belt forms and fourth in white belt sparring. Kevin Whitley placed fourth in pee wee sparring.

K-2 soccer champions

Rayders of the Week

Tammy Holm, basketball guard. Daughter of Ed and Mary Jo Holm.

High School debate teams faring well

This year's topic is homelessness

Charlevoix High School debaters are deep into both League and Invitational Debates. The nine member varsity team and the twelve member novice teams are performing well, according to Coach Connie Ford.

This year the issue under debate, by high school students nationwide, is Homelessness.

Debaters compete in two-person teams arguing either an affirmative or negative position. The affirmative is responsible for presenting a case to solve the issue and the negative team must prove that the affirmative case is weak, doesn't solve the problem, or is otherwise defective.

Each hour-long debate is judged and scored, with one side declared a winner and individuals ranked for their speaking abilities.

"League debate is a warm up time where the debaters get back into the swing and we try different people in different positions."

"Our varsity had a 99 percent return rate and an unusual number of novices are debating, so we are trying many different combinations."

"Also our varsity team consists of only one senior with the rest juniors and sophomores, which gives us a lot of depth," Mrs. Ford noted.

"We're doing well and running up a good win-loss record in League debate. The Invationals have pitted us against the best of the down state schools. We are learning about their cases and making adjustments in our arguments," she explained.

"I am pleased that our individual speaker points are very high," Mrs. Ford added.

The coach added she expects tough competition throughout the season which will be good training for the elimination rounds at District, Regionals, and, she hopes, the State Championships, which Charlevoix has attended for the past several years.

Wildlife artists featured in exhibit

The works of Michigan's leading wildlife artists are being featured through Nov. 30 at the McCune Arts Center gallery in Petoskey.

Over 50 paintings, prints and carvings in the invitational show will represent a collection of the finest in wildlife art entitled, "Nature's Images" according to Dick Armstrong, wood carver of Walloon Lake and Glen McCune wildlife artist of Charlevoix who are co chairs of the event.

Included among the widely recognized names of exhibitors are Jim Foote and Larry Hayden. Most of the works will be for sale according to Mary Fink, Crooked Tree Arts Council visual arts chair.

All who visit the show will be able to enter names in a Nov. 29 drawing where winners will be selected for a working decoy, produced by Armstrong and McCune or a carving, "Ferret and Field Mouse" donated by W. Richard Rousseau of Bellaire.

The show is sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council which operates McCune Center and provides the area with a year around program of visual and performing arts as well as instruction in various art forms with enrollment of over 1,000 people. The show will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday free of charge.

Senior Center to host harvest dinner

The annual Thanksgiving Harvest dinner for all senior citizens of Charlevoix will take place Sunday, Nov. 17 at 2 p.m. at the Senior Center, Norwood and Carpenter Roads. A $2 donation, as well as a vegetable or dessert dish is requested. The turkey, and potatoes will be furnished.

Lives of prominent business women will be recalled

"Bread and Roses", a glimpse into the lives of a variety of women who have contributed to the American Business environment, will be presented by its author, Sally Meachum, at the Women's Resource Center's Annual Meeting Wednesday, November 20, 1991.

Bread and Roses is a fictional piece based on historical accounts of the struggles and triumphs of several different women (listed below).

Mary Katherine Goddard (1738-1816), printer and publisher. Mary Katherine makes a final reading of an angry letter she is about to post to her older brother.

Magdelaine Laframboise (1780-1864), fur trader and educator. Magdelaine speaks to the pupils in her one-room schoolhouse about living with differences.

Rebecca Pennock Lukens (1794-1854), manufacturer. Rebecca delivers a presentation at the monthly meeting of the Brandywine Chapter of the Ladies Circle of Knowledge, Society of Friends.

Margaret Haughey (1813-1882), dairy and bakery entrepreneur. Margaret's spirit comes back from the grave to give a talk on business in the 17th century.

Rose Schneiderman (turn of the century), laborer and union activist. Rose has recruited an assistant to help her produce the latest edition of "Life and Labor", a publication of the Women's Trade Union League.

Mary Chase Perry Stratton (1867-1961), artist and entrepreneur. Mary, founder of the famous Pewabic Pottery Studio, has agreed to an interview with Tom Baxter, a reporter from a prominent newspaper.

Jayne Baker Spain (1927?), Manufacturer. The author of a soon-to-be-published book on women's contributions to the industrial society visits Jayne to secure Jayne's final approval of a biographical sketch that will be included in the book.

Meachum is an accountant who resides in Harbor Springs. She received her Bachelor of Fine Arts (painting) from Northern Michigan University, and her Bachelor of Science (accounting) from Oakland University.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served beginning at 5:30 p.m. A short business meeting (to include approval of new Board members and the slate of officers) will follow at 6:30 p.m. and the presentation of Bread and Roses will start at approximately 6:45 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door at a cost of $5 per person. The meeting will take place at North Central Michigan College's Conference Center (the new Library building) on Howard Street in Petoskey. The public is invited to attend.

Four Charlevoix band members have been named to the regional honors band. They are (clockwise from front left) Anne Achairbaum, Jake Porath, Chris Cupp and Janel Campbell.

Four make honors band

Monday, Nov. 4, auditions were hosted by Charlevoix High School for the District II Honors Band.

Five of Charlevoix's own high school band members were awarded seats with the prestigious band. The honors band consists of some of the finest instrumentalists from a number of northern Michigan high school bands. Earning seats at the audition were flutist Jake Porath, clarinetists, Janel Campbell and Chris Cupp, Anne Schairbaum on her french horn, and trombonist, Russell Hand.

The entire Honors Band will meet for rehearsal Sunday, Nov. 17 to prepare for Honors Band Weekend which will take place in Gaylord, Dec. 7 and 8. The weekend will culminate in a public performance at the Cathedral of St. Mary in Gaylord Sunday, Dec. 8 at 4 p.m. The guest conductor this year is Gary Lewis, conductor of bands and wind ensembles at the University of Michigan. Admission will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Cement production is no small endeavor

(The following story is one in a series of stories about area industry being written for the Courier by Ralph McKee. McKee is a former mayor and council member and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McKee

Some people confuse the words cement and concrete. Cement, a fine, grayish powder, is useless by itself, but mixed with water and aggregates it becomes the almost indestructible concrete.

Medusa produces tons and tons of cement that end up in millions of miles of concrete surfaces. The type of cement is usually called Portland cement, named and patented by a stone mason living in the Portland region of England. Cement from that area has been shipped to Florida for almost a century. Cement is called one of the greatest inventions in the history of the world.

When all of its assets are counted, the Medusa Cement Company has a net value close to $300 million. These assets include three cement plants; six storage and distribution facilities; thousands of acres of limestone and shale formations and two ships carrying cement on the Great Lakes.

Last week's story erred in saying the Charlevoix plant pumps 90 million gallons of water out of its quarry each day. The actual figure is nine million gallons. Even so, that is approximately six times more water than the city of Charlevoix uses each day.

Medusa also is a large consumer of electricity, requiring three high voltage lines to supply three substations at the plant. The plant receives 175 million kilowatts each year. That is four times more than is needed by all of the Charlevoix city customers. It is also enough electricity to satisfy all users in Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Oil is another mainstay of the plant. Occasionally, the plant's revolving kiln must be shut down for repairs. When the kiln is restarted, oil is burned to preheat the kiln's entry chamber to a degree where pressurized coal dust will ignite.

A combination of electrical power, fuel oil and coal generates the heat needed to produce cement and mortar. (The main difference between the two being that mortar has a higher limestone content.) It is really a very technical process. Fine particles of limestone, shale, sand, iron ore and fly ash are brought together and exposed to intense heat which sometimes approaches 3,000 degrees F. This turns the mixture into unrefined cement, preferably in small chunks, called clinkers.

Clinkers are pulverized with gypsum and become cement.

From the 70-yard dump trucks hauling raw materials from the quarry to the 16 110-thousand ton storage silos the cement undergoes 19 separate processing procedures. Incredibly, it takes only nine men, a supervisor and a very large computer board keep the plant operating during off-hour shifts. In addition to the shift workers, other employees working regular hours work in the quarry, drive trucks and do maintenance chores.

Maintenance is the top priority. Moving huge masses of heavy raw material and pounding it down to the fineness of facial powder requires some extremely heavy machinery such as a 2,600 ton kiln and is hard on that machinery. A breakdown which stops the machinery is an expensive situation.

Of the employees at Medusa, 109 are union members. There are also 25 administrative personnel. The company has an annual payroll of approximately $5 million.

In addition to wages, Medusa also makes a major contribution to the community's property tax base. This year Medusa will pay approximately $850,000 in local property taxes.

One of the most challenging aspects of Medusa's operation is shipping the cement to consumers. Two ships, the Challenger and the Conquest (a barge) spend more than 280 days a year moving cement in all kinds of weather. The Challenger was built in 1906 and carries 11,600 tons of cement. The Conquest hauls 9,600 tons. Medusa's annual sales total $65 million.

It takes almost one and a-half tons of raw material to produce a ton of cement. Excavating all of that limestone and shale is making a large, deep basin of the Medusa quarry. Many years from now the quarry will be converted into a large safe harbor, several times bigger than Round Lake. The company is already working with the state on this concept.

1991 CROP Walk raises $3,500

Charlevoix County CROP Walkers are celebrating their record-breaking, 1991 walk which raised $6,669.51 for world and local hunger.

The 67 Charlevoix walkers contributed $3,500 to that total, up from $3,000 raised in 1990, report Charlevoix co-chairpersons Mary Helen Riggle and Kay Smith.

Boyne City and East Jordan, with a total of 58 walkers, raised another $3,169.51 for the Sept. 14 walk. One-fourth of the county total will be returned to the food pantries in each of the three cities. In 1990 that amounted to $480 each.

Service organizations take turns providing refreshments at the Iron-ton destination. This year the Boyne Valley P.M. Lions Club, with contributions from Friske's Orchards and Glen's Market, served the walkers.

The Charlevoix County CROP Walk is unique in Michigan in that the three cities cooperate in the one day event. Michigan is the leading fund-raising region for CWS/CROP (Church World Service/Christian Rural Overseas Project).

Garden Club elects officers

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club recently gathered for its annual meeting and elected the following new officers for the coming year and to be installed at the December meeting: Rebecca Haney, President; First Vice President, Shirley Jones; Second Vice President, Alice Irving; Recording Secretary, Katie Kieren; Corresponding Secretary, Lois Lewis; Treasurer, Lois Simmons.

The city fire department recently purchased a JI-60 cylinder which can be used with the Jaws of Life to extricate accident victims from wreckage. The cylinder which extends from 30 to 60 inches can be used to either pull or push wreckage apart. The cylinder cost $2,015. The money was raised by firemen through private contributions. Shown with the equipment are firemen Lyle Gennett (left) and Doug Bergmann (right).

Healthy handling of holidays topic of upcoming workshop

A workshop designed to help you deal with those potential holiday downers will be offered by Vital Options North. The workshop will run 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, at Charlevoix High School. You can come for all of the session or just a few of them. There's no charge.

Numerous experts from the community will participate in the presentation.

Members of the Charlevoix Running Team, the Charlevoix High School ski coach and others will offer safety tips on outdoor winter activities to kick off the program.

Also, during the day, registered dietician Tracy Borge will offer lowfat eating tips and recipes. The average American gains six to eight pounds from Thanksgiving Day to the day after New Years.

Some of the recipes will be sampled at a lunch where each person brings a dish to pass.

Deer hunter's widow has no problem at home

The deer hunters have made their long awaited trek to deer land, leaving behind their devoted womenfolk, who will sit quietly around the kitchen table and keep the homefires burning, knitting a few pairs of hunting socks, doing a little darning, maybe whipping up a couple of hand stitched quilts.

Hoo, boy, if you believe that, I've got some great wetland property you might want to buy for a condo development.

The deer hunting widows, as they are affectionately referred to, generally don't make it a habit to spend their free time during deer season working on domestic projects. They prefer to tackle those domestic projects, such as reupholstering your Barca-Lounger, at more convenient times, like during Monday Night Football.

Of course this is not to say that the deer hunting widows don't do any household projects in your absence. Many seize this opportunity to do a little fall cleaning. Mostly it's your closet they'll be cleaning out, to the delight of the Good-Will Shop. Yep, your favorite sweater and all those great ties from your Florida vacation are going to end up as next April's tax deductions.

Home rearrangement is another favorite activity for the woman without a man in the house. Home rearrangement is a nesting instinct common to most women, dating back to the cave man days when cave women were not permitted to rearrange the objects d'art in the cave.

This was probably due to the isolated incident where one cave woman decided to move a stalagmite closer to the cave door, so it would catch the light better; but upon moving it, the entire cave collapsed. Cave men everywhere lectured their wives about this tragic occurrence, so cave women were forced to live with the same cave decorating scheme for the rest of their lives.

A recent archeological dig discovered cave wall drawings depicting a cave woman moving a Barca-Boulder to the other side of the cave and a cartoon bubble coming out of the cave woman's mouth saying, "Some day, 20,000 years from now, women will strike back, and as God as my witness, they will move the living room furniture when their men are out hunting!"

Of course this is a loose translation, but it does help to explain why women today are so intimately moving furniture around when their men are absent.

The deer hunting widows, after having cleaned out the closets and rearranged all of the furniture, feel a need to pamper themselves with a little female supportiveness and understanding. They call one another and make plans for a night of nurturing and female sensitivity. They get together and nuzzle away for oh, about 15 seconds, and then they move on to embrace the bare bones of the subject.

The subject is usually one of the Foxy Frenchmen, who's bones are as dashed close to being bare as you can be without getting arrested. The Foxy Frenchmen, a local version of the Chippendales, are a favorite choice of entertainment among the nightclub owners during deer hunting season. It's harmless fun for everyone, and rarely, if ever, does a woman proposition one of the Frenchmen to come home with her, unless she needs help moving the baby grand piano that she couldn't get moved by herself.

If the Foxy Frenchmen are a bit too risqué for a deer widow's taste, she can always attend one of the many deer hunter widow balls held at the local pubs and taverns. These deer hunting widow balls are usually filled with another type of hunter — the guys who hunt the deer hunters' women.

These guys are very clever, dangerous hunters. They are all clean shaven, and have taken Alan Alda's Sensitivity Training Seminar on "How To Pick Up A Woman Of The 90s And Appear To Be Sensitive To Her Needs While Trying To Satisfy Your Own Needs."

They say things like, "I could never murder a deer. They're such beautiful, helpless creatures," or "I'm not into guns and killing. I'm into peace and love." Then they will tell you that they really just want to talk to you because you're such an intelligent woman, but the minute you turn your back on them and head for the ladies' room, it won't be your intelligence quotient they'll be ogling. That is, unless your brains are located in that place one normally reserves for sitting down purposes.

Some of the truly liberated women take the equal rights business quite literally, so when their men head for deer camp, they head for doe camp. Doe camp is usually set up in the heart of deer hunting country, which can be about anywhere except the same geographic location as their man's deer camp. These brave women go rough-it for the weekend, living in a rented condo or hotel room. They do pretty much the same thing that their male counterparts are doing at deer camp, except they don't bother to bring rifles and go hunting. They simply skip that charade and go right to the eating, drinking and being merry part.

There are a handful of women who, in spite of the fact that they don't care much for shooting animals, will head for the woods and hunt deer along with their men. One woman, the wife of a busy executive, made the annual trek to deer hunting land with her husband, on the grounds that it was the only opportunity she had to be alone with him.

One year she spotted a six point buck before he did. "There's a deer for you," she whispered to him. "No, you spotted it, it's yours," he whispered back.

Appalled with the thought of actually shooting an animal, she aimed fifty yards high and wide of the buck. Her aim was so bad, however, that she dropped it with one shot through the lungs. She still goes hunting with her husband, but now she carries nothing more lethal than a corkscrew and a corkscrew knife.

Letters to the editor

Thanks to Dr. Porter for helping the hospital

Editor:

It's a rare time in anyone's life when they are asked to organize a group to raise $1.4 million for a hospital expansion and remodeling program.

This happened to a practicing dentist in Charlevoix, Dr. Jeff Porter said "yes" to the challenge and has turned in a fantastic job. With the help of his wife Nancy (who also works full-time in his dentist office), they led a group of volunteers to accomplish this feat.

Dr. Porter worked tirelessly for four months. The task was not an easy one and we know the campaign's ultimate success was due to Dr. Porter's constant encouragement and leadership of the campaign team.

The entire area owes Dr. Porter a debt of gratitude for all he has done to help Charlevoix Area Hospital be a hospital that will serve its patients with the most up-to-date facilities and services for many years to come.

Our heartfelt thanks to Dr. Porter for all his time and effort.

Sincerely,
Tom and Esther Carey

Post commander seeks citizens' help for police

Editor:

As post commander of the Petoskey Post, I am asking leaders in this area to assist the Michigan State Police in providing the best possible law enforcement services during the coming winter months.

This month we established the Michigan State Police Travel Advisory Network to provide road condition report to all local radio and television stations in the state. In doing so, we hope to provide the same travel condition information to the public, through the media, thus eliminating thousands of calls asking for the latest road conditions. These calls tie-up existing emergency lines, prevent priority calls from coming in, and take troopers from other law enforcement assignments.

We're asking you, beginning this winter, to obtain road condition reports like you do school closings — through local radio and television broadcasts. By not calling the local post, we can provide better law enforcement to everyone in the community.

William L. Atkins,
Post commander

Plans unveiled for Bridge Park in Charlevoix

Putting public restrooms, the Beaver Island Boat Co. offices and a new sewage lift station under Bridge Park will cost $1.4 million and will take at least two construction seasons to build, consultants told the Downtown Development Authority Wednesday.

Robert Bach of Traverse City-based consulting firm Gourdie/Fraser and Associates unveiled a model for changing Bridge Park, showing them what the park would look like if the paper plans were put into the sod.

DDA members said they liked what they saw.

Their first priority is building public restrooms downtown, according to the study.

The next three priorities were to relocate the sewage pump station and replace equipment; rebuild the Beaver Island Boat Co. area; and get rid of the smell from the sewage station.

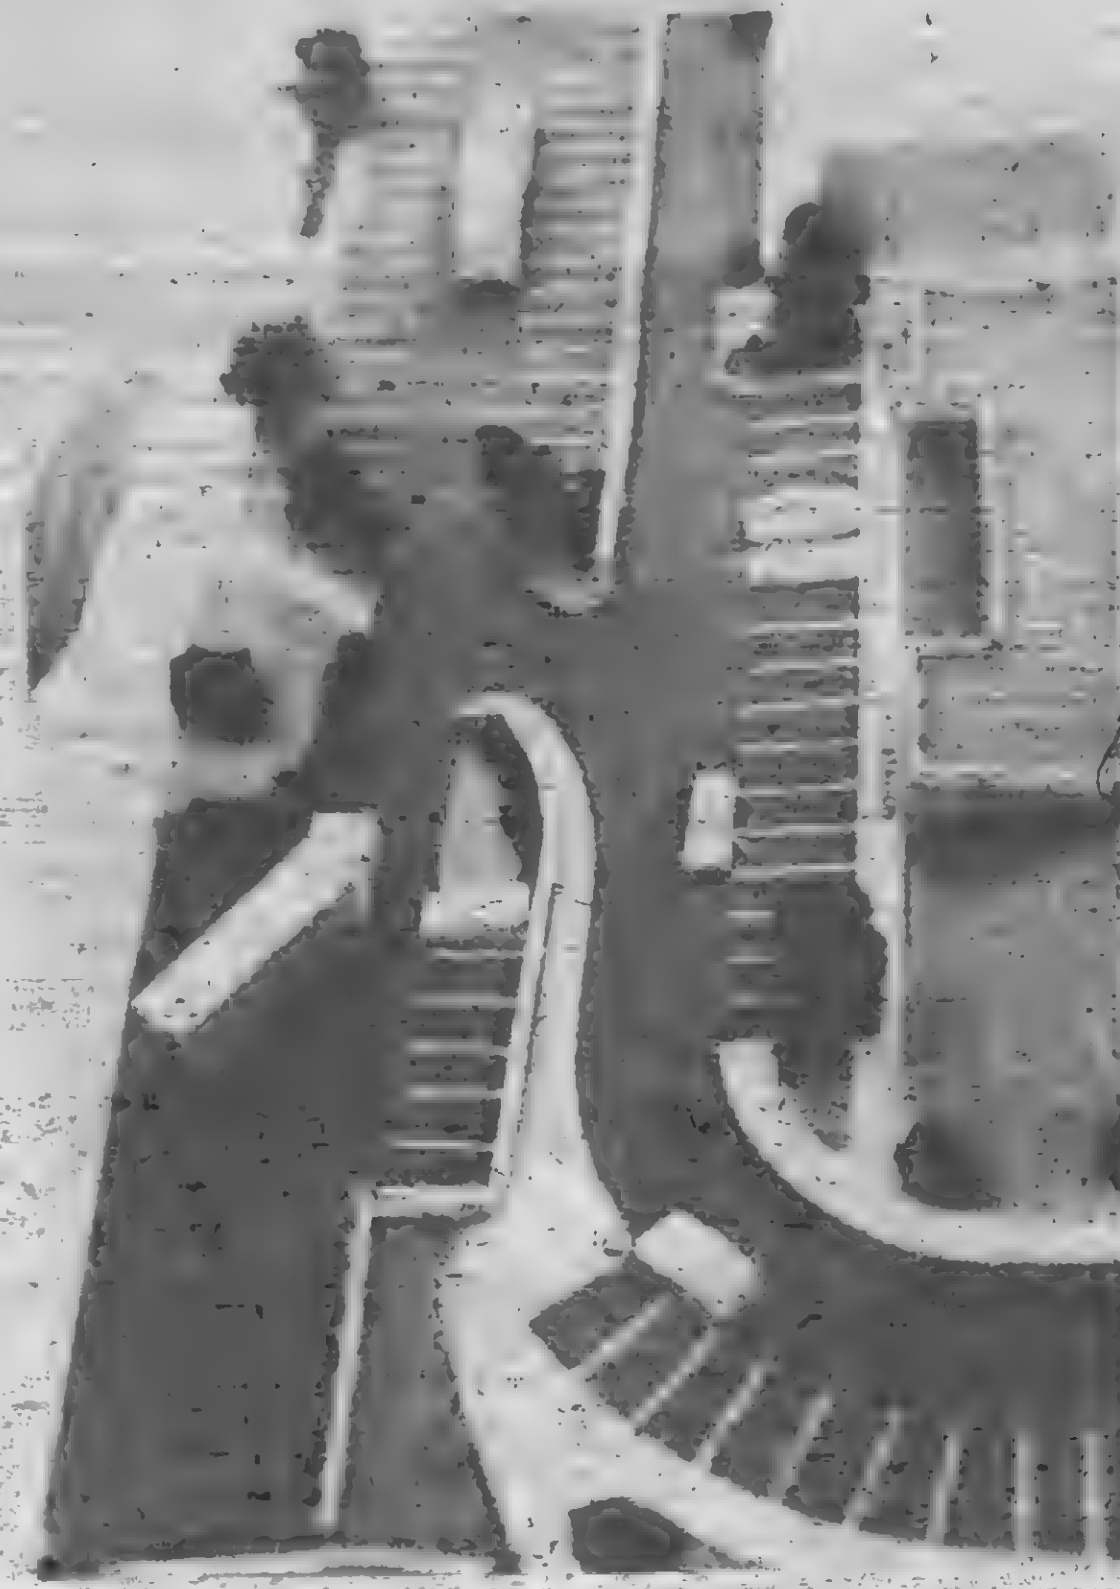

If the DDA decides to carry out the plans — no specifics were discussed at the meeting — people on the street still will be able to see the lake.

The edge of the grass will be a touch lower than the sidewalk, the consultants said.

Plans to change the park won't praise form. DDA members and chamber of commerce president Bob Kern.

Kern said the park needs to be updated, and made more usable for the Beaver Island Boat Co.

"It's been a hazard down there for a long time," he said, referring to the trucks that unload and the terrible logistics for the boat company workers.

"I want to keep the Beaver Islanders here," he said.

They also said an "updated" park and dock area will help the Coast Guard, which Kern says contributes a $1.5 million payroll to the city.

"Those gentlemen come here, get off the boat, and all they smell is the disgorger," he said. "It's terrible."

Charlevoix County says no to MSU merger for alliance

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners drew a full crowd to debate the pros and cons of having Charlevoix County support a merger between the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance and Michigan State University.

After everyone present expressed themselves, the commissioners voted 4-2 not to support a merger between Michigan State University and the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. Commissioners Hufford, Hoester, Price and Behling voted against the merger, while Commissioners Smith and Johnson voted in favor. This will mean that the Economic Alliance will remain locally autonomous, as it has been since it lost State Commerce Department funding.

Dan Barron, a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee, said that the IDC was "very adamantly opposed" to the merger. He said the IDC was opposing the merger for three reasons: • Control over the Economic Alliance if MSU became a partner.

• Necessity of having MSU as a partner, and • Credibility if MSU was a partner. Mike Dionne, East Jordan city manager, presented a copy of the East Jordan City Council minutes showing the council opposed the merger and would cease funding the Alliance if the merger took place.

Jacqueline Mena said the 450 businesses that are members of the Charlevoix and Beaver Island chambers of commerce also opposed the merger.

Lee Moerland, representing the Economic Alliance and those people in favor of the merger, pointed out the MSU Cooperative Extension Service had a 76-year-long, successful relationship with Michigan State University. He said the Extension Service always had been a bottom up type of relationship, with the county developing its own work plan according to the county's needs.

Rod Conright, Cooperative Extension Service agent, supported Moerland's position. "For 16 years, MSU has never given mandate to the county or the Cooperative Extension Service. The only mandate has been to serve the needs of the community as identified by the community."

Speaking in favor of the merger were Randy Frykberg, Boyne City Manager, Gloria Anderson, Boyne City Chamber Director, and Sandra Stanley, Boyne City Commissioner. Anderson spoke out in favor of all the different factions joining forces and

Timothy Allan Turner — Christine Mary Otmanowski

Christine Mary Otmanowski and Timothy Allan Turner exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, September 21, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Chester and Mariann Otmanowski, and the bridegroom is the son of Billy Jean and Loretta Turner of Salem, Oregon.

Father James Gardner performed the double ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was dressed in a floor length white satin gown with an off-the-shoulder neckline trimmed in Venice lace. The gown had a fitted bodice appliqued with lace, and trimmed in pearls and sequins. The bride's headpiece held a fingertip veil and was trimmed with miniature white silk roses and pearls. Her bridal bouquet was made of mauve roses, daisy mums, and baby's breath.

Doreta Anderson served as the maid of honor, and Victoria Rogers served as the bridesmaid. The groom's best man was David Gillett, and the groomsmen were Paul Turner, brother of the groom, Kenneth Otmanowski, and Steve Otmanowski. The bride's brothers served as ushers.

Music during the marriage service was provided by Jeanne Olach, the organist, and Mary Ann Stephan, the soloist.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Argonne Supper Club the night before the wedding.

The bride's parents hosted a wedding reception at the Grey Gables Inn, where Clockwork provided music for the wedding couple and their guests.

The newlyweds traveled through the Northwestern states for their wedding trip, ending up in Salem, Oregon, where they will make their home.

Hospice begins fund-raiser

The annual "Lights of Love" fund-raiser for the Charlevoix County Hospice will begin Wednesday, Nov. 27, sponsored by Eta Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The outdoor Christmas tree, located at One Water St. Restaurant in Boyne City, features colored lights which friends and relatives are invited to sponsor in honor or memory of a loved one. The names of honorees will be posted inside the restaurant and proceeds go to the Charlevoix County Hospice.

"The holidays are often the most difficult time of year to get through because of the emphasis on being with family and friends. A light on the tree can be a comforting symbol of that closeness and of the relationship between the donor and honored loved ones," said Margaret Lasater, Director of the Hospice.

A tree lighting ceremony will be held 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12. The public is invited to attend.

"Lights of Love" order forms can be picked up from the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, at One Water St. Restaurant and from Eta Nu members. For more information, call the Charlevoix County Hospice, 536-2842.

Cheryl R. Lugibihl and Robert L. Wojan

Robert Wojan-Cheryl Lugibihl

Cheryl R. Lugibihl and Robert L. Wojan were united in marriage Saturday, Oct. 12, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. The bride is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Jim Lugibihl of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wojan of Charlevoix and Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Hedde of Alpena.

Rev. Hedde officiated the double ring ceremony. Approximately 125 guests were present to witness the ceremony, in which the bride's father gave the bride away. The mothers of the bride and groom lit unity candles.

The bride wore an ivory satin beaded gown, trimmed with lace. The sleeves were puffed satin and bow trimmed. Her headpiece was accented with lace applique, sequins, and pearls. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses, baby's breath, and ivy.

The bride's sister, Phyllis Lenhart, served as the maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Chris Michaud, served as the bridesmaid. They wore pink satin tea length dresses and carried a bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath, and greens. The flower girl was the bride's niece, Brooke Lenhart. She also wore a pink satin tea length dress.

The groom's best man was Tim Wieland, and the groomsmen were Ken Wojan, brother of the groom, Christopher Hinajose acted as ringbearer. Ushers were Steven Wojan, brother of the groom, and Richard Wojan, cousin of the groom.

Music was provided by Anne Fiedler, and the vocalist was the bride's sister, Nancy Stoel, singing "The Wedding Song" and "Just You and I."

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Community Church of God Hall Oct. 11, given by Thomas and Julia Hedde.

The reception was given for the wedding couple by the bride's parents, with assistance from Mark and Nancy Stoel, and Tammy Whitley. Cake was served by Mrs. Bonnie Lenhart. The newlyweds spent their honeymoon at the Grand Traverse Resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wojan will be residing in Charlevoix. The groom works at Wojan Plumbing and Heating, and the bride is employed at Olsen's in Charlevoix.

Judy Myers — Marc Himebauch

Judy Myers and Marc Himebauch were married Sept. 14 at Emmanuel United Church of Christ in Dorance, Pa. The Rev. K. Ray Lagrone performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Raymond and Eva Myers of Mountaintop, Pa., and the groom is the son of Gordon and Marcia Himebauch of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin with a scooped neckline and bows accenting the off-the-shoulder sleeves. The tiered skirt was edged with lace and fell into a cathedral length train. She carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath, with a bow of illusion.

Playing a program of traditional wedding music was pianist Peter Bruno. Soloist was Christine Durkin.

Brenda Myers, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Sara Morris-Fiebig, Monica Moran, Patricia Cox and Sally Walck, cousin of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Erin Walck, cousin of the bride.

Crystal Himebauch, cousin of the groom, was flower girl and Jason Myers, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Michael Himebauch, brother of the groom, was best man and groomsmen were Steve Gauthier, Daniel Myers, brother of the bride, Kerry Hoyle and Jeff Leach.

A reception followed the ceremony at Carmen's Country Inn, Dorance, Pa. A second reception was held at the home of the groom's parents in Charlevoix for friends and relatives unable to attend the wedding.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the parents of the groom, was held Sept. 13 in the fellowship hall of Emmanuel United Church of Christ in Dorance, Pa.

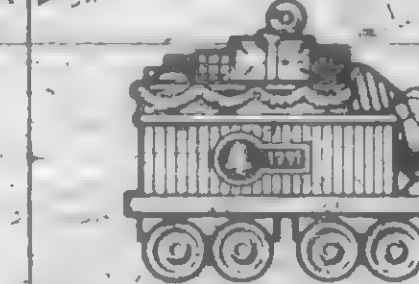

The bride and groom are residing in Hanahan, S.C. The

Judy Myers and Marc Himebauch

The bride is a graduate of Creswood High School and the University of Scranton. She holds a bachelor of science degree in physical therapy and most recently was employed as a physical therapist at the John Heinz Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. The groom is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and is a graduate of the Naval Nuclear Power School in Orlando, Fla. He is serving in the U.S. Navy and currently based in Charleston, S.C. serving as an instructor for the Nuclear Propulsion Training Unit.

Charlevoix girls blast East Jordan

Advance to finals

Charlevoix will face the Boyne City Ramblers in the finals of the Class C girls basketball districts at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22, in East Jordan.

Charlevoix (14-7) earned a berth in the finals by beating East Jordan 65-40 Tuesday. Boyne City (4-17) beat Harbor Springs 52-25 in the second district game Tuesday.

Only four days ago, Harbor had beaten Boyne City for the second time this season, 54-35, behind sophomore Kelly Flynn's 28 points. The Ramblers tried a box-and-one defense for the first time and held Flynn to 6 points.

Charlevoix beat Boyne City 38-28 and 54-42 in regular season play.

In the Rayder's game against East Jordan, Liz Grunch took her work seriously. Even before her first shot — a three-pointer that gave Charlevoix the lead for good just seconds into the game — the back of her jersey was drenched with sweat from warm-ups.

"She's always like that," said Felter, adding with a laugh, "She sits next to you and you hope she keeps a little distance."

The 5-foot-7 forward scored 27 points — 17 in the first half — to pace the victory over East Jordan.

The Red Devils beat Charlevoix 41-32 Oct. 31 by quieting the Rayders' top scorer, forward Gina Webster. But Webster had 12 points and center Jodi Allison added 10 to lead an inside offensive Tuesday.

"We wanted Gina to get back into the ball game and we knew we had to do something different," Felter said. "My thought was to have Liz and Mary Jane pump 'em in from outside. It made it happen for the other people."

Charlevoix led by as many as 14 points before East Jordan cut the lead to 29-19 at halftime. Devils center Danielle Looze scored 8 points in the early minutes of the second half, but any comeback hopes soon faded.

"The big thing we needed to do was pick up our defensive intensity in the second half," East Jordan coach Steve Hines said. "The effort was there, but we were just out of sync and they were hitting on all cylinders."

"The whole game we were coming from behind, and we got rattled," Felter said. "To Felter's delight, the Devils tried man-to-man and zone presses against Charlevoix — "more out of necessity than anything," Hines said. "To tell you the honest truth, I like to see the press because I think we can break it," Felter said. "It gets me excited and I think it carries over."

Liz Grunch also finished with 7 rebounds and 2 assists.

"She sure had our number tonight," Hines said. "She's got the tools to be an excellent basketball player. If you drop off of her, she'll beat you from three-point range. And if you go out on her to stop the three-pointer, she has the ability to take it to the basket. On top of that, she's a very good passer."

"She's a handout."

Ramblers Coach Karen Hubbard may be tempted to try a box-and-one against Charlevoix after freshman Liz Grunch's performance, but isn't planning a special defense. "We're going to have to concentrate on the Grunches (Liz and Mary Jane). They're their two main shooters," she said.

Sixth grade girls take runner up in tourney

Grayling Junior Invitational

The Charlevoix Sixth Grade Girls Basketball Team competed in the Grayling Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament on Nov. 9. The girls won their first game, then found themselves defeated on the next three games.

They came up with a victory against Gaylord St. Mary's in their fifth game, forcing an extra play-off game.

The Charlevoix Girls came home with a runner's up trophy and individual medals for all eleven girls.

Ski swap

Bring your skis, boots and skates and get ready to deal

Whether you're a veteran downhill racer, or a bunny hill beginner, chances are either you or someone in your family could benefit from the Charlevoix High School Ski Swap this Sunday, Nov. 24, from 1-4 p.m. in the High School Cafeteria.

If you have any skis, boots, skates, winter clothing, or any other type of winter sports equipment that you'd like to sell, you can bring it to the High School Cafeteria Saturday, Nov. 23, from 9 to 5, to put it in the ski swap.

A percentage of the proceeds will go to the Charlevoix Ski Team, and the remainder will go back to the individuals selling their "previously owned" equipment.

The Ski Swap is a wonderful way to get your little ones equipped for skiing without spending a great deal of money. It also provides you with the opportunity of "trading up" in equipment as your children's skill level increases along with their height and weight.

Adult equipment is also available for a variety of sports and skill levels.

Cardiac rehab program opens

Northern Michigan Heart Center, a cooperative effort of Northern Michigan Hospital and Burns Clinic, has teamed up with Charlevoix Area Hospital to begin a cardiac rehabilitation program in Charlevoix.

People in the Charlevoix area who have had heart surgery, heart attacks, angina, or pulmonary disease can now join a rehabilitation program near their homes. Participants in the program meet for one hour three mornings a week under the guidance of Monica Speigl, an exercise specialist for Northern Michigan Heart Center.

Patients are referred to the cardiac rehabilitation program by a physician and an individualized exercise prescription is written for them. Speigl explains the goal of rehabilitation is to help rebuild strength and endurance as well as muscle tone, and more importantly, to educate and motivate participants to make lasting lifestyle changes to reduce the risk of further heart problems.

The exercise is conducted while the participant is attached to a heart monitor to screen for any arrhythmias or other abnormalities.

A patient works with the cardiac rehabilitation staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The unit is a joint effort between the Charlevoix hospital, Burns Clinic and Northern Michigan Hospital.

Speigl explains the goal of rehabilitation is to help rebuild strength and endurance as well as muscle tone, and more importantly, to educate and motivate participants to make lasting lifestyle changes to reduce the risk of further heart problems.

The eight to 12-week program also provides important support for the patient with interaction between participants. After the initial program, patients may continue in a maintenance program which is conducted without a monitoring device. All "graduates" of the program are scheduled for follow-up visits during the first year and then annually. Burns Clinic cardiologist Dr. Patrick Maloney is medical director for the cardiac rehabilitation program and Linda Egan is the coordinator, both from Northern Michigan Heart Center. Dr. James Gels, internal medicine specialist on the Charlevoix Area Hospital medical staff, oversees the program at the Charlevoix site. Egan says, "We're pleased to be able to work with Charlevoix Area Hospital and community residents for their well-being."

Waste Management proposes waste recycling facility along with expansion of existing space

By Laurie Loonsbury

Waste Management's Project Manager, Jack Twema, presented the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners with a proposal to build a Materials Recovery Facility (MRF) at the Cedar Ridge Landfill.

The proposal includes the building of a MRF and a composting operation at the Cedar Ridge

Recycling and Disposal Facility in Eveline Township, and in exchange for building the facility, Waste Management would like to increase their service area to include Grand Traverse, Alpena, Cheboygan, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Montmorency, and Oscoda Counties.

In order to handle the solid waste from seven additional counties, Waste Management wants to expand their current disposal site an additional 35 acres. Under the proposal, Waste Management would guarantee that no hazardous or out-of-state materials would be accepted at the landfill. The company would meet the current air space requirements for the next 20 years, and would develop a recreation area

Persian Gulf veterans can't donate blood

The American Red Cross is temporarily halting donations from Persian Gulf War veterans and other visitors to the gulf because some veterans acquired a parasite that causes a potentially fatal disease, Red Cross officials reported.

"All indications are that the blood supply is safe from this disease. There have been no reported cases of the disease passed by blood transfusion in the United States," said Dr. Willys E. Mueller, principal officer and medical director for the Genesee-Lapeer Chapter of the Red Cross, Wolverine Region.

The parasite, often spread by the bite of sand flies, causes a disease called leishmaniasis. Mueller stated, Leishmaniasis usually causes skin lesions, but one specific strain causes diarrhea, fever, chills, weight loss, anemia and can lead to death. "Our blood donors are currently deferred when they have colds or the flu, so this is a precautionary measure to ensure that our blood supply will continue to be safe," he said.

The Department of Defense announced that all individuals who have traveled to or visited the Persian Gulf theater of operations since Aug. 1, 1990 will be deferred from blood donations until January 1, 1993. "Deferring these donors could exclude up to 5 percent of our blood donor base," said Mueller. Since Wurtsmith Air Force base is located in our Wolverine Region, and many military men and women including reservists were deployed to the Middle East, these deferrals will have an impact on the blood collection process.

Dr. Mueller concluded, "This time of year, we are gearing up for our holiday blood collections. We are encouraging all those healthy blood donors who donated during the Persian Gulf crisis for our military men and women to make an appointment to donate blood so we will have an adequate blood supply for our hospitalized patients."

To be a Red Cross blood donor, you must be 17 years of age, weight at least 110 pounds and be in good health. To make your appointment, call the Genesee-Lapeer Chapter of the American Red Cross at 1-800-432-0083, in Flint or 1-800-582-2240 in Petoskey. You may also call the Lapeer Office at 664-9926. Walk-ins are also welcomed.

DISTRICT COURT

The following cases were recently decided by Judge Harvey C. Varum in the 90th District Court in Charlevoix:

Darren Dalhas, Olach, 24, Charlevoix, operating a motor vehicle without security. Fines and costs totaling $305.

Stephan Robert Vandam, 40, Boyne City, operating a motor vehicle without security. Fines and costs totaling $305.

Douglas James Greenman, 22, Grand Rapids, attempted resisting and obstructing a police officer. Fines and costs totaling $385.

Thomas Michael Berry, 19, Charlevoix, operating an unregistered off road vehicle, and fleeing and eluding a police officer. Thirty days in jail, suspended, and fines and costs totaling $365.

Dana Eugene Crandell, 30, Petoskey, larceny under $100. Eight days in the county work program in lieu of fines and costs totaling $205.

Melissa Sue Hand, 22, Charlevoix, impaired driving. Three days in jail with credit for one day served, two days community service work. License suspended for ninety days. Fines and costs totaling $250.

Leann Marie Upper, 30, East Jordan, operating under the influence of liquor per se, first offense. Three days in jail with credit for two days served, court referral program for one year, license suspended for 180 days with restrictions. Fines and costs totaling $350.

Harold Gene Hoogerhyde Jr., 24, East Jordan, solicitation for sex. Thirty days in jail, and two weeks of electronic monitoring, one year in the court referral program. Fines and costs totaling $505.

Nancy Jean Demcuse, 38, Petoskey, impaired driving. Three days in jail with credit for one day served, two held in abeyance, two days community service work. License suspended for ninety days with restrictions, six months in the court referral program. Fines and costs totaling $350.

The county board was not in a position to make the final decision regarding Waste Management's proposal. The Waste Plan Committee, a 14-member committee, would have to be reinstated in order to consider the proposal.

The committee would have to change the existing Solid Waste Act, approve it, send it to the State for approval, and send it back to the board of commissioners for adoption. The commissioners voted to send the Waste Management proposal to the county Planning Commission for its consideration.

Five Charlevoix students earn seats in honors band

Five Charlevoix High School band members have been awarded seats in the District II Honors Band. Following auditions Nov. 4, flutist Jake Porath, clarinetists Janel Campbell and Chris Cupp, French horn player Anna Schairbaum and trombonist Russell Hand were named to the band. The honors band consists of some of the finest instrumentalists from a number of northern Michigan high school bands.

The entire Honors Band met for rehearsal Nov. 17 to prepare for Honors Band Weekend which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 7-8, in Gaylord. The weekend will culminate in a public performance at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8, at the Cathedral of St. Mary in Gaylord. The guest conductor this year is Gary Lewis, conductor of bands and wind ensembles at the University of Michigan.

Arts council plans festive holiday weekend

The fourth annual Madrigal Dinner, Saturday, Dec. 14, will begin a festive holiday weekend planned by the Jordan River Arts Council.

This very popular event will be held at the Pointes North Inn, banquet room in Charlevoix at 7 p.m. and will be catered by Stafford's Weatherlane Restaurant.

The madrigal chorus from Peloskey High School under the direction of Brad Moffett will again be the featured performers.

Tickets are $30 each for non-members and $27.50 each for members.

They may be obtained by calling the J.R.A.C. office, 536-3385, or at Stafford's Weatherlane Restaurant in Charlevoix. Early reservations are advised as this popular event has been a "sold out" affair each year.

The second part of the Holiday Weekend will be the annual concert of the J.R.A.C. Community Chorus and Community Band.

These two groups will combine for an afternoon of holiday music on 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the East Jordan High School Auditorium. The chorus is directed by Fran Tollas and Margaret Thompson, and the band by Jeff LaRoux, assisted by Rita LaViolette.

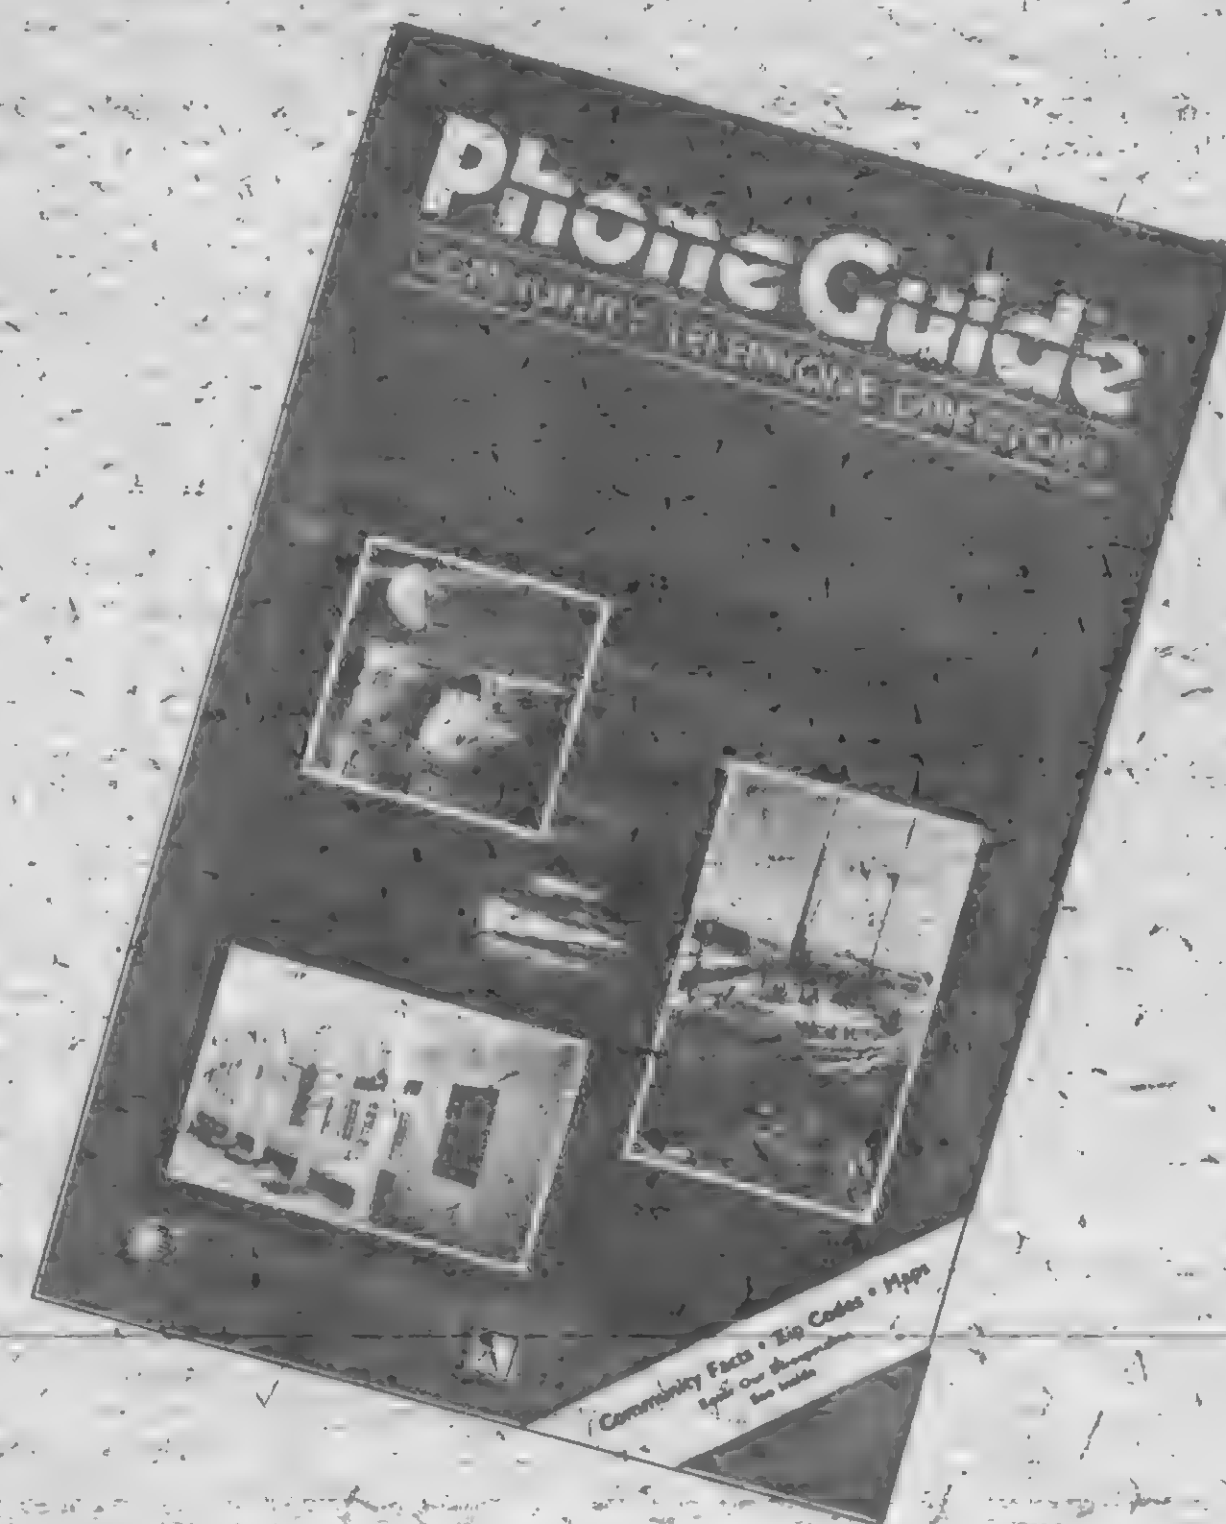

The concert is free and is the gift of the J.R.A.C. to the community.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO ACQUIRE A BANK HOLDING COMPANY

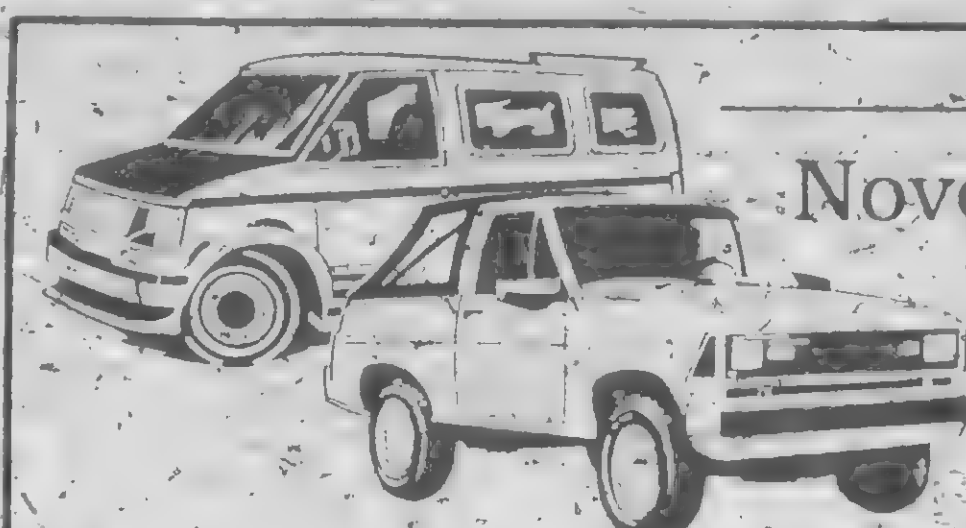

CB Financial Corporation, Jackson Michigan, intends to apply to the Federal Reserve Board for permission to acquire 100% of CCSB Corporation, Charlevoix, Michigan, a one-bank holding company of Charlevoix County State Bank. The Federal Reserve considers a number of factors in deciding whether to approve the Application, including the record of performance of banks we own in helping to meet local credit needs.

You are invited to submit comments on this Application, in writing, to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 230 South LaSalle Street, P.O. Box 834, Chicago, Illinois, 60690-0834. The comment period will not end before December 14, 1991, and may be somewhat longer. The Federal Reserve Board's Policy Statement regarding notice of applications may be found at 12-C.F.R. 262.25. To obtain a copy of the Federal Reserve Board's Procedures, or if you need more information about how to submit your comments on the application, contact the Community Affairs Officer at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Alicia Williams, Assistant Vice President and Community Affairs Officer, telephone number 312-322-6910. The Federal Reserve will consider your comments and any request for a hearing on the Application if they are received by the Federal Reserve Bank on or before the last date of the comment period.

working out their differences, rather than threatening to withdraw their support from the Alliance if the merger took place.

Charlevoix Mayor Dave Novotny pointed out, "We have many distinguished industrialists here, all opposing this merger."

Before the vote was taken, Commissioner Walt Hufford said, "They're getting big enough and far enough from the focal scene that we've lost control." He added that after speaking to several industrialists, he'd been told it was their opinion that the county ought to consider going back to a single county operation.

"We've created a bureaucracy that's continuing to grow, and I'm a little ambivalent about it," Hufford said.

The future of the Economic Alliance may be on shaky ground unless it addresses some other concerns. It was the opinion of several members representing other industry and business groups that the Economic Alliance may not be serving the purpose for which it was founded.

Bill Pocquette, Northwest Michigan Industrial Association president, said, "The Alliance is a poor use of the taxpayers' money for what you get out of it. In a number of opportunities, nothing's being accomplished."

Bill Joy, who is one of the few industrialists on the Economic Alliance's Board of Directors, said that the Alliance needs more industrialists on the board, a sentiment shared by many.

Tom Johnson, Alliance director, said the Alliance, up until last February, had been funded by the State Commerce Department, and the Board of Directors had been selected based on the Commerce Department's stipulations.

"The Alliance has not had time to re-group on the board," Johnson said. Johnson defended the Alliance, pointing out examples of when it has benefited communities. He said the closing down of United Technologies, and how the Alliance, after having exhausted all possibilities of retaining United Tech, got United Tech to give a $10,000 grant to Boyne City.

Johnson summarized the position of the Economic Alliance by saying, "We're not telling industry what's best for them, we're just trying to offer them more resources."

Charlevoix City Planning Commission
December 9, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendments to the Chapter 51, Zoning and Planning of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS
An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding to TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:

1. That Section 5.198 be added as follows:
Section 5.198 Setback from Water Bodies
Notwithstanding other provisions of this Chapter, all principal uses located in the R-1 and R-4 Districts shall have a setback of fifty (50) feet from the water mark of Lakes Michigan, Charlevoix and Round Lake, as well as the Pine River Channel and Old River, but excluding the existing Marquette Commercial property on the south shore from the 50' setback from the water, in keeping with other properties in this area.

2. That Section 5.64 (4) Area Regulations be amended to read as follows:
(4) Setback from Property Lines. There shall be a setback from any agricultural or single-family residential property which the "R-4" zone abuts, of not less than fifty (50) feet, and from any multiple residential, commercial, industrial or other property of not less than forty (40) feet.

Firemen object to study findings

Opposition voiced to proposal to hire public safety director

A recommendation by a consultant to hire a public safety director father than a fire chief is receiving a cold shoulder from city firemen.

Earlier this year, city manager Mike Wiesner hired Municipal Consultants, a Midland consulting firm, to do an administrative study of the city's police, ambulance and fire departments. The study was triggered by the move of former fire chief John Martin from the fire department to the street department.

At a special council meeting Monday evening, the city council reviewed the study and its recommendations. James St. Louis and Martin Trombley, of the consulting firm arrived 40 minutes late due to icy roads, but attended the meeting to explain the study.

According to the consultants, fire department procedures need to be more formalized to protect the city from the possibility of liability suits.

The consultants offered three administrative possibilities for the council to consider in hiring a replacement for Martin.

1. The city could maintain the current administrative structure and simply appoint a new fire chief.

2. The city could appoint a new fire chief who would work an eight hour a day, five day a week schedule rather than the 24-hour rotating

High school general science students watch as a mouse trap propelled car rolls down the school hallway.

Mouse traps propel students' creativity

By L. Scott Swanson

It began rolling slowly down the high school hallway. Students began following it. The students said very little. They just walked behind it as it rolled and rolled and rolled some more. Nope that had gone before it had ever rolled quite so far.

Sophomore Robbin Stradner set a new record last Friday morning in the mouse-trap propelled vehicle project assigned to general science class students by teacher Jim Jensen. Jensen has been assigning the project to students for about the past eight to 10 years. The objective is to build a small car powered by a mouse trap and to have the car roll as far as possible down the school hallway. The previous record was about 40 feet. Stradner's car easily surpassed that, rolling 16.95 meters, or just shy of 55 feet.

ject are pretty liberal. The mouse-trap must be the small size (i.e. no rat traps). The mouse-trap spring may be bent, but not modified in any other way. There are no limitations (except size of mouse-trap) on the materials, size of vehicle or number of wheels.

Without much constraint from rules, students are free to use a lot of imagination in designing and constructing a car.

A lot of old 45 and 78 records found themselves serving as car wheels. Tabatha Potter had Gordon Lightfoot at one end, of the rear axle and the soundtrack from Grease at the other end. Tinker toys formed the axles and front wheels. A little 3 and 1 oil on the axle helped smooth the ride.

"I made one with a normal (toy) truck that didn't go as well," she said.

Fifth-graders promote safe driving

"You've got to be smarter than the commercials," said Officer Mike Tilley, of the Michigan State Police. Tilley was addressing the Charlevoix fifth graders last Friday as part of the kick-off for the Red Ribbon Campaign, sponsored by M.A.D.D. (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers) and S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Drivers).

Tilley was explaining to the fifth graders how beer commercials show football players and other athletes promoting beer, but those athletes don't drink beer before they go out and play a football game. Driving can be like playing a game, and you have to play to win. Tilley also said that this year's theme from the Michigan State Police is "None for the Road". They are trying to encourage people to refrain from having any drinks at all before they drive a car. "Of the eight-hundred traffic fatalities in the State of Michigan every year, half of them are alcohol related," Tilley said.

The fifth graders presented Mayor Dave Novotny with a large scroll, signed by all of them, declaring themselves to be drug and alcohol free. The scroll will be displayed in City Hall, Carol Havens, president of the Charlevoix Chapter of M.A.D.D., also spoke to the children about drunk driving, before showing a movie made by General Motors which demonstrated the effects of alcohol on a driver's reflexes and response time.

The fifth graders will be tying red ribbons on their parents' and teacher's cars, as a reminder to drive sober during this holiday season.

Stradner's car was more elaborate. The frame of the car consisted of brass tubing which he had soldered together. Steel axles passed through the front and back with a thin piece of copper tubing serving as a drive. The back wheels were larger than the front and used large O rings for traction. A big plastic gear linked to a smaller direct drive gear gave the car a better turn to distance ratio.

Stradner said he spent about 30 hours on making the car. Although his classmates appeared somewhat surprised at the car's record setting distance, he wasn't surprised. He had road tested the car in the middle school gym and it had gone as far as 58 feet.

Jensen said he began assigning the mouse-trap propelled vehicle projects to his physics classes, but now assigns it to his general science students. He said the project is done in conjunction with a chapter on motion, machines, wheels and levers.

While Stradner's car went a long way, other car designers were not as fortunate. Some cars went only a few feet.

"Don't be discouraged," Jensen told the students at the end of the class. "Sometimes things don't work out right the first time."

The car assignment counted for two lab experiment grades.

In addition to the practical aspects of engineering, the project also demonstrated some of the diversity and joys and frustrations of engineering.

As Bryan Jarema prepared his car at the starting line, he put on his best Indy-500 face and said, "This baby's a revver."

One of the girls in the class had some reservations about how her car would fare, yet she defended it. As she prepared to start her car, she warned her classmates, "Anyone who makes fun of this car...I will kill."

James Conlan's car performed better than in trial runs than it did at test time. At the end of the test, Conlan utilized a time-honored method for dealing with the frustrations of machinery. He stomped that little car into oblivion.

schedule currently in place. To make this work, the city would also have to hire another full-time fireman.

3. Replace the fire chief with a full-time fireman and in addition appoint city police chief Dennis Halverson to be a public safety director with administrative management duties encompassing both the fire and police departments.

In the report, the consultants said they favored Option 3 "due to the daily presence of a chief administrative officer without the personnel cost of having to hire a full-time Fire Chief."

Councilman Ted Felter questioned the cost of the recommendation. He said it would be adding another tier in the chain of command, he said the city would end up appointing someone as a second in command at the fire department. He said there would be increased responsibility placed on either Halverson or the person appointed to the fire department and that would translate into higher costs.

Councilman Bill Haggard offered sentiments similar to Felter's.

"I think it can be done in a different way with less expense," he said. Barry Wood, the president of volunteer firefighters' association, said the group's consensus was that they would prefer to stay with the present administrative system and initiate the drafting of more formalized standard operating procedures, as soon as a new fire chief is appointed.

Wood said the fire department feels that city manager Mike Wiesner wants absolute control over the fire department and that the study was part of a power play which has done much to undermine the fire department.

Wiesner said that he did not pre-plan the study and the outcome of the study was not settled before the study was started.

"I would never do anything like that," he said.

He said he authorized the report, which cost the city $4,500, because he found the city's public safety program is very complex. He added that he feels the study will benefit the three public safety departments in the long run.

Volunteer fireman Doug Bergmann took issue with several facets of the report. The report contained grammatical or typographical errors in addition to unclear wording, Bergmann pointed out some of those errors and also questioned or clarified some of the facts and observations presented in the report.

The report said that the combined number of city ambulance and fire runs each year is approximately 600. The report cited that as a factor suggesting a greater demand for personnel during the day. The other factor was that 69 percent of the fire and ambulance calls occur between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Bergmann pointed out that in regard to the fire department, only about 100 of those calls are for fire trucks. And of those 100, 20 or 30 are calls such as taking a truck to the north side when a big boat goes through the channel.

Former councilman Bob Timms questioned the cost of creating the position of a public safety director.

"Will this be a bureaucratic, administrative, nonproductive position?" he asked.

Timms added that he felt some of the procedural matters recommended by the report could be beneficial, but could be adopted within the context of the present system without any major upheaval.

The council took no action Monday night, but will give further consideration to the matter in December.

Christmas Chorale Dec. 1 and 2

The Northern Michigan Chorale invites people in the area to help celebrate its 10th Anniversary Season on Sunday and Monday, Dec. 1 and 2 in the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium. The Holiday concert will feature favorite choral numbers of both the audience and Chorale members from past programs, many Don-Large arrangements, contemporary show tunes and Christmas selections. Former Northern Michigan Chorale members have been invited back to take part in the Christmas section of the concert. The Chorale is directed by Connie Tanner, with Sally Page, accompanist, Tom Woerhmann and Bob Morris on bass and drums.

The Sunday, Dec. 1, concert begins at 4 p.m. and Monday's program starts at 8 p.m. Adult tickets are $6 with students at $3 and are on sale at Petoskey and Charlevoix Chambers of Commerce, the Outfitter in Harbor Springs, and from all Northern Michigan Chorale Members.

OPINIONS

EDITH

by Edith Gilbert

This is what I call the RAINBOW SEASON in Charlevoix. In November, our weather reflects the warm yellows and reds, cool blues, green and lavenders of a rainbow. We are blessed with warm, sunny days. We must suffer through damp, rainy days. These alternate with purple days when cool winds blow and snowflakes fall on green lawns. After the snow melts we are left with mountains of wet leaves that need to be raked into huge piles. Early in the morning we hear the rumbling of city trucks scooping up the brown leaves in a race against the next snowfall.

Weather like this keeps one guessing on weekends. Shall we go skiing or shall we play tennis outdoors? Shall we read a good book or prepare for Thanksgiving? I see hunters dressed in bright orange garb strolling up Bridge Street, while there's a sailboat circling Round Lake for the last time. There are so many choices during the rainbow season, we hardly know what to wear or what to do from one day to the next!

Still there's one thing we can count on and that's celebrating Thanksgiving during this unusual month of November. Charlevoix's restaurants are alert to pamper visitors and locals equally by offering special holiday menus for the occasion. Some restaurants will deliver a turkey and all the fixings to the home. This convenience lures some resorters north for another family weekend.

Thanksgiving has always been one of my favorite holidays. Family and friends get together, usually in a closely knit, small group, in a relaxed atmosphere. Sometimes there are announcements made of an engagement or a blessed event. Sometimes there are toasts made to those who are absent. Sometimes there are letters read. Sometimes families watch parades and football on T.V. Whatever.

One of the most pleasant memories I have as Thanksgiving was the one I spent last year with my Rochester family. Soft-spoken and thoroughly organized, Victoria reigned supreme in the kitchen. All day family members drifted by and offered help. Daughter Jennifer said, "I love to taste the turkey." That's my job. She also mashed the sweet potatoes and helped set the table. Brother Curtis and sister Vicki rolled out the dough for the pie crust and filled it with pumpkin filling. Jay Gilbert tasted the gravy and nodded approval. There was good conversation, teasing and laughter. With my camera, I recorded the culinary progress hour by hour.

Shortly before dinner, much to my surprise, Victoria announced that we were all going to take a walk in the adjacent woods and gather decorations for the table. I looked at the barren dry woods and wondered what we possibly find at this time of year? But it turned out this walk in the woods was the highlight of the day! Look, there's a rust-colored maple leaf, and there are some red berries on a prickly bush, and there are some acorns on the ground, and there are some reeds with fuzzy tips, and there's a tuft of green pine needles. When we returned home we were amazed at the abundance and variety of our woody collection.

We carefully arranged our gatherings around the pumpkin centerpiece, and lined up at the buffet table to watch Jay gracefully carve the roasted turkey. Before we ate, we gave our traditional thanks for all our blessings and said a prayer for the less fortunate.

This special holiday will live in my memory, but the pictures will always be there to help us remember the lovely family Thanksgiving during the rainbow season.

Girls' program becomes successful

People who follow Charlevoix High School girls' basketball had a chance to celebrate last Friday evening. It's been a while since that's happened.

Just two years ago, the varsity team endured a winless season. Early last season the team broke a 23 game losing streak, but still lost the vast majority of its games. This year the team went 13-7 during the regular season and Friday night at East Jordan, the Raiders beat Boyne City to win the 1991 District Championship.

Last year, varsity coach Tom Felter, her assistant Eszanna Mosoryak, and a varsity team made up of lots of sophomores a couple of juniors and one senior lived through plenty of losses and long nights. But Friday night, these same people were smiling.

In describing the success of the Charlevoix girls' basketball program, the word "program" is more appropriate than the term "team." The varsity team's success this year and in future years is the result of the success of the girls' basketball program. Too many people simply see a front page photo of the varsity team with a trophy and never realize that what makes that trophy possible is a successful program.

Granted, Felter has done a nice job with this year's team, but what really brings optimism for the future is what she and a number of other people in the community have been doing to build a successful program. Charlevoix now has a girls' basketball program which begins in elementary school and continues until well when you consider the alumni involvement, it really never ends.

This year's varsity team isn't the first and, given what's being done to build a strong program, it won't be the last to hoist a trophy overhead. There is an investment in the future being made by a lot of people - an investment which will pay dividends in the future.

Some examples of that investment are:

Jim Parrish has been finding time to work with the fifth and sixth grade girls' teams. Explaining to a 10-year-old that she has to dribble the basketball rather than just tuck it under her arm and ramble down the court with it takes a fair amount of patience. High school and college coaches may debate the merits of man-to-man, zone, match-up defenses and motion, set and transition offenses, but if you want some real insight into the fundamentals of coaching, have Parrish describe to you the challenge he faced when he tried to get one of his junior high teams to run "the play."

Rick Grinch and several other fathers of junior high and high school girls initiated a weekend basketball program last winter. That program refined fundamental skills and is already paying dividends on the junior varsity and varsity teams.

Felter, Mosoryak and junior varsity coach Heary Wagner have also helped coordinate summer camp basketball for the high school players. Several parents have hauled players back and forth to summer tournaments. This past summer, several junior varsity players also attended a camp at Ferris State University. Girls from Charlevoix also competed in the Gus Macker Three-On-Three tournament in Gaylord.

One Saturday last month alumni players returned to the high school gym and laced up their hoop shoes for the annual alumni camp. During the afternoon, high school and alumni players gave an instructional clinic for the middle school players. In the evening, an alumni team played against this year's varsity team. It's an opportunity for the junior high and high school players to learn from, play against and enjoy the company of some of the players who went before them. The alumni camp offers the alumni players an opportunity to give something back to the program and make an investment in its future success.

You can read about the 1991 district basketball championship on the sports page in this week's Courier. You can find out the final score, who scored the points, who collected the rebounds and what the coach thought of the game. But if that's all you find out, then you won't know the whole story. You'll only know the story of the team and the present. There's more to the story. There's a program being developed, a program with a promising future.

Wynkoop pleads guilty, but mentally ill

Andrew Wynkoop has pleaded guilty but mentally ill in the murders of Heather Kleiber and Katherine McCleese.

The plea was made in 33rd Circuit Court before Judge Richard Pajtas following a hearing in which psychologists testified that Wynkoop, 20, suffers from mental illness.

Wynkoop is charged with killing Kleiber Aug. 17, 1990. Kleiber was 13-years-old at the time. Her body was not found until May 4, 1991. A search which eventually involved police agencies from several states, took place during the more than eight months before the body was found.

Wynkoop is also charged with kidnapping and killing 28-year-old Katherine McCleese in March of this year. McCleese was taken from a party near Bay Shore. A police investigation led to Wynkoop's arrest and he then showed police where to find McCleese's body.

Wynkoop pleaded guilty, but mentally ill, of second degree murder, first degree rape, kidnapping and being a habitual offender in the McCleese case.

Wynkoop is scheduled to be sentenced at 9 a.m. Dec. 18.

The wedding will take place on December 28, at the Christ the King Catholic Church in Acme.

Mosoryak - Hamilton

The engagement of Barbara J. Mosoryak of Charlevoix to James T. Hamilton of Charlevoix is being announced. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mary Mosoryak and the late John R. Mosoryak, and the groom-to-be is the son of Marjorie Hamilton and the late Charles N.

Hamilton, of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

The wedding is scheduled to take place May 16, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

The bride-elect works at Glen's Market in Charlevoix, and her fiancé is employed at Lexaline International Corporation.

Rather than have a Christmas drawing this year, the First State Bank of Charlevoix had Santa Claus deliver $200 for food to the Charlevoix Community Christmas project. Accepting the donation is project co-coordinator Kaye Smith.

Conservancy receives 40 acres

The Little Traverse Conservancy has received a gift of land from Helmut (Bud) Schulz, Jr. The 40-acre parcel, located off Pincherry Road in Charlevoix County, was given to the Conservancy in memory of Bud's wife, Annette, who passed away earlier in the year.

The land has been managed by the Schulz's for years to improve the quality of the forest. It adjoins state-owned forest land and has been open to the public for a number of years under the state Commercial Forest Reserve Act.

"This piece of land is important for a number of reasons," said Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey, who accepted the land on the Conservancy's behalf. "It provides access to substantial acreage of state land and to Horton Creek to the east. It provides habitat for wildlife, protection for the Horton Creek watershed and scenic frontage on Pincherry Road."

In thanking Schulz for his gift of land, Bailey noted that the community has received the benefit of Schulz's generosity many times in the past. "Bud Schulz is well known as a volunteer and generous member of this community," Bailey said, noting that for years all of the Conservancy's nature preserve signs were handmade by Schulz. Fifty bluebird nesting boxes, also handmade, were recently donated to the Conservancy by Schulz, as well, Bailey noted. Schulz is a noted local nature photographer and historian. In addition, Bailey recognized Schulz's innovative microphotogra-phy of insect wings, a project which attracted the attention of entomologists at Michigan State University.

The parcel donated to the Conservancy was acquired by Schulz just after World War II. "I was looking for some land to reforest," he said, noting that after purchasing the property he planted some 8,000 seedlings of white pine, red pine, Austrian pine, white spruce, blue spruce and Douglas fir. He also built a number of trails through the parcel.

Schulz decided to give the property to the Conservancy when it became too much for him to care for. "I'm past eighty-five years of age now," he said, "and I have plenty to do with my home, canoeing, wood-working and photography."

The stone-cold truth about cooking a turkey

By Laurie Lounsbury

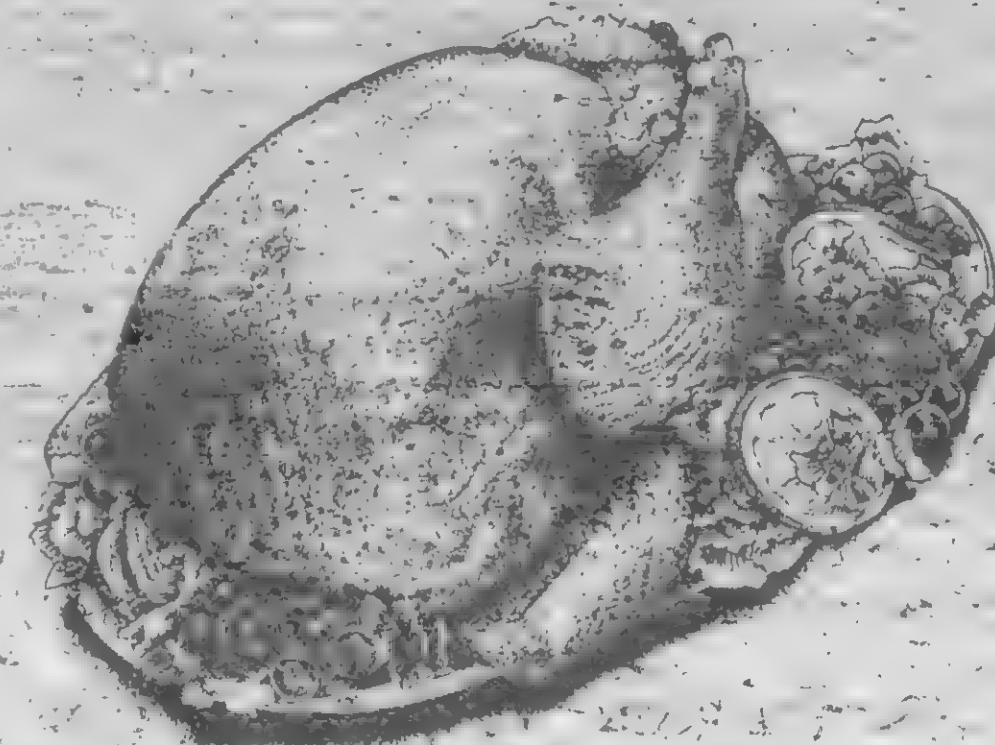

Every year at this time, thousands of naive, well-intended young newlyweds head for the grocery store to buy their first Thanksgiving turkey. They invariably have visions of serving their new matrimonial mate and his parents a beautiful, perfectly browned turkey, and they imagine themselves standing modestly at the table while everyone raves about the gorgeous turkey, and they will reply, "Oh, it was nothing, really. It is my first turkey, you know."

What the young lady doesn't know is that this scenario WILL NOT HAPPEN. What's more likely to happen is that she will find herself sobbing in the kitchen with her new spouse on Thanksgiving day while the in-laws are slowly getting plastered in the living room, waiting for the turkey. The turkey, still frozen on the inside and charred black on the outside, is probably lying on its side on the kitchen floor. Meanwhile the spouse is hissing, "DO SOMETHING! It's not a pretty picture, but no one ever said dead turkeys are necessarily pretty."

The first mistake made by busy young wives is to think that you can leave work on Wednesday at five, the day before Thanksgiving, and pick up a frozen turkey for dinner tomorrow. These 20-pound icebergs should be purchased by Easter if you want them thawed by Thanksgiving. If grocers had a heart, they would ban the sale of frozen turkeys starting a week before the big day. Instead, they blithely ring up the sale of a rock-hard bird they know darn well can only be used on Thanksgiving day if it's thrown in a tub of water with a case of beer; where it will chill down the bottles in a hurry.

A young woman, faced with the dilemma of a frozen bird that is making no effort on its own part to get cooked, will make mistake number two. She'll figure that if it's not getting cooked at 350 degrees, she should crank the oven up to about 475 degrees. At this temperature, the outside of the bird will get cooked to a crispy black, and the scorching heat will singe off any remaining pin feathers.

Some novice turkey cookers do have the presence of mind to buy a fresh turkey instead of a frozen one. They have watched the T.V. commercials boasting a particular brand of turkey, and how simple it is to cook a plump, buttery turkey. They actually BELIEVE this vicious propaganda, and the poor young things actually DO what the commercial told them to do. Literally. What the commercial neglected to mention is that these turkeys come with various and assorted body parts all neatly wrapped in a plastic baggy, crammed up into the turkey's body cavity, a place where most of these parts have no business being. It's no wonder that a person would not stick her hand up inside a turkey body, in search of a missing neck. Necks belong on the outside, with a head attached to them, not on the inside, where the dressing goes. So the sensible person keeps her hands away from the deep, dark, mysterious inside of the turkey's body and simply shovels a little dressing in that direction, not knowing about those scary body parts furiously lurking in there. About two hours into the cooking process, with the in-laws happily parked in the living room sipping scotch and watching football, the smell of melting plastic comes wafting in from the kitchen. Of course the new bride doesn't know why on earth the smell of burning plastic should be coming from her kitchen, so she promptly points the finger at her husband, accusing him of leaving the turkey baster in the oven with the turkey. A handful of young women have a basic idea of how to prepare a turkey, thanks to their mothers or grandmothers, who dragged them into the kitchen year after year in an attempt to impart several generations' worth of family turkey secrets. These women tend to do everything the same way their mothers did it, without questioning why they're doing it. They will pull those mystery parts out of the turkey's cavity and cook them slowly in a pot of simmering water, just like their mothers did. When these mystery parts are thoroughly cooked, the young woman will look at them in disgust, wondering what practical use they could possibly serve as edible matter. She might try to feed the stuff to the family dog, who will turn up his nose and leave it in the dog dish until the neck part shrivels up and looks like soggy driftwood. A really curious young cook might call her mother long distance to ask her what use she found for these parts. To her horror, she will learn that her mother actually chopped up the gizzards, as she calls them, and put them in the dressing. Anything that goes by the name of "gizzards" has no place in contemporary turkey dressing. Maybe the pilgrims put gizzards in their dressing, but as we all know, the pilgrims were uneducated, primitive folks who didn't have garbage disposals, which is the true and correct place for these parts.

Let's say, just for the fun of it, that a first time turkey cooker actually gets the bird cooked without any mishaps. She peeks into the oven, at a properly cooked, browned turkey. She starts to think to herself, "Hal! This turkey cooking stuff is a breeze, nothing to it!" She gets a little overconfident as she's reaching into the oven to fetch her big, beautiful bird, and wham! The thing leaps out of the roasting pan and skids across the kitchen floor on its buttery broadside. The reason for this common occurrence is that an average woman cannot relate to the weight distribution of a turkey, which has enormously large breasts and little or no behind. The average woman, therefore, won't properly balance the roasting pan during oven removal. Dolly Parton is the only woman known to get a turkey from the oven to the platter without dropping it a couple of times. As for the rest of the female population, the prevailing sentiment is that any creature built like that deserves to land on the kitchen floor and slide on its bony little backside.

BEACONS

by Rev. Benton Heisler

On my desk is a small clock/calendar. It flashes the time and then the date. Such a device is useful as it keeps me aware of moments in time, i.e. chronos. The minutes and hours of a day, the days and months of a year pass with a speed usually relative to our feelings of either anticipation, anxiety or contentment.

This week two "times" nearly overlap. Thursday November 28 is a time for giving thanks. The reason for which we give thanks are as numerous as those individuals who will gather around bountiful tables, catered meals, soup kitchens or simply spend another homeless day wandering.

The bountiful table surrounded by three or four generations of relatives is a stark contrast to the cold homeless wanderer huddled in a corner. But, as I mentioned above, though our reasons for giving thanks are as varied as we are, each and every one of us can give thanks we are loved by God. Time never changes this truth.

Our chronology is sometimes out of sync. But God's Logos - The right time - is always as it should be. And when our lives are attuned to it the light and life of the kingdom of God break through the darkness and our lives are filled with grace.

The season of Advent begins Sunday December 1. Advent is a season of waiting, anticipation, preparation and joy. The chronological waiting is rewarded with the birth of the Christ. A world of suffering, brokenness and alienation experiences God breaking the cycle as the Messiah is born.

Let us give thanks and let us look forward with joy to the gift of love God sends to God's world in God's son Jesus Christ.

Rev. Benton Heisler is the pastor of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Beacons of Blessings is written for the Courier by Heisler and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Donald R. McKenzie

Donald R. McKenzie, 75, former Charlevoix resident, died Nov. 18, 1991, in Placerville, Calif.

Funeral was Friday, Nov. 22, at St. Patrick's Church in Placerville with burial in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Placerville.

Mr. McKenzie was born Dec. 17, 1915, in Charlevoix, the son of Colin and Olive (Lord) McKenzie. He attended Charlevoix schools and graduated from Charlevoix High School.

During World War II, Mr. McKenzie served in the U.S. Army in the Pacific Theater.

He owned an insurance agency in Pleasanton, Calif. before retiring and moving to Placerville.

Mr. McKenzie was a past president of a Lion's Club in Pleasanton and a member of St. Patrick's Church in Placerville.

He is survived by his wife, Thelma; one son, Guy McKenzie; three daughters, Jean, Janice and Karen, all of California; seven grandchildren; one brother, Louis McKenzie of Charlevoix and one sister, Maxine Plumm of Charlevoix.

K-5 school using new science program

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix Elementary School will be taking a close look at science now, with the help of two new microscopes, which are part of the Elementary School's new science library. At last week's P.T.A. meeting, elementary teachers Allison Mellon and Sue Tillotson introduced the new science curriculum and science library to parents and teachers of elementary school children.

The move toward a more progressive science program began two years ago when former superintendent Gordon Van Wieren began investigating the possibility of acquiring a science lab for the elementary and middle school. Van Wieren approached the Kellogg Foundation, in search of grant money for the lab. He learned that in order to qualify for a lab, the school needed to have a formal science curriculum already in place.

Van Wieren sought the help of Dr. Clarence Suelter, a faculty member of Michigan State University's Science Department. MSU had recently received grant money to help schools develop "Conceptual Change" science curriculums. The idea of conceptual change is to first determine what you wish to accomplish, then develop a curriculum to meet those goals. The emphasis is on depth, not breadth, of knowledge. Instead of trying to pick a few key topics and study them thoroughly.

Charlevoix's Elementary School was the first school taken on by MSU as a partner to develop a new science curriculum. MSU conducted a summer workshop for the elementary school teachers to help them develop a hands-on science program. Mellon and Tillotson attended See North, at the University of Michigan's Biological Station at Douglas Lake, to learn more about curriculum development and teaching skills for elementary school science. Teachers Jeannie Seymour and Karen Pierce have also attended See North.

Mellon and Tillotson have played a pivotal role in the implementation of the new science program.

"Allison and Sue are the leaders of this new science program. Gordon and I were just the facilitators of it," said Vane Smith, Elementary School Principal.

Mellon and Tillotson demonstrated the use of the two new microscopes. One microscope, a video microscope, visually displays the slide in the microscope on a television monitor, so that an entire classroom can view items at the same time. The other microscope, which also gives a visual display, is a three dimensional microscope. Rocks, petri dishes filled with pond water, or animal bones can be viewed through the stereoscope, as it is called.

Elementary teachers Karen Pierce and Eric Lundieigen gave a demonstration of the new laser disc science library. The laser discs hold as many as 50,000 frames on each disc. The science library has nine laser discs, mostly covering physical science, with some earth science as well. Lundieigen and Pierce

Youth center still moving forward

A proposed youth center now has a name, a board of directors and its nonprofit certification. The center, which will be called Teen Club 77, will be located on Upright Street and is scheduled to open this coming spring.

Board members for the group are: Earl Weir, president; Dave Kurchinski, vice president; Pat Drosi, secretary; Marilyn Slinger, treasurer; Randy Maurer, trustee; Larry Bogg, trustee; and Swanee Alden, trustee.

The group took over the PEARL group's nonprofit certification. Had it not been for this, obtaining nonprofit status for fundraising could have taken about a year.

Weir said the group already has some money and has also requested money from the United Way campaign.

The center also has a youth board. Weir said the response to the center thus far has been enthusiastic.

have joined forces and are working with their classes on a unit about the shaping of the earth. Vivid videos of volcanic eruptions enhance the study. Two teacher workbooks go with the science video program, enabling the teachers to provide explanations as the students view the monitor.

Mellon said that the teachers have short term goals and long term goals for the new science curriculum. The long term goals would be to eventually have a greenhouse, a science lab, and a science teacher. The short term goals are to get the bugs out of the curriculum, and help other teachers feel comfortable with teaching the curriculum. A critical aspect of the short term goals, according to Mellon, would be to have more in-service time for the teachers to continue to work on the curriculum. Mellon said that it's just too difficult to get teachers together after school to work on curriculum development. It's going to change, Mellon said of the current in-service time teachers have.

Basketball team takes title with 54-35 win

Boyne City beaten in District finals

Charlevoix won its first district title since 1986 at East Jordan Friday, but not without a struggle. Charlevoix and East Jordan entered only thing that went wrong for the Rayders was a misplayed high five. Pfister went up for a shot and was fouled, but made the basket anyway. Liz Grunch congratulated

Charlevoix played against Farwell at Mancelona in the regional opener Tuesday evening. (See story elsewhere in the sports section.)

Rayders lose by six

Gina Webster led the Rayders in scoring with 18 points and in rebounds with 10 in the final game of her high school career. Fresh-

Felter said she's pleased with the season and is looking forward to next year. She noted that the team is developing an excellent work ethic, peaked in November, and should benefit from the addition of some players off this year's junior-varsity team.

Mary Jane Grunch looks to pass into the lane during Friday night's basketball game against Boyne City. Early in the game, Charlevoix had difficulty getting the ball under the basket, but began to get more inside points later in the game.

BUSINESS

Charlevoix Manufacturing is a fast braking business

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories about area industries being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and councilman and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Charlevoix Manufacturing makes brake pistons for the automobile industry. The plant, which is located in the Charlevoix Industrial Park, uses only one raw material - aluminum. Shipments of 40,000-pound aluminum ingots are delivered to the plant.

Plant general manager Jim Hater explains that the manufacture of the brake pistons begins with the immersion of aluminum ingots into a cauldron of molten aluminum. Two men standing alongside the equipment pour small ladles of liquid aluminum into molds.

The aluminum is kept in a liquid state by a flaming gas furnace which never shuts down. The plant uses more than a million cubic feet of natural gas each month.

After cooling a little, the hinged molds are opened and the metal casting moves on to a machine that cuts off the base of the casting which holds eight small piston pieces together.

The pistons are about three inches high and just over an inch wide. They are an integral part of an automobile's master brake cylinder. As many as 20 types of pistons are made for various assemblers of new and replacement master cylinders.

Refining the pistons from rough castings to finished pistons is a multistep operation. One of the first steps is the hot oven where the pistons are raised to a temperature of 900 degrees for nine hours prior to being lowered into a vat of cool water. Later the pistons will again be heated, this time to a temperature of 300 degrees for five hours. Aluminum is one of the softest metals. Heat treatment increases aluminum's resistance to wear.

Several machines are used to shape and finish the pistons in a variety of ways. One of the machines is capable of performing eight different functions.

During the machining of the pistons, approximately five percent of the metal is lost through shavings and metal hitting the floor. The metal is later recovered and returned to the foundry. Water used in the operation is trucked out of the plant for disposal at a downstate hazardous waste disposal site.

Each machine operator at the 17,000 square foot plant is responsible for the ordinary maintenance and operation of his machine. Major mechanical problems are addressed by Rick Arnold, the plant's maintenance chief. Arnold also checks the accuracy of each machine to assure strict quality control. Before leaving the plant each piston must pass final inspection by a crew of eight people.

Before going to customers the pistons are shipped to Charlevoix Manufacturing's parent company in Cincinnati, Ohio where they are annealed to protect their surfaces from corrosive oils. After being annealed, the pistons are shipped back to Charlevoix where they are inspected yet again.

Charlevoix Manufacturing currently employs two shifts of people - the first shift working from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the second shift working from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. Each day these two shifts of people use a ton of aluminum to make approximately 14,500 pistons.

At one time the plant had a third shift, but a slump in the auto industry forced layoffs and the elimination of the third shift.

Once a month management and employees meet to discuss plant operations. The purpose of the meetings is to promote a feeling of partnership between the company and employees. Problems affecting productivity are discussed and recommendations are made for improvements.

Approximately a third of the plant's employees live in the city of Charlevoix. Almost all are married and all expressed concern about the nation's economy, particularly problems within the auto industry.

A sales slump in the American auto industry in conjunction with the intrusion of foreign cars led to a reduction of inventories by domestic car makers in recent years. Charlevoix Manufacturing was one of hundreds of automobile suppliers affected by the reduction. Last March was a low point for the plant. Several employees had to be laid off and the third shift eliminated.

BUSINESS

Sears moves into new store

The Charlevoix Sears store has moved into its new building on M-66 and store owner Joe Trojanek is a very busy, but also a very happy, camper.

Sears moved into its new building Monday, Nov. 18. This past Friday, Trojanek said the store's first four and a-half days had been "just phenomenal."

Space. In Star Trek it was described as the final frontier. For the Charlevoix Sears store, space is a retail frontier. And yes, they're going boldly.

The new store has 5,400 square feet of space.

"There's room to put the entire old store in the warehouse of this one," Trojanek explained.

The added space has benefitted both the show room and the warehouse. Added show room space allows Trojanek to keep more items in stock than ever before. Stocking additional items has helped both sales and delivery.

In addition to appliances, the store will carry more exercise equipment, snow removal equipment, electronic items and tools. Trojanek said customers asked the store to carry more things at the store, rather than just having things in the catalogue.

"When they're looking at a major purchase, it's kind of nice to touch it first," Trojanek said.

In terms of delivery, electronic and appliance items which are in stock can be delivered that same day. Trojanek said for items such as replacement freezers, that can be very important.

Additional warehouse space also benefits customers. Trojanek said that now if someone is building a house, the local Sears store can order the appliances and keep them in the warehouse until the customer is ready for delivery.

About half of the items sold in the Charlevoix Sears store are delivered while the other half are picked up at the store. In designing the new store, Trojanek took special care with the loading dock

Recently new orders have been increasing. This has required some overtime work and the hiring of a few temporary employees. An upturn in business could eventually result in the return to a third shift. Employee benefits at the plant include health care and life insurance plus profit sharing bonuses. Perfect attendance is rewarded with days off. The company has an annual payroll of approximately $1 million.

The Charlevoix Manufacturing Company was built in 1978. It is a branch of Hater Industries of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Nutcracker Ballet

John Whitley of the city electrical department pulls in a wire at the corner of Bridge and Mason Streets as city workers begin hangin the decorative lighting for the holiday season.

Senior Center to host luncheon

Charlevoix senior citizens will host a soup and salad luncheon in conjunction with a bazaar from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 30 at the Senior Center at the corner of Carpenter Street and Norwood Road.

The luncheon is open to the entire community at a cost of $4 per person.

Emergency food and shelter money available

Charlevoix County will receive $19,214.00 for emergency food and/or shelter from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Private voluntary or public organizations wishing to apply or a portion of these funds should contact Vaseo Zucchiatti at the Department of Social Services, phone 547-4471, by December 9, 1991.

On the record

The following cases were recently decided by Judge Harvey C. Varnum in the 90th District Court of Charlevoix County:

Michael Anthony Meier, 38, Charlevoix, impaired driving. Three days in jail with credit for one day served, two days of community service work, nine months in the court referral program, license suspended for 90 days with restrictions. Fines and costs totaling $350.

Tina Laverne Simons, 25, East Jordan, retail fraud second degree. Fines and costs totaling $85.

George Thomas Simons, 35, East Jordan, retail fraud second degree. Fines and costs totaling $85.

Teresa Reance Ordiway, 24, Central Lake, driving with license suspended or revoked. Five days in jail, five days of community service work in lieu of jail, eight days in county work program. Fines and costs totaling $305.

Terry Lee McCall, 20, East Jordan, attempted unlawful use of motor vehicle, and receiving and concealing stolen property under $100. Thirty days in jail, with credit for 30 days served, fines and costs totaling $550.

Robert Michael Merrigan, 28, Walloon Lake, attempted unlawful use of motor vehicle, and failure to report an accident. Ten days in jail, with credit for one day served, nine days of community service work. Probation for two years, fines and costs totaling $650.

Ronnie Richards Jr., 20, East Jordan, reckless driving, attempted fleeing and eluding a police officer, and driving with license suspended or revoked. Thirty days in jail, probation for three months, license suspended for one year, fines and costs totaling $250.

Kara Aline McDonald, 22, Big Rapids, impaired driving. Three days in jail with credit for one day served, two days held in abeyance, two days community service work. Six months probation, license suspended for 90 days with restrictions, fines and costs totaling $350.

William Carl Burgher, 23, Boyne City, possession of controlled substances, marijuana. Ninety days in jail, probation for six months.

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection recently issued building permits to:

Lynn Long, to install double-wide residence at Barnard Rd., Norwood Township.

area. In the old store, he had one small loading dock. In the new store he has two loading docks, one at a height suitable for large delivery trucks and one at a height suitable for pick-up trucks.

The loading and unloading facilities are just superb," he commented.

Trojanek is pleased with the M-66 location. "We felt this location is very good. This end of town has become somewhat of a destination."

The move from one store to another was a challenge, but went well. Trojanek credited his five employees for helping with the smooth transition.

"I have an excellent crew," he said. "I couldn't have done this without them."

Santa scheduled for lunch

The 12th annual Santa Lunch will take place at the K-5 school gym from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7.

The event is sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority with help from several area businesses.

The event consists of a lunch and then a brief visit and photo with Santa. The cost of the event is $2 per person, but the sorority gives away several tickets each year so that the cost doesn't keep any child from seeing Santa.

"Our goal is to make sure that every kid gets to spend some time with Santa," a member of the sorority explained.

Pizza Hut is donating pizza for the lunch while MacDonalds and Burger King are donating beverages. Several other businesses are also contributing various items to make the lunch a success.

Tickets for the Santa Lunch are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office and will also be on sale at the door.

SCRAPBOOK

The onset of winter weather has closed down the Ironton Ferry for the season. This photo was taken during warmer times at an earlier time. There were cars in the photo, but the aren't anything you're likely to have seen on the road in recent years.

Lakes got plenty of rain during October

With the exception of the Lake Ontario Basin, the overall great Lakes area received well above average precipitation during October. The most extreme condition took place on the Lakes Michigan-Huron Basin, which recorded more than twice its average monthly precipitation. The Great lakes 30-day outlook published by the National Weather Service projects moderate to heavy precipitation for the month of November.

The forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron, and Ontario are expected to remain below their long-term average levels during the next six months. Lakes St. Clair and Erie are anticipated to continue above their long-term average levels throughout the forecast period.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of October were at elevation 578.11 feet (176.21 meters) above the mean water level at Father-Point.

Quebec, or 16 inches (41 cm.) above Chart Datum. This was about 3 inches (8 cm.) above what it was a year ago, and about 1 inch (3 cm.) above one month ago. The October monthly mean level of 578.04 feet (176.19 meters) was about 5 inches (13 cm.) below the long-term average for October. The lakes, however, remained about 27 inches (69 cm.) above their all-time low October monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1964. The forecast shows that at the end of November, the level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (5 cm.) below what it was at the end of October. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into February. The water level in April 1992, is expected to be about the same as the long-term average for that month, and about 2 inches (5 cm.) below what it was in 1991.

Hospice training scheduled

The Charlevoix County Hospice will host an inservice Tuesday, Dec. 2 in the Education Room of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. They will be showing the video "Medical Durable Power of Attorney" by Rep. David Hollister. The public is invited to attend. The inservice will begin at 7 p.m.

State to bill school $94,397

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's school system has a $94,397 bill from the state due, but for the moment the check is not in the mail.

The bill is the result of the state's Tax Base Sharing (TBS) plan which was passed by Lansing legislators and signed by Gov. John Engler earlier this year. This area's state legislators, Rep. Ralph Osling, R-Roscommon and Sen. George McManus, R-Traverse City both opposed the TBS legislation.

TBS gave the state the authority to take local property tax dollars from "out of formula" school districts and give the money to "in formula" school districts. The state can take up to half of the tax revenue a school district such as Charlevoix would receive due to an increase in commercial and industrial property values from one year to the next.

The terms "out of formula" and "in formula" refer to the state school aid formula. Each year, Lansing legislators set a formula figure, which is dollar figure indicating the amount of tax base (property value) per pupil that school districts should have. Schools which have a higher tax base per pupil than the formula figure are deemed "out of formula." Schools which have a lower tax base per pupil than the formula figure are deemed "in formula." Charlevoix, like many northern Michigan school districts, is out of formula.

When the TBS legislation passed in October, McManus referred to it as "an act of piracy" and questioned whether it is constitutional or would hold up in court if legally challenged.

Now the TBS is being challenged. A school district in Macomb County received an injunction and the Traverse City School District is currently withholding payment.

Charlevoix school business manager Rich Kelly said Charlevoix's

Post office to stay right where it is

By L. Scott Swanson

A proposal to move the Charlevoix post office into the First State Bank building is currently dead in the water.

The bank is nearing completion of its new office building on the southwestern corner of State and Clinton Streets and will probably be moving out of its old building on the other side of Clinton Street in late March.

Bank president Lou Hollow said that in recent years he has had discussions with postal authorities and postal officials have even come and looked over the building, but at this time it doesn't look like a move will take place.

Hollow said he recently received a letter from the regional postal director indicating that in 1986 the Postal Service was considering a site change, but that a budget crunch shelved that effort not only in Charlevoix, but in several communities. The letter said the postal service had been approached by several people offering property for an office, but at this time the postal service isn't looking to acquire property.

Dennis Baca, Field Director of Offices at the Postal Service's Division headquarters in Grand Rapids, said last week that he currently knows of no Postal Service proposal to move the Charlevoix post office. "And I would be on the funds investment committee that would review the project," he explained.

Baca said the Postal Service's current priority is getting more automated equipment into processing centers such as the centers in Gaylord, Traverse City, Kalamazoo and Lansing. At this time, moving post offices into new $94,397 payment was originally due Nov. 15, but that date was set back because the state didn't have the worksheets (to help school districts figure out how much they are supposed to pay) ready.

...$94,397 state bill

Kelly said Charlevoix administrators are following TBS developments throughout the state. He said that school superintendent Roberta Jackson was scheduled to meet with other school administrators this week to discuss options for dealing with the TBS bill.

If the Charlevoix school system fights the TBS legislation or how the Charlevoix school system fights hasn't been decided. But as of Monday afternoon, Kelly said, "I'm not going to send out the check today."

Council "retreats" to discuss plans

By Laurie Lounsbury

A backwoods meeting of the city council in a private cabin on Nowland Lake turned out to be pretty much what it was billed to be - a relaxed retreat.

Mayor Dave Novotny, council members Cheri Hoffman, Bill Haggard, Pat Gaskin, city manager Mike Wiesner and clerk Arlene Staley attended the meeting while councilmembers Butch Russell, Ted Felner and Jackie Cross were absent.

Early in the meeting city taxes were discussed. Novotny said, "Given the economic climate right now, I pay let's give it (tax revenue) back to the taxpayers."

Wiesner opposed decreasing taxes saying that a previous needs study recommended the city get caught up and stay caught up with infrastructure projects. Wiesner said that cutting taxes now would be short term thinking and that city zens would probably prefer long-term thinking.

Hoffman also questioned the wisdom of cutting taxes if they would just have to be raised again in a year or so.

"Nobody notices when you cut a mill, the press-only reports when the city raises mills," Hoffman said. Council members also discussed possible city involvement with the Pool Steering Committee, a group which is trying to get an indoor public swimming pool constructed in Charlevoix.

Gaskin said she would like to see the city get legal advice and take steps toward the formation of a swimming pool authority. Novotny remarked that some type of a pool authority would be necessary in order for grant applications to be made.

Councilmembers discussed a recent pool survey and expressed buildings takes a back seat to the automation efforts which Baca said will continue through 1995.

Baca explained that moving a post office into a new building isn't a simple thing. The proposal has to be reviewed by an investment committee and the post office has to advertise for property so that anyone with property which may be suitable has an opportunity to offer it.

"It's very complicated. I wish it wasn't," Baca said.

The October/November issue of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce newsletter expressed concern about where a new post office might be located. The newsletter story said, "Recently, discussion around town has arisen again regarding the post office because there's a perfect downtown location that will soon be available - namely, the current First State Bank. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors believes that the best location for a new post office is in the central business district."

Baca said that although the Postal Service has no immediate plans to move the Charlevoix post office, just as a general concept, "We're very committed to keeping things in downtown areas because we're a drawing card."

The First State Bank building which will be vacated has about 7,000 square feet of floor space. Given the current dim possibility of the post office filling that vacancy, Hollow said, "We're proceeding to find other tenants."

OPINIONS

Editorial

No need for council to retreat

The city of Charlevoix's public business should be conducted in a public place within the city of Charlevoix, not in a private cabin three or four miles outside of town.

Tuesday, Dec. 3 the city council, city manager and other city officials gathered in a cabin near Nowland Lake for a day-long meeting which they referred to as a "retreat." Their intentions may have been innocent enough, but still such "retreats" are a bad practice.

The meeting was posted and it was open to the public because the Michigan Open Meetings Act requires that it be posted and open to the public. Despite those requirements, it is likely that councilmembers and city officials didn't anticipate anybody from the public actually showing up. It was an inconvenience, but both the Courier and the News-Review sent reporters to the meeting.

Laws such as the Open Meetings Act, which require meetings of public bodies to be open to public scrutiny weren't pulled from thin air. They are based on a fundamental democratic principle: That principle is that when a governing body meets to talk about things which are going to affect your life and to talk about how they are going to spend your money, then you as a member of the public have a right to know what they're talking about. That's pretty simple and straight forward.

Arguments in support of governing bodies hiding away occasionally to discuss public business maintain that private meetings give officials an opportunity to brainstorm informally and make proposals which they might be reluctant to make with people watching. But if you analyze that argument, it's not too compelling. It's an argument which on the bottom line has to imply either one or both of two things: that public officials are out of touch with their constituency or that members of the public simply aren't bright enough to understand what's good for them. Both implications fly in the face of a belief in representative government.

Representative government isn't really a complicated political philosophy. It's simply a belief that the public should be able to choose people from among themselves to represent their interests. It is a belief that governing bodies and the public shouldn't be a them and us situation. They should be us. But when they get so they don't want us to know what they're doing, then they are no longer us.

Granted, representative government may not be perfect. It has its inefficiencies. Sometimes the squeaky wheel gets the grease and the silent majority gets ignored. Sometimes people who attend public meetings make a nuisance of themselves while failing to keep an open mind. Sometimes...

But those things can be fixed within the context of representative government and open meetings. In fact the present mayor and city council have performed well in attempting to overcome those problems. Several councilmembers have gone out of their way to get broad-based input from their constituents on controversial issues. Mayor Dave Novotny has done an exceptional job of keeping meetings organized and discussions to the point.

It's not healthy for a governmental body to retreat from the public which it governs. In other parts of the world, people have been standing in front of tanks to insure that they had a voice in their own destiny. Granted, it's not as if having the Charlevoix City Council meet in a cabin in the woods is going to be the first domino that leads to the fall of the free world. But still, it's a step in the wrong direction for representative government within our little community. And it's best to challenge these things before they get too far along.

Letters to the editor

MDOT: City had chance to purchase property

Editor,

Over the last few weeks, I have received a number of preprinted postcards from the residents in Charlevoix and the surrounding area regarding an auction sale of former railroad property located near Lake Charlevoix. The postcards specifically requested that the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reject the auction bid of $270,000.00 received on October 17, 1991, and offer the property to the City of Charlevoix for $270,000.00.

The purpose of this letter is to clarify MDOT's procedures and provide an outline of efforts that have been undertaken to protect the cities' and communities' interests in this property. During the early discussions regarding the removal of the railroad tracks between Charlevoix and Petoskey, MDOT and local citizens indicated their interest in utilizing the limited property that MDOT owned in the railroad corridor for a recreation trail. In keeping with these interests, MDOT has been working very closely with the Charlevoix-Emmet Trail Committee to develop a plan for a recreational corridor between the two cities.

In July 1989, MDOT became aware that the City of Charlevoix was interested in acquiring a utility easement over the length of the property. The construction date was unknown at that time. In February 1991, MDOT received a letter from the City of Charlevoix requesting that MDOT offer the entire parcel to the City. The City was advised that we would contact them as soon as an appraisal was completed.

In June 1991, the appraisal was completed and the City was advised that the market value was $270,000.00. On June 18, 1991, the Charlevoix City Council voted 3 to 1 to reject a resolution to approve the intent to acquire the railroad right-of-way. During the summer, the City continued to have discussions with MDOT concerning a utility easement and MDOT agreed to provide the easement. In accordance with MDOT's regular procedure, on September 17, 1991, a sale notice was mailed to all known abutting property owners and interested parties including the City. The sale was advertised in three newspapers located in Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Traverse City during the first week in October. On October 7, 1991, the City Council voted 4 to 3 to purchase the property for $270,000.00 if private money was provided to the City and easements for access to the property were obtained from the abutting property owners. On October 11, 1991, a letter was received from the City renewing its desire to purchase the property.

The public auction was held on October 17, 1991, and the terms of the sale did include provisions for an easement for both the recreational trail and city sewer. Clearly, the City of Charlevoix had an opportunity to purchase the property before it was offered at auction; but the City declined. Likewise, the City has the opportunity to bid on the property at the auction but failed to submit a bid.

MDOT, as a public agency, must insure that all of its practices, including the disposal of excess property, are fair and can withstand legal challenge. For MDOT to auction the property, then withhold it from the successful bidder who had complied with MDOT requirements, and in turn sell the property to the City would be unfair. The integrity of the entire bidding process might be questioned if MDOT did not execute the sale of the property to the private bidder under these circumstances.

Sincerely,
Patrick M. Nowak
MDOT Director

A collection of awards, praises and accomplishments involving Charlevoix people.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department dispatchers Babetta Meggison and Siiri Avery attended a recent seminar on law enforcement dispatch.

The two-day seminar provided specialized crisis communications training for dispatchers and emphasized proper call handling and caller and responder safety.

Through proper call handling, dispatchers are able to improve communications with the caller, therefore saving time in emergency situations.

Harold J. Kruttsch of Charlevoix has once again been elected to the board of directors of the Keep Michigan Beautiful (KMB) organization. KMB is a nonprofit organization organized in 1962. During the past 30 years it has been involved with numerous projects to beautify the Great Lakes state.

Big Rock control room simulator goes on line

A unique control room training simulator was dedicated recently in ceremonies at the Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

The simulator, the only one of its kind in the industry, was engineered, designed and constructed by Big Rock personnel, with assistance from Real Time Technology, a consulting firm. A simulator is used to duplicate standard and emergency nuclear plant operations, to aid in the training of control room operators.

The "brains" of the simulator is a personal computer-based system, utilizing a sophisticated computer chip. The computer chip, an Intel 1860, is able to process information faster than 99 percent of the mainframe computers available today. Real Time Technology and Big Rock Point employees developed the software programs for the operation of the simulator.

Utilizing in-house resources and knowledge, Consumers Power built the simulator for an approximate cost of $2 million, far below the estimated open market purchase price of $15-20 million. In addition to the purchase price savings, the new simulator will allow Consumers Power and its customers to save approximately $2.5 million over the remaining lifetime of the plant by avoiding the cost of sending operators to a simulator in Illinois for training, as has been done in the past.

"The individuals involved in this project have created a unique simulator that has not been duplicated elsewhere in the industry," said Consumers Power Company President and Chief Operating Officer Frederick W. Buckman. "The information of the people involved in this accomplishment has not only saved millions of dollars, but the technology and knowledge gained from this project will continue to benefit our nuclear operations and customers in the future," said Buckman.

Nuclear plant control room operators receive a minimum of two years of on-site training before being examined for licensing by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC). Once licensed, operators receive continuing requalification training and are tested yearly to retain their licenses.

The NRC has approved the development of the simulator and is currently reviewing Consumers Power's application for its certification. The first NRC-administered examination for operators on the new simulator is scheduled for April, 1992.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was designated as a Nuclear Historic Site in May, 1991 by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 50,000 people.

Middle and high school bands schedule Christmas concerts

On Dec. 12, the Seventh and Eighth grade Charlevoix band members will once again join the Charlevoix High School Band for their annual holiday band concert. The nearly 200-member group will be offering up as a Christmas gift to the community a wide variety of holiday music.

The concert will take place in the high school gymnasium and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Following the concert the band boosters will once again be serving up their traditional punch and cookie afterglow.

On Dec. 17, the Charlevoix 6th grade band members will host their annual Christmas Band Concert. Band director Evelyn Wojcik would like to extend an invitation to the friends and families of these sixth grade band students as it is a wonderful opportunity to hear how far these musicians have progressed this year.

The concert begins at 7 p.m. in the Middle School Gymnasium.

LAST FRIDAY'S BIG WIND STORM CHURNED UP THE BIG LAKE INTO MILES OF FOAMING FROTH. WHITE CAPS SPILT INTO HUGE FOUNTAINS OF SPRAY. GULLS BATTLED TO KEEP THEIR BALANCE OR HUDDLED IN SHELTERED SPOTS ALONG THE SHORE. SMALL SONG BIRDS, LIKE THE TINY GOULD FINCHES WITH THEIR RUFFLED FEATHERS, LOOK LIKE LITTLE BALLS OF FLUFF AS THEY BLEW IN FOR DINNER.

Jan Glass has just published a new wild flower print. This print depicts Michigan's pickable wildflowers and is a companion to the prior print of Michigan's protected wildflowers. It is available at local galleries or from the artist.

Sheriff helps initiate watch programs

Charlevoix County Sheriff, George Lasater, would like to invite any county resident interested in forming a local association of NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH for their own neighborhood to contact his office.

Sheriff Lasater notes that any grouping of homeowners, no matter how few, can form a neighborhood watch association.

Neighborhood Watch promotes safer residential areas within the county and provides a conduit between the Sheriff's Department and the public. As always, residents are encouraged to report any suspicious activity they might observe, and this program helps to instruct on how to give accurate information to law enforcement agencies.

Anyone interested in forming a group may contact the Sheriff's Department at 547-4461.

Methodist Church considers building options

Community's oldest church building has structural problems

By L. Scott Swanson

Members of the United Methodist Church are debating whether they should remodel or demolish and rebuild the old church building at the corner of State and Clinton Streets. Factors church members are weighing in the decision include the utility of a remodeled versus a new building, cost and the historical value of the old building.

Rev. Benton Heisler said church members have been discussing building plans on and off for the past 10 years. Currently, a building committee is meeting on a regular basis.

Heisler said he feels "the biggest issue is what is the intent of our ministry in this community and how will building A or building B best serve that ministry."

The church has structural problems with the ceiling and there is also a lack of space for Sunday school classes. The sanctuary seats about 120 people comfortably, but members would like to increase that capacity. In addition to structural and space concerns, the sanctuary is also not accessible to the handicapped.

Built in 1878, the United Methodist Church is oldest church building in Charlevoix. In the 1960s the inside of the sanctuary was completely refurbished. In the early 1970s an entryway was added to the front of the building, the top of the bell tower was removed and aluminum siding was added to the outside of the building.

The age of the church makes the structure of historical significance while at the same time raising questions about just how solid a building that old can be made even if it is remodeled.

Regardless of whether the choice is to remodel or rebuild, the church will remain at its present location. And regardless of which route the church chooses to go, the project will be expensive, with costs likely to exceed $500,000.

The church does own a vacant lot to the south of the church. That will allow them the necessary space for whichever option they choose. Heisler noted that even if a remodeled or new church were to extend into that lot, some green area would be retained.

Heisler said church members are tossing around a number of ideas while hoping the Lord ultimately leads them to the right choice.

Members of the United Methodist Church are debating whether they should remodel the 113 year old church or tear it down and build a new one. The church is Charlevoix's oldest church building, but it has limited space and structural problems.

Toys collected for area children

Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors want all children to experience holiday joy, so in cooperation with the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors offices will be participating as Toys for Tots sponsors.

Locally, the Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors offices at 1301 South 131 Highway, Petoskey and 228 Bridge Street, Charlevoix will serve as official collection centers for new unwrapped toys to be delivered to children in the immediate and surrounding communities.

"We want every child to experience happiness during the holidays," said Barb Harbaugh, Toys for Tots spokesperson for Coldwell Banker Schmidt Realtors, Petoskey office. "Unfortunately, these are tough times for a lot of families, but with the help of the community, we can make this a very successful Toys for Tots campaign, and help a lot of children have a happy holiday."

The Salvation Army has been designated as the local distributor for toys collected through Toys for Tots.

Residents who would like to contribute to Toys for Tots, but are unable to visit any of the listed collection centers, can contact either Coldwell Banker offices at 347-1405, Petoskey or 347-4444 Charlevoix and a sales associate will be happy to pick up the donations.

Charlevoix's lighthouse will be among several lighthouses featured in a 1992 Michigan Historical Society calendar.

Charlevoix lighthouse featured in calendar

Lighthouses are part of the Great Lakes' maritime history, legend and lore. They excite curiosity and imagination by their lonely perch at land's end. In the Great Lakes, with eleven percent of the fresh water in the world, lighthouses continue their important role as beacons for ships and sailors. And those structures retired from this service have enjoyed renewed life as museums, restaurants and hotels, even though some languish and deteriorate.

The Historical Society of Michigan recently announced its ninth annual lighthouse calendar. Featuring the pen and ink drawings by artist Leo Kuschel of Taylor, Michigan, "Great Lakes Lights" draws attention to the colorful maritime history of the Great Lakes and those sentinels that have marked the Lakes' routes for sailors since the early 18th century.

According to Thomas D. Jones, the executive director of the Historical Society of Michigan, this calendar series has drawn attention to lighthouse history and prompted concerned citizens to support their preservation. The Society is Michigan's state-wide, membership-supported organization for the promotion and publication of Michigan's history. The Society is particularly pleased to feature the work of Leo Kuschel whose own family heritage includes ancestors who sailed the Lakes.

The "Great Lakes Lights" 1992 calendar includes lights on all the Great Lakes and in the states of Wisconsin, Ohio and New York, the province of Ontario and the state of Michigan. From Devils Island in the western reaches of Lake Superior to Tibbetts Point in eastern Lake Ontario, the 1992 "Great Lakes Lights" calendar covers the full breadth of the waters that have been the key element in the region's history and development.

The calendar's twelve lighthouses are: Fort Gratiot Light (Lake Huron), Long Tail Point Lighthouse (Lake Michigan), Southeast Shoal Light (Lake Erie), Chantry Island Lighthouse (Lake Huron), Grand Marais Inner Light (Lake Superior), Charlevoix South Pierhead Light (Lake Michigan), Thirty Mile Point Light (Lake Ontario), Tibbetts Point Lighthouse (Lake Ontario), Devils Island Lighthouse (Lake Superior), South Bass Island Lighthouse (Lake Erie), North Manitowish Island Light (Lake Michigan), and Marquette Reef Light (Lake Huron).

The calendar is available directly from the Historical Society of Michigan, 2117 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, MI 48104, at $9.48 (includes postage and handling, plus Michigan state sales tax). Non-Michigan orders are $9.20, and Canadian orders are $10.00.

More radios mandated

In an effort to reduce marine accidents and subsequent oil pollution, the coast Guard wants all vessels plying U.S. waters to be equipped with radios that can communicate with and receive safety warnings from Coast Guard shore stations and other vessels.

The proposed requirement, mandated by the Oil Pollution Act of 1990, calls for all vessels in U.S. waters to have radios that can operate on VHF-FM Channel 22A. Vessels operating in the lower Mississippi River must also be equipped with VHF-FM Channel 67.

Most vessels have these radios, which sell for about $200, but about half of the 6,000 foreign vessels visiting U.S. waters each year do not.

A notice published in the Nov. 18 "Federal Register" explains the details of the proposed rule, and provides a 60-day period for public comment. Copies of the rule may be obtained by calling (202) 267-6740 or by faxing a written request to (202) 267-4624.

Comments on the proposal should be mailed before Jan. 17, 1992, to Executive Secretary, Marine Safety Council, G-ERA-2, U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, 2100 Second St. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20593-000. For further information write to Commandant G-MS-1, U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, at the same address, or call Lt. Cmdr. Paul Jewell, Oil Pollution Act Staff, at (202) 267-6746.

DECEMBER 1991

Charlevoix's 1991 Christmas

celebration begins with a flourish

Julie Tucker braved cold weather to serve hot chocolate during the community Christmas tree lighting this past Friday.

Somehow the holiday lighting downtown just didn't look quite right without snow. Monday, nature corrected the oversight and sent plenty of white background coloring.

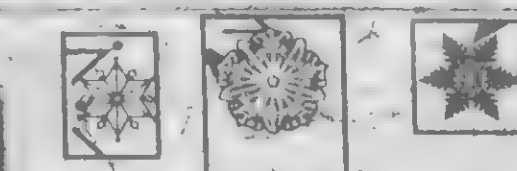

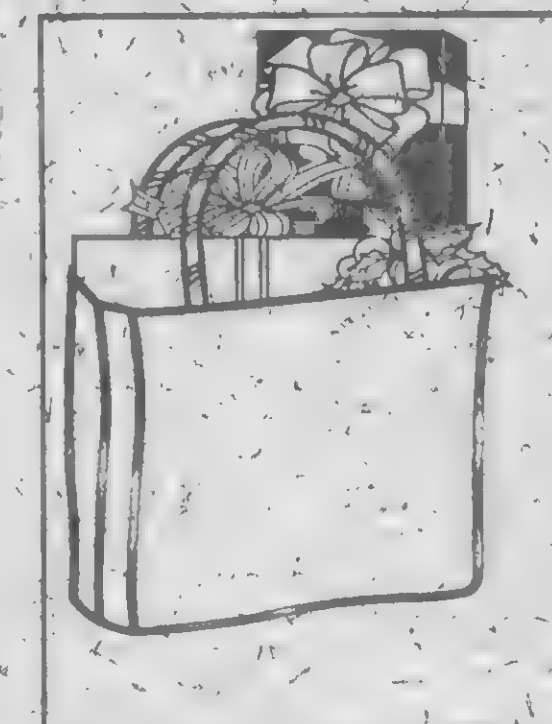

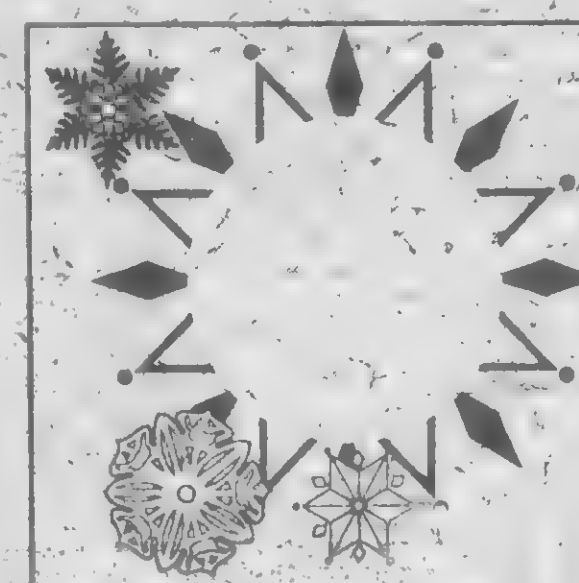

Town hosts Christmas open house Saturday

Charlevoix firemen will bring Santa Claus to East Park at 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon to pass out boxes of candy to local children.

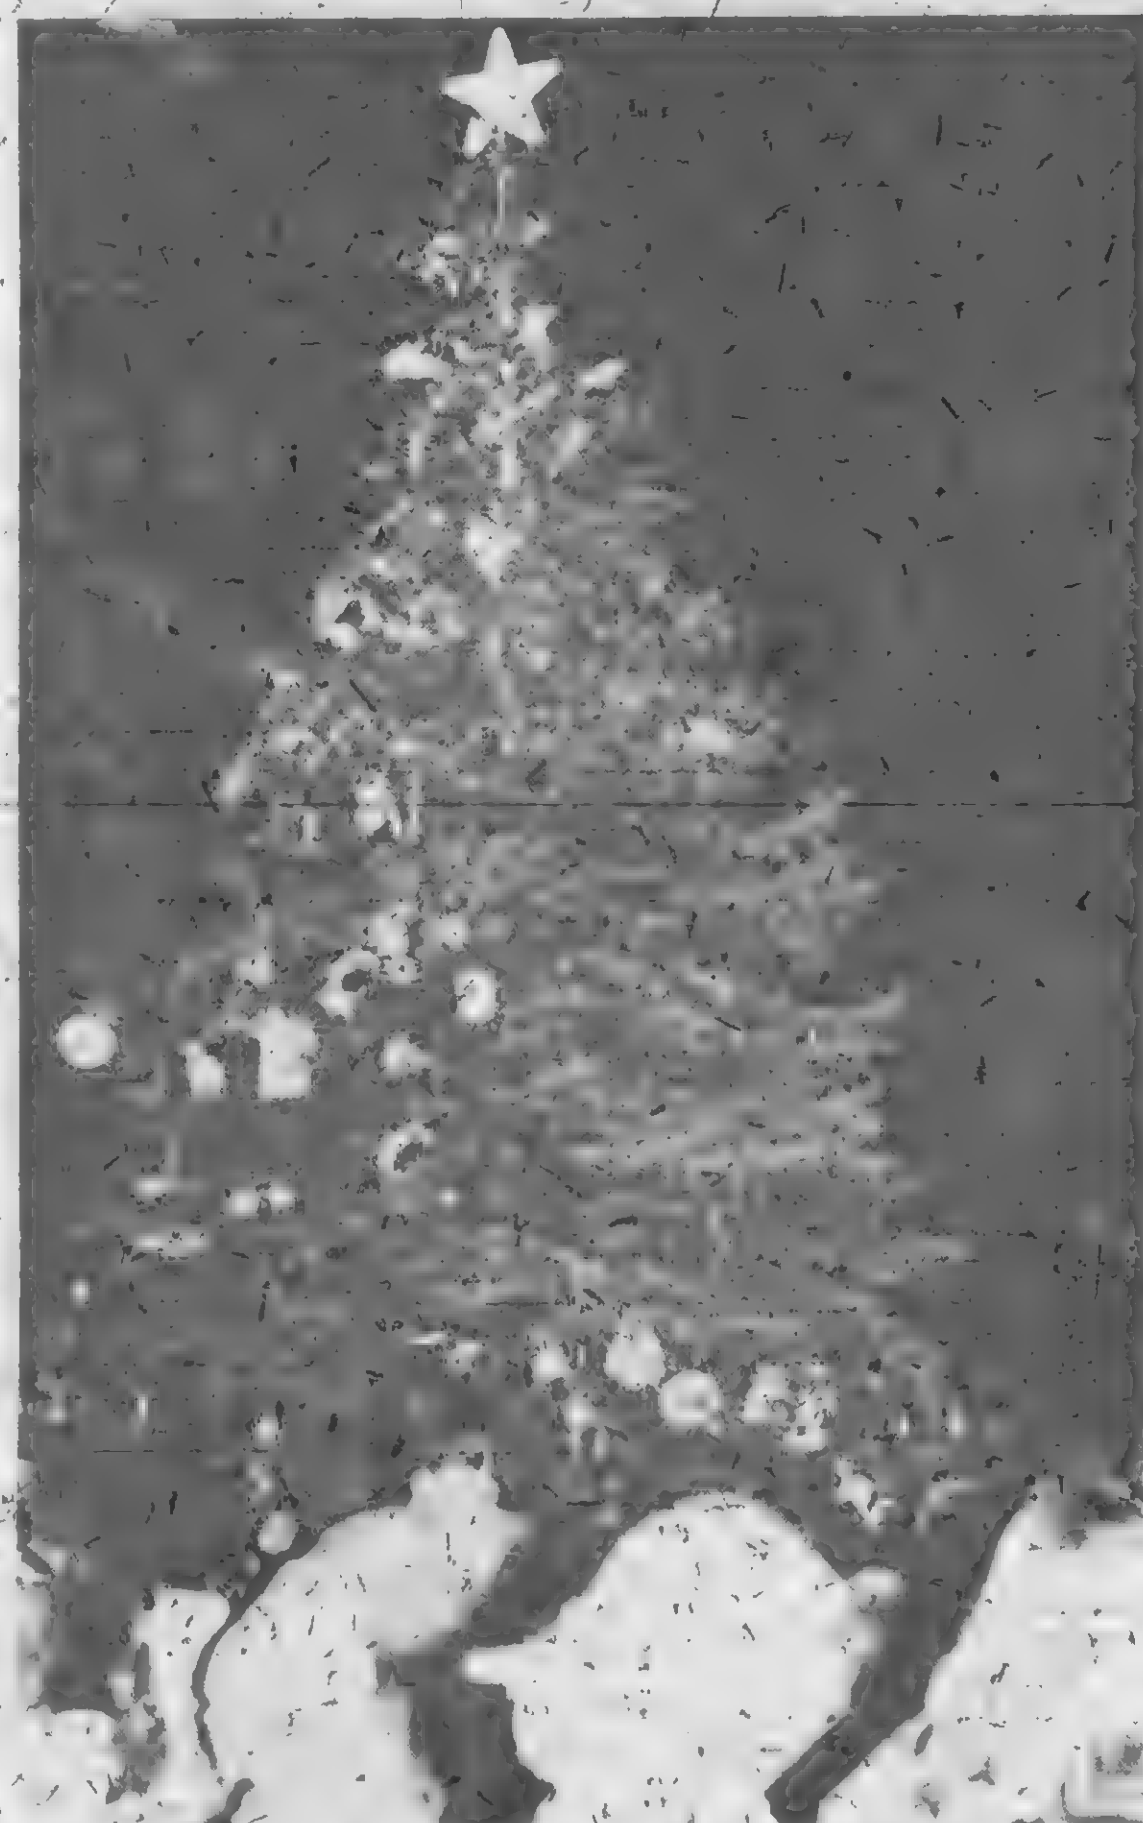

Following Santa's appearance, local merchants will be hosting a community wide open house from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Charlevoix County State Bank is sponsoring a free holiday movie at 7 p.m. at the Cinema Three Theatre.

During open house hours there will be carolers singing downtown and also a live nativity. There will also be refreshments offered at various locations throughout town.

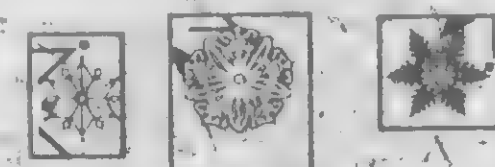

Christmas appeared to be in jeopardy earlier this week when during a pre Christmas test flight Santa and his reindeer crashed into the roof of this home on the north side. Fortunately paramedics and carpenters were able to remedy the injuries and Santa will be in town this Saturday and back again for Christmas.

After several hours of city electric department and community children's work, the city's 1991 community Christmas tree was decorated and ready to be lit.

Brandon Chapais watched with interest as the older children climbed into the city bucket truck and went up to decorate the community Christmas tree.

High school explains college financial aid

The Student Services Office of Charlevoix High School presents its annual program on financial aid for college on Monday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in the high school study hall.

This program will cover the concepts and expectations on which financial aid is based as well as the various types of financial aid available to students starting college.

The process for applying, including forms used, will also be discussed. The program will be presented by Toni Felter and Charlie Bentley, counselors at Charlevoix High School, and is open to college bound juniors and seniors and their parents.

A substantial amount of time will be allowed for questions and answers.

Concert to feature old English songs

Patty Clark, storyteller/singer, presents Old English stories and songs Sunday, December 8, at 3 p.m. at the East Jordan High School Auditorium. The program will include original songs from the area of the British Isles. Clark will accompany herself on a variety of instruments including the 12-string guitar, autoharp, mountain dulcimer, and tin whistle. Stories are folk tales from the 13th-14th century period and include the story "Tattercoats," and Old English version of the French Tale, "Cinderella."

"Godwin the Goose will make a special appearance. Also performing will be Crazy Richard, the Mad Juggler, who will delight the audience with his gravity defying feats. Together the duo will create moments in time filled with the charm and magic of a world ruled by kings, dragons, and the sea. Admission is $4 per child, $2 adults, and $3 for families. Proceeds go towards E.J.H.S. Art Club trip to Chicago Art Institute. For more information call Pat Tinney, 536-2259.

Bay Shore Steel works with heavy metal

By Ralph McRae

What's in a name? Well, for the Bay Shore Steel Company the name tells where it is and what it does.

Bay Shore Steel's 17,500 square-foot plant is alongside U.S. 31 just to the Charlevoix side of Bay Shore. Although the plant has a Petoskey phone number, the company considers itself to be a Charlevoix area manufacturer.

Theodore F. Wojan, owner, the plant. His son Rob serves as Vice President. Theodore Wojan founded the plant in 1965. The plant fabricates and distributes structural steel, providing beams, bars, channels and angled steel for various uses.

Ten percent of the plant's production is special order equipment used to move bulk material into and out of cargo boats, rail cars and trucks. The loading equipment produced by Bay Shore Steel includes both spouts and air flow conveyors. The company is looking to expand and diversify this aspect of their business. Recently they have made shipments to China and Mexico and they have sales representatives locating their products throughout the United States.

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, December 4, 1991 - PAGE 15

... working with steel in Bay Shore

Something which is surprising to many people is that Bay Shore Steel plays a role in the defense industry. Bay Shore Steel makes important components for tanks and other military armoured vehicles.

Bay Shore Steel makes tank parts which are sent to other plants to be assembled. Last week, Bay Shore Steel employees worked overtime to produce in three days what normally takes five days to produce. The parts produced were then shipped to a waiting tank plant in Lima, Ohio.

Working on their own, Bay Shore Steel officers found that it took a lot of paper shuffling and months of negotiations to secure the company's first defense contract. Now the plant does its defense work through General Dynamics, a large defense contractor with millions of dollars worth of defense contracts.

The steel used by Bay Shore

Steel is a special armour plated steel manufactured according to rigid specifications by the defense department. The steel, made to resist military hits, requires special machinery to cut, grind and deburr. All of the machines are computer-controlled.

High above the work areas, a large crane moves across the length of the 200-foot plant, raising and lowering tons of work at the various stations. Assorted machines compress parts and grind angles.

In addition to the crane, fork lifts move around the plant to keep material supplied to the machinery operators.

Every phase of the manufacturing process is closely monitored by production superintendent Fred Brooks and quality control manager Scott Malone.

As an example of one of the specialized processes, Fred Watros demonstrated how Bay Shore Steel moves a 5/8 inch thick armour plate that is eight feet wide and 16 feet long. A chain hoist lifts and lowers the plate onto steel rods above a pool of water. A computer then directs the process raising the water level above the plate which is then cut.

The same equipment can be used to slice any kind of metal up to two and a half inches thick. Replacing such equipment would cost the plant millions of dollars.

Bay Shore Steel has 30 non-union employees, many of them machinists and technically trained workers. They receive medical benefits as well as paid holiday and vacation days. The plant's annual payroll exceeds $500,000.

The Desert Storm engagements pointed out some improvements which could be made in U.S. tanks. Tanks manufactured in the U.S. are also sold to other countries. Saudi Arabia recently ordered 450 tanks. Bay Shore Steel parts will be in those tanks.

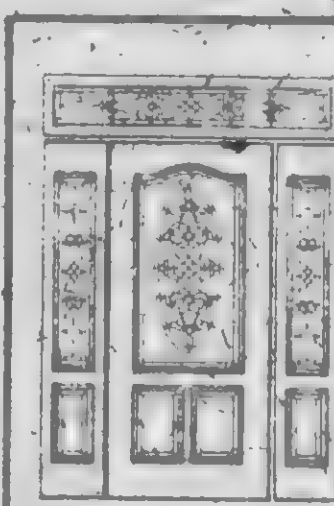

U.S. 131 Committee elects new officers

The slate of officers proposed by the Nominating Committee to lead the U.S. 131 Area Development Association through 1992 was approved by the members present at the Annual Meeting of the Association last month. Charles W. Lockwood of Williamsburg will continue in his position as president of the association for a second year. Also re-elected were: John H. Voss of Grand Rapids as 1st vice-president, Blaine E. Timmer of Cadillac as 2nd vice-president, Doris Wood of Manton as secretary, and Esther L. Brower of Big Rapids as treasurer. Dean S. Carper of Petoskey was elected to the 3rd vice-president position. At the November monthly board of directors meeting of the association, Lockwood notified the directors that Richard A. Goldfogle of Big Rapids would continue to serve as chairman of the board, and James Flanagan of Manton would continue as executive vice-president of the association. Peter A. Jordan of Big Rapids will also continue to guide association matters in his position of immediate past president.

Carbon monoxide presents a danger

Michigan residents die each year from accidental carbon monoxide gas poisoning. Carbon Monoxide poisoning, the silent, creeping killer causes more deaths than any other type of poisoning. Carbon monoxide is treacherous because it is odorless, tasteless and colorless. It is doubly treacherous because in concentration it acts so quickly that a victim often has no warning of the gases danger. Carbon monoxide (CO) is dangerous because it sickens and kills by cutting off the oxygen supply to body tissue. Oxygen is carried throughout the body by red cells. When CO is present it can combine with the red blood cells 200 times easier than oxygen. If enough oxygen is driven out of the cells, death will occur.

About 3/4 of Michigan carbon monoxide deaths were caused by improper use of motor vehicles. Whenever you drive or park a car with the engine running, CO goes with you. The following list of precautions can help prevent carbon monoxide poisoning:

1. Check exhaust systems regularly, especially in areas where salt and chemicals are used on ice and snow.
2. Only work on a running engine in a properly vented area.
3. Shut engine off when sitting in a parked car.
4. Never drive with all windows closed completely. A side window should be left slightly open.
5. If you become sleepy while driving or while parking, the cause could be carbon monoxide (CO). Stop at once; get out and get fresh air. With the window open, drive to the nearest service station and have the exhaust system checked.
6. If a vehicle is parked, or stuck in the snow, the tail pipe should be cleared of snow.

There are many sources of CO beside automobiles. A prime example is the portable space heater. Others include gas-fired appliances, gasoline powered lawn mowers and snowblowers, charcoal grills, wood stoves, fireplaces, gas (natural or bottled) heaters, kerosene or gas powered camp lanterns, stoves and similar equipment.

Gas fired appliances - furnaces, refrigerators, ranges, and water heaters represent a very significant potential hazard, if proper and regular maintenance is neglected. These appliances should be checked at least annually and more frequently if they are used intermittently, as in a cottage, hunting cabin, or in a recreational vehicle. The Carbon appliances should be vented, burners cleaned and adjusted, and vent pipes checked for leaks or blockages. Also be sure to follow the manufacturers and underwriter laboratories instructions for use, service and repair.

Symptoms of CO poisoning are:

1. Fogginess across forehead.
2. Throbbing headache.
3. Irritability.
4. Dizziness.
5. Weariness.
7. Impaired vision.
8. Loss of muscular control.
9. Nausea/vomiting.
10. Increased pulse and respiration.
11. Heart palpitations.
12. Unconsciousness.

Knowing what to do can save a life. If you suspect CO poisoning:

1. Remove victim to fresh air. Begin artificial respiration.
2. Call for ambulance or rescue unit. Continue artificial respiration.
3. Keep victim warm. Continue artificial respiration until professional help is available.

Substation work begins

Work has started on a new city electrical substation at the corner of M-66 and Stover Road. The substation is the center piece in a multi million dollar city electrical system renovation.

Phone discounts available

The Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) is urging qualifying low-income residents to apply to their local telephone company for a Lifeline telephone discount of nearly $50 a year according to MPSC Chairman Steve Fetter. Lifeline reduces eligible low-income customers' monthly telephone bills by $4 and cuts the cost to install a telephone by 50 percent, up to a $30 reduction.

All local telephone companies in Michigan offer the discount. To be eligible for the program, a person's household income must not exceed 130 percent of the federal poverty level. Currently, for Lifeline eligibility, one's household income must be less than the following:

ments, apply for jobs, and report emergencies." Fetter noted.

Eligible residents should contact their local telephone company office for more information on the Lifeline program, or call 1-800-621-8650.

SCRAPBOOK

Charlevoix's current bridge is undergoing repairs. This photo brought in by Bill Bergmann, shows the old trestle bridge which was one of the forerunners of the present bridge. The first bridge to cross the channel in the 1800s was nothing more than a plank which people walked across and which was lifted in the middle to allow small boats to pass through. Some of the later bridges had to be cranked open by hand.

Keeping children rationale during the holidays

Don't start the build-up too early

(The following story was provided by Linda Adams, Extension Home Economist for the Cooperative Extension Service.)

To help make the holidays go more smoothly for you and your children, keep these things in mind: Small children do not have a fully developed sense of time. Beginning holiday preparations the first of December with 24 days to wait can wear on both parents and children. Keep things at low key as possible until perhaps 10 days before the holiday. The atmosphere at home should remain calm to counter all the commercial activities - Santa, bells, and decorations - and all the preparations and parties at the child's school.

Think through your beliefs about holidays and begin building traditions around these beliefs with your child participating. Whether your family emphasized the religious aspects or the giving aspects of the holiday, activities can be designed to make the holiday a thoughtful and meaningful one.

For families that emphasize giving, Christmas or Hanukkah can be a time for family members to show caring and to express love through making and purchasing special gifts.

Children can be taught thoughtful giving by discussing with them what someone would like for a gift. Discuss the person's needs and wants and then shop for the item with care. Homemade gifts are not only appropriate and satisfying for a child to give, but for the recipient as well. Gifts should be made by the children according to their own abilities.

An example of a gift that a 3-year-old could make is a finger painting. A 5-year-old could make something out of play dough, hardened and painted, and wrapped in tissue. An 8-year-old can do more complex things, such as weaving a potholder, or crafting an item out of wood. A 10-year-old might want to make an album out of family pictures. Children of all ages can help make candy and cookies or decorations to give as gifts.

Equal time should go into helping the child select a gift to buy as well.

Another way to encourage thoughtful giving is to have family members give each other gifts rather than allowing Santa to give everything.

And speaking of Santa Claus...he is a delightful myth that represents caring and sharing, but one that can present a problem for parents. The most important thing is for parents to be open to hearing what the child has to say and not to take the discussion any further than the child is ready to hear.

Between the ages of 5 and 8, children are beginning to distinguish reality from make-believe and they begin to ask questions about Santa. How they phrase their questions may provide a clue to how to answer it, too. If they ask if there is a Santa, a good answer may be that there is if you want there to be. The child may be merely seeking permission to continue to believe. If they ask directly, "Is it really you and daddy?" it is a good time to explain the myth of Santa. The important thing to remember is that parents and children feel free to talk about how they are feeling about the holiday and to share these thoughts. Involve your children in the holiday in every way possible.

Christmas past

Museum offers look at holiday history in Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX — Christmas past is alive every Saturday at Harsha House this season.

Historical society member Betsy Reynolds made ornaments and decorated a Christmas tree in Victorian style, appropriate for the 100-year-old home and museum.

Decorated in pink satin covered balls, lace bows, baby's breath and a long strand of pearls, the tree stands between the organ and a horsehair sofa in the parlor.

The room — and the rest of the house's pictures and furnishings — are surviving symbols of how life was in Charlevoix.

Harsha House, at 103 State St., will be open 1-4 p.m. Saturdays through the Christmas season.

Throughout the season, the Charlevoix Historical Society invites shoppers in for a peek at its Victorian Christmas tree and Christmases past — and classic gift ideas, like the pewter centennial plate, featuring the Harsha House's centennial, as well as historical Charlevoix maps, books about Charlevoix's history, magnets, postcards, and metallic plaques.

A special gift for the nautically nostalgic is a tape of Charlevoix's old foghorn, also available from the historical society.

Individuality marks Charlevoix open house

CHARLEVOIX — Individuality will mark Charlevoix's annual open house.

Many businesses are putting their own touch on the community-wide open house by offering special refreshments, door prizes and sale prices during the events.

Participating businesses and their plans include:

The Appletree will feature home baked Christmas delights mixed in with sale prices on all Christmas items including Dickens Village, North Pole, ornaments and Music Bags.

Free gift wrapping also will be offered.

Barb's Hallmark Harbor will offer punch and cookies and door prizes of Hallmark Christmas items. Also Gold Crown cards are available now along with Christmas cassettes and CDs from Hallmark at special prices.

A visit to the store will provide some home decorating ideas. Two special trees are on display, one in a nostalgic theme and one in a classical theme.

Free gift wrapping also is available.

Major celebrations planned during open house

CHARLEVOIX — Saturday, Dec. 7, will be one long Christmas party throughout town.

Windows will be decorated, Santa will be everywhere, local shops will serve punch and cookies, and children will be able to shop in Santa's Secret Workshop and eat lunch with the jolly old elf.

He even comes to town in a fire truck in the afternoon, and, to keep the season in perspective, the historical society will offer a glimpse of Christmases past.

Windows will be judged in the annual chamber of commerce window decorating contest at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6. Nominate your window (or someone else's) by calling the chamber of commerce at 547-2101. (Residential displays will be judged at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18.)

Santa's Secret Workshop will be open 9 a.m.-2 p.m. at the elementary school. Mid-high members of the First Congregational Church will help children choose presents for parents and siblings priced between 25 cents and $6. Then children can wrap and label their gifts. Proceeds support the church's youth programs.

Santa comes downtown in a fire truck at 1 p.m. and will pass out candy to boys and girls in East Park, next to the Christmas tree. Afterwards, Santa will swoop by the Pine River Place to visit senior citizens.

Businesses will celebrate

Christmas by throwing open their doors, showing off their wares and serving punch and cookies during their annual open house, scheduled for 2-8 p.m. all throughout town.

At 2 p.m., Cinema III will show a special Christmas movie, open to all Charlevoix children.

Shoppers can register for prizes, including five $100 gift certificates, at any shop that displays the Christmas bulls-eye.

The merchants are boosting the open house's festive air this year by adding carolers, a live Nativity scene, a "Chili pot" sponsored by the Rotary Club and a bake sale by the Barnard Grange.

Throughout the season, the Charlevoix Historical Society invites shoppers in for a peek at its Victorian Christmas tree and Christmases past — and classic gift ideas, like the pewter centennial plate, featuring the Harsha House's centennial, as well as historical Charlevoix maps, books about Charlevoix's history, magnets, postcards, and metallic plaques.

Harsha House, at 103 State St., will be open 1-4 p.m. Saturdays through the Christmas season.

A visit with Santa

Charlevoix: Christopher Golski shakes hands with Santa after telling him what he hopes to find under the Christmas Tree. Santa was at the Weather-vane Restaurant after the city's annual tree-lighting ceremony and the jolly old elf lent his ear to children's Christmas wishes.

Trimming the tree

Charlevoix: Six-year-old Kelly Zimmerman and her sister, Jill, 11, wait in line to ride the bucket truck up the tree and hang their ornaments. Children decorated the city tree Friday.

Lions Club plans annual tree sale

CHARLEVOIX — What are the Christmas trimmings worth without a tree?

The Charlevoix Lions Club is holding its annual Christmas tree sale 4-8 p.m. weekdays and noon to 8 p.m. weekends in East Park until they are sold out.

The trees — Douglas fir, blue spruce, and scotch pine — are cut from a Charlevoix area tree farm and will be displayed near the city Christmas tree.

Trees range in size from 5 to 9 feet and home delivery is available.

Proceeds go to the club's charity projects.

Community tree marks Christmas

Charlevoix: It's official — Christmas time has come to Charlevoix. Happy Holidays! The tree was lighted during ceremonies Friday evening that included caroling by the elementary school choir and a tree lighting by Mayor Dave Novotny and guest of honor, Santa Claus.

Know of a home that's decorated to the max? Nominate It for the residential contest

CHARLEVOIX — Ho-ho-homes decorated for Christmas will be judged by the chamber of commerce at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18.

Rudolph on the rooftop, Santa in his sleigh or a yard bathed in lights could make homeowners winners in Charlevoix the Beautiful's annual contest.

Homeowners who want their houses judged (or people so impressed by their neighbors' homes that they want to enter their house) should call the chamber at 547-2101.

Register the house before judgment day to be sure it gets on the list.

Prizes are traditionally given in four categories — north of the bridge, west of Bridge Street, east of Bridge Street, out of town — and to the overall winner.

DDA considers property purchase

By L. Scott Swanson

Negotiators from the city and the owner of the property between Antrim and Mason Streets which used to hold the Kusina auto dealership have reached a tentative price agreement. The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) could vote on buying the property as soon as Dec. 11.

The property has been on the market since this past summer. It consists of three lots. The property was listed at a price of $450,000. According to County Equalization Department figures, the property is being taxed on a market value of $408,200.

DDA board president Hugh Mason, mayor Dave Novotny and city manager Mike Wiesner have been negotiating with property owner Dennis Kusina for the city to purchase the property.

Monday, Mason said, "We have come to an agreement. We'll present it to the rest of the DDA board Wednesday."

The terms of the proposed agreement will be presented to the DDA board in closed session beginning at 5:30 p.m. If the board chooses to act on the proposed agreement, it will have to come back into open session.

The DDA currently doesn't have enough money to simply pay cash for the property. Even without the purchase, at the end of the city's current fiscal year in March the DDA is projected to have approximately $120,000. Mason said part of the proposed agreement calls for the property to be purchased on a land contract over the term of the DDA which expires in 1998. The amount of money the DDA receives each year is based on property values in the downtown area encompassed by the DDA. Currently, the DDA receives approximately $350,000 a year.

Downtown Open House is a success

Local stores attracting Christmas shoppers

In spite of all of the gloom and doom talk about the economy plenty of people turned out for the Charlevoix business community's open house Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon began at 1 p.m. as Santa Claus rode into town (from the south curiously) on a fire truck. Santa met with children in East Park and listened to their Christmas requests and gave them boxes of candy from the Charlevoix firemen. Each year, Santa hands out about 600 boxes of candy.

At 2 p.m. many of the children and their parents went to the Cinema 117 theater to watch a free Christmas movie sponsored by Charlevoix County State Bank.

Stores were open between 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. for the Open House which was organized by the Merchants Association which is a branch of the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber Executive Director Jacqueline Merla said of the open house, "We received good reviews from the stores. There were a lot of people in."

Merla said that despite gloomy economic forecasts, some of the Charlevoix merchants have said that in recent days they've been busy.

Rat Henige, who chairs the Merchants' Association, also was pleased with the Open House.

"Every year it gets a little better," she said. She added, "From the merchants' point of view, these can't ever be too many people."

Henige said the busiest shopping hours seemed to be right after the movie let out. In addition to the movie, there was also a live nativity scene, a roving Santa Claus and roving carolers.

City hosts auction

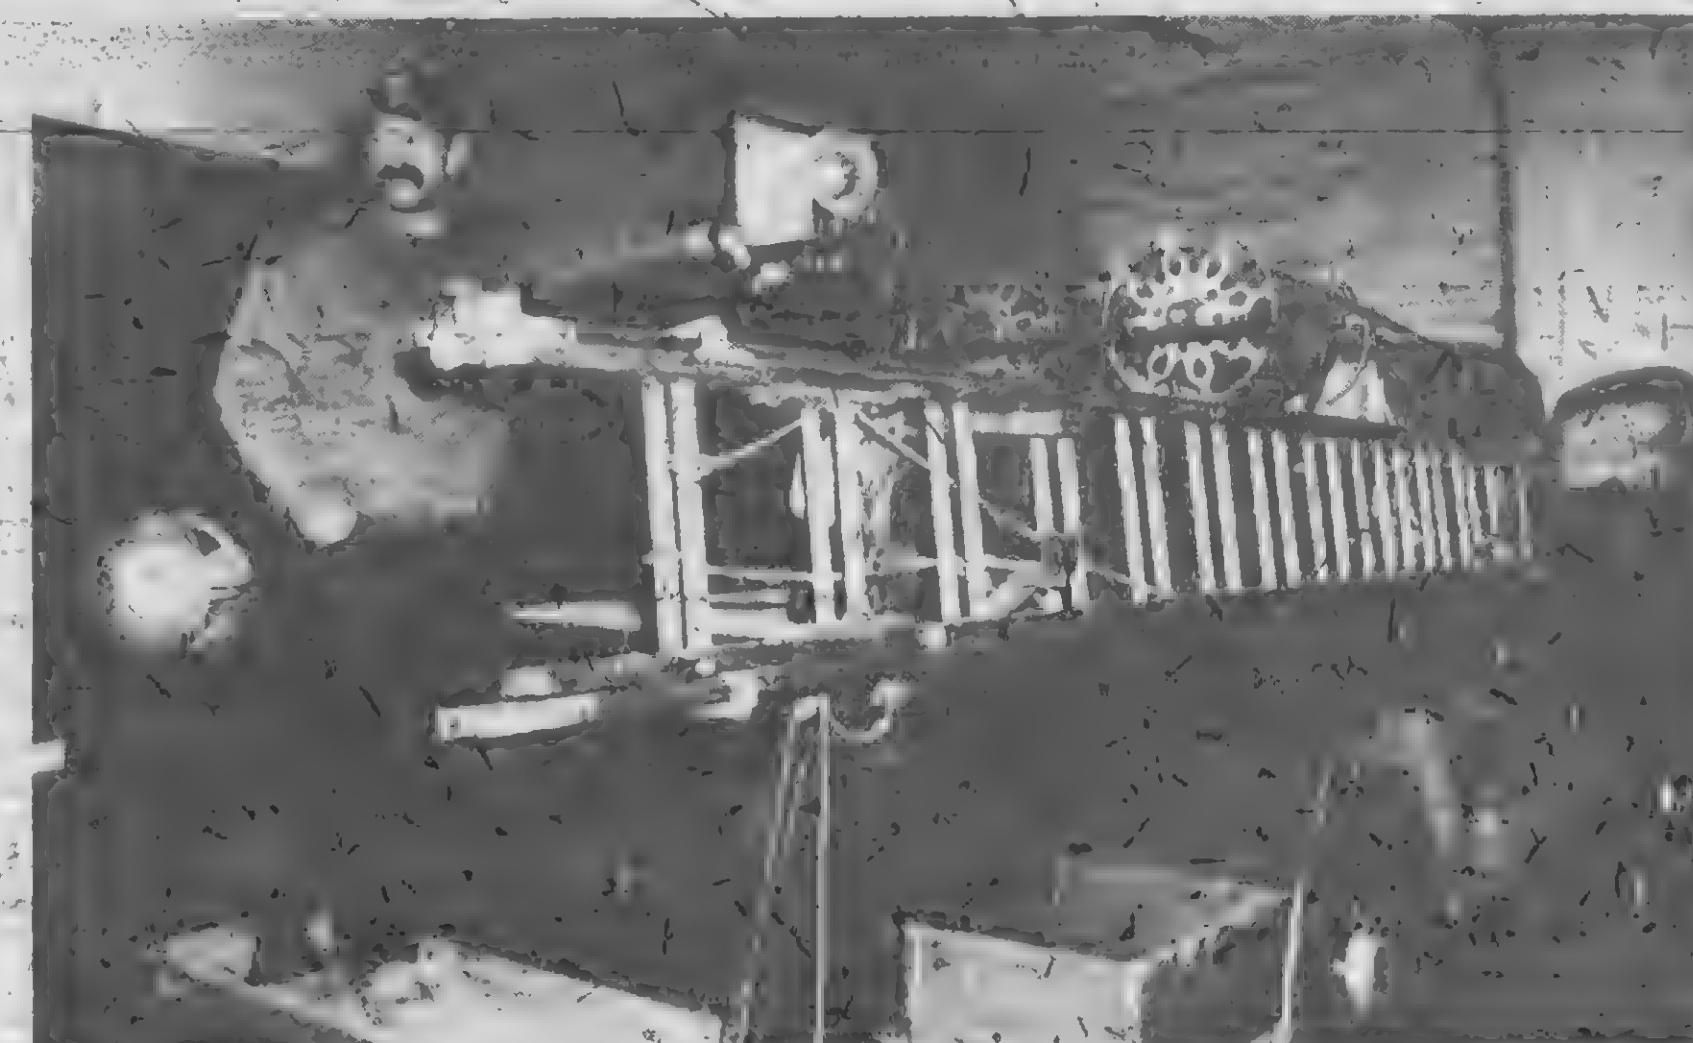

By Laurie Lounsbury

"Going once, going twice, sold for seven dollars," said Police Chief Dennis Halverson. Halverson assumed the role of auctioneer at the city auction last Saturday morning. The city auctions off unclaimed lost and found items, confiscated items, and the city's surplus property every two years.

There was an abundance of bicycles and tricycles available, along with miscellaneous items like duffle bags, snow skis, a wobble wheel, and a 1941 fire truck.

Halverson rose to the occasion as auctioneer, making offhand remarks about various items. "Here's a lovely children's bike, complete with a fresh coat of Lake Charlevoix algae," he said of a bike that had been recovered from the bottom of the lake. "How about this nice duffle bag, you can put all

Brown named Outstanding Citizen

LoAnne Brown of the Charlevoix County State Bank received the Chamber of Commerce Outstanding Citizen award at the Chamber's annual meeting Dec. 5. In presenting the award, former Chamber president Dan Barron noted Brown's involvement in community service in addition to her esteem within the banking profession.

Brown has been with Charlevoix County State Bank since 1947. She is currently the bank's Chief Executive Officer. In 1989 she was one of only 11 women in the nation to be recognized by the Northwestern Financial Banking Review. She has previously served three terms on the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. Brown has been in-involved in a number of civic projects, perhaps most notably the Charlevoix Industrial Fair. Brown not only initiated the idea for the fair, but continues to be the driving force behind the event which is designed to give area manufacturers an opportunity to show the public what they do.

In accepting the award, Brown said she appreciated the honor and praised her staff at the bank for their role in helping her through the years.

Previous winners of the Chamber's Outstanding Citizen award include: Dale Boss, Bruce MacArthur, Oscar Stroud and Ralph McRae.

In addition to the Outstanding Citizen award, several other people were also honored.

Alyce Lesser was named Ambassador of the Year for her work with the Chamber's Ambassadors group. Marilyn Boss received the President's Award for her work with the city penurias and other efforts.

New Chamber board members Sherry Fiedorek, Joe Trojanek and Julia Tucker were introduced. They will join Don Veisin, Bob Hoffman, John Ferguson, Sue Barnard, Lynn DeGrow, Ric Lobenherz, Vel Kammerman and Dick Joseph on the Chamber board.

Dianne Jerome, Lane Ochs and Bill Stewart, who are leaving the board due to the expiration of their terms, were each recognized for their years of service.

Buy-Low says bye bye

The Buy-Low Food Store which opened in the Charlevoix Commons plaza in April will be closing at the end of the month.

D.J. Oleson, President of MBD Inc. which owns the Buy-Low chain, said the 37,000-square-foot store simply has not had enough sales to remain open. Oleson said MBD had a market survey done prior to opening the store and the survey projected better sales. But those sales projections have not panned out.

Buy-Low also has stores in Petoskey and Gaylord. Oleson said sales remain strong in those two stores and they will remain open. The 44 full and part-time employees from the Charlevoix store will be given first consideration as jobs open up in the Petoskey and Gaylord stores.

Oleson attributed the low sales at the Charlevoix store to problems within the general economy.

...people are shopping

"We tried to make it a day of fun for the whole family," Henige explained.

Henige said that the feedback she's getting from merchants is that in spite of a tight economy, people are still buying gifts. They're just looking for sales and bargains.

"They're still shopping. They're just a lot more careful with their dollars," she said of local Christmas shoppers.

...city auctions 1941 fire truck

"your stuff in it - that's probably why we got it, someone put all the wrong stuff in it."

Bicycles sold for anywhere from $7 to $210 for a ten speed mountain bike. The wobble wheel went for $30. Only a wobble wheel aficionado would know if that is a bargain. Eighteen Def Leopard tee shirts, brand new, went for $13.

When the bidding got off to a slow start on a questionable, lime green bike, Halverson encouraged the bidders with, "Folks, you can't buy them in that color anymore. It's our glow in the night safety special." The bike went for $6.

The 1941 fire truck was the last item on the auction list, and most of the crowd stayed to watch the bidding. Bill Folchman was one of the observers, reminiscing about the fact that his dad sold the truck to the city fifty years ago. The old fire truck holds fond memories for many of the volunteer firemen.

"I used to drive that truck to grass fires," said volunteer fireman Tom McGigison. "It runs fine. We were still using it (for fires) up until a year ago."

Don McGigison, a volunteer fireman who recently retired from the fire department after forty-two years of service, was one of the bidders for the truck. He was bidding against Hilda Bruce, daughter of the late Dewey Bruce, who had served with the volunteer fire department since the early 1950's. Bruce got the truck for $1,750. Her father had driven the truck in the Venetian Day Parade every year until his death last year. "I want my kids to know who my dad was," Bruce said in explanation for her desire to have the truck. She has two grown children who will both be getting married this summer, and she hopes to use the fire truck in their weddings. Bruce will be taking the truck down to Pontiac, where she lives, but says that she hopes it will make the trip back up here for future Venetian parades. "Memories are worth the price," Bruce said. "You can't put a price on memories."

OPINIONS

EDITH

By Edith Gilbert
Let's take a peek behind the scenes in the nurturing of an artist.

The action first took place at the annual Fine Arts Exhibit at the Virginia McCune Arts Center several years ago. The juror was Lorraine Chambers McCarty, who is both an accomplished pilot as well as a painter. Her sky paintings are represented in major museums such as the Smithsonian.

As she was going through the numerous entries, she came across a painting done on an unframed piece of cardboard. Her immediate reaction was "I can't allow this in the show!" and it was put aside because it did not meet the basic requirements for an exhibit. But she was continually drawn to the work and returned to look at the piece four times. She asked, "Who is the artist, David Pickett?" and no one knew.

"This painting called 'Grandmother's Garden' is one of the best things in the show!" said McCarty. "In fact, I'm going to give it first place. His strong brush strokes, delicate light, and colors are truly exciting."

And being the caring juror McCarty is, she always invites the artists who enter their work in the exhibit for a critique.

"You must paint on proper material, either canvas or masonite panels," she advised Pickett, "and your paintings need to be properly framed, and you can't give them away, you must sell them in a gallery."

Then she went one step further. She urged Crooked Tree Arts Council board member Ann Farrell Ford to take Pickett under her wing. Ford was well qualified for the assignment. Born in East Jordan, Ford studied art and child psychology at Columbia University, and she designed wooden toys for a manufacturer in Sweden that were distributed world wide.

Ford met with Pickett's art teacher, Doug Melvin, at North Central Michigan College. He told her he wasn't really able to teach Pickett — only critique him. Ford met with Pickett's family who summered every year at the Bay View Resort. She encouraged his reluctant family to support their talented son in his endeavors. Subsequently, the following winters, Pickett followed his parents first to Wyoming, where he majored in art at the University of Wyoming and then to Nevada, where he took more art courses.

Then one day while Ford was on duty at the Art Center a couple from Bloomfield Hills came into the gallery looking to buy a painting. They fell in love with Pickett's style and commissioned him to do a portrait, as well as a 6' x 4' painting of woods and flowers to go over the mantel of their new home. More commissions followed and more sales out of the gallery.

During the Bay View summers, Pickett's job was painting houses during the week, and painting canvases on weekends. He still enrolls in McCarty's workshops when they are offered at the McCarty Arts Center. He is now in his junior year at college and next winter the family will be settled in California where his now very proud father is building him a studio.

If you'd like to become totally immersed in a room full of David Pickett's powerful paintings this winter, stop by Hoot's new Restaurant in Boyne City. There you will be able to judge for yourself what you think of this young man's work while you're dining in a relaxed and colorful atmosphere. I found the experience very stimulating, but then I've been one of Pickett's earliest admirers.

Today his paintings range in price from $500 to $700 each. What future prices will bring is anybody's guess. Without the professional guidance and encouragement of people like McCarty and Ford, and without the spark of the Crooked Tree Arts Council, one wonders if the career of this diligent young artist would ever have been brought to flower.

Wynkoop family shares their feelings

Editor,

The family of Andrew J. Wynkoop, would like to share their feelings regarding the recent tragedies.

We carry a heart sick feeling almost every minute of every day. We are in despair for the sorrow the Kleiber and McCleese families are feeling. There is nothing we can say or do to ever take away the pain over the loss of your loved ones. We pray that at some point in time life will be easier for these families.

We wish to express our thanks to members of the Kleiber family for their kindness and compassion shown to us. We will always be grateful for their concern.

We would like to thank the many members of the community for their cards, calls and acts of kindness. Many of these people we do not know but their words and prayers have helped us through this tragedy.

Our thanks also go out to members of the educational profession. Your kind words, hugs and the pats on the backs of our children were deeply appreciated. Coping with the confusion and understanding could have been most difficult to the children. We feel and certainly hope they have remained emotionally stable.

We have found that faith in God can help one remain strong through even such a serious situation. We would like to express our thanks to the many members of the clergy, especially to Pastor J. Perry Fowler and the members of the Safe Harbor Baptist Church for the many prayers and for their strength.

To the personnel of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the Charlevoix City Police Department, our thanks for the courtesy and compassion shown to our family.

We would like to commend Mr. Edwin G. Gregory, Court Appointed Attorney, for the professional manner in which he conducted himself and for the time spent answering the many concerns of the family.

The media and journalists of our community did an outstanding job covering this story. You informed the community of the facts and most of you were compassionate. Thank you for respecting our privacy.

Thank you, Dr. Rodric Tinney, for going to the jail to give treatment to Andy for his acne.

Our special thanks to Dr. Paul Sullivan, Dr. Gordon Blush, Dr. Terrance Campbell and Dr. Michael Matouk. We know the many hours you have spent with Andy and the members of our family. We deeply appreciate it. We know the mind and emotions are too complex to understand in just a few hours and you realized this and went beyond the call of duty to get to the root of Andy's problems, despite how painful it was for all of us to grasp. We now have faith that he will receive the treatment he needs. We have nothing but the utmost respect for each and everyone

Editorial

Just how much parking do we need?

The city's efforts to purchase the former Kusina Motors property once again raises the question: Just how many parking spaces does Charlevoix need in the downtown area?

A proposed agreement which the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) board will discuss at a Dec. 11 meeting beginning at 5:30 p.m. in City Hall would result in the city buying the Kusina property and putting a 45-space parking lot on two-thirds of it. The remaining third, which has a building on it, would be sold for private commercial development.

The mixture of building a new parking lot while preserving some of the property for private enterprise makes the property purchase more palatable than using the entire piece of property for parking.

But with regard to future projects, the question persists: when do we have enough public parking in the downtown area?

This discussion has come up before. When the city purchased a house on Clinton Street and tore it down to create parking spaces, people who wanted to preserve the house argued that Charlevoix already has adequate parking. They argued that even though there are certain peak days during the summer when a person might have to park more than a block away from their destination, those days are rare and for the most part convenient parking is available.

Public parking is by nature an instrument of support. It's not the focus of the downtown area. It's a necessary item to support the business of the downtown area. The question is when does the item of support begin to take up so much space that it becomes detrimental to what it is supporting?

Adding 45 spaces between Antrim and Mason Streets will probably be a good thing. But in terms of downtown parking, the city of Charlevoix is reaching a point where it has enough of a good thing. In the near future, efforts should be directed toward effective utilization of available downtown parking, rather than creating additional downtown public parking.

of you. We hope the reality to this tragedy and the problems of some of the young people in our community over the last few years will help open the eyes and bring some help and guidance, especially where the use of drugs and alcohol is concerned. One thing we have learned and that we will try to apply in nurturing our children and grandchildren, is to never treat signs of loneliness or unhappiness as trivial.

Seniors receive loan

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging supported the efforts of the Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center by sending a letter of resolution to the First State Bank of Charlevoix, giving their support for the acquisition of an interest free loan to be paid back over a two-year period of time.

Lou Hollow gave a check for $15,000 to Sherry Black, Director of the Center and Frank Cellner, Chairman of the Advisory Board on Tuesday, Dec. 5.

The funds are to be used to finish several projects at the center, to help pay for siding, ceiling insulation, complete the plumbing hookup in the ladies bathroom and kitchen, install flooring and expand the heating unit.

"This is a real help to us," said Black. "We can now be fully winterized and it takes many worries off our minds."

The seniors have been working toward a home of their own since 1988. Through state grants, fund raising and donations they were able to renovate and put an addition on the old Charlevoix Township Hall on the corner of Norwood Rd. and Carpenter Street. Money from state sources dried up when the state began making budget cuts last spring. Since January, the seniors have raised about $14,000 to put into their building.

Hospital receives award for organ procurement

Donations make lives better

Charlevoix Area Hospital has received an award from the Organ Procurement Agency of Michigan (OPAM) for its contribution and commitment to organ and tissue donation.

The award was announced at the annual meeting of the Transplant Society of Michigan (TSM), in Lansing and was presented on Tuesday at the hospital by Carol Bennett, regional director for OPAM.

The hospital has been responsible for securing several skin donations in the past year. TSM and OPAM are the organizations responsible for organ procurement activities throughout the State of Michigan. FAMILY

VanLoo - Buick

Sheri Van Loo & John Buick, Jr.

Sheri Van Loo and John Buick Jr. were united in marriage Saturday, October 19, on a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan in Charlevoix. The bride is the daughter of Barb Storey of Traverse City and Gordon Wolgamott of Charlevoix, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Buick Sr. of East Jordan.

Thirty-one family members witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Janet Potter, Magistrate of District Court.

The bride's dress was a deep violet chemise with a stand-up collar, and she carried a bouquet of baby's breath and fresh cut wild flowers.

Connie Buick, the sister-in-law of the groom, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the wedding.

Barb Schnackenberg of Charlevoix was the maid of honor, and Tim Jezorski of Grayling was the best man.

A celebration luncheon was hosted by Susan Bajko, sister of the groom, and Jeannie Buick, mother of the groom. A reception will take place in the spring.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, and now reside in Charlevoix.

The groom is a student at Kirtland Community College, Roscommon, and works as a machinist at Champion Fortune in Houghton Lake. The bride is a student at NCMC College in Petoskey and manager at Village Inn Pizza in Charlevoix.

Hospital still receiving funds

Area service clubs are being very generous in their contributions and pledges to the hospital campaign," says Kathy Johnson, Charlevoix Area Hospital Fund Development Director.

Thus far, the Zonta club of Charlevoix has pledged $2,500; Charlevoix Rotary Club $1,500; Charlevoix Lions $2,500; and the Central Lake Lions $200. "This brings our grand total raised-to-date to $1,589,000," Johnson says.

The hospital campaign has surpassed its goal of $1.4 million toward a $3 million building program. The campaign will continue until the end of the year with solicitation continuing in outlying areas.

Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, says, "Final plans are being drawn for the new surgical facility and the remodeling for a new obstetrical unit. Work has begun to secure the needed permits from the state. Also, without the fine support shown in this campaign, this building program would not be possible," he said.

A victory celebration took place Nov. 22 to honor all of the 200 volunteers who worked on the campaign. Receiving special awards of appreciation were: Dr. Jeffrey Porter, general campaign chairman; Nancy Porter, Al Ranger, Sulane Hamilton, Dr. Roderic Tinney, Ralph McRae, Margaret Landman, Joan Balch, Linda Balch, David Priest and Allan Warner.

Concerts scheduled

On Dec. 12 the Seventh and Eighth grade Charlevoix band members will once again join the Charlevoix High School Band for their annual holiday band concert.

The nearly-200-member group will be offering up as a Christmas gift to the community a wide variety of holiday music.

The concert will take place in the high school gymnasium and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Following the concert the band boosters will once again be serving up their traditional punch and cookie afterglow.

On Dec. 17 the Charlevoix 6th grade band members will host their annual Christmas Band Concert. Band director Evelyn Wojcik would like to extend an invitation to the friends and families of these sixth grade band students as it is a wonderful opportunity to hear how far these musicians have progressed this year.

The concert begins at 7 p.m. in the Middle School Gymnasium.

Madrigal

Dinner

The fourth Madrigal Dinner, Saturday December 14 will begin the festive holiday weekend planned by the Jordan River Arts Council (JRAC). This event will take place at the Pointes North Inn banquet room in Charlevoix at 7 p.m. and will be catered by Stafford's Weather-Vane Restaurant. The madrigal chorus from Petoskey High School under the direction of Brad Moffett will again be the featured performers. Tickets are $30 each for non-members and $27.50 each for members. They may be obtained by calling the JRAC office, 536-3385, or at Stafford's Weather-Vane Restaurant in Charlevoix. Early reservations are advised as this event has been a "sold out" affair each year.

The second part of the Holiday Weekend will be the annual concert of the JRAC Community Chorus and Community and Community Band. These two groups will combine for an afternoon of holiday music Dec. 15 at 3:30 p.m. in the East Jordan High School Auditorium. The chorus is directed by Fran Tallas and Margaret Thompson, and the band by Jeff LaRoux, assisted by Rita LaVictoire. The concert is free and is the gift of the JRAC to the community.

This grove of evergreen trees recently sprouted up in East Park. The Charlevoix Lions Club has fenced in the trees so they don't spread and are now doing their best to clear them from the park.

by Rev. Philip Schairbaum

What does the phrase "The Lord is coming!" mean to you? That's an important question as we journey toward Christmas with its proclamation, "Joy to the world, the Lord is Come!"

For some it means that the day of judgment is coming, a time when God will meet our justice, evil will be destroyed, God's kingdom will come into existence and righteousness will reign forever. It's a nice picture if you happen to consider yourself among the righteous. If you don't, or if that's something you're not sure about, then that image of the Lord's coming is one that is not so appealing. Still, it is one we cannot avoid.

Most of us do not like the idea of God's judgment. Because we lead lives that are not really all that bad, we think of ourselves as being somehow exempt from judgment. Yet, deep in our hearts is a certain knowledge that we are not all that God created us to be.

We are, in Eliot's stinging words, "decent godless people, lethally adjusted to an age of moderate virtue and of moderate vice, in which we will not lay down the cross because we have never assumed it!"

As we ponder Christ's coming again this Advent season, let us first admit our need for his coming. Let us be truthful with ourselves as we measure our life against God's intentions for us. Let us allow the light of the Christmas star to beam upon us and expose the shallow crevices of our hearts and convict us of what we too seldom admit: our deep and constant need of God's redeeming love and the power of his presence daily. That's the first thing the Lord's coming can mean to us.

But there is a second and related message concerning the Lord's coming. For the day of Christ's coming is also the day of our salvation, a time when God extends Himself for us, touches us in a special way, embraces us and assures us once again that we are his, and that nothing need separate us from his everlasting care.

"The Lord is coming!" It is a word of hope that while life may often let us down, God in Christ never will, regardless of what is going on in our life. It is this awareness that God is always at work that gives life its forward thrust. We move ahead, because that is where God is taking us — not backward, that would be dreadful in spite of our natural nostalgia; not staying in the present, that would be stifling in spite of our natural fear of change; but forward, to that time and place where "the hopes and fears of all the years are met," and the Lord's reign is realized as it has not yet been.

"Amidst the depressing thoughts and depressing sights of our time," wrote Mary Hilton, "there is always — still miraculously, tenaciously, indestructibly, illogically, wonderfully — hope. I gratefully acknowledge hope, hope that lives on so little nourishment and yet is stronger than all the well-fod despair. And I am somehow reminded of one of those sad, foolish, gentle, stubborn, joyful sayings that is almost-trite — and perhaps it is — but perhaps not: that all the darkness of the world cannot extinguish the light of one small candle."

During these days leading to Christmas, may we hear the word, "the Lord is coming!" with renewed expectancy. May we hear it as an announcement of God's pending judgment on our less than faithful lives, and as an assurance of God's continued action in Jesus to bring the world to himself until that day when all people are indeed "one in the Lord."

School planning team to meet

Public welcome to participate

The Charlevoix Public Schools Strategic Planning Team will meet from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 16 at the High School.

Topics the group will discuss include: Requirements of the state school improvement legislation, P.A. 25; Exit outcomes for Charlevoix students - i.e. what skills should students have when they graduate; Educational beliefs - what are some educational beliefs which should be reflected in Charlevoix's educational system.

Interested members of the community are welcome to attend and participate in the discussion.

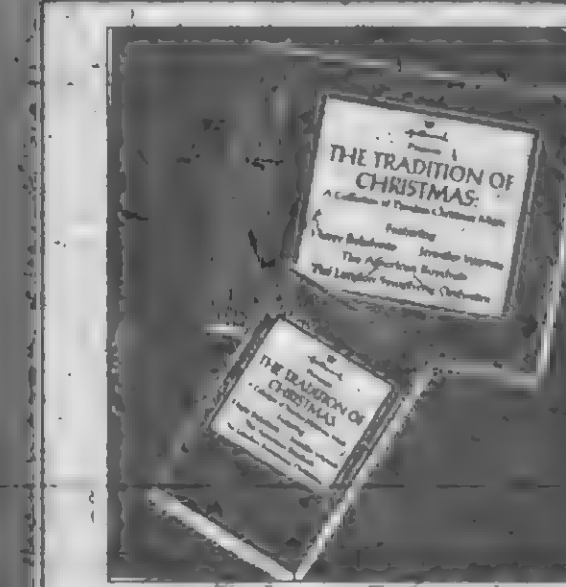

Women's Club tree growing mittens

The Charlevoix Women's Club has begun its annual Mitten Tree project at the First State Bank. People are encouraged to bring hand-knit or purchased mittens, scarves, caps or tube socks to be placed on the tree at the bank. The tree will be in place through Christmas Eve. The mittens and other items will be placed in community Christmas baskets to be distributed throughout the community to people who need them.

Karla Scherer Foundation scholar Heather Brown (left) of Charlevoix was one of 29 scholarship recipients recently honored at the Foundations annual awards dinner. Brown, shown with Foundation Chairman Karla Scherer, attends the University of Michigan where she is studying for a BBA degree in Financial Administration. The scholarships are limited to women pursuing undergraduate or graduate business degrees with a particular emphasis on finance and economics.

During the times when the weather has been cold enough the snow-making machines at Mount McSaubu have been going full-force. The city recreation department hopes to open the mountain early this year.

Mount McSaubu hopes to open soon

Get those skis and glove guards out of the basement this week, because Mt. McSaubu will be opening early this year. As of late last week, Ike Boss, City Recreation Department Director, was predicting that Mt. McSaubu would open Saturday, Dec. 14, at 10 a.m. This would be a record opening for Mt. McSaubu, which generally opens the week of Christmas vacation. Friday, Boss reported that the hill was in great condition, with improvements to the bunny hill making it higher and wider, and the front hill has a new face, with a feathered out base. With the hill opening so early, group lessons will start right after Christmas break, two weeks earlier than the usual mid-January start.

Buying a season pass at the beginning of this year will give you 15 extra days of skiing over last year. Mt. McSaubu was open sixty days last year, but is expected to be open 75 days this year.

The cost of skiing at Mt. McSaubu is $7 a day, and $6 for rental equipment. Season passes are $55 for one person, $110 for two, $140 for a family of three, $170 for four, $190 for five, and $200 for six or more family members.

Both Mother Nature and the snow guns at Mt. McSaubu were making abundant amounts of snow prior to this weekend's thaw.

Rayders of the Week

...property purchase

Mason said the city has previously used land contracts to purchase property on Clinton Street and the Post Office building.

Mason, Wiesner and another DDA member expressed uncertainty about whether the city council as well as the DDA board would have to approve the purchase agreement in order for it to take effect.

Mason said it is his understanding that only DDA approval is needed if the matter is included in the budget approved by the city council. He said that if the proposal requires a DDA budget amendment, which he suspects it will, then council approval will again be needed. He said that either way the DDA board will seek the city council's blessings on the project.

Tentative plans for the property should the city acquire it call for a parking lot to be developed on the Mason Street lot and on the western Antrim Street lot. The eastern building on Antrim Street would be left standing and ultimately sold for private commercial development. Mason estimated that the parking lot will add about 45 parking spaces to the downtown area and relieve some of the summertime pressure on the Oleson's Food Store parking lot.

"We're excited about being able to do the project," Mason said. He noted that acquiring the Kusina property is something which has been in the DDA plan from day one.

Two other projects the DDA has in the works are new downtown street lights and renovating Bridge Park. The streetlight project carries an estimated price tag of $150,000 while the Bridge Park project is expected to cost between $1.4 and $1.6 million.

Mason said the streetlight project will begin as soon as there is adequate funding. "Personally, I'd like to see it as soon as possible," he said. A lighting committee appointed by the city council has been working on a municipal lighting plan for the past year.

The city is considering using Downtown Development Authority money to purchase the property formerly occupied by Kusina Motors. (See accompanying story.)

Charlevoix Properties now under new ownership

By Laurie Lounsbury

When Gary Strange of Ellsworth was looking around in East Jordan for furniture and some office space, he ended up buying furniture, the office space, and a business. Strange bought Charlevoix Properties in East Jordan from former owner Pat Sweet Nov. 15.

Strange, an Ellsworth native, had been working for the real estate firm Farbman Stein, a Troy-based firm, handling their northern properties. Business was doing so well that the company decided they needed an office up north, which prompted Strange to start looking around. When Strange learned that Pat Sweet wanted to sell Charlevoix Properties Real Estate, he and Farbman Stein felt it was an ideal opportunity for them. Farman Stein has entered into the ownership with Strange, making it a full service real estate business.

Farbman Stein offers services in property management, rentals, leasing, and home inspection, along with residential, commercial, and industrial real estate transactions. Strange, being a native to northern Michigan, hopes to bring his own services to the business. Strange can steer people to the best places and the best properties for pheasant hunting, fishing, or snowmobiling. "I'd like to try to create a lot of services for customers," he said.

One of the primary focuses of Charlevoix Properties will be in putting together large parcels of acreage for customers who want to own a lot of land, but may not be able to afford buying 80 to 100 acres on their own. Charlevoix properties would put together a hundred acre parcel that could be purchased by two or three people, and structured in a way that each owner would have ten acres of their own, and the rest would be a common area, owned jointly.

Strange feels the tie-in with Farbman Stein is a strong benefit to the company. Farbman Stein has an office in Troy and offices in six other states. This will give excellent exposure for northern properties to many potential downstate and out of state customers.

Strange and his wife Paula live in Ellsworth, where Paula works full time in the home raising their four children. They have two sons and two daughters, ranging in age from ten years old to six months old.

Students to collect bottles

Returnable bottles and cans will be collected and the proceeds put to use by Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts students Saturday Dec. 14, as part of their continuing efforts to help defray the costs of their participation in debate, forensics, and drama competitions.

The students will collect the returnables from Charlevoix households between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. this coming Saturday. They will also collect Glen's and Oleson's slips and will accept donations to help underwrite the team's costs.

Some 60 students participate in Charlevoix's Performing Arts program. The debate team is about to enter final competitions of the season. The students have just completed the "Pentathlon" speech competition in Ann Arbor in which each student gave five different presentations in poetry, prose and drama. And, this week the team begins rehearsals for the play which they will take into state-wide competition and later presents to the public here in Charlevoix.

County considers moving department to Boyne City

Space offered in city building

By Laurie Lounsbury
The Charlevoix County Commissioners are considering a move for the Department of Building Inspection to Boyne City.

The Department of Building Inspection is currently housed in an old house the County owns, behind the County Courthouse. Commissioners were approached with the idea of moving to Boyne City when the Department of Water and Soil Conservation moved out of the Boyne City Hall. An advantage to moving the department to Boyne City would be that Boyne City is more centrally located for the County's population. The County would be on a lease agreement with Boyne City if they moved, and the city would pay for all heat, utilities, and maintenance.

The existing location in Charlevoix requires a lot of maintenance and renovation, along with modifications for computers, which the County would like to have for the Building Department.

"The building in Charlevoix is hardly a good example of a building for the Department of Building Inspection to be in," said Commissioner Carl Price.

If the Building Department moved to Boyne City, the old Charlevoix building could be torn down and the space could be utilized for additional parking.

There is some concern about moving the Department of Building Inspection out of Charlevoix, which is the county seat. The move might inconvenience contractors who need to stop at several different county departments in order to get the necessary permits or information for any proposed construction.

Price said commissioners hope to have all of the information necessary to make a decision by the first of the year.

Council changes fire department structure

Change to public safety administrator, despite firemen's objections

By L. Scott Swanson

City council members voted against the wishes of the volunteer firemen Monday evening and voted to put the city fire department under the authority of a public safety administrator.

The vote to change from having a fire chief to a public safety administrator initially failed 3-3, but later was reconsidered and passed when third ward council member Jackie Cross changed his vote and joined first ward council members Cheri Hoffman and Pat Gaskin and second ward council member Bill Haggard in voting in favor of the motion.

Events leading to Monday evening's decision began earlier this year when fire chief John Martin was hired to take over the street department superintendent position from Wayne Carter who retired. With the vacancy being created in the fire department, city manager Mike Wiesner hired a consulting firm to study the city of Charlevoix's police, fire and ambulance departments. The firm was paid $4,500 and submitted their report to the council in November.

From the onset of the study process volunteer firemen expressed reservations. They maintained that the outcome was predetermined and that Wiesner wanted a change to a public safety administrator system so that he would have more control of the fire department. When the report was presented in November, Wiesner said there had been nothing predetermined about the study and that although he had encouraged the consultants to make a recommendation he hadn't pushed them toward any particular recommendation.

The consultants offered the city council three options. They were:

Option 1 - Simply hire a new chief and leave the fire department's administrative structure.

Option 2 - Hire a new chief, but rather than putting him in the 24-hour shift with the other two full time firemen, have him work normal 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. work hours five days a week. This option would also require an additional full-time fireman.

Option 3 - Move police chief Dennis Halverson into the position of public safety administrator and in addition to that hire a full-time fireman.

The consultants recommended Option 3. They said the fire department needs more formalized procedures and a better defined chain of command to reduce the city's susceptibility to liability suits.

Firemen agreed that there is a need for formalization of policies and chain of command, but argued that could be accomplished over time and with less disruption to the department through either options one or two.

At Monday night's council meeting, Barry Wood, president of the volunteer firemen, told the council that the firemen voted among themselves and none of them voted for option three. Their opinion is that option one is viable and phase in option two as the need becomes apparent, Wood said.

Between the November meeting when the report was presented and Monday evening's meeting councilman received additional information which included an opinion from city attorney Jim Young and a memo from a Farmington Hills fire marshal.

At Monday evening's council meeting, Gaskin asked Young about legal concerns the council should take into consideration in their decision. Young said that the law, right or wrong, is forcing municipalities to look at more professional leadership in fire departments.

Russell asked Wiesner if the city has ever had a liability claim against the fire department.

"Not that I'm aware of," Wiesner replied.

Hoffman extolled the virtues of the fire department volunteers, but said she supported option three.

She said that in her view the heart of the issue is change. She said option one would create the most resistance to change while option two is expensive. She said she supported option three due to economics.

Felter said that while Halverson is an able administrator, he is not qualified to be a fire chief and he questioned whether the firemen would be willing to follow someone without the training of a fire chief.

Hoffman asked Young what he would recommend from a legal standpoint. Young said he considered option two to be the most radical option and supported option three.

Wood said that even though option one or two might well mean bringing in someone as a fire chief who is new to the Charlevoix department, at least it would mean hiring someone who is trained in fire fighting. "Just to hire an administrator and then you're going to hire another fireman doesn't make sense to me," he explained.

A motion by Hoffman and a second by Gaskin to support option three initially failed with Hoffman, Gaskin and Haggard supporting and Russell, Cross and Felter opposing. Mayor Dave Novotny did not vote, indicating that he had been advised by the city attorney that making the change will require a subsequent ordinance change which he will not be able to vote on.

A motion by Russell seconded by Haggard to support option two also failed. Russell, Haggard, and Gaskin voted in favor. Cross, Felter, Hoffman and Novotny opposed the motion.

Cross then reconsidered his earlier vote against option three. He asked how much more option three would cost than option one. Wiesner said option three would cost between $3,000 and $4,000 more.

Cross said he hated to see option two because he felt it would be expensive and he didn't think there was enough support on the council to pass option one therefore he would reconsider his vote and support option three.

When option three was again considered, Cross joined Haggard, Hoffman and Gaskin in passing it.

Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts team sent a six-student team to the state-wide Pentathlon contest in Ann Arbor Dec. 6 and 7. The six brought home a total of eight awards.

School group discusses student "outcomes"

By Wendy Wright

The school's Strategic Planning Team addressed "Student Outcomes" Monday night.

The meeting, which was the group's second, began with an explanation by high school Principal Dave Smith of what is meant by an "outcome." He said that it is the task of the team to anticipate what qualities Charlevoix students will need to possess to cope in the world 10 years from now.

As part of Public Act 25, Michigan's School Improvement law, the state has suggested a list of "Broad Student Outcomes" general qualities that state feels a Michigan school education should provide to students. According to P.A. 25, a Michigan student would leave school as a person who:

- 1) makes decisions continuously for successful living.
- 2) is a competent and productive participant in society.
- 3) is a caring and sensitive human being.
- 4) is a creative and flexible person.
- 5) is capable of applying knowledge in diverse situations.
- 6) is able to communicate effectively.

Medusa cleaning oil spill

Thousands of gallons leaked from buried pipe

By L. Scott Swanson
The Medusa Cement Company is in the process of cleaning up a spill of several thousand gallons of fuel oil. Estimates of the amount of number two diesel fuel which seeped into the ground and an underground aquifer vary. Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials are saying 5,000 to 15,000 gallons. Water Air Team, Charlevoix (WATCH) president Jerry Puhl is saying 20,000 gallons, perhaps more. Medusa plant manager John Dixon is saying that because of the volume of fuel the plant uses and without knowing how long the leak went undetected, there's really no way to tell just how much fuel leaked from the underground pipe.

"There's a tremendous amount of fuel that was lost," Puhl said. He added that the environmental group he represents is not happy at all with the extent of the spill. He also contends that company management was slow to act after employees discovered the spill.

"If they would have acted sooner they could have limited the spill," Puhl said.

Dixon denies Puhl's contention saying that remedial action was taken quickly when the leak was discovered in June. "We don't feel that we in any way ignored anybody's notification that we had a problem there," he said.

Initially, Medusa began excavating the contaminated soil and burning it in the plant's kiln. The kiln reaches temperatures in excess of 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit. The DNR air quality division made Medusa stop burning the soil and said the plant has to have a permit before it can resume soil burning. Dixon said Medusa has hired an environmental consultant and submitted an application for the needed permit.

Rich Alexander of the DNR's regional air quality office in Gaylord confirmed that a permit application has been submitted to Lansing. He said the application process usually takes 145 days to be reviewed and approved.

When asked about the likelihood of application approval, Alexander said he thinks it's quite possible. He noted that the contaminated soil is just fuel and the raw products which normally go into the kiln anyway.

Alexander explained that before Medusa is allowed to resume burning contaminated soil the company will have to demonstrate that it won't increase plant emissions.

"I would expect that they could demonstrate that," he said.

In addition to removing and burning soil, the plant has dug a pit where the spill occurred and removed the oil and water which flowed back into the pit. They have also dug seven test wells and drawn samples out of the wells.

Medusa employees have also been checking the lake shore and thus far none of the oil has reached Lake Michigan. Dixon said that previous hydrology studies indicate that groundwater from the spill area does not flow in the shortest route toward the lake, but more toward the east so that contamination would have to travel several hun-

It is capable of learning over a lifetime.

The task before the planning group Monday night was to accept or reject the state outcomes, add any others that team members felt were missing from the state's list, and in doing so, draft a list of student outcomes specifically for the Charlevoix school system.

Several suggestions were offered by members of the team, working in groups of six, each group led by a facilitator. Superintendent Robert Jackson explained that Monday night's list would be compiled and presented at the next meeting as the first draft of Charlevoix student outcomes. She said that as the meetings continue the team will discuss a core curriculum that provides students with those attributes on the outcome list.

REALTORS EARN PRESTIGIOUS CERTIFICATION

Gregory W. Smith

Gregory W. Smith, an Associate Broker-Owner with Vacation Properties Network, Charlevoix was awarded the nationally recognized Certified Real Estate Brokerage Manager (CRB) designation by the REAL ESTATE BROKERAGE COUNCIL during the Mid-Year Meetings of the National Association of Realtors in Washington D.C. The CRB designation is the highest award real estate managers can receive. Established in 1968, CRB is awarded only to managers who have met stringent management experience and educational course work prerequisites. CRB's are highly regarded by their peers in the real estate industry and possess the expertise needed to maintain an organized, smooth-running brokerage that handles all customer-client transactions with care. Smith is the Managing Broker of Vacation Properties Network's Charlevoix, Boyne City and Beaver Island offices and the only member of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors to have been awarded the CRB designation.

Richard E. Lobenherz

Richard E. Lobenherz, an Associate Broker-Owner with Vacation Properties Network, Charlevoix was awarded the nationally recognized Certified Commercial Investment Member (CCIM) designation by the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS at the National Convention in November in Las Vegas. This designation is awarded only to Realtors who can demonstrate both academic and actual expertise in commercial and investment real estate and pass a nationally administered sponsored comprehensive exam. Lobenherz is the only Realtor in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim County to possess the prestigious CCIM designation - and has been the top producer with the firm in Charlevoix for the past fifteen years.

OPINIONS

Editorial

An unfortunate action

A decision by the city council to place the fire department under the control of a public safety administrator is unfortunate. It has caused, and will continue to cause, disruption, ill-will and dissension where none was necessary.

Although council members attempted to placate volunteer firemen by heaping praise upon them, the council members' action Monday evening spoke louder than their words. In addition to disregarding the desires expressed by the firemen, the four council members who voted in favor of changing to a public safety administrator demonstrated a lack of either the vision or will to compromise.

Earlier this year, city manager Mike Wiesner hired a consulting firm to study the city's police, fire and ambulance departments. For $4,500 the consultants issued a report which told the city council what anyone even remotely familiar with the three departments could have figured out for themselves. The police department functions quite well in this community and the fire department, while also functioning reasonably well, needs improvement in formalizing procedures and chain of command.

Although neither the firemen nor anybody else questioned the need for improvements, the consultants and some of the council members who supported having a safety administrator trumpeted their cause under the banner of the dreaded possibility of legal liability. This despite the fact that, at least in recent history, there haven't been any liability claims against the fire department.

The consultants suggested three options: one would have hired a new fire chief to fill the current vacancy, the second would have hired a chief and a fireman with the chief working different hours, the third was to move police chief Dennis Halverson to public safety administrator and hire an additional fireman.

Firemen voted among themselves, and none of them wanted a public safety administrator. They want their department to be headed by a fire chief, someone specifically trained in fire fighting.

There was plenty of room for compromise. The city council didn't have to follow to the letter any of the three options. They could have hired a new fire chief and worked within the present organizational structure to address the problems of procedures and chain of command. If liability was as much of a concern as claimed, they could have worked with the city attorney to develop fire department procedures to reduce the city's liability risk.

Firemen indicated they would be receptive to such a compromise, but by voting in support of the third option council members Pat Gaskin, Bill Haggard, Cheri Hoffman and Jackie Cross have at least for time being thwarted that possibility.

Now, the city has a group of firemen who have been praised for volunteering their time and yet their wishes apparently carry no water when it comes to determining fire departmental organizational structure.

The council could have creatively compromised, addressed the problems of the fire department and kept everyone happy at the same time. Instead, they took a narrow view and alienated and aggravated a group of dedicated volunteers. That's unfortunate.

Letters to the editor

Store windows look nice

Editor,

A "thank you" is in order for those merchants who have taken the time and effort to put displays in their windows while their stores are closed for the winter months.

There is a positive psychological effect from viewing windows with store merchandise, antique furniture, dried flower arrangements and other decorations rather than having windows papered over while owners are gone.

Stores which plan to close after the holidays are encouraged to leave displays also. Perhaps someone's doll collection or children's art could be borrowed for this purpose.

The windows decorated for the holidays look beautiful.

Numbers offer insight to area crime trends

By L. Scott Swanson

Although crime statistics for the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and Charlevoix City Police Department might seem rather straight forward at first glance, closer scrutiny shows they can be interpreted in a number of different ways.

Like other police departments throughout the state of Michigan, the Charlevoix sheriff and city police departments keep track of crimes throughout the year and file uniform crime reports with the Michigan State Police. Each year the state police compile the reports and send the departments a book which contains the compiled information and comparisons with the previous year.

It's then easy enough for sheriff George Lasater and police chief Dennis Halverson to look at the report and see what crimes are increasing and what crimes are decreasing in the county. The difficult thing is for them then to interpret the numbers and determine why some crimes are increasing and others are decreasing.

For example, in 1990 arrests in Charlevoix County were up by 385 (608 to 993) from 1989 although the number of complaints was about the same. What does that tell you? Does it mean that local police departments had more success solving crimes in 1990? Or does it mean that they weren't as successful in 1989?

It could be just a quirk and that a lot of cases have come together, Lasater explained. Lasater said that in his 16 years as sheriff his experience indicates that the department's work load goes in peaks and valleys. "There'll be lulls and then everything will break loose," he said.

In addition to the state uniform crime statistics, Lasater and Halverson both keep their own records which are tailored more to the specific situations of their departments.

In contrast to the total number of arrests which went up, the number of arrests the sheriff's department made for violation of controlled substance acts (i.e. drug arrests) went down. There again, numbers don't tell the entire story. Lasater explained that the primary reason for sheriff's department drug arrests dropping is because more of those investigations in the area were being handled by the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE) unit.

Halverson said he uses the crime report numbers to get kind of a snapshot of what the police depart-

Class to help smokers stop

Anyone making a New Year's resolution to quit smoking, will find the "Freedom from Smoking" program at Charlevoix Area Hospital helpful. Orientation for the seven-session program begins Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 7 p.m. in the hospital classrooms.

Successfully quitting smoking and having fun in the process is the goal of the program which is sponsored by Charlevoix Area Hospital and the American Lung Association. Weekly sessions will run from Tuesday, Jan. 21 to Feb. 25 with two sessions during "quit week" on Feb. 4 and 6.

Cheryl Jacobs, respiratory therapist and program leader, says, "The program really works because we don't quit 'cold turkey' the first night and people find the support they need in the group to make breaking the habit permanent." The first session is an orientation meeting when the program outline will be explained.

Pre-registration is required. A minimum of 12 registrations must be received in order to hold the class. Cost for the program is $50. For further information, or registration, call Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024.

CHURCH

Obituaries Helen E. Baker

Helen E. Baker, 80, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 15, 1991, at her home in Charlevoix.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18, at the United Methodist Church. Rev. Benton Heisler will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Baker was born May 29, 1911, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Arthur and Julia (Murphy) Richardson. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1929 and attended Charlevoix County Normal, graduating in 1930.

She taught school one year at the Heirick School near Boyne Falls and married Sims Jay Baker on May 28, 1932, in Petoskey.

They resided in Empire for one year before returning to Charlevoix.

Mrs. Baker worked as a bookkeeper for Brown Motors in Charlevoix and Heise Coal and Ice Co. in Charlevoix. She enjoyed gardening.

She was a member of Charlevoix United Methodist Church and a member of the Rebekah Lodge No. 293 where she had received her 35 year pin.

She was very active in the United Methodist Women organization and had served as its president; she was a Sunday school teacher for many years and active as the church historian.

She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Barry (Marylee) Pischner of Grand Rapids; three granddaughters, Tamara McDonough of Beaver Island, Melissa Pischner of Cedar Rapids and Marlene Byers of Grand Rapids; five great-grandchildren; one sister, Delora Richardson of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where friends may call 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Tuesday.

Randall T. Ledahl

Randall T. Ledahl, 82, of Bradenton, Fla., died Dec. 4, 1991.

A memorial service for family members was held in Christ United Methodist Church, Bradenton.

Mr. Ledahl was born in Elberta, Mich., and moved to Florida 22 years ago from Bay City. He was a graduate of Michigan Technological University and had worked as a civil engineer with Dow Chemical Co. in Midland.

Mr. Ledahl is survived by his wife, Winifred, of Bradenton; a son, James, of Charlevoix; a stepson, David Kolenda of Omaha, Neb.; a stepdaughter, Barbara Norton of Evergreen, Colo.; a grandson, Brian; seven step grandchildren, Chris, Dan, Laura and Mark Kolenda; Todd, Amy and Julie Norton.

His former wife, Helen, preceded him in death.

Beacons of Blessings

by Rev. Robert Zeeryp

Have you ever noticed that at Thanksgiving time we become extra thankful. Then when the holiday is past we tend to return to the complaining mode.

I sometimes find myself asking God why must things be so hard. Why do I have to struggle and others seem to get by with so very little effort.

There are times when we all fail to give God thanks as we should. 1st Thessalonians 5:17 tells us "In everything give thanks for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you. Notice it is saying "in" everything, not "for" everything.

The writer is telling us, "in adversity give thanks, in heartache give thanks, in the dungeons of despair give thanks for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

When I walk through a hospital and hear a man gasping for his breath because of emphysema I say thank you Jesus that I can breathe.

When I see someone all crippled up and unable to move about I say thank you God that I can walk and run.

When I visit someone who will never see the light of day, I lift my hands and say thank you Lord that my eyes can behold the beauty you have created.

It would be good if we could institute another holiday and call it, "the National Nagger's holiday." On that day we would gripe, nag, complain, grumble and fuss about everything. Then after we have got it all out of our system we would use the remaining 364 days of the year to bless the Lord for all He has done.

I have learned through my life that there is always something to be thankful for no matter how bad the situation may appear. Sometimes we have to look very hard and ask the Lord for guidance but we will always find something with which to give thanks.

In 1978 my Dad died a horrible death. This was no doubt the hardest time of my life. After many days of tears and many hours of talking to my sweet Lord and Savior Jesus Christ I wrote the following. I would like to share this with you as I close.

TIS CHRISTMAS

Someone said tis Christmas, it is time to be merry and happy. But my friend, part of me is gone. My life is not the same. I cry, I get mad, I kick things, I get very upset. I have a family but I feel so all alone. I get very upset. You see, I lost my Dad. A better man there will never be. My heart aches as I think of him at this Christmas season.

Life will never be the same and no one will ever take his place.

It is hard to be happy when I think of how he died and what a very good man he was.

Every time I eat a good meal I think of Dad. How very thankful he was not matter what he had to eat. No matter how simple the meal he never complained. He was grateful.

I miss his love, smile, laughter, company, gentle ways and most of all his advice. It is hard to be happy at this time of year.

I don't know how people do it when they lose their Dads when they have been as special as mine. The only thing that keeps me going is my Mother. Thank God she is still alive.

I've always tried to live by a motto, "Things could always be worse." They could, I could have lost my Mother too.

THANK THE LORD.

As we approach Christmas I am especially grateful for the birth of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. For He has taken this impossible life and given me hope for the future.

There are two people I shall see very soon. The one who made all things possible Jesus Christ and my Dad. Until that day I will try to understand the words of my Lord written in Romans 8:28. All things work together for good to them that Love God.

I am coming spon Dad. Together we shall kneel at the feet of Jesus and give thanks.

...crime and state cutbacks keep local police busy

ment is doing and then breaks down the figures and analyzes them. One drawback to the uniform crime reports is that there's a lag time between the time they're sent in and when the figures are compiled and sent back. Through keeping their own statistics in addition to the state compiled statistics, Halverson and the city police can get a more current look at local crime trends.

Halverson points out that through November of this year, the number of serious crimes in the city of Charlevoix is up from 26 to 67 compared to 1990. One cause of that is crimes which even though done by a single person or in a single incident result in several charges being filed. As an example, Halverson said that one person was charged with 10 to 15 felony bad check offenses. A recent robbery attempt at the Weather Vane Terrace resulted in four or five charges being filed.

However, Halverson said that even when you factor out the multiple charge crimes, the number of serious crimes in the city of Charlevoix still appears to be on an upswing. In support of this, Halverson pointed out that of the five police departments operating in Charlevoix County, only the sheriff's department made more arrests for serious crimes than did the

Charlevoix City Police

In addition to serious crimes, the city police are also logging more general assists than in the past. Halverson said that is partly due to a change in record keeping, but he surmises that it is also due to increased activity in town. Halverson said that even though growth inside the city limits may be small, the region around the city is growing and that results in more demand for police services because there are more people around.

"I'm estimating a three-percent to five percent growth rate in request for services across the board," Halverson said.

Some police work either isn't reflected in the numbers or the numbers don't adequately reflect the amount of time involved.

"We give a tremendous number of warnings," Lasater noted. Some of the warnings are verbal, others are written. The written warnings are logged as are some of the verbal warnings, but as Lasater explained when an officer is in a crowd situation and gives out a lot of verbal warnings it's impossible to keep track of the exact number.

The time officers spend in court or sitting around waiting to testify in court also isn't really reflected in the statistics. Halverson has six officers including himself and he says there have been times when three or four out of the six have been sitting in court.

In many instances, state cutbacks are increasing the load for local police departments. With the closure of the Traverse City and Newago mental facilities, police now have to transport mental patients to Alpena and often to Caro. Halverson said the department averages about one mental transport a month with each transport requiring either one or two officers. He said the sheriff's department is also dealing with the problem of mental transports.

Just this past week, Halverson received word from the state that there is going to be a reduction of Liquor Control Commission investigators. That may mean that his department has to take over liquor control inspections. He said that the state likes liquor dealers to be checked about once a month. There are 27 licensed liquor dealers in the city of Charlevoix.

"You try to anticipate those areas where in the past we might have counted on the state for help and now we're having to pick the ball up," the police chief said.

dred, perhaps even thousands of feet before reaching the lake shore.

If the plant is allowed to burn the soil, the clean-up operation will basically be a matter of digging a big hole, burning the soil and then filling the hole.

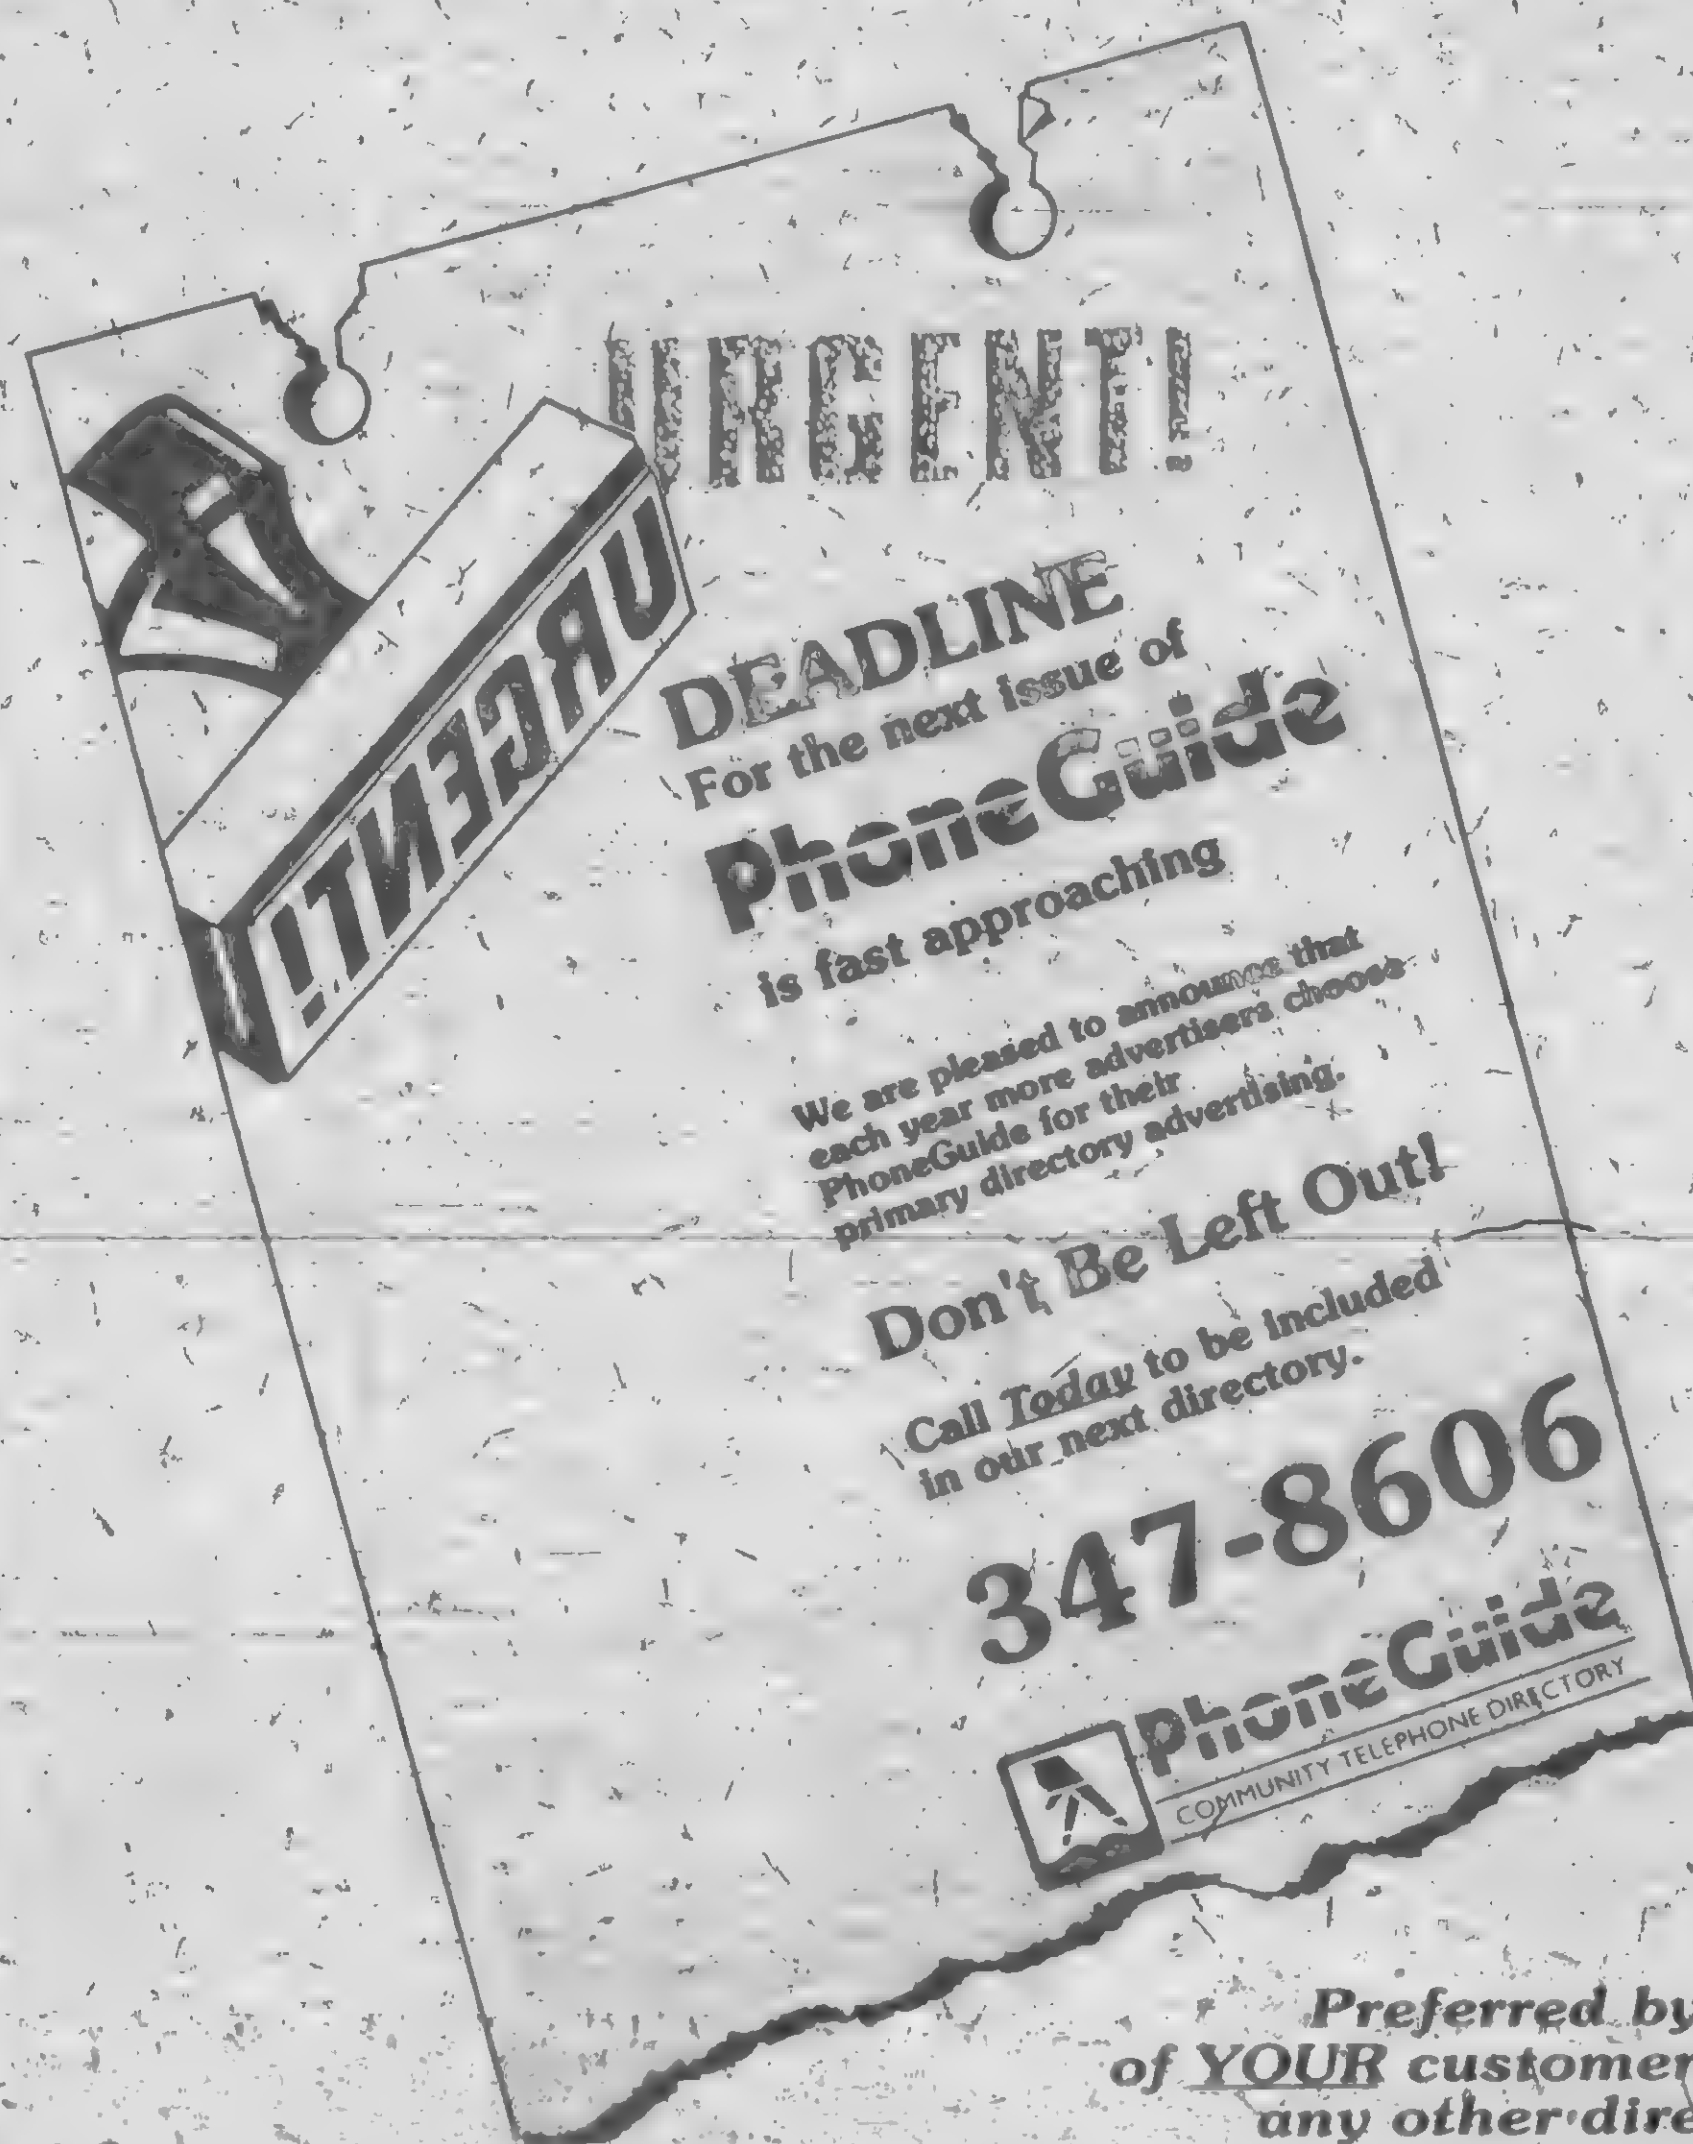

"I don't expect it to affect plant operations," Dixon said. "Obviously we'll have to work around a rather large hole."

Even if the clean-up does prove to be relatively simple as such clean ups go, it still carries a preliminary estimated cost of $500,000 over a seven-year period.

Puhl said his group is upset that the situation has gone on as long as it has without some statement as to just how much oil has been lost.

Dixon said the plant uses fuel oil in the kiln either in place of coal when there is a problem with coal equipment or to preheat the kiln when it is started after a shutdown. He said variables such as coal feeding equipment breakdowns and the number of shutdowns can dramatically affect the amount of oil used in a given year. He said that three years ago the plant used more than a million gallons of oil while last year it used only 200,000 gallons of oil. He said that on a start-up the plant could burn upwards of 50,000 gallons of oil a day.

Probate Court costs coming in under budget

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix County Probate Court will be coming in well under budget this year due to a decrease in expenditures for foster care and residential treatment. Since 1986, expenditures have been decreasing, going from $361,000 in 1986 to $157,000 in 1991.

Dave Bitler, Probate Court Administrator, presented this information to the Charlevoix County Commissioners at their regular meeting last Wednesday.

Bitler would like to add another full time caseworker to the probate court system, along with a part-time office worker. Bitler explained that the decrease in expenditures for foster care and residential treatment has caused an increase in caseloads. The probate court is keeping children in the home whenever possible, and working with the whole family, providing counseling and therapy. Because of the savings in child care, Bitler believes it will be cost effective to have another caseworker and part time office worker. As it stands, now the probate court has a waiting list for the diversion program.

The diversion program is designed to keep minors out of the court system, by working with the families of juveniles who are having problems. The court is able to keep the minors under court jurisdiction at home with electronic tethering. Both Bitler and Probate Court Judge Frederick Mulhauser feel that treating the whole family in the home environment is preferable to removing children from a home for a period of time, placing them in expensive outside care, and then returning them to a home where the family may still be dysfunctional.

"Sooner or later they all go back home," Bitler said. And if they're returning to a home where the existing problems have not been corrected, chances are, the child will become a repeat offender.

The decision to send delinquents away for treatment or to keep them at home is always an individual, case by case decision. Foster care can cost taxpayers $16 to $40 a day and residential treatment can cost $40 to $206 a day. Despite the cost, Mulhauser explained, "Our first concern is always to protect the community." If a delinquent poses a threat to the community they will be sent away.

When making the decision of whether or not to place a child in foster care, Mulhauser said the benchmark is the child's safety. "If the child is at substantial risk of harm, we remove the child."

Mulhauser went on to say that in the case of neglected children, one school of thought is to put them in a better home. However, Mulhauser noted that "Sometimes you perpetuate the problem by removal." He explained that if a child is being neglected and is removed from the home, the neglecting parents grow accustomed to the absence of the child. When the child is returned to the home, the relationship between the parents and child may be worse than before. That's why Mulhauser feels it is preferable to treat the whole family in their home environment.

The goal when dealing with delinquents is to keep them out of trouble and out of the court system. Mulhauser feels that counseling a whole family increases the odds of keeping a delinquent out of future trouble. "We've had more success in terms of repeats (offenders) and in keeping kids out of the courts than the national average, and the Michigan average," Mulhauser said.

If the county probate court is going to continue with in-home counseling, they will need to shift their budget funds to allow for an additional caseworker. Bitler told the commissioners the cost of the two extra employees would be about $32,000, which could come out of the leftover funds from child care costs. This year, the probate court had $100,000 leftover in the child care budget. Bitler hopes to be able to hire a new caseworker and a new part time office worker shortly after the first of the new year.

Three-year-olds screened

There will be a three-year-old Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1993. This clinic is sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three-year-old children, and to have your child informally screened to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years.

This is a free service with appointments made on a first come, first served basis.

The clinic is scheduled for Jan. 8 at the Community Reformed Church.

If you are interested in attending the clinic, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

This clinic is free of charge.

Your child's birthday must be between 12/1/87 and 12/1/88.

Basketball team loses first two games

But don't panic yet, things could come around

Although Charlevoix's varsity basketball team has lost its opening two basketball games, at least Friday night's loss to Traverse City St. Francis wasn't as dismal as Tuesday night's loss to Cheboygan.

After losing by 13 points to Cheboygan the Rayders lost by seven points 70-63 to St. Francis which Rayder coach Jim Kanine feels is the better of the two teams.

Kanine said the difference in the game was rebounding, particularly at the Rayder's defensive end. Cheboygan and St. Francis both played aggressive defense. Against Cheboygan the inexperienced Rayders got flustered and turned the ball over several times. Kanine said his team did a better job taking care of the ball.

Charlevoix took an early lead against St. Francis, but soon gave up the lead and ended the first quarter tied at 18.

St. Francis pulled away in the second quarter, taking a 38-30 half-time lead, but Charlevoix closed to within two 50-48 by the end of the third quarter.

The game remained close until midway through the fourth quarter when St. Francis pulled out to a 10 point lead. The lead proved to be too much for the Rayders to overcome.

Senior guard Luke LaBlance led the Rayders in scoring with 23 points. Junior center Brad DeGrow had 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Deer dad, or in this case dad's deer

Kelly Robin Dreyer is shown with a 10 point buck killed by her father Bill Dreyer during the 1991 firearm deer season

275,000 deer killed in 1991

An estimated 275,000 white-tailed deer were harvested in Michigan by firearm deer hunters during 1991's November 15-30 season. This year's season was the fourth best in history.

The deer harvest is estimated by a southbound hunter traffic survey throughout the 16-day season, which has provided an early, accurate estimate of the harvest for three decades.

Final harvest figures, which will be available in June, are based on a mail survey of this year's deer hunters.

Michigan leads the nation in deer hunting recreation, with about 10 million days annually spent afield.

Bill Taylor of Charlevoix running well against world's best

Bill Taylor of Charlevoix recently won one race and placed sixth in another race competing against some of the world's top runners.

Taylor placed first in the 10K Brian's Run in Williamsburg, Virginia Dec. 7. Taylor pulled away from the field late in the race and finished with a time of 29:18. Included in the field of 2,500 were 1988 Olympian Gerry O'Reilly of Ireland and world class runners Chris Fox of Maryland, Terry Croyle of West Virginia, Joe LeMay of New Jersey and Jim Norris of Pennsylvania.

Last month Taylor placed sixth in the U.S. National Cross Country Championships in Boston. Taylor led for portions of the 10K race which was won by Todd Williams of Knoxville who upset eight-time national champion Pat Porter. Taylor's time of 29:39 was 21 seconds off Williams' winning time.

County Board chooses not to reconsider county growth alliance merger with MSU

Board adjourns rather than reconsider

Some people don't take rejection easily. That seems to be the case with the supporters of the merger between Michigan State University and the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance. A group of supporters for the merger pleaded their case before the Charlevoix County Commissioners at their regular meeting last Wednesday. The commissioners had voted 4-2 against the merger one month ago, in response to strong opposition from the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee, the East Jordan City Council, the Charlevoix City Council, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and several area industrialists.

Tom Johnson, director of the Alliance, along with Jim Wibby, a board member of the Alliance, asked the commissioners to reconsider their decision. Speaking in favor of the merger this time were Mike Hansen, of Top O' Michigan Electric and a new member of the Alliance board, Doug Shields, Evangeline Township Supervisor, Susan Van Wieren, Char-Em Administrator, and Bruce Hubble, of the Boyne City EDC.

Josh Barries of Lexalite and Dan Barron of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee both expressed the viewpoint that if the Alliance were to reconstitute their board to include more industrialists, and the new board recommended the merger, then they would reconsider their positions. Charlevoix City Manager Mike Weisner, who is also a board member of the Alliance, cautioned that the Alliance needs to "Listen to the people you're serving - you're serving industry." Of the sixteen member Alliance board, three members are city managers. Weisner conceded that maybe there shouldn't be three city managers on the board at the same time, maybe they should take turns serving on the board, making it possible for more industrialists to serve on the board.

Don Smith, Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, pointed out to everyone concerned that Mason's Rules of Order requires a motion to reconsider from one of the commissioners who originally voted against the merger, followed by a vote to reconsider, then a second vote would be needed to decide to support or reject the merger. "Procedurally, we need a motion to reconsider in order to straighten this thing out," Smith said. The board members and the audience sat in silence for several seconds, waiting for a motion from one of the commissioners who had originally opposed the merger. When none was forthcoming, and since all regular business had been concluded, Commissioner Hufford said, "Procedurally, I'll make a motion to adjourn this meeting." An adjournment of the meeting would technically put an end to the controversy of the MSU-Alliance merger, at least for a while, since it would eliminate the possibility of a motion to reconsider from any of the commissioners. Smith called for a roll call vote, and the four commissioners opposed to the merger voted to adjourn, while the two commissioners in favor of the merger voted not to adjourn. The meeting was adjourned.

Post office asks people to keep mail boxes clear

As winter approaches your mail carriers would like to remind you that, for best service, you rural mail boxes must have the snow removed in a manner that allows your carrier to drive to your mail box, make the delivery and drive away from the box.

As the post office strives for greater efficiency, it leaves less time for the carriers to run the risk of becoming stuck in snow banks. Being stuck in deep snow and delayed can risk prompt and proper service to the remainder of his route.

We suggest, if you are having a snow removal service clear your drive, make arrangements with them to clear the area to and from your mail box also.

Council agrees to discuss pool authority

Although city council members said they aren't making any commitment to support the establishment of a swimming pool authority, they have agreed to assign two members to help study the matter.

At Monday evening's city council meeting representatives of a group of people who would like to have a community swimming pool constructed in Charlevoix asked the council to appoint two members to join officials from other local governing bodies to study the possibility of establishing a pool authority.

A pool authority would be a public body which would govern the construction and operation of a swimming pool were one to be constructed.

In making the request, Roger Strigley, a public relations consultant who is working with the pool supporters, cited results of a survey conducted by the pool people. Strigley said the survey results indicate widespread community support for a pool and that people would like to see cooperation between local governmental units.

Dave Strawbridge of the pool group said establishing a pool authority would allow the pool group to apply for state grants, but would not leave any one local governmental unit responsible for operating the pool.

Mayor Dave Novotny said he thinks there is a feeling that "we would rather not be using tax dollars for this."

A May 13 school millage election to fund a pool failed by approximately 400 votes.

Strawbridge said there are three ways that a pool authority could be set up and in two out of three ways, the authority could not collect local taxes.

Some things you can do to keep your children well

Brian L. Youngs, M.D., Medical Director for the District Health Department, is stressing the importance of practicing good health habits, especially during this time of year. During the winter-spring months, viral diseases such as influenza, influenza-like illnesses, measles, and chicken pox; and bacterial diseases such as streptococcal sore throat and meningitis increase in frequency. Many of the diseases are spread by nose and throat secretions from infected individuals.

Good health habits are an important factor in staying healthy. They help by preventing the spread of disease, and are especially important during the school year. Most good health habits are those common sense things taught to us as children by or parents and include: washing your hands before you eat; washing your hands after you use the bathroom; not sharing common personal items such as eating utensils, glasses, combs, towels, and food; keeping your fingernails clean and trimmed; not biting your fingernails; covering your mouth when you cough or sneeze; staying home when you are sick; avoiding others who are ill; and keeping small children from putting objects in their mouths. Parents should not send ill children to school, to day care or to a nursery. This is very important because many respiratory and intestinal diseases are contracted in the day care/nursery setting. Parents need to be aware of their child's health status and be alert to signs and symptoms of illness which include fever; sore throat; difficulty swallowing and swollen glands; coughing and difficulty breathing; nausea; vomiting and diarrhea; stomach aches and fever; yellow eyes or skin; pink eye; unusual rashes or infected skin patches; headache and stiff neck; severe itching or scratching of scalp; body aches and pains; and marked congestion, localized pain and fever. Students should be kept out of school or day care when they are identified as having a communicable disease. Many times the decision to keep students out of school by parents due to illness is difficult and may present a family hardship. Nevertheless, obviously ill children do not belong in school.

Basketball team can score, but must rebound to win

Team lacks experience but expects to improve

Help wanted: One stud, boardmonster forward. Looking for high school version of Charles Barkley to rip rebounds, play nasty defense, score a few points and own the paint. Interested player should apply in person to Jim Kanine, Charlevoix varsity basketball coach.

This year's Rayder varsity basketball team has more height than in the past, but lacks beef and experience. Charlevoix lost their first two games, to Cheboygan and Traverse City St. Francis, but Kanine found some comfort in the fact that despite the losses there was significant improvement between the first and second games.

Charlevoix lost four starters from last year's team. The only returning starter is senior guard Luke LaBlance, LaBlance, who is 5'11", will play off-guard for the Rayders and is expected to be the team's primary scoring threat. Kanine said LaBlance is a player capable of putting points on the board. He said LaBlance had 15 points against Cheboygan and 23 against St. Francis and wasn't necessarily at his best in either game. Sophomore Don Jess joins LaBlance in the back court. Junior Matt

Smith and senior Wayne Joy will also see time at guard. Junior center Brad DeGrow at 6'4" is expected to anchor the Rayder's inside game. Senior Mike Dobulis at 6'11" is coming off a back injury, but has been playing fairly well at one forward position.

It is the other forward position which is something of a question mark. Kanine says he's especially concerned about the team's ability to control the defensive boards. Watching a team get killed by second and third shots drives coaches mad.

Some of the players who might fill the need at forward include seniors Brian Coolman and Ken Olinger and juniors Keith Carey, Gary Arnold and Vince Voisin. Kanine said all of those players have both strengths and weaknesses. Right now, it's just a matter of which of them develops faster and demonstrates an ability to contribute.

Kanine says the team's weaknesses currently are inexperience and rebounding. In the first game against Cheboygan, the team also had problems taking care of the ball, but they were much better about that against St. Francis. The team's strength should be scoring. LaBlance and DeGrow should be fairly consistent scorers while several of the other players can get six to eight points per game and bump up to double figures on a good night.

"I hope we get better as the year goes on," Kanine said. He indicated that he was pleased with the improvement between the Cheboygan and St. Francis games and hopes that improvement continues.

Charlevoix was right with St. Francis until the final minutes of the game. And Kanine expects St. Francis along with Elk Rapids to be the league's strongest teams this season. He said that among the other teams in the league, you can just throw the names up in the air and then see how things work out. A team that Kanine suspects may surprise some people is Kalkaska which has three starters returning.

Charlevoix's home opener is this Friday against Boyne City.

Volleyball team is greatly improved

Team could be among league's best

In the sport of volleyball, you don't want any weak spots on the floor because the good teams will take advantage of them.

"You have to have six good players out there who can play together," explained Rayder volleyball coach Brenda Bryan.

With that in mind, she feels good about this year's team because she has the depth and quality in personnel to keep six good players on the floor at all times. Bryan has three returning seniors, three returning letter winners and several good athletes moving up from last year's junior varsity team.

The returning seniors are Tammy Holm, Stacy Tilton and Melissa Eaton. Returning letter winners are juniors Mary Jane Grunch, Lori Darrah and Angelena Doan. Bryan also expects Christy Siwarga, Anne Schairbaum, Amy Whaley, Laura Loder, Melissa Cox and Liz Grunch to make a contribution. Although the team has only been practicing together for two weeks, Bryan said she's happy with the way the new players are blending in at the varsity level.

Bryan said she feels the strength of the team is experience because there are players who have played together for a couple of years.

"That makes a big difference," she said.

"I don't have a lot of height, but these girls can block and spike," Bryan noted. She added that she's also pleased with the team's mobility and serving ability.

Last year, the team was short on numbers, but this year has a full 12-person team. Asked what teams would be among the best in the league, Bryan said Harbor Springs is usually very competitive and Elk Rapids can always be a problem. She also mentioned Kalkaska as a potentially strong team.

As for her own team's prospects, Bryan said the Rayders are a better team than last year and remarked, "I would love to be in the top part of the conference."

Wrestlers should be tournament tough

Could have as many as six qualify for state

After one meet, the Charlevoix wrestling coach Greg Bryan had good news and bad news. The good news is that in a six-team round robin tournament this past Saturday in Roscommon the Rayders went 5-0. The bad news is that freshman Eric Howard who was wrestling well at 112 pounds dislocated his elbow and is probably out for the season.

Despite the loss of Howard, Bryan still has a nice mixture of veterans and younger wrestlers on this year's team. Bryan says he has a nice core of experienced wrestlers. They include: Dan Browe, a senior heavy-weight who qualified for regionals last year; Jason Pajtas, a senior who will wrestle at 152 pounds last year after finishing sixth in state at 145 pounds as a junior; Chris McCallum, a 140 pound senior who qualified for regionals as a junior; and Shawn Young, a 125 pound senior who qualified for regionals as a junior and who has been injured in preseason, but is expected to be back soon.

Young didn't wrestle Saturday, but the other three all went 5-0. McCallum pinned a Roscommon wrestler who had beaten him in close matches for the past three years.

Three other wrestlers who are performing well early in the season are: Jason VanLo, a sophomore wrestling at 119; Keith Parish who went 4-1 in the 189-pound weight class; and Jesse Leadabrand, a freshman who went 4-1 at 145 pounds.

Bryan said two other freshmen, David Wilks and Jason Hughs should also help the team in the lighter weight classes. With Howard's injury, one of those two may occasionally wrestle in the 112 weight class.

"I was happy with my guys Saturday," Bryan said of the Roscommon meet. He said they were changing direction well. He said that wrestling is a creative sport and the Rayders have been wrestling intelligently.

The Rayders have good wrestlers scattered throughout the weight classes. Bryan said that will make the team a strong tournament team. How the team fares in duel meets will depend on match-ups.

The team wrestles in the Great Northern League. "I think we've got a good chance as anybody," Bryan said when asked about his team's prospects in the league meet. He noted the Grayling and Rogers City have traditionally strong programs, and Whittemore-Prescott also has a strong team so the league meet could be a wide open affair.

"A lot will depend on the younger guys and avoiding injuries," Bryan explained.

Bryan said Charlevoix is a team which will use a lot of younger wrestlers. He said that despite their youth, the younger wrestlers have some experience due to the Gregg Whitley's middle school program.

Bryan said the Rayders could have as many as five or six wrestlers qualify for the state meet.

Students enjoy classroom TV

By Laurie Lounsbury

When Charlevoix Middle School principal Dennis Van Guilder approached the school board about putting television in middle school classrooms, he faced wary skepticism. After the school board spent four months deliberating the pros and cons of Channel One, a television news program for middle school classrooms, they decided to go ahead and give it a try.

Today, every classroom in the middle school has a television monitor, and every morning all of the students and teachers watch 12 minutes of television.

Channel One is provided to the school at no cost by Whittle Communications, Incorporated. The company installed all of the T.V. monitors for the classrooms, and sends out via satellite the daily news programs which are geared for sixth, seventh, and eighth graders. Of the 12-minute broadcasts, five minutes are devoted to hard news, five minutes to a feature news story, and two minutes are commercial messages.

The school board had three concerns about Channel One. Do kids watch too much T.V. already? Should the school be showing two minutes of commercials? Is viewing a television news program the best way to spend 12 minutes of schooltime?

Van Guilder felt that two minutes

Wynkoop sentenced to three life terms

By L. Scott Swanson

The odds of 19-year-old Andrew Wynkoop ever again seeing the world from anywhere other than from the inside of a prison are slim following a Dec. 18 sentencing hearing in Charlevoix Circuit Court. If he is ever released, it will not be until he is an old man.

Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas sentenced Wynkoop to three terms of life in prison and a term of 60 to 100 years. Pajtas referred to Wynkoop as a "cold, calculating rapist and murderer." He sentenced Wynkoop to life terms for the murder of 13-year-old Heather Kleiber and for the kidnapping and murder of 28-year-old Katherine McCleese. In addition, he sentenced Wynkoop to 60 to 100 years in prison for the rape of McCleese.

Last month Wynkoop pleaded guilty but mentally ill in the Aug. 17, 1990 murder of Kleiber and the March 1991 kidnap, rape and murder of McCleese.

"Ever since I was about 14 years old, I've wanted to go back in time and start over again."

der of McCleese.

Emotional appeals from Wynkoop and family members of Wynkoop and both victims preceded sentencing. Those speaking on behalf of Wynkoop asked that his sentence include drug treatment and the possibility of release at some time in the future. Relatives of the victims said they feel Wynkoop would kill again given the opportunity.

In a videotape played at the hearing Wynkoop said, "Ever since I was about 14 years old, I've wanted to go back in time and start over again." He said he has a drug problem and needs some type of treatment. The videotape was of a conversation Wynkoop had at the jail with Rev. Perry Fowler, a local minister who has been counseling Wynkoop.

Wynkoop's mother, Sally Wynkoop, spoke of the first time she saw her son in jail after his arrest for the murder of McCleese. She said that as she saw her son through the glass he looked very "empty."

Sally Wynkoop

Sally Wynkoop said she told her son, "I love you." He asked, "How can you love a monster?"

And she replied, "You are not a monster, but you have done a monstrous thing."

Sally Wynkoop recalling in a presentencing statement the first time she saw her son in jail following his arrest for the murder of Katherine McCleese. She asked that her son's sentence include treatment and the possibility of release at some time in the future.

Sally Wynkoop said she realized that her son should be incarcerated for a long time, but she asked that he be given treatment for his drug problem and that there be the possibility of release some time in the future.

Wynkoop's older sister, Vickie Moses, said she recalled the day of her younger brother's birth and his interest in dinosaurs and Star Wars.

when he was six and seven years old.

"I always thought he would grow up to be a scientist of some type," she said.

But then she went on to say how her brother had struggled in school and had difficulty adjusting to the family's move from Port Huron to Charlevoix. She said he lost three of his friends when he was in junior high and later was caught with marijuana and kicked off the football team. She said there are very few things for young people to do in Charlevoix and her brother began going to parties and using alcohol and other drugs.

Moses asked that love, compassion and forgiveness be shown toward her brother.

Wynkoop's father, Richard Wynkoop, said, "We live in a make-believe society that glamorizes drinking and drugs." He said he hoped that Andy Wynkoop could be put somewhere where he can be rehabilitated.

Wynkoop's attorney, Ed Gregory, said that Wynkoop asked the court to impose the maximum sentence of life in prison, but that if he is rehabilitated leave open the possibility of release.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman and family members of Kleiber and McCleese sought a harsh sentence.

Lieberman described the murders as "probably the most heinous crime this county has ever seen." He said Wynkoop has shown very little remorse. Lieberman said that Wynkoop asked for compassion, but "when choking the life out of two victims, he showed very little compassion for them."

Kleiber's mother, Nancy Ellis,

"He asked for leniency where none is warranted in a crime where there are no excuses," Ellis said. "Andy made his own choices and now he must pay the penalty."

...students respond favorably to Channel One of commercials was a fair trade for the news program, the television monitors, and the potential use of the monitors for other educational purposes. "Let's face it, advertising is everywhere," he said.

The advertising shown on Channel One is not the same advertising shown on network T.V. Whittle

Communications is very careful about who and what is advertised on Channel One, and there is a hotline for teachers to call if they find any advertising objectionable.

The Middle School and Whittle Communications have entered into a three-year agreement to have Channel One in school. The school is obligated to show Channel One at least 160 times a year, out of 180 school days. Van Guilder previews all shows, and if he feels the material for a given day is questionable, he can choose not to air it.

The content of Channel One programming is geared toward education, but making Channel One an effective learning tool is still the teachers' responsibility. "The teachers have to set an example," Van Guilder said.

Van Guilder is pleased with Channel One so far. "The world is getting so small. Everything is global—global economics, global trends. This is a way to bring the world to the kids," Van Guilder said. In an effort to improve students' understanding of geography, Channel One uses lots of maps with their news broadcasts.

Middle school students claim that they enjoy Channel One. Several said Channel One is their only source of current events. They often don't read the newspaper, or watch network news at home, unless as one student said, "there's a big crash or something on T.V."

Van Guilder plans to interview students and parents next semester to see what kind of impact Channel One has had on the students.

...Wynkoop sentenced to life for two murders labeled the requests for compassion as "whining and excuses." Referring to Wynkoop's appearance in court, Ellis said, "A haircut, a suit coat and some acne medicine doesn't change the man inside."

"He asked for leniency where none is warranted in a crime where there are no excuses," Ellis said. "Andy made his own choices and now he must pay the penalty."

McCleese's father, William Wilson, called Wynkoop a "psychopath" and said he's a killer who kills and rapes women and that is what he always will be.

Judith Johnson, Kleiber's aunt, said that Wynkoop not only took Heather Kleiber's life, but also took parts of the lives of her family members. She said she feels Wynkoop would kill again.

Prior to issuing the sentence, Pajtas explained that in Michigan, sentencing is a complex matter. The state legislature has not passed laws which allow judges to sentence criminals to life without parole. (Michigan also does not have a death sentence.) Criminals convicted of first degree murder or of distributing more than 650 grams of certain drugs can receive mandatory life sentences. That was not applicable in this case as Wynkoop's guilty pleas were to charges of second degree murder.

Pajtas explained that according to a Michigan Supreme Court ruling may give what are called indeterminate sentences: a minimum number of years to a maximum number of years. But when an indeterminate sentence is given, the minimum number of years can't be something more than what it would be possible for a person to serve in a lifetime.

Pajtas also noted that prisoners can receive up to seven days credit per month during their sentence for good behavior, etc. He said that if a prisoner gets all credit possible, he ends up serving about 80 percent of the calendar year term. However, in the case of an habitual offender, the prisoner can't be paroled prior to the minimum calendar year sentence without the consent of the sentencing judge or his successor. Due to convictions prior to the murders, Wynkoop was convicted of being a habitual offender.

With a life sentence, a parole board becomes involved in jurisdiction of the prisoner after 10 years.

In Michigan, multiple sentences run concurrently. In other words, prisoners don't serve first one sentence and then the next, but serve all sentences at the same time.

Pajtas referred to the presentence investigation in the case. He said that prior to the murders, Wynkoop had been in probate and district courts for possession of marijuana and in June of 1990 was convicted of breaking and entering. He was on probation for the breaking and entering charge at the time of the murders.

Although Wynkoop's plea was guilty, but mentally ill, Pajtas said the mentally ill stipulation doesn't remove any accountability for the crime. It only obligates the Michigan Department of Corrections to make treatment available.

Pajtas said that Wynkoop had been found to be sane at the time of the crimes and was a "cold, calculating rapist and murderer."

"It is the opinion of this court that he presents the most extreme danger to this community that I can imagine," Pajtas said.

Prior to announcing the three life sentences and the 60-100 year sentence, plus revocation of probation and 6 to 10 years on the breaking and entering charge, Pajtas said of the murders, "The impact of these crimes has and continues to be devastating to many families."

Of the 60 to 100 year sentence for rape, also referred to as first degree criminal sexual conduct, Pajtas noted that state sentencing guidelines suggest a sentence of 15 to 30 years, but due to the habitual offender charge those guidelines are not applicable.

Wynkoop will receive credit for 258 days served prior to sentencing.

OPINIONS

By Laurie Lounsbury

The real big game

The holiday season. It's a time for friends, a time for family, a time for mistletoe, and a time for BOWL GAMES! All over America, thousands of armchair athletes will be coaching their favorite teams to victory from the safety and comfort of their strato-loungers, feasting on left-over party dip and vicariously partaking in our nation's greatest contact sport.

The real unsung heroes of the holiday season are those brave amateurs who go out and engage in the season's true and proper contact sport, called The Day After Christmas Exchanging Gifts At The Mall Contact Shopping. It's the Super bowl of Shopping, jam-packed with the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. There are no rules to Super bowl Shopping, but here are a few simple guidelines to keep handy.

No coins are flipped to decide who gets to kick or receive in Super bowl Shopping. You simply pull into the crowded parking lot and play chicken with an oncoming car to see who gets to park in the last available parking spot. The boldest driver gets to receive that space, and the chicken gets kicked into the next closest parking spot somewhere in a neighboring county.

Upon entering the mall, you can score a quick first and ten if you can find the escalator before the woman burdened with fifteen shopping bags finds it. If she asks you where the escalator is, you can politely tell her it's behind the mannequins wearing red and green satin undergarments and Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer Slippers.

A word about penalties: These are incurred if you knock over the display mannequin in Better Dresses while trying to strip the camel's hair blazer off its body, just because it's the last one of its kind in your size. The overworked salespeople get very testy about this sort of thing, and are likely to penalize you mercilessly for this. They may even go so far as to program the store's computers to read out, "This person is a deadbeat and should be harassed into leaving the store," every time you try to use your credit card in the place. This will cause a serious delay of game.

Many stores put an alluring rack of clothes at very reasonable prices near their front door, to lure you into their shopping arena. This is when contact shopping really lives up to its name. Blatant elbowing and shoving is considered poor sportsmanship. The really good contact shoppers have mastered the art of putting on their best Yuletide Spirit Smile and subtly pressing against another shopper, maintaining gentle but constant pressure until the other person feels so uncomfortable by the proximity of a smiling, idiotic-looking stranger that they leave.

Faking left and right is not only permissible, it's recommended in certain situations. If a woman has her hands on the perfect sweater for you, you may look at it admiringly and say something like, "Gee, what a lovely sweater. Great Aunt Hilda was wearing one just like it when I visited her in the nursing home last week." Then do a head fake and gasp with awe at a different sweater, as if you've spied the sweater of your dreams. The woman will probably drop the one she's holding and run for the one you're looking at, thinking she's pulling off a great interception. After she's fumbled the sweater, you may scoop it up and throw the long bomb to the cashier, scoring another touchdown.

When you've had enough of Contact Christmas Shopping, you can let the clock run out by sitting on a mall bench in front of Mrs. Tasty Cookies and wolfing down hot chocolate chip cookies until the mall security man tells you it's time to go home. At this point, many contact shoppers will run out of the mall's revolving doors, glance around quickly, spike their car keys, and stomp around in circles. It's not a ritual of victory. It's a ritual-brought on by the sight of the mall security tow-truck hauling your car away because you forgot about the only rule in Super bowl Shopping: Don't Park In The Handicapped Zone.

Youth center can benefit community

Progress is being made in efforts to establish a youth center in a brick building on West Lincoln Street. (See story page 7). An adult board has been working with city political bodies to get the paper work in order while a youth council made up of high school students is planning activities for the center.

The youth council would like to have a place for video games, pool tables and ping pong tables, and another area for a small snack bar and a few tables where young people could play cards or chess, monopoly and other board games. They're also looking at a separate area where young people could study or have quiet conversations.

The proposed youth center could be an excellent addition to the community. But in order for it to succeed it will have to attract a cross section of young people. If the center attracts only young people from church youth groups, or only "burn outs" it won't take long to fail.

There's no reason that has to happen. If the center is run with an open mind and an open door and local young people also view it with an open mind, then it can succeed and become an asset to the community.

That is what the community must strive for.

Council member disputes public safety editorial

Editor,

I have never before felt so strongly moved to respond to an editorial in the Courier. In the 10 years I have subscribed to the Courier, I also do not remember editorials appearing with the frequency they have in recent months.

In your editorial - AN UNFORTUNATE ACTION, I feel that you have crossed some editorial boundaries. For you to state as a fact that "the four Council members who voted in favor of changing to a public safety administrator demonstrated a lack of either vision or will to compromise."

This statement appears to me to be a personal judgment that is inappropriate for you to make, much less communicate to your reading public.

I believe there are ways to express disagreement with a Council decision without attributing negative characteristics to the persons making the decision.

Later in the editorial, when you point out that there was plenty of room for compromise within the three options, you seem to identify simple solutions to some very complex issues. The most concerning example of this is:

"If liability was as much of a concern as claimed, they could have worked with the City Attorney to develop Fire Department procedures to reduce the City's liability risk."

Not only is it not the role of the City Attorney or the City Council to accomplish this task, your statement minimizes the fact that it would take a specific knowledge and skill base and considerable time to fulfill this requirement.

I do not like writing a letter of this nature, but I cannot remain silent when I feel that in this situation, your editorial position is being utilized to communicate information which can only present fragments of a total problem solving process.

Sincerely,
Pat Gaskin
City Council member

Emergency units pass nuclear disaster drill

By Laurie Lounsbury

What if Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant had a nuclear accident? What if everyone had to evacuate the area because harmful radiation was released in our airspace? These "what ifs" are questions most people don't like to think about. It's easier to simply believe that a nuclear accident would never happen here. But what if it did?

Earl Muma, Director of Emergency Services for Charlevoix County, makes it his business to think about all the "what ifs" and to plan accordingly for an emergency.

Muma's emergency services were put to the test Oct. 22 when the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) observed and evaluated a mock nuclear accident drill, conducted by the State of Michigan, Charlevoix County, Emmet County, and Big Rock.

FEMA's preliminary report on the drill stated that, "There were no deficiencies identified during this exercise for Charlevoix County." The report went on to say that Charlevoix County met every objective of the drill in a well-coordinated and timely fashion. "This is a great report," said Muma. "I'm really pleased with all the people we had working in this drill."

The drill required the cooperative efforts of county personnel and volunteer emergency workers. The sheriff's department worked with the Coast Guard and the state police to close down roads and waterways, and to provide safe evacuation routes. The city and township fire departments worked with Big Rock employees. The health department and the department of social services worked to set up evacuation centers and decontamination centers. Volunteers compiled all pertinent information and delivered it to a joint information center, which in turn provided updates to the emergency broadcast system.

FEMA had a few recommendations for Charlevoix County, such as providing a microphone for the public information officer so that he could be heard more clearly during briefings, and to communicate more closely with Emmet County so that emergency broadcast messages will be better coordinated.

Oh Boix

A collection of accomplishments, praises, awards and interesting events involving Charlevoix people.

Sean Henne, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, earned his fourth varsity letter in cross country this season at Lawrence University. Henne was the most recent number four runner this season. He highlighted his season with an eighth-place finish at the nine-team Wisconsin private colleges championship meet and a 17th-place finish at the 12-team Lawrence Invitational. He places 29th at the Midwest Conference championships. He is the son of William and Betty Henne.

Lawrence is an NCAA Division III affiliate with an enrollment of 1,200 students and competes in the 11-member Midwest Conference, comprising liberal arts colleges in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. The Vikings placed fourth at a team at this year's Midwest Conference championships.

KCB names best lit homes both in and out of town

Delores Malec of Pine Ridge won the overall award in Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's annual residential lighting display judging. In addition, Ivan and Lucy Witthoef joined Dale and Marilyn Boss in the lighting display hall of fame for people who have exceptional displays for three years in a row.

Judges Meredith Krell, Bill and Kathy Haggard and Bill and Ruth Price toured the city and surrounding area in the KCB petunia truck on the evening of Dec. 18. They judged homes of people whose names had been submitted to the Chamber of Commerce.

KCB officer Jackie Krusch who helped coordinate the event said using the petunia truck to cart around judges, done for the first time this year, was a wonderful success. She said that people came out and listened to the music and waved as the judges looked at the displays.

The community was broken down into separate geographic areas for judging. Winners by area were:

In town, west of U.S. 31: First place - Mark Hobker, Antirum Street; Second place - Tammy and Barry Parker, Norwood Road.

In town, east of U.S. 31: First place - Dennis and Dianne Priess, Meadowlane; Second place - Leigh Ann Lovell, St. Johns.

North of town: First place - Delores Malec, Pine Ridge; Second place - Jim Boss, Cedar.

Outside of town: First place - Art and Jane Falting, Marion Center Road; Second place - Muriel Archer, Boyne City Road.

Peterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson of Charlevoix. He is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, and attended North Central College. He is employed as an electrician for Rural Electric in Frankenmuth.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ovid-Elsie High School and attended Alpena Community College.

The couple will exchange their vows at Alpena's First Assembly of God Church.

The wedding will take place January 4, 1992, in Pensacola.

Club 77 plans continue to move forward

Youth center hopes to open by spring

The board of directors has been working with the planning commission and city council to get the paperwork in order while the youth council has been developing ideas for programs at the center.

Charlevoix High School senior Troy Bonar is one member of the six-member youth council. The other five are: Henri Dahaseleer, Chris Groves, Russell Hand, Tanya Timmerman and Paul Keem.

"There's a lot of work going into it. There's a lot of work yet to be done," Bonar said. But he expressed optimism about getting the place up and going.

The building for the center is located on West Lincoln Street. It is an old brick building with quite a bit of space. The question is how do you fill that space with things which will appeal to Charlevoix's young people.

Bonar said the youth council is looking at a number of things. They would like to see video games, pool tables and ping pong tables in one area. Another area would have a small snack bar with a few tables where people could play cards, chess, monopoly or other table games. The youth council also hopes to have a sound system and lighting for recorded and perhaps occasionally some live music. They also want to have a quieter area where people can study or have a quiet conversation.

Bonar said he thinks the youth center can draw a cross section of students. He said he feels it will appeal to a lot of middle school students as well as high school students.

The council is looking at some type of loose-knit membership system. They're trying to devise a system which doesn't leave anybody feeling left out, yet also encourages students who use the center to feel a sense of belonging and that they're an important part of the center.

Bonar said the council has come up with some ideas, but they're also open to other ideas. People with ideas for other activities at the center are encouraged to talk to one of the people on the youth council.

United Way drive falling short of goal

With this year's campaign drawing to a close the Charlevoix United Way drive is still $13,000 short of its goal of $45,000.

If the goal is not met, the local United Way may have to use contingency funds or reduce United Way funding support to some agencies.

"The downturn in the economy has caused everyone to tighten their belts and has had a real effect on donations this year," said United Way President Robert J. Rajewski. "Unfortunately, in such times there is an even bigger demand for the services United Way agencies provide."

While noting that difficult economic times have resulted in reduced donations, Rajewski thanked those who have donated and still feels the goal can be reached.

"We are grateful to those who have reached out and contributed, and ask others to look into their hearts, dig a little deeper, and make a donation to help our neighbors make it through these difficult times," he said.

Anyone wishing to make a donation or in need of more information about the services provided by United Way may write or call:

United Way of Charlevoix, P.O. Box 532, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or (616) 547-5364.

Obituaries

Richard D. Rogers

Richard D. Rogers, 51, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 16, 1991 at his home.

Funeral was Friday, Dec. 20 at Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Lander Carter officiated. Burial took place Dec. 21 at Roselawn Memorial Gardens in Saginaw.

Mr. Rogers was born Jan. 28, 1940 in Saginaw, the son of Gilbert L. and Hildagard (Werth) Rogers. He graduated from Arthur Hill

High School in 1958 and Michigan State University in 1977.

On May 20, 1961, he married the former Barbara K. Reynolds. They have resided in Charlevoix since 1979.

Mr. Rogers worked for the parks and recreation division of the Department of Natural Resources since 1977. He has been a fisheries technician with the fisheries division of the DNR since 1981.

He was an active member of Christ Episcopal Church and was a member of the men's group, the church choir and also served as parish treasurer.

Mr. Rogers is survived by his wife, Barbara of Charlevoix; three daughters, Mr. Mark (Julia A) Schaberg of Paducah, Ky., Victoria S. Rogers of Alexandria, La and Debra K. Rogers of Eaton Rapids; three grandchildren, Keyin, Shelley and Becky Schaberg; his parents, Gilbert and Hildagard Rogers of Saginaw; one brother, Dennis M. Rogers and his wife Ann of Saginaw; two sisters, Judy Reid and her husband Raymond of Saginaw and Ginger Zwimgman and her husband Robert of Saginaw.

The family suggests memorials to Christ Episcopal Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Lutheran Church begins new Bible study class

Bethany Lutheran Church will be beginning a new Bible class at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evenings. The class, called "The Divine Drama" is a Bible study class which will look closely at some of the major themes of the Bible. Pictures will be used to help understand the themes.

Among the topics to be discussed are: The Person and work of Jesus, Christ; The Trinity - Father, Son and Holy Spirit; The heart of Scripture - Law and Gospel; The Messianic Banquet - The Lord's Supper; Prayer and the Lord's Prayer; About the Bible itself; Our Baptismal Exodus; The Church; When the End comes; Redeemed to be Responsible.

BEACONS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

It was a dry, sunny day when father and son went to the woods with a friend in search of this year's family Christmas tree. We figured that since the snow had temporarily melted off that we wouldn't need our boots in the woods. Oh, was that ever a mistake.

We went to the woods all right. But the woods were on the swampy side. We would have been better off if the ground had been frozen and snow covered. Picture this forty-year-old father trying to keep up with his nine-year-old son with mud oozing in over the tops of my Reeboks. I keep meaning to ask my Mom if I had that much energy when it comes to climbing over, under, around and through trees when I was his age.

We were pretty far from the two-track road when our friend said that we were in Christmas tree country. Grown ups at this point would have had the tendency to cut the first thing that looked remotely like a Christmas tree and get the mud out of their shoes. But my nine-year-old had visions of not just any tree. He was in search of the perfect Christmas tree.

How about that one, David? No, too skinny. How about that one? That's not even a pine tree, Dave. Even our friend was getting desperate and made suggestions. Dave would have none of them. About the time my sneakers were getting at their muddiest, the cry went up. There it is, Dad. That's the one I want. High in a thicket, he spotted one. Cutting it down was the easiest part. Getting it back through the swamp to the road was another story.

Now that it is decorated and gracing our living room with its lighted beauty, I must admit it is indeed the perfect one. It is not "sculpted" by any means but is sure fits the spirit of Christmas that is flooding our house this year.

As you celebrate the joys of the season, realize that God's love is perfectly tailored for your own family's situation. The journey you make in getting to know God and understanding His will can lead you through some pretty swampy territory. You can wonder if you are going to make it or if it is worth it or not. Your own energy and faith may be tested to the limit. But once your heart is truly right and you've opened your spirit to the Lord, the difference is so striking that not just you but those around you will notice it.

The most revealing part of that change is looking back at where you've come from and comparing it to where you are now. Last Christmas was kind of rough for us. But we were surrounded by loving and caring people who lifted us back to health.

If this is a hard Christmas for you, stick with it. Next year can and will be better if you will keep on your journey of faith. If this is a "second chance" Christmas for you, don't forget to give credit where credit is due. You may not see or understand everything that God is doing in your life right now. But when all the pieces come together there is no greater joy in knowing that through it all, God's plan was just perfect for you. I wish you haven't peace!

Students collect canned food

This year record total of more than 5,000 cans of food

Every year at Christmas time, Charlevoix Middle School students try to beat their last year's record for the number of canned goods they collect during their "Spirit of Christmas" food drive. This year it looked like beating the old record might be mission impossible. With one less week to accomplish the task, a flu epidemic knocked out half the student body. The middle school kids were undaunted. They rallied against the odds to beat last year's record by more than 400 cans. The total number of canned goods collected for the food pantry was 5,567.

When you get middle school kids focused on something, the sky's the limit," said Tom Souhard, faculty head of the food drive. "These kids are limitless in their enthusiasm and energy."

The canned food drive contest is done by class, and the class collecting the most cans wins the highly coveted "Canned Golden Corn Trophy" along with a pizza party given by their teacher. This year's winning class was Van Greene's seventh grade class, with 1,844 cans. Second place went to Bulch Wagner's seventh graders, with 810 cans, and Roxie Loding's eighth graders took third place with 474 cans.

Individual winners were Nick Bogart with 982 cans, Amy Kujawski with 400 cans, and Annie Campbell with 336 cans. Mary Wo-jan and Allison Beatty joined forces and brought in more than 300 cans.

A school bus will be filled with all of the canned goods two times in order to transport the goods to the food pantry.

"I don't see how these kids can beat this record next year," Souhard said in amazement as he surveyed the library, which was spilling over with canned food.

Cribbage tournament begins 62nd year

The 62nd Annual Cribbage Tournament between the Odd Fellows and Masons begins Jan. 2, 1992. James Hiller will serve as captain of the Masons team this year while his counterpart on the Odd Fellows will be Albert Sharrow.

Opening night play will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple on the corner of Mason and Bridge Streets.

The tournament will continue for the next nine Thursday nights, alternating between the Masonic Temple and the American Legion Hall.

The tournament began 62 years ago to give the men of the community something to do during the winter months.

At the end of the tournament, the losing team hosts the winning team for supper.

Hey, show biz is my life!

Children from all around the world protest Santa's running for United States president.

Today, the K-5 Christmas program. Tomorrow, Broadway and beyond...

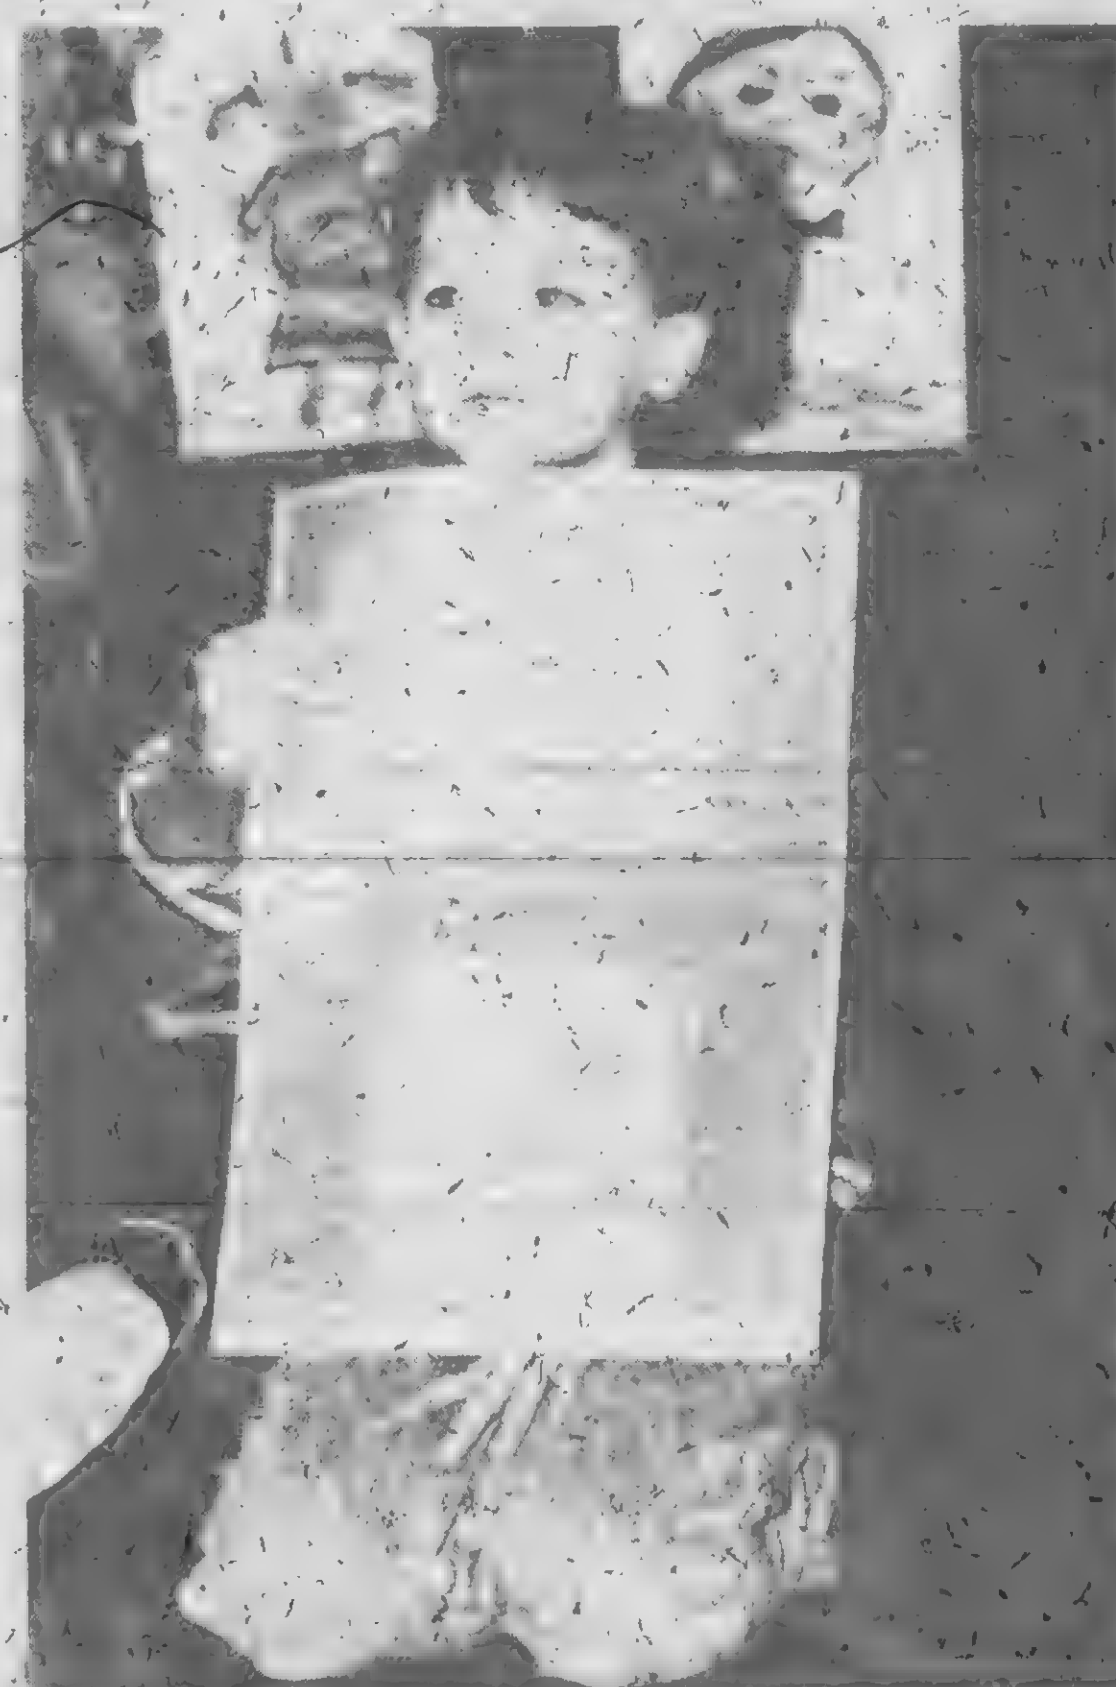

The press questions Santa to see if he's really going to run for president of the United States in Mrs. Smith's fourth grade class play, "Santa runs for president." Reporters Adam Klein and Joel Trubilowicz interview Santa, Johnathon Campbell.

Mrs. Bentley's first graders send the message to everyone that "Christmas is in the heart."

Alyssa Wood is one of Mrs. May's second grade reading students who recited "Twas the night before Christmas."

What would Christmas be without the H? Nick Miller provided the H for Mrs. Mellon's first grade class.

All of the first grade classes made beautiful angels with glue and fabric, formed over a pop bottle. They will fly high on the tops of their Christmas trees.

Lindsay Miller, and her classmates are as anxious for Christmas to arrive as the farm animals waiting in the manger, as their pictures show.

BUSINESS

Voyageur won't be cruising this summer

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix will have one less cruise ship this coming summer. After only one season, which wasn't particularly successful, the Voyageur operation has been declared dead in the water.

Voyageur Cruises is a wholly owned subsidiary of Beaver Island Boat Company. Last week, boat company president Lynn DeGrow said the company's board has decided to sell the 110-foot cruise ship which has a capacity of 150 passengers.

DeGrow said that although the boat company will not be running the cruise ship, they are willing to sell the business if others wish to operate it.

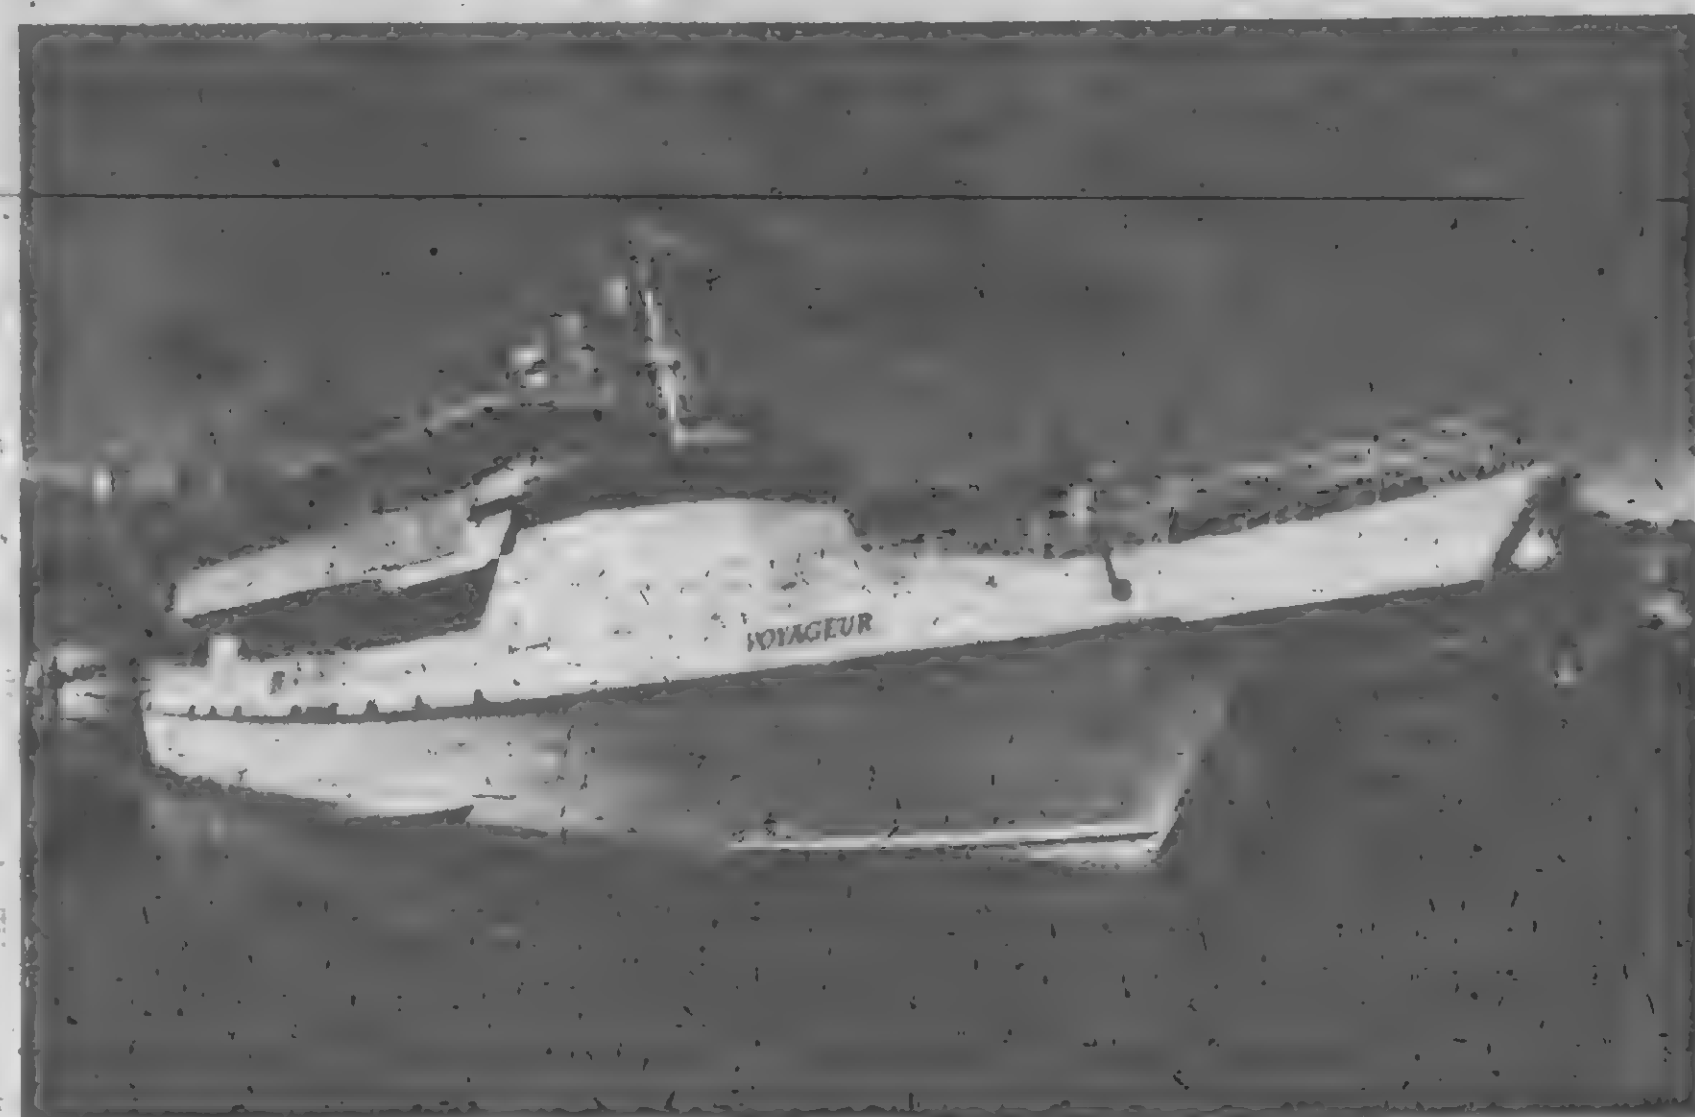

"We still have a dock here in Charlevoix and in Boyne City," DeGrow said. The Voyageur took over a dock lease from the former Star of Charlevoix. That lease with the city has one year remaining and in the past city officials have indicated a willingness to discuss extending the lease for a cruise operation. DeGrow said there are also some cruises prescheduled which will have to be either cancelled or transferred to other boats.

DeGrow said the company had almost zero complaints from people who went on cruises last summer, but the boat simply did not do as well as projected.

"With the state of the economy and not doing very well last year, we decided not to run," DeGrow explained.

Even with the loss of the Voyageur, Charlevoix will still have two cruise ships operating out the harbor this coming summer. Ward Brothers Inc. will again be running their motor cruiser the Miss Charlevoix while Bay Breeze Charters will again operate the sailing schooner Appledore.

Owners of the Voyageur cruise ship have decided not to run the ship this coming summer. The decision was due poor economic conditions and the ship not doing as well as expected in its first summer. Two other Charlevoix cruise boats will still be running.

Local metal company starts small, but is looking to grow

Company manufactures metal components for northern Michigan businesses

(Editor's note: The accompanying story is one in a series of stories about area industries being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and council member and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae
Little Traverse Metal, Inc. is one of Charlevoix's new manufacturers. Located on Marion Center Road it occupies buildings that were formerly used by the Charlevoix Garbage Co.

Founded in 1989 the stock of the corporation is owned by Dawson Way, Barney Way and John Hess. Hess is the operations manager.

The company's principle work is making metal components and assemblies required by other businesses in northern Michigan. Little Traverse Metal fabricates steel parts and also is a supplier and distributor of structural steel such as beams, channels, angles and posts.

In recent months the company has been manufacturing snow-making equipment for northern Michigan ski slopes. In addition to stands and towers, Little Traverse Metal has produced and assembled heads for snow-making machines.

Archways or brackets for radar screens on big power boats are another Little Traverse Metal product. The brackets are made of stainless steel and require the expertise of experienced welders. Two of the men employed at the company have a total of 60 years of experience in fusing and welding both aluminum and stainless steel. They are able to join metal parts so that no joints or seams are visible.

Recently the welders produced a stainless steel railing that appeared to be molded from a single piece of stainless steel. The stainless steel products are expensive compared to products made of some other metals, but they are durable and retain their beauty for many years.

The company is also making security gates for estates. The gates must look attractive, yet also provide protection.

Another aspect of the business is working with design engineers to produce machinery required by area factories. One of the recently completed machines was designed to help prepare loose insulation before it is pumped into the side walls and attics of homes.

New business comes in by referral and through personal presentations by the operations manager. In the near future, sales representatives will cover a wider area.

Present economic conditions are holding up expansion, but Little Traverse Metal Inc. is presently doing as much as business as had been planned and looks forward to growing in the future. As of this time, the company is still small with five employees and a payroll of less than $100,000.

Unemployment tax to increase

The U.S. Department of Labor has notified Michigan that all employers in the state will be subject to a higher federal unemployment tax (FUTA) for 1991 according to F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC). The higher tax, paid to the Internal Revenue Service, will amount to $56 for each employee and will be due in January 1992.

Money from the higher tax will be used to reduce the state's outstanding debt to the federal government. Michigan borrowed $2.6 billion during the early 1980's recessions for unemployment benefit payments. While most of the loans have been repaid, the state still owes the federal government $417.5 million. The $181 million raised by the higher 1991 taxes will be applied to the debt.
